NATIONS TO KEEP MAY DAY CELEBRATIONS ORDERLY

Police and Troops Throughout Europe Are Prepared to Deal Vigorously With Communists and Reds—In Paris Thousands of Troops and Police Will Be Under Arms—Airplanes Will Be Used to Spot Any Unusual Gatherings—In Southeastern Europe Arrests Have Been Made of Leading Agitators—In General the Communists, Socialists and Laborites Will Be Permitted to March and Speak As Long As the Meetings Are Orderly.

LONDON, April 30.—(AP)—Preparations for toning down the reds and pinks and other clashing hues which are expected to dominate the May day celebrations throughout Europe tomorrow have been made by police and troops in the various capitals.

In general the communists, socialists and laborites will be permitted to march and speak as long as the meetings are orderly, but warnings have been broadcast that any disorder will be met by vigorous action.

The most peaceful of all European celebrations is expected in London although as usual extra police will be placed on the Embankment and other prominent thoroughfares.

In Paris thousands of troops and police are to be under arms by daybreak. The cabinet tonight approved secret plans for protection of Paris and maintenance of order throughout the country and authorities were confident any sizeable eruptions could be prevented.

As a preventive the French government today expelled 22 persons accused of political agitation concerning May day activities and caused the arrest of [illegible] charged with inciting soldiers to disobey orders.

Airplanes will fly over Paris to spot any unusual gathering and notify the police. The troops will remain principally in their barracks, but thousands of other forces will be hidden in subways, courtyards and side streets ready to rush critical points.

As to preparations on the other side, the communist organ, L'Apostrophe, promised a 24-hour strike of thousands of workers. It is expected that hardly any taxicabs will be running, while service by bus and street car is expected to be limited.

The police made plans to protect the soviet embassy in the event of demonstrations by groups opposed to communism.

In Berlin the police decided to let the proletariat blow off steam as long as they are orderly, but forces of the law will be standing ready.

Karl Zoergiebel, chief of police, announced that Lustgarten square—opposite the imperial palace in the heart of Berlin—would be free for open-air meetings to communists between 10:30 and 11:30 a. m., and to socialists after noon. No encroachments will be tolerated.

There will be no general abstention from work in Germany, and transportation and other public utilities are expected to operate normally.

Russia has made plans for a big day. The streets were decorated today with red lights, flags and bunting, while tomorrow will be given over to parades, lectures and other forms of propaganda.

From southeastern Europe came reports today of the arrests of leading agitators as preventive measures.

Austria decided to permit orderly demonstrations in Vienna and other large cities but prepared to suppress any disorders. Hungary days ago issued a decree prohibiting May day demonstrations, so the labor organizations decided simply to stroll through the streets tomorrow, wearing their best clothes and their party emblems. Police prepared a number of armored cars for use in case of trouble.

The Bulgarian government announced that May day was an ordinary working day and forebade demonstrations. The workers committees decided to cease work anyway and the police prepared for emergencies.

UNION SQUARE, NEW YORK, WILL BE BUSY PLACE TODAY

NEW YORK, April 30.—(AP)—What with one celebration and another, Union square, traditional gathering place of New York's radicals, will be a busy place tomorrow, but Police Commissioner Whalen was so sure tonight that the city's May day will be orderly that he directed the thousand policemen delegated to the square to go without their night sticks.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars will use the square from noon to 2 p. m. (EST) for a patriotic rally in celebration of Dewey day, following a parade from Madison square.

An hour after they have quit the communists are to take possession of the award.

Meanwhile, the socialists will hold a rally of their own, at the New York coliseum far up in the Bronx, at which they forecast an attendance of [illegible] and a celebration so peaceable that no policemen need come near.

Five hundred bluecoats will escort the communist parade to Union square. Commissioner Whalen will be there in person with a field telephone system to direct operations, if any.

Marchers in the Veterans' parade have been ordered by their commander not to carry arms.

Six men were arrested today in two sections of New York for handing out or posting communist bills calling workers to join tomorrow's communist rally.

DEMANDS REMOVAL OF ATTORNEY-GEN. MITCHELL

WASHINGTON, April 30.—(AP)—Removal of Attorney General Mitchell was demanded in the house today by Representative Patman, democrat, Texas, who charged he "has failed and refused" to prosecute oil companies for violations of the anti-trust laws.

The Texan asserted Mitchell "has delivered our country, lock, stock and barrel into the hands of the monopolies and trusts."

"He is failing and is refusing to enforce the anti-trust laws," Patman added. "He is using his office as an agency of convenience for the large oil companies and other big business concerns of America.

"Harry Daugherty, former attorney general of the United States successfully used prohibition as a smoke screen to hide his many failures of duty.

"Mitchell is not attempting to use law enforcement as a smoke screen to prevent the people from noticing his failure to enforce the anti-trust laws. Prohibition should be enforced and not used as a smoke screen for a public officer to hide his failures of duty.

"The oil companies of the United States were organized into a trust by the federal trade commission last fall at St. Louis. This trust agreement has evidently been acquiesced in if not affirmatively approved by the attorney general.

"Tomorrow the oil companies are starting an increase in price of gasoline of one cent per gallon. It will soon be effective all over the United States and by all oil companies. This agreement to raise the price of gasoline one cent per gallon is the outgrowth of the trust organized by the federal trade commission and will be followed by other increases."

FREDERICKSBURG, Va., April 30.—(AP)—He didn't say whether it was part of his daily routine, but Henry Ford ran a 100-yard dash with his secretary, Frank Campbell, here this morning and won.

The race came at the end of an after-breakfast stroll, the Detroit motor car maker challenging and winning by several yards.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ford and Mr. and Mrs. Edsel Ford arrived here early today and before leaving for Washington this afternoon inspected gardens here, at Kenmore, home of Mary Washington; at Stratford, ancestral home of the Virginia Lees; and at Chatham. TEACHER CHARGED WITH ASSAULT AND BATTERY

ELYRIA, Ohio, April 30.—(AP)—Before a packed court room, six-year-old Mary Margaret Gerhartinger today told of receiving a paddling which resulted in assault and battery charges against her teacher, Mrs. Myrta Bradley, 22-year-old teacher of the new Oberlin district school near here.

The girl declared the teacher used a wooden paddle and then slapped her face. The reason, she testified, was that she submitted to an embarrassing ordeal from two other girl pupils.

The girl's mother, Mrs. Ignatius Gerhartinger, who filed the charges, testified that when Mary came home from school an hour late the evening of February 25, blood flowed from her mouth and she was bruised on the face and body.

Doctors Karl P. Reely and S. F. Basinger told of finding several black and blue marks on her body, some of them six inches in diameter.

After Mary testified, the state rested and the defense began its effort to bring out that ill-feeling Mrs. Gerhartinger felt toward Mrs. Bradley resulted in the charges.

NO DECISION ON LEWIS CONTEMPT OF COURT CASE

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 30—(AP)—The Sangamon county circuit court today declined to determine at this time whether John L. Lewis, president of the old line party of the United Mine Workers of America, and his associates, are guilty of contempt of court.

The court ruled, in connection with Lewis' alleged violation of injunction obtained by State President Harry Fishwick and other opponents of Lewis, that it could not pass on the contempt issue until a complete hearing had been held. May 28 was set for a final hearing.

Those arrested were the captain of waiters, a valet, a head waiter, a waiter and an alleged bar tender.

Several national fraternities have their headquarters in the building and clubrooms there. The place is well known to college men visiting the city. Out-of-town football teams frequently stay at the club.

The agents registered there two weeks ago and allegedly bought and drank liquor on the premises.

The raiders were led by Prohibition Administrator Maurice Campbell. He did not announce whether he planned padlock action against the building as is being instituted against hotels raided here during the last few months.

EXCEEDED ALL PREVIOUS GLIDER ENDURANCE FLIGHTS

SAN DIEGO, Calif., April 30—(AP)—Failure to provide himself with a barograph today robbed Jack Barstow, 24, of a new official world's record for sustained flight in a glider after he had soared over Point Loma for 15 hours and 13 minutes in a motorless sail plane, exceeding all previous glider endurance marks.

Barstow's remarkable performance will stand only as an unofficial record because of rules requiring that a barograph be installed in aircraft in order to gain official acceptance of new records.

The young glider expert announced, however, that if wind conditions are favorable he plans to take the air again soon, this time with a barograph and attempt to set a new official mark.

Barstow took off at 12:44 p. m. (P. S. T.) yesterday in a new Bowlus sail plane of 60 foot spread. He landed at 3:57 a. m., (P. S. T.) today, setting his powerless craft down within 500 meters of his point of take-off. The records exceeded are:

Official American, 9 hours 5 minutes 32 2-5 seconds, established in March this year over Point Loma by Hawley Bowlus of San Diego.

CONTROVERSY AT CONVENTION OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

WASHINGTON, April 30.—(AP)—Julius Barnes' acceptance of Chairman Legge's challenge to match him "dollar for dollar" in setting up an agency to ameliorate farm ills left highly speculative tonight the outcome of efforts before the annual convention of the chamber of commerce of the United States to discredit the agricultural marketing act.

With unheralded rapidity, five minute declamations from the floor of the convention against the act were interrupted by defenders who included Secretary Hyde of the department of agriculture, and L. T. Taber, master of the national grange.

The farm board chairman, reading an address in which he took the chamber to task for opposing the agricultural marketing act when he said it was making no effort to solve farm problems in a substitute plan, inserted an extemperoraneous challenge as a fellow member of the chamber for other members to match him dollar for dollar in financing a philanthropic effort to help solve the economic difficulties of agriculture.

Closing the session four hours later, Barnes, chairman of the national business survey conference, declared that he was not wealthy enough to accept the challenge personally but that he would start a collection from industry sufficient to match Legge's offer.

Later, at his office, Chairman Legge said Barnes had not properly met his proposition.

"I offered and I still am ready to offer," he said, to match members of the chamber individually in financing such an institution."

HARRY BLOCK, NIGHT CLUB OWNER, SLAIN IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, April 30—(AP)—Another Broadway character was shot by assailants as he entered his home early today and died in a taxicab with several bullets in his body.

Police could only theorize as to the train of events which sent two young men into an upper West Side apartment lobby to empty their pistols into the back of Harry Block, night club owner, racketeer, "clothing salesman."

Even Block's wife, witness of the killing, and apparently conversant with her husband's activities, could not or would not help the police.

VOTE TODAY ON THE PARKER CONFIRMATION IS LIKELY

Leaders of Both Sides of the Senate Are Doubtful of the Final Result—While Democratic Senators Denounced Parker's Record, the Republicans Claimed That the Drive Against Parker Was a Campaign By the "Socialists" and Liberals Against the Independence of the Supreme Court.

WASHINGTON, April 30.—(AP)—After another day of debate in the senate today on confirmation of Judge John J. Parker, of North Carolina, to the supreme court leaders of both sides still were doubtful tonight of the final result. A vote tomorrow is in prospect.

Two democrats joined the opposition in the day's round of oratory—Senator Wagner, of New York, and McKellar, of Tennessee, assailing Parker's qualifications. Two republicans—Senators Hastings, of Delaware, and Hebert, of Rhode Island—carried on the fight for the nominee.

Again from the republican side came the charge that the campaign against Parker was actually a drive by the "socialists" and liberals against the independence of the supreme court.

The democratic foes answered with denunciations of Parker's record, particularly his decision upholding the injunction restraining the United Mine Workers from soliciting membership among miners who had signed contracts not to join the union.

Senator McKellar countered the charge of politics with the reading of a letter written by Joseph M. Dixon, assistant secretary of the interior, to Walter Newton, executive secretary to President Hoover, urging the nomination of Parker as a "major political stroke."

This letter, dated last March 13, called to attention that North Carolina went republican in the last presidential election and said "if the exigencies of the situation permit I believe the naming of Judge Parker to the supreme court to be a major political stroke." Dixon, a republican senatorial candidate in Montana last year, said in the letter he was a native born North Carolina republican.

Senator McKellar said he did not contend that President Hoover was influenced by the letter but he said he did not want to hear the charge of politics in the debate from friends of Parker in the face of it.

Senator Glass, democrat, Virginia, defended Parker's record as a prosecutor for the government of war fraud cases after Senator Walsh, democrat, Montana, had placed in the record the instructions of Judge Groner of the Virginia federal court in that case. Senator Walsh said Judge Groner was "amazed" that evidence showing the innocence of the defendants was found in the government's files.

Senator Glass read a letter from Judge Groner stating that Judge Parker's conduct in that case was "wholly favorable" and he, with Senator Walsh, read from Judge Groner's instructions a statement by the court commending the government counsel.

Senator Hastings, in referring to the drive by organized labor and Negro groups against Parker's confirmation, asserted the "liberals are stirring up the senate and the country to reject this man as an opening wedge to their plan."

Hastings called attention that Parker was confirmed five years ago by the senate as a circuit court judge and he asked why the National Association for the Advancement of the Colored People had not then protested about the speech made in 1920 by Parker and against which the Negroes now complain. He said it could not be argued that Parker was against the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments and cited his recent decision setting aside the Richmond segregation ordinance as unconstitutional.

Senator McKellar challenged the contention of Senator Fess, republican of Ohio, that the drive against Parker and against Chief Justice Hughes recently was a "socialistic movement." The Ohioan replied that he did not contend that every senator opposing Parker was a socialist but that "recent opposition has had socialistic interests at heart."

Senator Wagner, himself a former member of the New York state, made an analysis of Judge Parker's decision on the "yellow dog" contract case and concluded that neither "principle nor precedent justified this injunction."

"I see a deep and fundamental consistency between Judge Parker's views of labor relations and his reported attitude toward the colored people of the United States. They both spring from a single trait of character."

AGAINST SPECIAL SESSION FOR LAW ENFORCEMENT

WASHINGTON, April 30.—(AP)—A suggestion to President Hoover today by Senator Jones, republican, Washington, that a special session of congress be called unless the law enforcement program is enacted, drew quick opposition at the capitol where Senator Watson, of Indiana, the republican leader, turned thumbs down on the proposal.

At the same time hope was held out by Watson and other congressional leaders that this session would see final action on the high points of the Hoover program, including enactment of the bill transferring prohibition enforcement from the treasury to the justice department.

WASHINGTON, April 30—(AP)—On the eve of the opening of house debate on the tariff bill conference report, a western republican on that body today urged that President Hoover be given a "fair and full chance" to carry out his pledge to assist agriculture without the export debenture plan.

SPECIAL TOWN MEETING NEXT THURSDAY EVENING

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 30.—Selectmen of the town have called a special town meeting for next Tuesday evening, as set forth in detail in a legal notice in this issue of The Bulletin.

The official notice of the meeting indicates its purposes somewhat differently than forecast in this column this morning. The petition for the meeting proposes to see if the electors of the town will vote to authorize, instruct and direct the selectmen of the town to advertise and ask for competitive bids, from residents of the town only, on a contract, to be prepared by the selectmen within ten days of the holding of the special meeting, for the hiring or furnishing to the town of all such automobile trucks and drivers as may be required, necessary and sufficient for the use of the town, and said selectmen, from time to time, in the maintenance of Killingly's highways. The petition also proposes that the meeting set a time limit for filing bids, opening the same and awarding the contract.

The meeting also will be asked to direct the selectmen to award such contract, if authorised, to the person submitting the lowest bid.

Zoel Beauregard and his employe, Henry Nadeau, both North Grosvenordale men who were recently in the town court to answer to charges of violating the junk dealers' laws, were again prosecuted this afternoon in a justice's court in Thompson. Beauregard being fined $2 for transacting junk business with a minor, and Nadeau $1 for having no junking license.

DANIELSON TRUST CO.'S SAVINGS DEPOSITS $2,000,000

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, April 30.—In making announcement today that the Danielson Trust company has declared a semi-annual dividend at the rate of 5 per cent per annum on all deposits in its savings department, Treasurer Clifford H. Starkweather made the encouraging comment that the deposits during the six months period from Nov. 1 last, to April 30, were larger than during the last corresponding period—the same six months a year ago. Here is evidence that a great many persons continue to find it possible to save money, despite many adverse circumstances. Treasurer Starkweather also commented that it has been the experience of the Danielson Trust company since its savings department was established [illegible] that more money is saved by the depositors of the institution during the [illegible] than during the spring and [illegible] seasons. Incidentally, savings deposits at this institution are now close to the $2,000,000 mark.

It would appear that there is a new "necktie racket" in operation in eastern Connecticut, and with [illegible] that is apt to trap even the hard-boiled man of the world, not to mention the more sympathetic souls who give and give until it hurts, and are especially susceptible if an apparently unfortunate woman is added to the high pressure sales force.

Usually a young woman, worn out, utterly broken down, one-the-verge-of-weeping, with her shoes just about falling off her feet, asks you to buy a necktie for 25 cents. She'll tell you how hungry she is and how unfortunate, and she will look the part. It is said she is working with male confederates, who operate along a different line. The neckties, that used to come unsolicited through the mails, are now offered you personally.

ONE-HAND DRIVING BRINGS HAMPTON YOUTH INTO COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, April 30.—Here's Saul Abola, Hampton, a youth of about 20 years of age, arrested up in the Lewis boulevard section about the noon hour today by State Officer Royal V. Scranton, on a reckless driving charge. And it may be whispered to the world that Saul finds himself facing a court appearance for driving with one hand, while the other hand, and the arm to which it was attached, was otherwise engaged. It appears that Saul had a young woman in the car with him, and the state officer felt that the car was not getting sufficient attention while it was rolling along a public highway.

Harry Schileffer, Brooklyn, N. Y., operating a big truck for the New York Rigging and Trucking company, also was picked up today by State Officer Martin, in Brooklyn, for operating a truck that was overloaded 1,400 pounds above capacity. A laundry washer was one of the things in the cargo of the truck, which was en route from New York to Boston when stopped for inspection.

At the request of state officers of the Danielson barracks, Frederick Greeno missing from Goodyear since 1925, is locked up in New York city awaiting extradition to this state, to be prosecuted either in Killingly or Pomfret on a non-support charge. Governor Trumbull already has signed papers required to get Greeno back into Connecticut, and as soon as they are also signed by Governor Roosevelt of New York, Sergeant Gardner will go from Danielson to New York city to bring Greeno back here.

Greeno's wife and three children are now resident in Pomfret, but by reason of the fact that they have lived in Killingly much of the time since Greeno has been away, this town has an interest in the case that has to do with financial matters.

There are those boxing enthusiasts who are predicting that Rene Peloquin, a miniature Dempsey and known as Danielson's Mighty Midget, will be fighting on the big time in a year or so, and here's hoping, in the name of all of those who like to see local boys make good. His sensational victory last night in the town hall over Julius Lurkey of Worcester, stamps him as having the class.

When a curious bystander inquired last evening as to how the front of the Goodman store happened to be wrecked by an automobile that went out of control of John E. Lindberg of Reynolds street and was told that "Lindberg's machine did it," an apparently amazed man followed up his original inquiry with another which was "from the sky?" It so happened that Colonel Lindbergh was not involved in the affair.

It was a more or less open secret here today that Young America plans to celebrate May 1 in traditional manner. It may be assumed, therefore, that plenty of stunts will be tried out on the first night of May. The night will be the spring equivalent of Halloween.

Making still another point against operators of cars with pleasure car registrations that are secretly doing a public service business, taxi men here point out that few of these private car owners carry any insurance as do the public service car men, and if a passenger who rides with them gets hurt he, or she, will be out of luck, and can wristle for any compensation.

Observers claim that the present spring season to date lacks in rain more than any other spring in a decade. Rivers and brooks are as low as they usually are in June, and the woods are as dry as tinder.

Today and tomorrow marks the opening of the season for several teams in the Windham County Y. M. C. A. Baseball league, the schedule of which will run until late in May.

And still the trout fishermen complain of ill luck, as a general rule, no matter whether they fish state-leased or other streams. Old-timers insist it has been too cold for the trout to bite in traditional way, and affirm they will bite when the apple blossoms come, and later.

The unemployed continue to haunt factories all through this section that are operating either on part or full time, seeking jobs that are not to be had, as those who have them are holding on.

PUTNAM

MAJOR McINTYRE MARSHAL MEMORIAL DAY PARADE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, April 30—Major Arthur D. McIntyre of Grove street has been chosen by the parade committee of the general committee formulating plans for the observance of Memorial day, to be marshal of the Memorial day parade, that will form at 9 o'clock in the morning at the Soldiers monument on Grove street and proceed over a line of march through the principal streets of the city, en route to St. Mary's cemetery, where disbandment will take place.

St. Mary's cemetery will be the scene of impressive services in honor of Putnam's soldier dead. If Rev. U. O. Bellerose's negotiations with Rt. Rev. John J. Nilan, bishop of Hartford diocese, are successful, a solemn high military mass of requiem will be celebrated on Calvary mound in the cemetery.

At the weekly meeting of the general committee held Tuesday evening, Father Bellerose suggested the celebration of the military mass as part of the exercises at the conclusion of the parade, and it met with unanimous approval of the committee. Since Memorial day has come to be a day of reverence and memorial for those who have gone on to eternal glory, rather than one of rejoicing, the committee is of the opinion that the Catholic ceremony celebrated for the happy repose of the souls of Putnam's war dead would be most appropriate for the occasion. Putnam people in the past have never assisted at the public celebration of a military mass out of doors, and while being appropriate, the service would also be new and apart from the old routine of Memorial day exercises. Father Bellerose said last night that he would confer with Bishop Nilan this week, in an effort to secure diocesan permission to carry out the suggested plan. According to present plans, Rev. James F. English, retiring pastor of the Congregational church and Rev. Father Bellerose, pastor of St. Mary's, will speak at the Memorial exercises at St. Mary's cemetery at the conclusion of the mass which is being planned.

Other matters pertaining to the Memorial day observance were discussed at last night's meeting, and aside from a few details, arrangements are nearly complete. Another meeting of the general committee will be held next Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock in the chamber of commerce rooms.

PRENTICE HOME BURGLAR STILL AT LARGE WEDNESDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, April 30—Continued investigation of the burglary at the home of Harry Prentice on School street, Monday evening, by Captain of Police A. J. Dubreuil today, revealed no further details in the case to aid in bringing about the apprehension of the thief. Police working in an effort to ferret out the identity of the burglar, aided by a fair description of him furnished by Mrs. George Dennler, a resident of the Prentice home, who engaged in a struggle with the thief, when she surprised him in the act of stealing a purse of money, were no further advanced in the case late this afternoon than they were yesterday.

Captain Dubreuil has rounded up several local young men suspected of knowing something concerning the robbery, but until a late hour today had eliminated them all following questioning in which all established satisfactory alibis. From the description furnished by Mrs. Dennler, who said her assailant spoke with a queer accent, police are inclined to believe the man to be of French extraction and familiar with the premises of the Prentice home. A careful check of all persons resembling the given description and known to possess a knowledge of the layout of the filling station and Prentice home is to be made by investigators.

After twelve years spent in the United States Army Air service, Lieutenant Everett S. Davis, stationed at Langley Field, Va., is to be transferred to active service in the Philippine Islands. Lieut. Davis will begin the first leg of his long journey to his foreign post next week when he embarks Wednesday, from New York. The young flier is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett A. Davis of Gary district.

Lieut. Davis entered the air service shortly before the end of the World war, taking the strenuous government flying course and receiving his commission and wings shortly after the close of the big fight. He has been in continuous service since and during this time has made many flights from his home base in Virginia to Muntup field, this city, to visit his parents and friends here. Lieut. Davis is a graduate of Putnam high school and is rated among the best fliers in the air service.

Invitations are being received by Putnam friends of students at Woodstock academy for the annual Junior promenade to be held in the Hall Memorial gymnasium, Friday evening, May 2. The juniors of Tourtellotte Memorial high school, North Grosvenordale, will hold their outstanding social event of the year, Friday evening, May 16, while the class of 1931, Putnam high, will dance in promenade, Friday evening, May 9. The local students have issued invitations for this event, which will be the most prominent of the month.

WORCESTER PROF. SPEAKER AT ROTARY MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, April 30 — Rotarians, members of the Putnam club, gathered at the Putnam Inn at noon today and after the weekly luncheon and business meeting listened to an enjoyable talk by Rotarian H. H. Wade of Worcester, professor of public speaking at Worcester Academy, who spoke on the subject, "Each in His Own Tongue." During his discourse, Mr. Wade recited several verses of poems, which he selected at random from the works of famous literary men, and delivered in different dialects of the English language. After his interesting demonstration which he termed tone of tongues, Mr. Wade pleaded for world peace and international good will, two objectives sought for by Rotary International. Mr. Wade stated that understanding different peoples, even though they may be of different nationality, will do much to attain this goal.

Visitors at this noon's luncheon besides Professor Wade, were J. E. Blossom of Worcester, Dana C. Welles of Newburyport, Mass., L. Edwin Hill and Henry Dubuc of Danielson.

Secretary E. Leslie Beebe of the local club said this afternoon that the monthly meeting of the club assembly will be held Friday evening, May 2, for the purpose of electing a new slate of officers for Rotary to serve for the new fiscal year. The officers to be elected will be installed July 1.

Over in Thompson, near the boundary line of this state and Rhode Island, is the beautiful summer home of Colonel Whittleshaffer, Providence theatre owner, which is cleverly protected by dummies, appearing to be husky well developed men, who are placed about the estate at vantage spots where thieves and burglars would be likely to gain admission to the grounds. Autoists passing the home of the retired army officer are frequently deceived by the forms which in all respects present the appearance of guards. The "silent policemen" prove quite effective and in one instance their presence has been known to frighten away marauders bent upon prowling about the estate.

Charles Croake of Mechanics street has returned to his home after several days spent at St. Vincent's hospital where he underwent treatment for an infected hand.

J. A. Smith, clerk at the Putnam Inn for the past winter, has resigned his position and will leave Friday to accept a similar position in a summer hotel in New Hampshire.

JEWETT CITY

DR. G. H. JENNINGS AT FAMILY DOCTORS' EVENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, April 30.— Dr. G. H. Jennings attended the luncheon given at the Boston City club Wednesday as a tribute to New England's oldest family doctors. Griswold's beloved doctor is eighty, has practiced here and lived in Jewett City fifty-five years. There may be older family doctors in New England, but not one can compare with Griswold's oldest doctor's record in his years of devotion to the up-building of every good cause. In addition to his wide practice he has been health officer and medical examiner for years, was a former selectman, chairman of the school committee, of the Congregational church society's committee, Slater library trustees, the Home Service committee of the Red Cross chapter, town nurse committee and Chautauqua, and the first commander of the Legion post. He gave his services at southern camps in the medical service during the World war, then a man nearly seventy. He is a past master of Mt. Vernon lodge, F. and A. M., and a thirty-second degree Mason. And none of these duties have ever interfered with answer to innumerable call from the sick in county and village.

In Boston, a reception was held by Governor Allen of Massachusetts at the state house, after the doctors had met at Hotel Statler. There an informal luncheon was held at the Boston City club. Over 300 were present including 40 of the old doctors.

Temporary Clerk

Ralph Wilbur has been appointed temporary clerk in Jewett City post office and will rate as ranking in the A grade for regular appointment in the event of vacancy. At the time of the recent U. S. civil service examination three others would have been eligible to qualify with Mr. Wilbur. All were residents of other cities, and would hardly find it worth while to accept, with the uncertain promise of enough employment to warrant change of residence. Postmaster W. T. Crumb said Wednesday that, with coming vacation allowances for his clerks and carriers, Mr. Wilbur will have steady employment to July.

STANLEY NAHL FORGED CHECK ENDORSEMENT

April 28, Stanley Nahl, when he left his job in one of the local mills was paid a check for $33.50 which belonged to another man. Nahl took the check to the store of F. Arremony and Son where he bought a cap, tendering in payment the check, upon which he had forged the endorsement. The difference between the price of the cap and the face of the check was paid to him in cash. The forgery being discovered in a local bank, Officer Henry Vegiard took over the case, and learned that Nahl was working in Fall River. The policeman called the Fall River chief and described his man. Monday, upon advices from the Massachusetts city police department, that they had picked up the man, Officer Vegiard went there by automobile and brought Nahl to Jewett City. Tried before Judge John T. Barry, Wednesday morning, the prisoner was sent to Norwich jail for 60 days.

SPRING SALE-SUPPER HELD AT LISBON HALL

A spring sale and supper was held in Lisbon Community hall under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid society Tuesday evening. Three very attractively decorated booths were most spring-like in apple green, pansy tints and daffodil yellow. The candy booth had a border of red and yellow tulips with fluted green sides and festoons. Miss Clara Hyde, Mrs. E. B. Cheney and Mrs. Charles Learned sold the candy. The fancy article booth in charge of Mrs. Charles Whittaker was very lovely with Easter lily border and festoons and sides of purple and lavender. Potted pansies were the decorations. The apron booth was done in yellow with daffodil border and yellow fluted sides and festoons, and beautiful garden daffodils. It was in charge of Mrs. W. J. Reynolds, Mrs. F. I. Ray and Miss Hattie Bradlaw. The supper tables were artistically decorated with lavender menus and lavender sweet peas and yellow menus and daffodils. A delicious a la carte supper of clam chowder, chicken salad, baked ham and potato, rhubarb pie, prune pie, ginger bread and whipped cream cake, ice cream, rolls and coffee was provided. Miss S. K. Adams, in charge of the arrangements, was assisted by Mrs. Albert Rist, Mrs. Will Phillips, Mrs. Harry Fitch, Mrs. Burr Smith, Mrs. Harry Hull, Mrs. Charles Steward, G. Curtis Hull, Mrs. Frank Hyde and Mrs. George Helmboldt. The waiters were: Clara Hyde, Mrs. Walter Hyde, Jean Burleson, Harriett McCluggage, Ella Church, Sadie Goldberg, Ruth Allen, Mrs. Bertha Cyr, Newell Rist and Harold Helmboldt. Fred Robinson and Walter Hyde were cashiers. An entertaining program was carried out later in the evening. Mrs. Olive Adams Potter, contralto, of Norwich, delighted the listeners with three selections, Where My Caravan Has Rested, The Birthday and Brownies; John MacLean, of Jewett City, sang three numbers, Love's Sorrow, Annie Laurie and Forgotten. Mrs. Jesse Phillips was accompanist. A humorous sketch, At the Railroad Station, was given by Miss Clara Hyde, Newell Rist, Ella Church, Harold and Raymond Helmboldt. William Rist and Margaret Strnard, with George Helmboldt as depot master. It was an unexpected relief to the mystified audience when the entire family crossed the track. The Lisbon orchestra played tuneful selections during the program. Miss Adams was most efficiently assisted by Miss Helen Hull. The total receipts were $118.

BRAKE TESTING

To be of even greater service to you, we are installing an accurate brake tester — an astounding device that tells you more about the true condition of your brakes than a dozen skilled mechanics or miles of road tests ever could.

This machine detects the egg-shaped drum, the warped or greasy band—measures the piston leakage of hydraulic brakes — tells you in how many feet your car will stop in an emergency.

Our brake man is now at factory in Akron, Ohio, receiving further training on the use of this machine and the latest information relative to brakes.

THE YANTIC CROSSING

The petition of the Central Vermont road for the right to replace a flagman at the lower Yantic crossing with a flashing signal is in keeping with the request that was made by the New Haven road for similar relief at the Eighth street crossing. The crossings are not similar, the Yantic crossing being less blind, however, than that at Eight street but subject to much more highway traffic. Furthermore, according to reports, it is not improbable that at no very distant date a new highway layout in that locality will divert much more of the traffic from that particular crossing.

If it is possible to anticipate what the public utilities commission will do with the petition, after a hearing has been granted, action of a favorable character at the dangerous Eighth street crossing furnishes reason for the belief that the Central Vermont will be treated no differently. And if there is justification for the substitution of signals at Yantic, the road may well look forward to as favorable action relative to its petition for similar relief at the South Windham crossing.

But while these changes are under consideration, it ought not to be overlooked that the crossing on the Central Vermont line just south of the Yantic station is totally unguarded. There is neither flagman nor signal there and yet all the traffic to and from the Willimantic direction must cross there. It is not a crossing where highway users have a complete view of the track in both directions, the view to the north being shut off when traveling in either direction.

Unless the situation at that point is going to be taken care of by highway changes which are contemplated, it would appear that in the interest of proper warning and increased safety a signal should be established at that point. It is only one of the many crossings without signals but much traffic passes there and it is preferable to do so much as possible in a reasonable way for the prevention of trouble, especially since highway users are more or less handicapped in getting a view of the track.

CONNECTICUT ANTI-PROS ORGANIZE

That the efforts for the appeal of the 18th amendment in Connecticut, one of the two states which have never ratified it and where much wet sentiment has always been displayed, are taking definite shape is indicated by the establishment as a permanent body of the Connecticut division of the Anti-Prohibition Amendment association. This is not a new association. It has been active for several years but it is evident that there is the intention to carry on its activities more persistently. The indications are that it has gotten encouragement in its effort because of conditions which have developed under prohibition. Possibly it has been strengthened in its determination by the disclosures of the Literary Digest poll, with particular reference to Connecticut expressions, and the general attitude throughout the country. It will probably insist that it has been awake all the time but its purpose now is to show more activity and so arouse the nation as to secure relief from what it regards as the intolerable conditions created by the dry law by getting congress to submit to the people the question of the repeal of the amendment. The organization expresses confidence that the people will bring about a ratification of repeal in a constitutional manner if given a chance.

As to this, of course, opinions will differ. The organization understands the difficulties involved in securing such a repeal, but from all indications it is not discouraged by what might appear to be a difficult task. Its reliance is apparently being placed upon the test that has been made, the conditions that exist and the belief that an improvement would result under the change that is advocated.

Regardless of the merits of the wet and dry question, it will probably be admitted by both sides that the new organization presents an impressive list of officials and directors, men prominent in all lines of activity, lawyers, doctors, manufacturers, educators, heads of banks, insurance companies, philanthropists, capitalists.

The Connecticut division might feel that in view of the Connecticut attitude it has little to do, but it is nevertheless serving notice that its policy is going to be one of aggression and the meaning of that cannot be lost sight of by friends or opponents of its announced purpose. It is out in the open and apparently seeking combat.

ARE YOU A PREVENTIONIST?

Serious forest fires in Connecticut, Rhode Island and Massachusetts, with the loss of summer homes and standing timber, make it evident that there we are still in the midst of the season when such fires can be expected and when unusual efforts for prevention need to be exerted.

It takes but a short time for the destruction of valuable property without any excuse whatever. One may survey the ruins or come to a realization of what has happened through reading accounts of the fires, the losses and the efforts necessary to stop the progress of the flames, but what seems to be too generally overlooked in connection with it all is that in the great majority of cases it could have been easily prevented. After the deed had been done, after the thoughtless have gotten in their work, prevention is useless. All that remains then is to see into how small an area the fires can be kept and how much human effort can do to restrict the loss.

Whenever dry conditions prevail in fields and woodland, or along the roadside, those who travel in those directions should recognize the responsibility that rests upon them to leave things as they find them. That means that fires should not be set by intention or accident, but it also means that sufficient thought should be given to the possibility of such things happening during unguarded moments. In other words, the mind should be so trained to give enough thought to preventive acts as to anticipate any such slips and thus establish a safeguard.

Fishermen as a rule do not set fires from malice. Many of them are smokers, thus casting suspicion upon the possibilities of such firebrands as they distribute causing much of the trouble. Others can as easily cause as much trouble and in these days equally serious fires have been started by those who ride along the country highways and flip a lighted cigarette out of the automobile window. There is no thought where it falls. If it drops in the dirt all is well. If it falls in dry leaves it is all the same to the one who discarded it but it means trouble for fire fighters and a loss for property owners if a fire is kindled. It is so easy to prevent the most of the forest fires that it is deplorable that those who should do not give more thought to it.

CHILD HEALTH DAY

This is Child Health day and being observed as such throughout the country. The American Child Health association tells us that there are 43,000,000 in this country under 18 years of age and points out that this younger generation is actually larger than the 1870 population of the United States.

That is an impressive statement. It, course, represents the growth of this country in the past 60 years, but it likewise directs attention in an interesting manner to the importance of giving increased attention to the health problem involved where there are so many young people.

It is to the children of today that we must look for the citizens of tomorrow. It is obvious that they are going to be better prepared for their work if there are better health efforts and standards.

Concerning this child health problem, President Hoover, who is deeply interested in children, has said: "If we grapple with the whole child situation for one generation our public health, our economic efficiency, the moral character, sanity and stability of our people would advance three generations in one.

"When all public interest has expended itself, child development still rests with parents, and parents need much bringing up. Much can be done by the waking of public conscience in every community. Much still remains to be carried out by action from the state in its local as well as national phases."

These are thoughts to which every locality has reason to give serious consideration, and back of the effort and the suggestions are sufficiently sound reasons for expecting that the needed response will be made. There is nothing more important that can be done for the children than the betterment of health conditions.

SETTLE THE TARIFF

Today it is probable that the house will resume its effort to produce a tariff bill. Before it will be the report of the conference committee, which shows that it has been able to reach agreements on certain of the matters which needed adjustment but not upon those where there is a wide difference between the action taken by the house and the senate. Neither has the conference committee decided what should be done in regard to the debenture plan and the restricted flexible tariff provision put into the bill by the senate.

That the report of the conferees will be accepted as far as those items on which they could get together are concerned is to be expected. That there will be a fight upon those other features of the bill which developed so much fire in the senate is to be expected.

It will be surprising if the house does not express its emphatic disapproval of the debenture scheme and also of the plan that the senate has proposed of having the flexible tariff provision hamstrung by making any decisions which the president might make upon the advice of the tariff commission subject to later revision by congress. That would defeat the whole purpose of the flexible idea and mean uncertainty for an indefinite period.

On the several other matters where decided differences prevail certain adjustments are to be expected but it is the hope of the country that the return of the bill to congress doesn't mean a resumption of the old and prolonged fight which the senate staged. The need is for fair treatment of the problems and an early decision.

MOTHER MAKES A SPEECH

When Mrs. Atkins moved into her beautiful Spanish home in College Hills she decided to become one of the more active residents of her new community. She and her husband joined the College Hills Country club, the Thursday Evening Bridge club, the Art society, and she herself became affiliated with the North End Mothers' club, which in turn was affiliated with the State Congress of Mothers.

Her children were now at an age when they did not need her constant attention, and Mrs. Atkins felt it her duty as a modern woman to become interested in the things other modern women were doing. Agnes was now in high school and Leslie was doing nicely in sixth grade. They were model children who, Mrs. Atkins believed amply repaid her for the years of ceaseless effort she had spent in raising them.

The Atkinses had resided in College Hills about six months and were well known for their social activities when Mrs. Atkins made her tremulous announcement one night.

"Dear," she said, addressing Mr. Atkins, "I'm invited to make a speech."

"A speech!" said Mr. Atkins. "Well, well, this is a surprise. Before the North End mothers, I presume?"

"No," said Mrs. Atkins, "before a much larger group—the State Congress of Mothers, which is meeting in College Hills."

"Bully for you," said Mr. Atkins.

"Of course," his wife went on, "public speaking is not exactly my line, but when I heard that the subject was 'The Guidance and Care of the Child,' I felt I could speak with authority."

"I'm sure," replied Mr. Atkins, "that no one could do that subject better justice than you, my dear."

For the next two weeks Mrs. Atkins worked untiringly on her speech. She followed the life of the child from his earliest days and she cited numerous instances from the lives of her two children to prove her points. When the speech was finished and in type Mrs. Atkins practiced reading it before her family.

The great day arrived and Mrs. Atkins, gowned in a becoming new ensemble, hastened to the conclave. At least 500 women were there, mothers and teachers from all parts of the state. Mrs. Atkins was nervous while she sat on the platform waiting for her turn, but when finally she stood up and read her nicely typed message she felt her timidity leave. For the speech went splendidly—better than her fondest expectations.

Mrs. Atkins told about the care mothers should exercise with their young children. "How important it is," she said, "for us to surround them constantly with the influences of the family circle. They are the raw material. It is up to use to mold their little lives. . . . Let us, above all," she said in conclusion, "remember, to keep them interested in the right things—keep them off the streets—let us read with them and answer all their childish questions."

It was a fine speech and Mrs. Atkins was warmly congratulated. After the refreshments Mrs. Atkins, flushed with triumph, taxied home. As she alighted from the cab a curious sight met her eyes. It seemed that all the neighborhood children were congregated around her front door.

"Oh, Mrs. Atkins," cried one little boy, "a policeman got Leslie, a policeman got Leslie!"

"What on earth do you mean?" demanded Mrs. Atkins, dumfounded.

"They took Leslie and Agnes to the station," several cried together. "Leslie tramped all over Mrs. Hutchin's newly seeded lawn and she was so mad she called the police. And when they came Agnes acted so bad and kicked and scratched the police that they took her along to the station."

Her children arrested! Mrs. Atkins stumbled into the house and telephoned her husband.

Next morning as she lay on the couch completely worn out from the strain of yesterday the telephone rang.

"Oh, Grace," called Mr. Atkins, "somebody from the mothers' club wants to put you down for another speech on 'The Care of the Child' at next month's meeting." Mrs. Atkins laughed hysterically.

"Tell her I'm too busy trying to care for my own children to tell other mothers how to take care of theirs," she called weakly. "Besides, 'The Care of the Child' is a subject to which no mother with only seventeen years' experience can possibly do justice!"—Exchange.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, April 30—"I have sometimes thought that the United States senate is the hardest place in which to discuss a subject," wailed Senator Fess of Ohio on the day the Norris Muscle Shoals resolution was voted through.

The Ohioan looked about him upon empty chairs.

Eighty senators had answered "here," only five minutes before, and had already vanished to the varied places to which senators disappear between votes. Just where they go is something of a mystery.

"I do not take time merely to hear myself talk," Fess said, sadly. "It is very distressing to discuss a subject . . . . with the obvious indifference of senators who are to vote on it as to anything that might be said for or against it.

"We are attempting to make permanent disposition of a project involving $125,000,000 and more. The principle involved goes to the root of matters that are fundamental in our American system. Yet we have empty seats and little attention—in fact, none—paid to the discussion."

Indifference.

What Fess noted often has impressed the Bystander. It must take a lot of training to make senators indifferent to the indifference of their fellows. You could number on the fingers of one hand those senators who have any assurance at all of a senatorial audience when they speak. Yet they learn, finally, not to let that dampen their enthusiasm.

Most of them can thunder denunciations, stride up and down with waving hands, pound desks in emphasis with nobody on the floor actually listening and even the vice president sitting in bored abstraction.

Hard Work.

The Bystander has seen men, heavily built men like Tom Heflin, conclude such a speech with faces dripping with perspiration, collars wilted and every indication of great physical exhaustion, yet not a dozen senators heard what was said.

Even in the galleries there would have been continual coming and going which might well have been disconcerting to the speechmaker.

Certain parts of the spectators' benches are kept for tourists. Guides lead in parties of a score to 100 to rustle their way to seats, sit staring over the rail a few minutes into the almost vacant chamber below where one man is booming along with all the fury of stump oratory.

Then they go hustling out. Rarely do the visitors know who the orator was, never what he was talking about.

Fess probably explained some of the Muscle Shoals senatorial apathy himself. The subject had been before congress all his 17 years in house or senate, and for 10 years before that, he said.

"The first speech I ever heard made by the late Oscar Underwood in the house was on Muscle Shoals," he added. "And the last speech I heard that distinguished gentleman make in the senate was on Muscle Shoals."

And it's still here.

YOUR HEALTH

Child Health Day

(By Cary T. Grayson, M. D., President, Gorgas Memorial Institute, Washington, D. C.)

Today is Child Health day. Of course every day should be the day to give our children the very best of loving and intelligent care. But it is valuable to set aside a special day to re-study.

The child's bill of rights, as phrased by President Hoover:

The ideal to which we should strive is that there shall be no child in America:

That has not been born under proper conditions.

That does not live in hygienic surroundings.

That ever suffers from undernourishment.

That does not have prompt and efficient medical attention and inspection.

That does not receive primary instruction in the elements of hygiene and good health.

That has not the complete birthright of a sound mind in a sound body.

That has not the encouragement to express in fullest measure the spirit within which is the final endowment of every human being.

And, having studied it, it is incumbent upon good parents and good citizens to strive toward this high ideal.

It is enormously important that we appreciate what it would mean if we should give to every child the benefit of such knowledge regarding health as is now available, for with health comes strength, vigor, ambition, achievement and happiness.

The maintenance of good health is largely an individual matter. To a great extent it is within the control of the individual or his parents. Action will be based on their knowledge of hygiene and the advice of the family physician. Hence the increasing emphasis on personal health—preventive medicine—keeping the well person well—and the sound health insurance secured by an annual physical examination.

On the other hand many diseases can be effectively prevented only by the united effort of many persons. The organized effort to prevent or control such diseases constitutes public health. Public health has to deal especially with children. It has to do with communicable diseases, many diseases of nutrition, pure water, safe milk, good food, the disposal of wastes, etc.

Money spent for health work for children goes much further than that spent for adults. Not only are defects or disease conditions more easily remedied and good health habits more readily formed in childhood, but the good that is done is likely to last for 50 or 60 years instead of only about half that length of time—and the beneficient effects of the radiation of that good to others during that additional 25 or 30 years is beyond calculation.

May Day is the time for parents, teachers, public health officials, doctors, groups interested in the prevention of disease and the promotion of health—in short, all of us, to renew and strengthen our dedication to the ideals of child's health.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Sammy and Mrs. Sammy Save the Flowers

We know not always what we do;
That done for me may profit you.
—Peter Rabbit.

Peter Rabbit was delighted. He was sure that he had discovered the nest of Sammy Jay and Mrs. Jay. But to make doubly sure, he hid under the branches of a hemlock tree, from beneath which he could peep out and see all that was going on. It wasn't long before he saw Mrs. Jay. She had food in her mouth. She stopped a short distance away and looked sharply in all directions. Then she flew straight up to that nest. Once more Peter chuckled.

From where Peter sat he could look out across a gentle slope of brown pine needles and dotted all over that slope under the whispering pines were Pink Lady's-Slippers just like the one he had found near the Crooked Little Path. He noticed that they grew singly, or in little groups, but seldom, if ever, close together. In that way they showed their full beauty. Had they been growing together in masses, they would not have been nearly so beautiful.

And then Peter saw what had happened

Peter was just about ready to go on his way when he heard voices and knew that some one was coming down the Crooked Little Path. Presently he heard a little scream of delight and a woman rushed over to the nearest Lady's Slipper and picked it. Another followed and she, too, began to pick Lady's Slippers. How Peter did want to do something to make them stop.

"I know just what will happen," Peter said to himself. "They'll pick every flower on this hillside. Oh dear, I wish I could do something about it!"

It was just then one of these women passed under the tree in which was the nest of Sammy Jay. Something happened! At first Peter didn't understand what had happened. That woman gave a little shriek, dropped her flowers and clapped both hands to her head. Her companion came running to see what the trouble was. No sooner did she arrive than she did exactly the same thing. And then Peter saw what had happened. Sammy and Mrs. Jay had attacked these intruders. Mrs. Jay had struck the first one on her head and Sammy had treated the second one in just the same way. Now they were darting down again and they were businesslike about it. Peter understood it all in a moment. He understood that there were young birds up in that nest; young Jays probably almost ready to fly, and Sammy and Mrs. Jay didn't want anybody around.

Peter chuckled to himself. "They don't know it, but they are saving all these beautiful flowers," thought he. "They think they are just driving those folks away from their babies, but if it were not for them, there wouldn't be one of these flowers left in a little while. Now, if those folks don't come back, and no other flower-pickers come this way, there will be more flowers another year. Sammy and Mrs. Jay have done just what I wanted to do."

As a matter of fact, the two ladies hadn't stopped to even pick up the flowers they had dropped. Sammy Jay has a sharp bill. So has Mrs. Jay. And all those two ladies could think of was getting away from those sharp bills as quickly as possible. Peter crept out from his hiding place and went on his way. Presently, not far from the Laughing Brook, where the ground was wet, and where there were no pine trees, Peter found some more Lady's-Slippers, but these were yellow instead of pink. The flowers were quite like the pink ones in shape, but the plants were very different. These flowers were at the top of tall stalks, with several leaves growing out from them. Peter thought of the flower-pickers and he hoped with all his heart that they would not discover these, for here there was no Sammy Jay to drive them away.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

The Lyman Gun Sight Corporation, Middlefield

Over fifty years of continual expansion and progress briefly summarizes the history of the Lyman Gun Sight corporation.

In 1878, William Lyman, Esq., of Middlefield, made the first Lyman "peep" sight by hand. At the present time, both the United States and foreign governments are among the customers of this concern as Lyman products are internationally known, distributed and used.

In connection with the growth of their plant, it is interesting to note that William Lyman, the founder, was among the first to recognize the value of direct consumer appeal. He secured county and state lists of hunting licenses issued in certain communities and circularized these license holders with individual long-hand letters. In localities where non-English speaking residents were in the majority, these letters were written in the language of their nativity. Even today, thirty years after his death, letters and orders come addressed to William Lyman, showing the result of his work many years ago.

The Lyman plant in Middlefield is entirely modern in every way, and normally employs about eighty people. Its export activities and sales are handled directly by Henry H. Lyman, whose brother, C. E. Lyman, Jr., is factory superintendent. Francis A. Beach of Middletown is president, having served in this capacity since the death of C. E. Lyman, brother of the founder.

Gas On Stomach Is Dangerous

TELLS HOW TO STOP IT

Gas, Pain, Bloating and a feeling of fullness after eating are almost certain evidence of excessive hydrochloric acid in the stomach.

Too much acid irritates the delicate stomach lining, frequently causing chronic Gastritis and dangerous Ulcers. Food ferments and sours, forming a gas that distends the stomach and often seriously affects the Heart.

It is genuine folly to neglect such a condition or to treat with artificial digestive aids that cannot neutralize the stomach acid. A better way is to get from any reliable drug store some Bisurated Magnesia (powder or tablets) and take a little in water after each meal. Bisurated Magnesia will stop the worst gas attack quickly and without embarrassment. Taken right after eating, it prevents formation of gas and acids so there is no sourness, bloating or pain. Pleasant and perfectly harmless to use—Bisurated Magnesia does give wonderful relief in nine out of ten cases. Ask your Doctor or Druggist. Try it today.

HALF WAY POINT IN EGG LAYING CONTEST

During the coming week or on April 28th, to be exact, the hens in the Storrs contest will be at the half. Meanwhile the race goes merrily on. The pace has at times slackened the least little bit, but no real slowing down is anticipated for more than another month.

In the 25th week just ended the total production for all pens was 5,282 eggs, or a yield of 75.4 per cent. This is 25 eggs under the production of the previous week but is 574 eggs better than for the corresponding week last year.

The 11 best pens for the current week averaged just over 63 eggs per pen. In other words, they laid at the rate of 90 per cent, which is about the maximum speed that hens can attain. West Neck Farm's pen of Reds from Huntington, Long Island, and R. C. Cobb's pen of Barred Rocks from Littleton, Mass., set the pace with 66 eggs each. REPUBLICAN TOWN COMMITTEE ENDORSES MAYOR ROBBINS

The republican town committee gave unanimous endorsement at a meeting Tuesday evening to Mayor Lee Roy Robbins to run again in June as the party candidate for mayor.

Republican leaders were predicting Wednesday a winning run for Mayor Robbins in the June election for city officers, which will be an endorsement of his fine record in his first term as mayor. He was the party's candidate two years ago who broke the solid hold which the democrats had had on the city administration for six years in succession, and followed up this success last June by electing all their candidates for aldermen and councilmen, thus putting the city administration completely in republican hands.

MAYOR LEE ROY ROBBINS

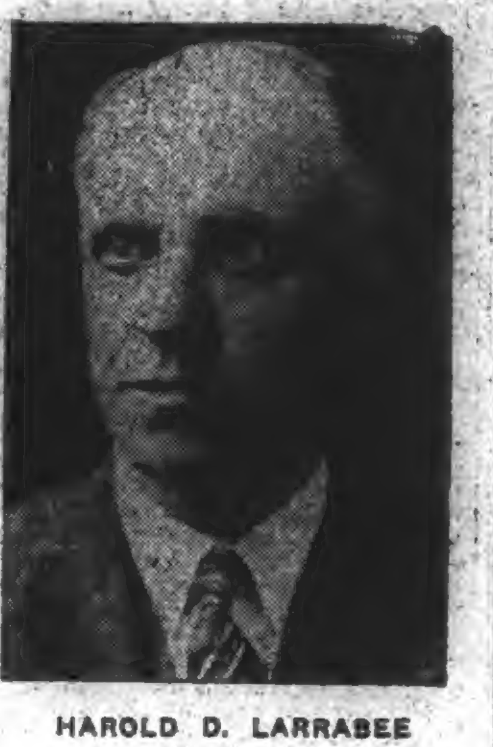
ROTARY'S ANNUAL LADIES' NIGHT MAKES BRILLIANT SOCIAL AFFAIR



HAROLD D. LARRABEE
President

Ladies' night, the annual social event of the Norwich Rotary club, was held Wednesday evening at the Wauregan hotel ballroom amid colorful surroundings. The event, which is always the high spot of the Norwich social season, was the tenth since the inception of the club in 1920 and surpassed all other similar functions. There were nearly 200 Rotarians and Rotary-Annes with guests present from Norwich, New London and Willimantic clubs.

The banquet hall was handsomely decorated with southern smilax, palms, the Rotary emblems and the American flag. The table decorations were baskets of spring flowers. The color scheme of the entire decorations was blue and gold, the Rotary colors. The decorations were by Ernst.

Frank R. Murdy, retiring president of the Norwich club, acted as toastmaster and after the singing of America, invocation was by Rev. Theodore M. Shipherd, pastor of Park Congregational church.

The following was the menu:

Fruit Cup
Celery Stuffed Olives
Tomato Bisque
Filet of Mignon with Mushroom Sauce
French Fried Potatoes String Beans
Pineapple Salad Cream Cheese
Dinner Rolls
Ice Cream and Cake
Coffee

The dinner programme was very unique and very entertaining, the first number being the presentation of Amos 'n' Andy (in person), represented by William G. Park and John Richardson. Other characters in this world-famous sketch were taken by members of the double quartet, Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, Eben Learned, Frank G. Aubrey, F. Russell Smith, Joseph C. Worth and Frank R. Murdy. The quartet sang several numbers including the Maine Stein Song, Swing Along, a Negro spiritual and Lazy Louisiana Lou. They responded to repeated encores. The sketch was introduced in the most approved way with the orchestra playing the introductory number, "The Perfect Song" and Charles A. Saxton, making the announcement at the microphone. At the completion of the announcement the members of The Fresh Air Taxi Co. "Incorpulated" entered the banquet hall. An original dialogue was carried on between Amos 'n' Andy assisted by the other characters. At the conclusion of their little sketch the members of the cast distributed attractive boxes to the Rotary-Annes who upon opening them found corsage bouquets of talisman roses.

Harold D. Larrabee, the newly elected president, was introduced by Toastmaster Murdy. President Larrabee acknowledged the reception given him in a few brief words expressing the hope that he could carry on in the same efficient manner as the previous presidents.

Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, in his customarily eloquent manner, on behalf of the club, presented a desk-lamp and desk set to the retiring president, F. R. Murdy. Mr. Murdy expressed his sincere appreciation of the gift.

As a duet number Henry LaFontaine and Walter LaFontaine sang "If I'm Dreaming" (Kern) and as an encore rendered "Should I" (Brown); Mrs. Charles A. Saxton was the accompanist.

Presentation of gifts to the Rotary-Annes was made by James Sullivan of New London as only Jim can present gifts.

Two added numbers came into the programme when Toastmaster Murdy called upon Henry LaFontaine, who obligingly responded with two fine baritone solos, "Louise" and "The Trees," both sung in splendid voice.

One of the high-lights of the after-dinner program was the address, The Inexcusable Lie, by Private Harold R. Peat, author, lecturer and soldier.

Private Peat made brief reference to some of his war experiences as a member of the Canadian forces, but went on to say that histories have been perpertating and perpetuating the inexcusable lie in glorifying war and holding up the life of the soldier as a grand and desirable experience, making a hero of the man in military life, but telling little of the privations and horrors of war. Until we cease from idealizing the life of the soldier and glorifying the achievements of war, we will continue to have war, he declared. Let us tell the truth about war, the cold facts; send the boys to camps but give them real conditions and not make it a picnic. Let them dig ditches six feet deep and let them stand for hours in the soggy ditch. Give them two blankets, a woolen one and a rubber one, and let them sleep in their wet clothes. Oh yes, we will probably lose a hundred thousand, but no one who finds out what war means will want war.

FRANK R. MURDY
Toastmaster

Following the address there was a treasure hunt for the ladies while the hall was being cleared for dancing. Music for dancing was by Thumm's orchestra which also rendered a very fine programme of dinner music.

William G. Park was the song leader at the dinner and there were a number of novelty features. Joseph C. Worth was the master of ceremonies for the dance program.

The committee that arranged the delightful affair was Walter E. Turner, chairman; Charles A. Saxton, Dr. Hugh B. Campbell, F. Russell Smith, Christopher Gallup and Herbert M. Hitchon.

Graphic Outlines of History
By David H. Wilson

CHICAGO IN 1673

The sight of Chicago was first visited by Marquette and Joliet, French missionaries and explorers, in 1673. Permanent settlement was retarded by Indian hostilities. Because of the ideal location on the Lakes, however, it soon became a great trading center, and gradually grew into the great city it is today.

The thoughtfulness and beauty of our service is unmarred by any forgotten detail.

You can get Radox at any real drugstore in America. Lee & Osgood sells dozens of packages a day—Get a package; follow directions and if Radox doesn't do as advertised get your money back.

What English Girl Wrote

"Mother suffered for years with very bad corns, but now after using Radox, has not got a corn, or any sign of a corn at all. She used three tablespoonfuls of Radox in two quarts of hot water (not boiling) so that she could put her feet in with comfort, and soaked the feet for half-an-hour, adding more hot water as the other got a bit cold; after which she found she could pick off pieces of corn quite easily. Now they are gone."

BOOTS GREENE SHUTS OUT GILBERT HIGH OF WINSTED, ALLOWING 4 HITS

Aided by almost flawless support from his teammates, Joe (Boots) Greene, the Academy's latest pitching sensation, blanked Gilbert high of Winsted 7 to 0, Wednesday afternoon, at the campus for his fourth victory of the season in as many starts. The Wildcats played brilliant ball afield and hit timely. They also were aided by nine opponent errors.

Academy Gets Ten Hits

It was a pitching battle up to the sixth inning between the local curveball artist and Simmons, slight Winsted hurler, when the Red and Whitesters scored three times, and continued to add to their total in the remaining frames. Greene allowed but four hits and fanned six, while walking one. Simmons was nicked for ten hits, including doubles by Gibbs and Breen and was also the victim of discouraging support at times.

Art (Mickey) Breen, Ed Flather, Speed Reardon and Alec Arico each collected two Academy hits.

Local Infielders on Their Toes

The entire N. F. A. infield played smart baseball backing up Greene at all times. Arico had 14 putouts at first base and played heads-up all the way through. Alec is a mighty valuable man to the Academy, saving his fellow infielders from wild throws time and again besides keeping on his toes every minute when he is on the bases. Alec beat out two pretty bunts Wednesday and kept his batting average on the rise.

Both teams threatened in the first. Simmons with one out, doubled down the left field line for Winsted but was stranded when Bascetta and Carroll fanned. Arico beat out a bunt and Reardon singled to left to start the Academy off. Gibbs sacrificed them ahead a base but Fontaine, in attempting to bunt on the squeeze play popped into the shortstop's hands and Arico was doubled off third.

Academy Scores in Fourth

The first scoring came in the fourth when Fontaine singled to left and made second when Bordonaro let the ball get away from him. Breen then smashed one out to the manual training building which Mitchell barely got his hands on and it went for a double, scoring Bud.

In the sixth the game was busted open with three more runs thusly: Reardon walked but was forced at second by Gibbs, who, however, made that bag when Bascetta threw past first trying for a double play. Gibbs went to third when Mahowski missed the catcher's throw to catch him napping off second. Fontaine walked and went to second unmolested. Breen scored Gibbs and Fontaine with a single to right. Breen stole second. Weisgraber walked. Flather went up in place of Berghinzo and singled past first, driving in Breen.

Gibbs Makes Long Double

A pair came in the seventh when Arico beat out another bunt and took second on a passed ball. Reardon lined to Mahowski and Alec was doubled off second. Gibbs doubled over Bordonaro's head in left and came in when Carroll bummed up Fontaine's grounder. Breen hit to short and this was also fumbled, putting Bud on second. Weisgraber hit to Mahowski and he muffed, sending in Fontaine with the sixth run. In the eighth Flather got his second hit, a hot shot that bounded off the first baseman's glove. He took second on Mahowski's error, was sacrificed to third by Greene and came in on a wild pitch.

Gilbert only seriously threatened once, that in the seventh. Bascetta and Carroll singled in succession to start off. Mitchell fanned but Bordonaro hit to Breen and all were safe when the third sacker missed it. Carl then popped up and Bascetta was doubled off third.

WILDCAT SCRATCHES

Bad day on ye scorer, too many close ones to decide between hits and errors.

Flather, who had not been hitting all year, broke out with a bang, collecting two safeties in as many trips to the plate. How that boy can run when he does get on. In Flather and Arico, the Academy has a pair of speedsters to match any school.

There was a fair-sized turnout for a weekday, about 500.

Boots has allowed but one run in 24 innings and none in the last 21, or since Swan hit a homer for Deep River in the third inning of that game a week ago Saturday.

All of the Academy boys who played the entire game, except Pepin and Greene broke into the hitting column.

Three double plays featured the tilt, Bascetta unassisted: Mahowski unassisted and, Fontaine to Breen.

Hank Morin and Charlie Lavarge did the umpiring honors.

"Every victory's a mile nearer New York," so say the boys.

Fitzgerald twice ran for Weisgraber by permission, the first time getting as far as third and the second only remaining on first.

Two of the four hits off Boots were scratchy, that by Cooney being of the infield variety, Gibbs going into deep short to make a hurried throw, which was off the bag: and the one by Carroll was close to the foul line in right and hard for Flather to get at.

This was, of course, Coach Brigham's 100th victory as the N. F. A. baseball mentor. The string which started with the season of 1924 shows 100 victories against 21 defeats, more than 4 to 1. Not a bad record, at all.

Weaver of Hartford, Saturday, is next.

RAINVILLE COPS SECOND MATCH AT TORONTO

TORONTO, April 30.—(AP)—Marcel Rainville of Montreal won his second match in the Davis cup lawn tennis trials today, defeating Leroy Rennie of Toronto, former Canadian champion, in straight sets, 6-2, 6-1, 6-0.

Rennie, who was not in the best of condition, was no match for the brilliant Rainville, who conditioned himself with two months of tournament play in the southern states. Rainville defeated Walter Martin of Regina yesterday, also in straight sets.

HARD HITTING OF STRIPP FEATURES REDS' VICTORY

CINCINNATI, April 30—(AP)—Heavy hitting by Jersey Joe Stripp, playing his first full game of the season, today earned the Reds a 4 to 3 decision over the Cardinals.

Stripp tripled in the final inning and drove in Meusel with the winning run. Previously Stripp doubled in the fourth inning during which the Reds scored twice. Red Lucas won his first game of the year. He had perfect control. Sylvester Johnson, losing twirler, likewise did not pass a batter.

BRANDT PITCHES GOOD GAME AS BRAVES WIN

PHILADELPHIA, April 30.—(AP) — Hammering Sweetland and Willoughby for eight runs in the first four innings, the Braves defeated the Phillies 9-3, here today in the closing game of the series.

Brandt, who hurled for the Braves, was effective and outside of Klein's home run in the fourth did not allow a local player to reach third base until two outs in the ninth, when the Shotton men put together their final two runs.

Klein's homer was his fourth of the season.

Old Hank Gowdy was behind the bat for the McKechnie men and aided in the splendid work of Brandt.

ROBINS CONTINUE HEAVY STICK WORK AND WIN

NEW YORK, April 30.—(AP)— The Brooklyn Robins picked up their heavy hitting today where they left it Tuesday and pounded out their third straight victory over the Giants by a 9 to 4 score.

The Robins started off with three hits and four runs off Carl Hubbell and made eleven hits before they finished. The Giants could do nothing with the delivery of Dazzy Vance and collected but six safe blows. Two of their runs came on Pat Crawford's homer in the seventh.

Babe Herman hit a home run in the fourth for two of the three runs off Lucas.

ROSENBLOOM EASILY BEATS JOHNSON— GRIFFITHS GETS JUDGES DECISION

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, April 30.—(AP)—Fresh from a nightclub, trained to perfection on a shave and a hair-cut, Maxey Rosenbloom, the belting buffoon, furnished high entertainment for 15,000 spectators tonight by soundly trouncing Larry Johnson, a long, lean Negro from Chicago.

Rosenbloom baffled the usually deadly punching Negro with his assortment of leger de main and his slapping, cuffing, demoralizing attack. A few weeks ago Larry gave the Harlem harlequin the roughest engagement Rosenbloom has had here in years until a foul gave Max the verdict in six rounds. Tonight, Johnson came back for more and the result was an outclassed Negro and a decision after ten rounds that was a formality.

Johnson's trouble was that he couldn't hit the Slippery Elm of Harlem and when occasionally he smacked Maxey a fairly stiff clout, Rosey turned loose a whirlwind attack that promptly wiped out the advantage.

The battling provided countless thrills for the faithful who poured back into the ampitheatre for the first boxing show in almost a month. The decision was well received and the amazing Rosenbloom, who does everything wrong according to the book but never seems to get caught at it, was a 4 to 5 favorite at ring time despite his rough experience with Johnson several weeks ago.

Maxey lived up fully to his boast that he may be fooled in there once but never twice. From the first round to the last he bounced in and out of the Negro's arms. Sweeping low to let Johnson's vicious right hand shots sweep harmlessly down his back while Larry's left hook, another powerful weapon, usually cracked harmlessly on the back of Maxey's head.

Meantime he led right hands that smacked on the Negro's chin, looped deft hooks to the kidneys, clawed, slapped and generally made life miserable for the be-fuddled Johnson until the arena rocked to the roars of the delighted faithful. Johnson became wilder as he tried round after round to land one desperate, convincing blow. Rosenbloom, his blank expression never changing, was always one thought ahead of the Negro and only twice was he hurt at all.

Johnny Indrisano, Boston welterweight, won an uninteresting ten-round semi-final, staged after the mai bout, from Freddy Fitzgerald, a newcomer to Garden rings from Youngstown, Ohio. There were no knockdowns but Indrisano did most of the heavy hitting. He weighed 149 1-2, Fitzgerald 144 1-2.

Bob Olin, former New York amateur star, won from Roy Wallace, Indianapolis light-heavyweight, on a foul in the eighth round of a ten-round match tonight. The crowd booed the decision.

GAGNON FINDS GRIFFITH AN ELUSIVE TARGET

CHICAGO, April 30.—(AP) — Tuffy Griffith bounded back as a prospective challenger for the world's heavyweight championship tonight by defeating big Jack Gagnon, his knockout conqueror a month ago, in a ten round bout in the Chicago stadium.

Gagnon, the surprising demoralizer of Griffith in their first encounter in which the Sioux City tough one hit the canvas five times, was no demoralizer tonight. Instead, he found the bounding, dancing Griffith an elusive target. Griffith kept his inviting chin tucked close to his wish bone and most of the terrific right hand wallops Gagnon aimed at his jaw swished over his head, or were short, falling harmlessly into the atmosphere.

Griffith, boxing cautiously, won by his superior speed and his ability to step around the Boston ex-sailor. The decision of the referee and judges was unanimous.

Gagnon forced the fighting and was dangerous until the last punch went flying through the air. He always kept his powerful right hand cocked, ready for an opening, but Griffith was a bit too smart for him. Once, in the eighth round, Gagnon crowded Tuffy into the ropes and cracked him with a right to the chin that shook him for an instant.

This was Gagnon's big moment but he couldn't cash in on it. After he cracked Tuffy he tried to push him away with his open left hand glove to get him in range for another shot, but Tuffy danced away and then bounded back furiously with a savage barrage of punches to the body.

Gagnon had a pound and a half weight advantage, scaling 188 1-2 to 187 for Griffith when they weighed in this afternoon.

The experts figured that Griffith won six of the ten rounds with three going to the Boston sailor, and one even.

As a result of his victory Griffith is in line for a match with Otto Von Porat the Norwegian puncher in the stadium next month.

In the ten round semi-final Joey Medill, Chicago, lightweight, was awarded the decision over Stanislaus Loayza. Loayza weighed 139 and Medill 137 1-4.

ROOKIE HURLER WINS 3RD GAME FOR CLEVELAND

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 30.—(AP) — Clint Brown, a rookie from New Orleans, won his third straight game today, when the Cleveland Indians defeated the St. Louis Browns, 6 to 3. The victory gave Cleveland three straight for the series.

The Indians drove Crowder from the mound in the eighth with an attack that netted three runs.

Although suffering from a high fever, Joe Sewell, Cleveland third baseman, batted in the first inning and ran his string of consecutive games to 1,102. Sewell tripled and then retired, Burnett taking his place.

Johnny Hodapp, Cleveland second baseman, was struck on the head in the ninth by a ball pitched by Coffman. He had to be assisted from the field.

WOMEN'S GOLF MATCHES AT SUNNINGDALE TODAY

SUNNINGDALE, England, April 30.—(AP)—All was in readiness tonight for tomorrow's Anglo-American women's golf matches, the first of their kind and perhaps the forerunner of official international competition such as the Walker cup matches for men.

The American team, headed by Miss Glenna Collett, will meet the British team, captained by Miss Molly Gourlay, in foursomes and singles, the foursomes being played in the morning and the singles in the afternoon.

The competition is styled "unofficial" because Misses Collett and Gourlay have arranged the meeting without official support, the players paying their own expenses to Sunningdale.

Never has an international match been staged with less practice. The Americans arrived only yesterday and have had only one full round over one of England's most difficult layouts while only a few of Miss Gourlay's team have had any recent practice at Sunningdale.

The American girls went out today intending to keep their cards but many errors necessitated replaying shots and one by one they put their pencils away.

Miss Helen Hicks, the young star of the American team, entertained an admiring gallery with some drives and irons that would do credit to scratch male golfers.

Miss Collett has not displayed her true form for she caught cold during the voyage, as did Miss Virginia Van Wie.

SEVERAL CHANGES IN STANDING OF BIG SIX

(By The Associated Press)

The pitchers came into their own against the Big Six batters yesterday and brought about several changes in the order of their standing. Batting leadership in both leagues underwent a change, bringing two new members into the Big Six. Bill Cissell of the Chicago White Sox once more displaced Charles Jamieson of Cleveland by getting three hits in four attempts and going into a tie with Al Simmons at .432.

Jake Flowers of Brooklyn hit three out of four, including his seventh double, to replace George Fisher of the Cardinals as leader of the National league and the Big Six. His average is .469. Of the four regulars Babe Ruth led with three hits in five times at bat to bring his mark up to .348. Simmons hit two of four and Paul Waner one of two for substantial increases in their averages. Rogers Hornsby's one hit in four tries put him at the .230 mark.

The standing:

NINE AMERICAN GOLFERS LEAVE FOR ENGLAND

NEW YORK, April 30.—(AP)— The hazards of Sandwich, where the Walker cup matches will be played May 15-16, are numerous but overconfidence is one that the players from the United States will not have to overcome. As Captain Robert T. Jones, Jr., and seven other golf stalwarts sailed for England tonight, there was no suggestion from them that the Americans would successfully defend the famous international trophy just because they always have done so.

As the crack amateurs left for the second big golf invasion of England in eight days, they agreed that the British attack at Sandwich would be hard to repulse. The first mass movement on the British golf citadel was made April 22 by a group of women golfers who will go into action tomorrow in a team match with British women stars.

Both the golf nieces and nephews of Uncle Sam are using the team matches as tuning up affairs for the championships to follow, the women at Formby, beginning May 12, and the men at St. Lake, June 16.

Six of the eight team members are veterans. Voigt and Moe are playing in international competition for the first time.

Bobby Jones said that the foursomes would not be named until the night before the play.

The eight players will play the singles as no substitutes will be available.

Sailing on the same vessel was Leo Diegel, P. G. A. champion, who will play in the British, French and German open championships and try conclusions with Abe Mitchell, crack British pro, over the long stretch of two 36 hole matches and a third if the first two are halved.

JACK DEMPSEY UNDERWENT MINOR OPERATION WED.

ROCHESTER, Minn., April 30.—(AP) —Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight boxing champion, today underwent an operation, apparently as a step in physical checkup preceding a decision as to whether he is to accept a "come back." He was resting comfortably tonight.

Physicians said the operation, which was a minor one, was successful and that they expected Dempsey to be confined to his bed only a few days.

Although no statement regarding a "come back" attempt was made by the former champion on his present visit here, it was recalled that on a previous trip for an examination a few weeks ago, Dempsey said he expected to begin training soon to determine whether he could round into the proper condition.

At that time the Manassa Mauler said he would have a complete physical inventory taken. Reports were that the former heavyweight ruler might match punches with Primo Carnera, the giant Italian, some time next fall.

Dempsey came here yesterday after refereeing boxing shows in Minneapolis and Fargo, N. D. He expected to resume his fight promotion activities in Chicago in about two weeks.

POETRY

When The Heart Is Young

Oh! merry goes the time when the heart is young,
There is nought too high to climb when the heart is young;
A spirit of delight
Scatters roses in her flight,
And there's magic in the night when the heart is young.

But weary go the feet when the heart is old,
Time cometh not so sweet when the heart is old;
From all that smiled and shone,
There is something lost and gone,
And our friends are few—or none—when the heart is old.

Oh! sparkling are the skies when the heart is young,
There is bliss in beauty's eyes when the heart is young;
The golden break of day
Brings gladness in its ray,
And every month is May when the heart is young.

But the sun is setting fast when the heart is old,
And the sky is overcast when the heart is old;
Life's worn and weary bark,
Lies tossing wild and dark,
And the star hath left Hope's ark when the heart is old.

Yet an angel from its sphere, though the heart be old,
Whispers comfort in our ear, though the heart be old,
Saying, "Age, from out the tomb,
Shall immortal youth assume,

Frightened Face

Child of the frightened face,
Trying to understand
The little bit of love
Under your hand.

Holding the little love
Under fingers that crush
That which is soft as the Throat of a thrush.

Holding your hand upon
The wonder of the thing,
Crushing out the song that
Wanted to sing:

Child of the frightened face,
Why do your fingers try
To kill the little love?
Soon it would die.

—Marion Strobel.

HUMOR OF THE DAY

Author—Can I sell you a scenario?

Movie Producer—G'wan, we've had a scenario for years.—Brooklyn Eagle.

Andy—What would you say if I asked you to marry me?

"Am I the first man you have ever kissed?"

"Of course! Why do all men ask the same question?"—Exchange.

Teacher—About what time does the sun set in winter?

Small Boy—When our hens go to roost.—Wheaton News.

In a certain club they own an abnormally slow card player. His partner once observed, "Excuse me but is this Auction Bridge or Suspension Bridge?"—Montreal Star.

Edith—And so you've promised to be his for life.

Madge—What an old-fashioned way of putting it. Certainly not! I'm only going to marry the man.—Boston Transcript.

Mrs. Isaacs—Oy, our little Jakie is all the time taking things to pieces and breaking them up—he's so destructive.

Mr. Isaacs—Don't worry about him, Rachel, he shows great promise. Some day he may be an automobile mechanic.—The Pathfinder.

Mary had been given threepence to buy lollies, and she bought some that Willie did not like. So he said to his mother, "Mother, is it wrong to say Amsterdam?"

"No, my boy; that's a town in Holland."

"Then is it wrong to say Rotterdam?"

"No; that is another town in Holland."

"Well," said Willie, "I hope those lollies will Rotterdam teeth."—Montreal Star.

KALEIDOSCOPE

The kernel of the seed from which the giant Sequoia tree grows is less than one-quarter inch in length.

A survey of the world's resources of tin brings the reassuring news that there is sufficient tin located to meet requirements for many years ahead.

The Florida Everglades, with their mangrove forests, moss-hung oaks, orchids and gumbo-limbo trees, are the only tropical region within the continental United States.

At South Penobscot, Me., lightning struck a round ball on the steeple of a Baptist church. When the ball began burning, ten Baptist marksmen shot it off the church with rifles.

The famous libraries, Royal Riccardiana and Moreniana at Florence, Italy, have been reopened to students. They have been closed since 1921 for reasons of economy. Each contains rare old manuscripts.

What is said to have been the longest and heaviest trainload of grain in the world's history pulled into Winnipeg, Canada, not long ago. Its 131 cars, each forty feet long, with engine tender and caboose, stretched out just one mile.

A London man who makes a living playing a barrel organ in the winter and selling ice cream in the summer stated in court that his organ receipts depended somewhat on how much people would give him to move on.

Made about the year 1700, with a case that was used as a drinking cup during the revolutionary war, a watch submitted by Mrs. E. Wray was entered in an old watch contest at Memphis, Tenn. The watch was brought to America by Jacob Henry Freeling from Germany and was handed down to its present owners.

A white Wyandotte hen, one of a flock owned by Otis Chase of East Killingly, Conn., was dug up alive and feebly kicking after a siesta of eight months, being buried under several tons of hay stored in a barn. The assumption is that she subsisted on hayseed during the period she was under the hay, but where she obtained her drinking water, if any, is a matter of conjecture.

Fired fifty feet away, a 30-30 rifle bullet cut through steel. But at seventy-five feet it sent P. C. Peterson, of Seattle, Wash., a noted hunter, to the hospital. He escaped being fatally hurt by inches, the bullet bouncing back and lodging in his cheek. Peterson was using his rifle to drill holes in a steel brace for a house he was building. Successful at the short distance, he decided to test his accuracy at the longer range.

CARON'S SPECIALTY SHOP NEAR TWENTY YEAR MARK

Caron's Specialty Shop, located at 130 Main street, is one of the most up-to-date stores in the Norwich area catering exclusively to "Women's Wear." With its establishment finely appointed in fixtures, dressing room facilities, etc., the Caron Specialty Shop offers women an atmosphere of refinement in which to select the garments of their choice and under conditions best suited for this kind of merchandising. The background of the service rendered by the Caron Specialty Shop covers a period of nineteen years. These years of experience play a large part in the ability of this shop to bring to its customers the latest in the fashion of coats, suits, dresses, lingerie and hosiery.

Incorporated in 1911 under the name of the "Ladies' Specialty Co." by Pierre St. Onge, Mrs. S. Sabourin and J. B. Caron, at 248 Main street, the firm continued until 1916, at which time J. B. Caron, present owner and manager, bought the majority of the stock of the company and moved the business to 240 Main street in the Plaut-Cadden block. In conjunction with this change of location, the firm name was changed to its present name, "Caron's Specialty Shop."

With success following every effort and change to increase the facilities of the store as a shop catering to the apparel of the women Mr. Caron found his establishment becoming too small to handle the volume of business. In order that personal service and special attention to the requirements of his customers could be given in greater measure than ever, Mr. Caron bought the building at 130 Main street in which his present store is located.

In the fall of 1929, Caron's Specialty Shop was ready for its opening. With the swinging of the doors on this occasion, also came the birth of one of the finest shops in eastern Connecticut catering entirely to "Women's Wear" in style, variety and at prices of true value. In addition to his store service, Mr. Caron gives his trade "a guarantee of satisfaction or their money back," and in addition to inviting his friends and customers to watch for the WTIC specials, Mr. Caron thanks them for their patronage.

LEE & OSGOOD CO. ARE NEARING CENTURY MARK

The Lee & Osgood company was founded in 1842 by Charles Lee and his nephew, Hugh H. Osgood, and has been a going concern under the same name and at the same location ever since.

It had its start in a small frame building which was replaced by the present five-story modern building in 1901.

They have catered to the wants of the trade in eastern Connecticut and southern Massachusetts for eighty-eight years and are without doubt one of the oldest and best known organizations in this section of the country.

Many changes in merchandising have taken place in that space of time, and many items have disappeared from their lists entirely. One of their largest items of merchandise in the sixties was "kerosene oil," which was commonly sold in carload lots.

The development of the automobile brought denatured alcohol to the front as an anti-freeze mixture and instead of a purchase of three or four barrels in a season they now handle it in carload quantities.

Moving along with the times and taking advantage of knowledge gained by the farmers in agricultural schools and colleges and from their county organizations, they have developed a larger and ever increasing business in insecticides. To insure good crops in the orchards and on the farms it has been found necessary to give seasonal treatments and with the knowledge at their command they have built their stocks to meet this demand and are ready to serve all patrons from the one with a home garden needing a pound or two, to the one requiring it in ton lots.

The retail department caters largely to a drug and prescription business and they have on file nearly 600,000 original prescriptions. The prescriptions are compounded by registered pharmacists who are graduates of recognized colleges of pharmacy, and are double checked before putting out to the patrons. This insures the patient getting just what the doctor orders, and in the correct amount.

In connection with their retail department is a department for trusses, elastic hosiery and abdominal supporters, in charge of experienced operators, and here the same guarantee of satisfaction applies, as elsewhere in the store.

MANSFIELD CENTER

Seven of the grammar schools of Mansfield united in an entertainment at the church Thursday evening for the benefit of the town library, from which they are supplied with books. An audience that filled the church was pleased with the excellent program arranged by the teachers and children. The opening number was a play, Misused Books, given by the Chestnut Hill school. Wormwood Hill gave dramatizations from books recently read, including Hamlet, Hansel and Gretel, Cinderella and Merchant of Venice, which were especially well done. Mansfield Hollow's program was a group of songs by the school chorus. Gurleyville gave a scene from Victor Hugo; Mansfield Four Corners a dramatization of scenes from several books, including Dr. Grenfell; Storrs, a play from actual life in two scenes, representing the arrival of a box of books from the library. Spring Hill girls gave spring songs and the boys a scene from Oliver Twist. The sale of tickets amounted to more than $50.

An all-day class in home nursing will be conducted by Miss Lisbeth Macdonald today (Thursday) at the home of Mrs. R. E. Stearns.

The Ladies' Aid society and Church guild will have a quilting at the church next week.

At the C. E. service Sunday evening, Mrs. Clarence Bosworth by request gave a talk on the life and work of F. Huntington Smith.

RENEWED FLURRIES OF SELLING IN MARKET FAILED TO OBSTRUCT RALLY

NEW YORK, April 30—(AP)—The stock market was called upon to absorb renewed flurries of selling today, but managed to carry yesterday's late rally substantially farther, despite rather unsettling news developments. The volume of trading declined sharply, aggregate sales of 4,553,360 shares falling approximately 900,000 short of yesterday's.

Announcement of the long-rumored reduction of the Studebaker annual dividend rate, which was reduced from $5 to $4, reports of cuts in prices of pig iron and steel, a sharp break in the London copper market, and a substantial falling off of the movement of revenue freight as reported for the weekend ended April 19, were unpleasant potions which the market had to swallow. Iron Age reported that steel operations are averaging at 78 per cent of capacity, as reduced from 80 per cent last week.

The market was confusingly irregular during most of the day. It opened with a burst of strength, as several leading issues were taken in blocks of 5,000 to 15,000 shares. The market soon turned ownward, however, and fluctuated uncertainly until the last hour, when shorts were driven to cover, as they were just before the close yesterday. Speculators for the rise were encouraged by a diminishing volume of trading during the decline.

Coppers and rails were again conspicuously heavy, several recording new lows for the year or longer, but these issues rallied with the rest of the list in the last hour. Steels were also under pressure until the late upturn. Amusements, tobaccos, oils, utilities and high-priced specialties were strong features. The price index of 90 leading shares showed a net gain for the day of about 1 1-8 points.

Speculative sentiment remained highly mixed. Several commission houses advised in-and-out traders to take profits of advances in expectation of further irregularity, but confidence in the longer term prospects remained unshaken. Wall street understands that there has been good investment buying on declines.

U. S. Steel was a feature of the day, selling off about 4 points to 180 1-4, a new low for the movement, but rallying to close at 184. The American Tobacco issues sold up 8 points each to new high record levels, and retained most of their gains. Diamond Match jumped 12 points, and Jewel Tea more than 10. Eastman Kodak and Allied Chemical mounted about 7 and 8 points, then lost about half their gains. Underwood-Elliott, Consolidated Gas, International Telephone, Drug, Ind., and American Power and Light were well bought. In the amusements, Loews rose about 2 points to a new high. Paramount Publix, formerly Paramount Famous Players, Warner Bros., and Radio made similar gains, while Radio Keith rebounded more than 4 points.

Almost all of the coppers sagged to new lows for the year or longer. A conspicuous weak spot in the rails was Southern Railway, which declined 4 points to 105, a low record for more than a year, and failed to rally. Studebaker lost more than 2 points, going below the bottom reached in the autumn crash, and Goodrich sagged close to its low of last November. Kroger Grocery dropped 4 points to a new low, then rallied 3. J. M. Hancock, a director, said he knew of nothing in the company's affairs to justify the decline, adding that he fully shared the confidence in the company of the new management, and "I believe it is only a matter of time until improvements in operations and earnings will be evident."

Credit conditions remained stationary, call money holding at 4 per cent. Foreign exchanges were fairly steady, although sterling cables sagged 1-16 to $4.86 3-16.

Commodity markets were irregular. Wheat futures closed 5-8 to 1 3-8 cents a bushel lower, reflecting bearish weather reports, and corn sagged slightly. Cotton rallied briskly for a time, but lost some of the gains in late realizing, closing 25 cents to $1.05 a bale higher.

International Paper company, subsidiary of International Paper & Power company, has started construction of a Kraft paper mill at Panama City, Fla. The mill will have an initial daily capacity of 200 tons.

Dr. W. Randolph Burgess, assistant federal reserve agent of the New York Federal Reserve bank, has been elected deputy governor of the bank to succeed J. Herbert Glass, recently made federal reserve agent and chairman of the board.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, April 30—(AP)—The curb market alternately blew hot and cold today but closed with a brisk rally under the leadership of the public utility and oil shares. Trading was only moderately heavy in volume, the day's sales running just above 1,000,000 shares. Unfavorable steel and copper trade news cast a damper on bullish enthusiasm, but strong support developed whenever "bear" attacks threatened to unsettle the market.

American Superpower was again turned over in large volume, closing a point higher at 38 after having crossed 39 to within a fraction of the year's peak. Electric Bond and Share closed 2 1-4 points higher at 114 1-4, but Niagara Hudson was rather lethargic, showing only a fractional gain. Nevada California Electric soared 11 1-2 points to a new high at 139, closing at the top.

Announcement of higher gasoline prices in eastern territory coupled with recurrent reports of an early advance in crude prices stimulated the demand for the oil shares. Gulf closed 166 to within a fraction of the year's high for a gain of nearly 6 points and Vacuum sold above 97 for the first time this year.

Columbia Pictures issues reached new high ground on reports of the completion of an important deal with Radio-Keith-Orpheum. Loews warrants and debenture rights also reached new high ground in response to optimistic earnings estimates. Among the specialties to sell at their best levels of the year were Hires Co., Hygrade Food Products, and Stein Cosmetics.

Aluminum Limited broke 15 points and Safeway Stores second warrants 10 on a few odd lot sales. Sidney Blumenthal was another soft spot.

Investment trust and holding company shares received better support, but the gains were small.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, April 30—(AP)—Prospective big deliveries on May contracts tomorrow acted as a bugbear to the wheat trade today, and lower prices formed the rule. Quotations on May wheat here outdid the bottommost record heretofore touched this season. The outlook was that first-of-the-month deliveries of wheat in Chicago would total fully 5,000,000 bu. and there were indications of liberal-sized deliveries also at Minneapolis and Kansas City. But the bulk of the grain thus disposed of at the three markets named was expected to be taken over by government sponsored agents.

Closing quotations on wheat were nervous, 1-2-1 5-8c a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed irregular, 1-8c off to 3-8c up, oats 1-4-3-4c down, and provisions unchanged to a setback of 5c.

Lowest prices of the day in wheat were reached during the late dealings and came after something of a rally had been stimulated by estimates of new export business business from North America totaling 1,000,000 bu. however, pressure of liquidating sales on the part of owners of May delivery contract swho were unwilling to accept tender of actual wheat tomorrow proved to be more than the market could stand up under. This was especially the case before of fresh rainfalls southwest and of lower quotations at Liverpool than had been looked for.

Right from the outset, bears had the advantage in wheat except for brief intervals, the weekly official crop summary from Washington confirming that there had been a general break-up of the severe drought which has prevailed of late in large sections of domestic winter wheat territory. Favorable weather and crop reports were also received from European countries, although it was shown that spring wheat acreage in France is smaller than a year ago. Meanwhile, friends of higher prices were unable to make much headway with buying based on reports that 19 out of 49 points in Saskatchewan province, Canada, have practically no reserve moisture, that Germany despite a high import duty of 97c a bushel will be obliged to import good-sized quantities of wheat from May to July, and that domestic millers northwest are doing the largest flour business in a long while.

Corn and oats were responsive to wheat weakness, but country offerings wheat weaknsys, but country offerings of corn were small, and reports indicated that warmer weather is needed over the corn belt to permit germination of the crop.

Provision sympathized with downturns in the value of hogs.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—May .99 1-2, 1.04 1-2; July 1.03 7-8-1.03, 1.06 3-8-1-2; Sept. 1.06 5-8-3-4, 1.09 3-4-1.10; Dec. 1.11 1-4-3-8, 1.14 1-2. Corn—May .79, .81 1-2; July .81 3-4-7-8; .83 3-4-7-8; Sept. .83 1-2, .85 3-8; Dec. .77 5-8, 78 7-8.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, April 30—(AP)—The bond market closed the fourth month of the year today with another encouraging display of firmness. Sales for the session fell below yesterday's but, it was significant that the convertibles' contribution to the total was only moderate an dthat a large proportion of the buying was in the rails and a few high grade utilities.

The additions to the investment portfolios of banks during the past month is seen as a most important development. Furthermore, the market recently has shown a better resistance to new offerings which so far this year have made an enormous increase over the bond financing in 1929. New issues in April declined somewhat less than $100,000,000 from the $650,000,000 March aggregate.

The firmer railroad liens were mostly in the higher grade ratings. They included Central Pacific 5s, Illinois Central 4 3-4s, Delaware & Hudson 4s, Louisville & Nashville 4s, Nickel Plate "C" 4 1-2s, Pennsylvania 6 1-2s, Pere Marquette "C" 4 1-2s, Union Pacific first 4s and St. Louis San Francisco 4 1-2s. Gains ran from 1-4 to 3-4. Southern Railway general 6 1-2s and 6s and Wabash "B" 5s netted a point higher. The recent issue of Erie 5s struck a soft spot and dropped a full point of considerable selling.

American Telephone 5s of 1965 were active and firm, unchanged on the day after an early rise of 1-4. Columbia Gas & Electric 5s, May maturity, Consolidated Gas of New York 5 1-2s, Laclede Gas 5 1-2s, North American Edison 5s and Western Union 5s improved fractionally. Industrials were quiet, with small net gains in National Dairy 5 1-4s, Goodyear 5s and International Match 5s. A few oils were fairly well bought.

The recent dullness in United States governments persisted. The only issue showing any life was the Fourth Liberty, which closed unchanged.

The trend in the foreign list irregular, Argentine 6s, Chile 6s, Berlin City 6 1-2s, German epublic 7s, British 5 1-2s and Rio De Janeiro 6 1-2s were among the firmer bonds. Brazilians eased.

Completion of the Fox Film corporation's refinancing plan is scheduled for tomorrow with the offering of the $55,000,000 issue of 6 per cent one year gold notes, the proceeds of which are to be used for the payment of maturing obligations. They will be sold at par.

"HEAVY DUTY"

tells you what it is—
but not how fine it looks!

When Goodyear puts the words "Heavy Duty" on the side-wall of a tire, everybody knows those words mean extra strength, extra service, extra wear.

But in its new Heavy Duty balloon, Goodyear now puts something more—an outward beauty quite as superior as its inner excellence.

This great new tire is ruggedly handsome, massively proportioned, and around either side-wall below its extra-thick and extra-safe All-Weather Tread runs a single identifying stripe of silver.

A striking feature is the way in which the outer rows of All-Weather blocks are prismed down into the side-walls, as fresh and unhackneyed a modeling as distinguishes modern sculpture.

Goodyear builds this new Heavy Duty balloon tire for those who want to drive fast and far without worry, and are willing to pay a little extra for that privilege.

If you want to dress up your car and soothe down your anxieties, go see the nearest Goodyear Dealer, and have him change over your tires to new Goodyear Heavy Duty balloons today!

Goodyear can give you greater tire values because Goodyear builds more than

of all the tires sold in America, the remainder being divided among some forty manufacturers. "More people ride on Goodyear Tires than on any other kind."

INSURANCE

All Good Automobile Insurance Is Not the Same—

If you have that idea, it's costing you money.

1. Complete protection.

2. Prompt, capable service when needed, not only at home but anywhere in this country and Canada;

3. A share in the welfare of their company—a return of whatever part of their premium is warranted at the end of the year.

If you are not getting these things, you owe it to yourself to find out more about automobile insurance written in the American Motorist's Insurance Company.

American motorist's policyholders have always received a substantial dividend saving on each year's automobile insurance premium. Phone Norwich, 3636 NOW and secure further details.

TWO FIRES ON FISHERS ISLAND PIER NEW LONDON, DISCOVERED IN TIME

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, April 30—Two fires occurred this afternoon at the pier of the Fishers Island Navigation company, but in neither instance was the damage of consequence. The first fire was discovered on the south side of the dock and was between planking, evidently having been caused by a lighted cigarette butt being dropped into the crevice by some careless smoker. The blaze was discovered by the agent of the company and extinguished with buckets of water. Shortly after 6 o'clock an employe of the New England Steamship company detected smoke issuing from beneath the pier, close to where the first fire was located. A still alarm was sent to fire headquarters and Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds and Nameaug Engine company responded, extinguishing the fire with chemicals. In order to do this the firemen were forced to crawl beneath the pier.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

How Fast Can You Stop?

"Unequalized brakes cause abnormal tire wear and make safe driving impossible," states Mr. Goldberg of the Goldberg Rubber Tire company, the Firestone dealer.

"You may drive safely for years—never have even a minor accident but suddenly you meet an emergency. You may be driving along perfectly at ease with muscles relaxed then comes a shudder of agony. You come face to face with your emergency and you do not have time to wonder if your brakes will hold.

"Streaks of black are common on hard highways. These streaks are evidence of improperly adjusted brakes. Someone is driving along, suddenly he puts on the brakes and one or two wheels lock, grinding off good tread rubber.

"The testing of brakes is not a simple job. Automobile manufacturers have equipment which does it accurately. Satisfactory equipment, however, is costly and requires considerable space to install it. For these reasons many service stations do not have it.

"The Cowdrey Dynamic brake tester is the only scientific machine that enables proper testing and equalization of brakes. The car is driven on the tester, the wheels of the car, with brakes set, are turned by electric motors and every inequality of drum, brake lining or brake adjustment is immediately indicated to the operator."

Mr. Goldberg went on to say that faulty brake adjustment is no longer excusable. He is installing a Cowdrey brake tester and all brake tests are free. Adjustments and relining are handled at reasonable rates.

Broadway Theatre

There are mystery plays, comedy, dramas, romances, and an infinite variety of plots and themes, but when they are all rolled into one, with a star like Richard Dix heading the cast, such an event deserves special mention. Earl Der Biggers wrote the story of an author who wagered he could write a complete novel in twenty-four hours, and who to ensure the solitude necessary for concentrating on the plot, borrowed the "only key" to a deserted inn on the top of Baldpate mountain and with his trusty typewriter prepared to spend the night in writing. Arriving in the teeth of a howling storm, he met one thrill after another as he encountered the strange denizens of the inn, who had found access, and who were involved in an amazing plot of murder, robbery and mystery. The unlucky author found, not solitude, but wild adventure, which although nearly costing his life, was the inspiration for his biggest story. "Seven Keys to Baldpate," made famous on the stage by George M. Cohan, furnishes an ideal role for the husky and smiling Dix, who has the support of an excellent cast. Co-featured on the same bill today and tomorrow, the most famous quartet of funmakers on the screen are re-united, when George Sidney and Charles Murray, with their scrappy screen spouses, Vera Gordon and Katie Price, invade Scotland, with the avowed purpose of "taking money from the Scotch!" It's a wild succession of laughs as that Irish-Hebrew quartet strive with the Scotch national game, and the terrible Scotch accent, to say nothing of suffering the agonies of bagpipe serenades, and the delights of bargaining with the canny Highlanders over the purchase of a shipment of wool plaids.

A sure cure for spring fever or the well-known blues, is this double feature program which runs only through today and tomorrow. Fox movietone news adds spice to the bill, and there is of course, the Broadway's "Summer Girl contest," with a complete summer outfit to be awarded some young lady patron in time for Memorial Day.

Breed Theatre

Many of Hollywood's most famous stars participated without knowing it in the making of "Let's Go Places," the Fox Movietone musical extravaganza, which opens today at the Breed theatre.

The picture's action is largely laid in the screen capital itself, and as a Hollywood premiere is part of the story, Director Frank Strayer decided to take advantage of a real premiere at [illegible] Warner Brothers theatre [illegible] which was fired during the filming of the production.

Joseph Wagstaff and Lola Lane are co-featured with Frank Richardson, Dixie Lee, Sharon Lynn, Walter Catlett, Charles Judels and Ilka Chase in this merry and melodious production. William K. Wells wrote the story and dialog and the catchy musical numbers are the best efforts of four different groups of song-writers, Conrad, Mitchell and Cottler, Hanley and Brockman, Little and Burke, and McCarthy and Monaco.

Tom Mix in 'Rough Riding Romance' is the added feature on the bill for today, Friday and Saturday.

Palace Theatre.

"Notorious Affair," a drama of life and love starring Billie Dove and Basil Rathbone and "The Second Floor Mystery" with Loretta Young and Grant Withers are the two productions which comprise the double-feature bill now playing at the Palace theatre.

"Notorious Affair" tells the story of a young English girl who is engaged to a man of her own social standing. She meets a violinist who charms her completely and she marries him. She helps him to rise to great heights and soon he becomes the idol of the musical world. But he has the temperament of the genius and cannot be true to one woman and she finds that she must struggle to protect him from degrading influences.

Basil Rathbone is Paul Gherardi, the musician, Billie Dove is cast as his faithful and loving wife and the triangle is completed by Kay Francis who plays the part of the "other woman." Among the other stars in the cast are Kenneth Thompson and Montague Love.

"The Second Floor Mystery" is a thrilling tale of the adventures of an American girl in London. She answers an innocent-looking insertion in the "Agony Column" of the London Times in which a man asks to make the acquaintance of a lady who prefers grape fruit to strawberries. There are many unusual and exciting developments arising from this prank and the audience is afforded a score of thrills and chills before the culmination of the plot.

"Notorious Affair" and "The Second Floor Mystery" will be shown at the Palace for the last times Friday. This program is part of Spring Festival which began April 20 and which will continue through June 6 in all Warner Brothers theatres. On Saturday the Palace will present Al Jolson in his latest and [illegible] picture, "Mammy." [illegible] in a minstrel. The [illegible] written by Irving Berlin and [illegible] supported by a fine cast [illegible] will be shown at the Palace [illegible] Tuesday of next week.

With the president, Miss Helen [illegible] presiding, a meeting of the members of St. Veronica's society was held Wednesday evening at their rooms on Providence street.

Letters advertised at the local postoffice this week are for Arselle M. [illegible], Boleslaw Podbielak, [illegible] and Mrs. Joseph Gullen.

Several of the village baseball teams are getting in their twilight practice on the Providence street grounds each evening after work. Efforts are being made to form a league, and the idea has the backing of many of those interested in amateur sports in the village.

Local farmers fear that the heavy frost of the past few mornings has ruined the peach buds, although the apple trees appear to have come through well.

Allen Jewett of Norwich is spending this week with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Adams, and family, of North Third avenue.

V. F. W., IN NEW YORK TO PROTEST REDS' PARADE

Members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the U. S., of New York city, will take an active part today (Thursday) in the patriotic demonstration, which is to be held at Union Square, N. They went to the board of relief asking for a reduction which was denied and now appeal to the court for a reduction.

In part her letter says: "The announcer says that Norwich is called the "Rose of New England" because its shape suggests a rose. On grounds of cruelty, Mrs. Beatrice (Emond) Frenette of this city, has filed suit in the superior court for divorce from Anthony J. Frenette, now of parts unknown. They were married Aug. 11, 1924, and cruelty is alleged since June 1, 1926. Mrs. Frenette asks the custody of two children.

Mrs. Frenette was one of six persons who were riding in an automobile driven by John Kehoe when it overturned on the Military highway April 1st. Mrs. Rose Lavallee Riley, another passenger, was killed in the accident.

Over Forest Assessment

Lavinia P. Walsh of Lebanon is the petitioner in an appeal brought to have 76 acres of her land stricken from the assessors' list in Lebanon, where the assessors placed it at a valuation of $1,788.

The petitioner alleges that she is the owner of two tracts of land in Lebanon amounting to 76 acres which have been certified by the state forester under date of Aug. 29, 1929, as of such character that it would be advantageous to the community and to the owner thereof to permit its tree growth thereon to remain standing until it shall become suitable to be cut for timber in accordance with chapter 179 public acts of 1929.

She alleges that she gave in a list of her taxable property, including thereon "76 acres waste land certified." The assessors, contrary to chapter 179, set the property in the list for $1,788, and this, the plaintiff alleges, is the cause of her being aggrieved.

RESERVES DECISION IN WOODBURY PROPERTY SUIT

Decision was reserved by Judge Allyn L. Brown when arguments in the suit of Charlotte E. Woodbury and others against Thornton Woodbury and others were completed in the superior court at New London Wednesday morning.

The suit is a result of complications which arose when the city of New London refused to accept a large tract of land with buildings thereon in Ocean avenue for a park as provided for in the will of the late Mrs. Helen McGaw Smith. Mrs. Smith left the property to her nephew, Thornton Woodbury, with the condition that it was to go to the city for a park on his death.

Woodbury lived on the property for five years and then went to France. Beginning in 1920 he discontinued paying taxes. Since then the taxes amount to about $19,000.

With the refusal of the city to accept have accumulated until they now the property under the terms provided in the will other relatives of Mrs. Smith become heirs automatically on the death of Mr. Woodbury but with the danger of the property being sold to satisfy the tax claims of the city these respective heirs have stepped in to protect whatever rights they have in the property and brought suit to have the property sold and the proceeds distributed among the legal heirs.

The other heirs of Mrs. Smith are the late Gordon Woodbury, Helen P. W. Seamans of Santa Barbara, Cal., Charlotte E. Woodbury, Gordon Woodbury Dunn, Peter Woodbury and George Woodbury, all of Bedford, N. H.

Trial of the case was started Tuesday when Peter Woodbury of Bedford, the only witness, testified to the relationships of the plaintiffs. Due to the fact that Attorney Henry L. McGuire was representing a client in the supreme court of errors in this city Tuesday, the case was continued until yesterday.

The city of New London, Tax Collector J. H. Manwaring and former Tax Collector Hibbard N. Alexander were named party defendants in the action and they were represented by Director of Law Troland.

PAYS $5 FOR DRIVING WRONG WAY ON STREET

It cost William Nawrocki $5 to drive his team of horses the wrong way over Church street, a one-way street, for he was assessed that amount in the city court Wednesday morning. Last Saturday he was summoned to appear in court on the charge of violation of the traffic rules. He failed to show up Monday morning and the police were ordered to take him into custody.

Under the impression that Nawrocki was driving an automobile at the time of his arrest, Prosecuting Attorney Charles W. Cassidy asked him if he had a driver's license. Nawrocki, in reply, asked if it was necessary to have a license to drive a pair of horses. Nawrocki, explaining his non-appearance Monday morning, said his wife had advised him not to appear in court.

As secretary of the board of temperance, prohibition and public morals of the Methodist Episcopal church, Dr. Wilson has appeared in debate on the subject of prohibition meeting in splendid fashion many clever and confident "wets," among this number being Clarence Darrow. In reporting the Wilson-Darrow debate held in Wilmington, Del., the Evening Journal writes: "Dr. Wilson is undoubtedly a most oratorical defender of prohibition, and is just as prominent in his way as Darrow is in an entirely different way. He has the reputation of one who wins the sympathies of his audience."

To quote B. Lee Paget, secretary of the Portland Trust Co. of Oregon: "There is absolutely no question about the character or the energy of Clarence True Wilson. He is engaged in a series of debates on the prohibition question which is attracting wide interest and the Portland debate two weeks ago brought out an audience of 4,000 people. He is undoubtedly the largest individual factor in our state campaign now being waged in Oregon."

VACUUM CLEANER BAG BURST AT SACRED HEART CHURCH, TAFTVILLE

Several persons had a narrow escape from serious injury about 11:45 o'clock Wednesday morning when the huge balloon-shaped bag attached to the Holland Furnace company's vacuum cleaner burst on Hunter's avenue in front of Sacred Heart church, Taftville. The vacuum cleaner was being used to clean the furnace system in the church when the bag suddenly burst, the air pressure throwing small pieces of brick and other obstacles across the street and into the front of the Atlantic and Pacific store, Peter N. Lessard manager.

A large plate glass window was smashed, the cement door step chipped and a glass in the ice box at the rear of the store was broken by the bombardment. MAY DAY COMPARATIVELY TAME THROUGHOUT WORLD

In New York Communists Yelled Themselves Hoarse, But Were Kept Under Subjection — There Were Peaceful Demonstrations In London—In Ireland There Were No Disturbances—Minor Conflicts Were Reported In Germany, Poland and Greece—Paris Forestalled Threats of Trouble By Arresting 687 Frenchmen and 94 Foreigners —17 Communists Were Arrested In Connecticut.

NEW YORK, May 1—(AP)—Red in the face from the heat, and with red sashes around their waists and red banners in their hands, an estimated 25,000 communists crowded into the plaza north of Union square today and shouted defiance at the press, the police and the bosses.

They took the place in the square of the Veterans of Foreign Wars who, an hour before, had shouted defiance at soviet Russia, the Third Internationale and the local communists. There were approximately 3,500 veterans in the first parade and the speeches of their leaders were heard by a crowd which at times reached an estimated 15,000.

From a flag-draped speakers stand where three broadcasting companies had their microphones ready, the main address to the veterans was made by Hamilton Fish, Jr., a New York representative in congress, who said communists who did not care to abide by the laws and conditions in this country should return to Russia.

Other speakers also assailed the communists, one suggesting that when the communists reached the square they should be herded in one end and all those not able to show citizenship papers put aboard the first boat for Russia.

Shortly before 2 o'clock their program was finished and they left the square in an orderly manner, while police cleared adjacent streets.

At 2 p. m. the sound of the "Internationale" came rolling up Seventeenth street past Tammany hall as the first of the communist marchers hove into sight.

First came motorcycle police and a squad of uniformed men on foot, then 1,000 or more children ranging from youngsters barely able to walk along under the hot sun to children in their teens.

They wore red socks, some had red sashes, nearly all carried placards and they yelled their little throats hoarse under the exhortation of older men who ran up and down the lines.

The stands the veterans used, the microphones, the loud speakers, all had been removed.

Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen, who had set up headquarters in a small wooden field house in the park, described it as the greatest outpouring of communists in the city's history and the biggest crowd ever to gather in the square.

Cheer leaders mounted the stands and exhorted the crowd to boo the police and cheer the Third Internationale.

"Foster, we want Foster," the crowd repeated over and over.

William Z. Foster, their leader, was on Welfare Island watching a baseball game and serving out a two year term as a result of the "Red Thursday" riots in the same square.

Police estimated the crowd which heard the communists at 50,000 to 75,000.

Among the signs carried by the marchers was a large one of Mr. Whalen, wide smile and all, with the caption "Bargain: Sale cheap" and one of a long, yellow dragon, breathing fire. Across its side was written "Press" with the "S S" made into dollar marks.

17 COMMUNISTS WERE ARRESTED IN CONNECTICUT

(By the Associated Press)

Seventeen communists were arrested in Connecticut yesterday in connection with May day demonstrations.

Thirteen, including one woman, were taken into custody in Stamford when they attempted to speak in defiance of Mayor W. W. Graves' order. They were held for a hearing.

Police arrested four persons, one a girl of 16, in New Britain while a crowd of 2,000 looked on. They were stopped as soon as they mounted a soap box to speak. One was arrested while speaking from a hotel window.

Waterbury and New Haven also witnessed demonstrations, but they were quiet and orderly. No arrests were made by police who had issued permits.

Two Stamford police officers were slightly injured. Lieut. Martin Ryan's hand was cut when a communist broke a glass window in a revolving door in the town hall, and Detective Sergeant Lester Hay's hand was bitten while arresting another.

A squad of police were on hand for the Waterbury May day observance, but found little to do. The speakers addressed several hundred for two hours and a half. Those who spoke on the Green in New Haven were mostly children.

A crowd of about 2,000 collected to hear three speakers at a demonstration in Norwalk. Although police had anticipated trouble and were prepared for any emergency, the demonstration was quiet and no arrests resulted.

POLICEMEN DISBANDED COMMUNISTS IN OAKLAND

OAKLAND, Cal., May 1—(AP)—Thirty Oakland policemen personally directed by Chief of Police James T. Drew, charged more than 50 men and women attempting to parade under communist banners here today and dispersed them. One unidentified parader, apparently injured, was carried away in a patrol wagon.

FIERY SPEECH BY MOTHER JONES ON 100TH BIRTHDAY

SILVER SPRINGS, Md., May 1—(AP)—Sitting under an apple tree surrounded by friends of labor who had come to celebrate her 100th birthday, Mother Jones made as fiery a speech today as she did 30 years ago, when exhorting miners to strike. Her cheeks were pink with excitement as labor leaders carried the frail little old lady dressed in her best black silk to the front yard of the Walter Burgess country home.

Her iron will has pulled her through weeks spent in bed that she might live to see this day. Scores of telegrams received from unions all over the country, masses of flowers and a huge birthday cake bearing 100 candles keyed her up for the ordeal of being the center of an admiring throng all day long.

Out on the lawn she faced the cameras took a deep breah and a drink of water and launched into an impromptu speech which brought loud applause and sent the nearby circling crews wheeling back to the woods.

ONLY MINOR DISTURBANCES DURING MAY DAY IN EUROPE

LONDON, May 1—(AP)— May day throughout England and Ireland proved to be about as innocuous as a workers' holiday, while from the remainder of Europe the incidents reported were chiefly minor in character.

Hunger marchers from various parts of England converged on London, where they held peaceable demonstrations in Hyde Park and demanded interviews with the prime minister or some other cabinet member on plans to alleviate unemployment.

There were numerous communists in the crowds, openly wearing red rosettes and carrying red banners along the embankment. Some youths reported to be fascists attempted to start trouble with the demonstrators in Hyde Park, but the police quickly chased them out and averted a clash.

Workers celebrated peacefully in Belgium except for a scuffle near Liege, where police halted a procession that was moving to a jail with the intention of freeing a fellow communist.

There were no disturbances in Ireland. Demonstrators paraded in Dublin and carried banners of protest, one of which was inscribed "Revolt or Starve."

Warsaw was quiet, but police clashed with communists and socialists at Bendzin, in the Dombrowa mine district.

Moscow, the fountain head of communism, made a happy holiday of it. Enthusiastic reds paraded, the streets were decorated with red flags and red lights, numerous communistic lectures were made, theatrical troupes performed on special open air stages, and all amusement places admitted workers free.

Forty-six airplanes and nine armored motor cars, built in soviet factories by money which the workers had contributed to the "defense fund," were presented to the red army in Moscow, Leningrad, Rostov, Smolensky, Bryansky and Vitebsk by the volunteer society for chemical and air defense and by trade union organizations.

All work ceased in Madrid but there were few attempts at demonstrations.

Paris forestalled threats of trouble by arresting 687 Frenchmen and 94 foreigners. The only trouble reported was in the communistic suburb of St. Denis, where the communist deputy, Doriot and the entire municipal council were arrested after an encounter with the gendarmes. Other French cities experienced no trouble.

In Berlin some 50,000 communists marched to the Lustgarten, where they adopted the usual May day resolution and then marched through other communist districts. Socialist demonstrators took over the Lustgarten later. Both demonstrations were good-natured.

Police of Leipsic used blackjacks to disperse crowds which attempted to form for demonstrations, arresting six persons. Other German cities were comparatively quiet except for brawls between communists and socialists and communists and fascists.

Japanese police made some three hundred precautionary arrests during the day but more than 50,000 persons participated in empire wide demonstrations. Two policemen were wounded in a suburb of Tokyo. Thirty thousand persons paraded in Osaka and 15,000 in Tokyo.

Many other cities of Europe and Asia had some form of May day activities but no trouble of consequence was reported.

MERGER OF CHURCHES PERFECTED AT RALEIGH

RALEIGH, N. C., May 1— (AP) — Merger of the Christian and Congregational churches in the southeast was perfected here today with adoption by the southern Christian convention of a report from a joint committee on unity. The Congregational church had already approved the report.

LONDON TREATY IN HANDS OF SENATE NAVAL COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, May 1—(AP)—The London naval limitations treaty was placed in the hands of the senate today by President Hoover and hearings immediately were ordered for thorough examination of the pact.

Chairman Hale of the senate naval committee, who has looked dubiously upon the limitations agreement, asked Secretary Adams of the navy department to come before his committee in open hearing next Monday.

The treaty was formally referred to the foreign relations committee and Chairman Borah of that committee who informed Secretary Stimson yesterday of a "friendly attitude" toward the pact, also arranged for hearings.

The naval committee hearings will center on the fear expressed by Senator Hale that the London treaty would force the American navy to change its policy for heavy cruisers and accept the British navy's light cruiser program which he contends is not adapted to America's needs.

However, senate leaders expressed every determination to speed the disposition of the pact.

Senator Borah said he knew of no disposition for delay and he gave notice the pact would be taken up by the foreign relations committee at its regular meeting next Wednesday.

PROGRESS IN HOUSE ON TARIFF BILL REVISION

WASHINGTON, May 1—(AP)—Another milestone in the 16 months' legislative journey of the republican protective tariff bill was passed today with the adoption by the house, 240 to 151, of the partial conference report on the Hawley-Smoot measure carrying increased duties on hundreds of farm and manufactured commodities.

Only eight major controversies left unsettled by the senate and house conferees in adjusting the manifold differences between the two branches, faced separate votes before the report could be returned to the senate for action.

These involve the rates on sugar, cement, silver, lumber and shingles, and the administrative provisions embracing the export debenture, the modified flexible tariff clause and the tariff commission reorganization proposals.

Doran ordered that, effective June 1, all ethyl acetate owned, controlled or on the premises of manufacturers of the product or manufactured there after, should be denatured by adding one eighth of a gallon of a petroleum product known as calol ethatate to every 100 gallons of ethyl acetate.

Bootleggers had obtained ethyl acetate and, removing the acetic acid, used the alcohol to make intoxicating drinks.

FOES IN SENATE READY FOR VOTE ON PARKER

WASHINGTON, May 1—(AP)—More confident of the outcome, senate foes of Judge John J. Parker, of North Carolina, passed the word tonight they were ready for a vote on confirmation of his appointment to the supreme court.

Parker's friends in the senate likewise professed a more cheerful outlook but indicated a desire that the final roll call go over until Monday as it will do unless a vote is reached tomorrow.

The fourth day of debate found the leaders in the contest again taking part. Senator Fess, republican, Ohio, reiterating his view that the fight against Parker was one against the supreme court itself, expressed condemnation of the organized opposition.

Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, who is leading the opposition, replied he hoped "the manufactured clamor will be as effective as some things going on on the other side."

It was reported in the senate today that President Hoover was enlisting support for the nominee and that some recent white house conferences with republicans had stiffened the party's lines for the nominee.

N. Y. FEDERAL RESERVE BANK REDUCES REDISCOUNT RATE

NEW YORK, May 1—(AP)—The New York Federal Reserve bank today took another step toward assisting business by reducing its rediscount rate to 3 per cent from 3 1-2. The new rate has been equalled only once before in the bank's history. On Aug. 8, 1924, it was sent down to the same level and remained there until Feb. 27, 1925.

The reduction was the first since March 14 when the rediscount figure was cut from 4 per cent. Today's action, which followed downward revisions by the Bank of England and the Bank of France to the lowest levels in years, was interpreted as a further move in the reserve system's program of easy money.

Sheriff Vindicates Wike And Seeley

Convinced That They Had Nothing to Do With the Slaying of the Smith Brothers.

MUSKOGEE, Okla., May 1—(AP) — Sheriff Fred Hamilton of Muskogee county testified late today in the preliminary hearing of John L. Wike and P. G. Seeley, Connecticut men, on murder charges that he was convinced they had nothing to do with the slaying of George and David Smith, brothers.

WIKE AND SEELEY WERE RELEASED YESTERDAY

MUSKOGEE, Okla., May 1—(AP)—John L. Wike, 55, and Powell G. Seeley, 73, both of Connecticut, were released tonight following a preliminary hearing on charges of murder resulting from the deaths of George and David Smith, brothers, who were killed in their hotel room here last Saturday night.

They were released upon motion of Philip K. Oldham, assistant county attorney, who said he was satisfied he did not have a case against the men. Seeley was the last witness at the hearing which lasted most of the day.

The exoneration of the two came after several days of questioning by officers who sought to clear up the mysterious circumstances surrounding the slaying of the Smith brothers. Wike said the brothers were shot to death by two men in an attempt to rob them.

Wike himself was bound and gagged by the men, he testified.

With the freeing of Wike and Seeley, the double slaying tonight still was as much of a mystery as it was last Saturday night.

Wike, a retired farmer, testified the tragedy ended a trip which he, the Smith brothers and Seeley were taking to inspect land upon which loans had been made by the New Milford, Conn. Securities company, now defunct, of which George Smith was secretary. All of the men were from Connecticut.

A story of life-long friendship with the Smith brothers was related from the witness stand by Wike at the hearing before City Judge Charles Wheeler.

Wike said he and the Smith brothers were reared on neighboring farms near Sharon and that they always had been intimate friends. The Smith brothers' father, Wike testified was administrator for his father's estate, and because of that, he said, he had become accustomed to looking to the Smiths for advice in business matters. That accounted, he explained, for the investment he had made with the New Milford, Conn. Securities company.

Wike said he first met Seeley, a capitalist, the morning of their departure from Connecticut on the western trip. The Smiths had told him, the witness said, that Seeley was interested in the securities company to a greater extent than either of them.

"I had no better friends on earth than the Smiths," Wike said.

He told of having served on the Sharon board of selectmen with David Smith.

Wike said that so far as he knew the robbers took nothing except a small amount of money that was in his billfold. David Smith grappled with the armed man, Wike testified, and George Smith with the other robber. Five shots were fired during the struggle, Wike testified.

STUDENTS DISORDERLY AT UNIVERSITY OF PENN.

PHILADELPHIA, May 1—(AP)—Director Lemuel B. Schofield, of the department of public safety, who was arrested on charges of obstructing justice and resisting arrest while he was engaged in quelling disorder among University of Pennsylvania students last night, was discharged on habeas corpus proceedings today.

In dismissing him from custody, Judge Howard A. Davis in quarter sessions court delivered a severe denunciation of disorderly conduct among the university students and scored the police magistrate who had held the director in bail.

The arrest of Schofield was based in his alleged refusal to give copies of the charges lodged against students so they could be released pending hearings and his refusal to recognize a warrant of arrest.

The disorder among the university students followed the hanging of the effigies of two instructors who had been voted as unpopular. Extra policemen were summoned to the neighborhood of the campus and when it was over more than 200 students had been arrested. Director Schofield directed the work of the police. It was charged that students threw milk bottles from windows of fraternity houses, endangering lives, that false fire alarms were turned in and that property was destroyed.

WINDSOR, Ont., May 1—(AP)—Because of "unnecessary publicity," liquor exporters announced today that they had abandoned the plan of shipping liquor to the United States by airplane.

Records show that approximately 60 airplane clearances were made last month for points in the United States outside the regular mail calls.

Walter S. Petty, assistant collector of customs in Detroit, was quoted today as saying liquor-laden planes were not landing in the Detroit area but that he believed they were going to Saginaw, Mich., Chicago and even as far west as Milwaukee, where liquor prices are higher than along the border.

He also said that reports indicated fictitious license numbers were being used on the planes.

HOOVER THANKS BUSINESS LEADERS OF THE COUNTRY

For Cooperation In Stabilizing Economic Forces In the Country After the Crash of Six Months Ago—The President Is Confident That the Worst Has Passed and That With Continued Unity We Shall Rapidly Recover—Has Been Informed By Governors and Mayors That Unemployment Is Decreasing Each Month and Given Assurance of Furthur Decreases In May.

WASHINGTON, May 1—(AP)—Business leaders of the country received the thanks of President Hoover tonight for their cooperation with the government in stabilizing economic forces after the crash of six months ago.

This undertaking was termed by the chief executive as possibly one of the greatest economci experiments of the nation's history, and one that has "succeeded to a remarkable degree."

Addressing the annual gathering of the United States chamber of commerce, the president said he was convinced the worst was passed and that "with continued unity of effort we shall rapidly recover. There is one certainty in the future of a people of the resources, intelligence and character of the people of the United States—that is, prosperity."

In the success so far attained by the stabilization measures Mr. Hoover foresaw abandonment of the belief that the speculative rise and fall was a "disease which must run its course and for which nothing could be done either in prevention, or to speed recovery, or to relieve the hardship which wreaks itself especially upon workers, farmers and smaller business people."

"I do not accept," he declared, "the fatalistic view that the discovery of the means to restrain speculation is beyond the genius of the American people."

The president said that he intends—"when the situation clears a little"—to place the whole range of the nation's experiences under the boom of the past several years and the slump that followed under accurate examination to evolve ways of achieving greater stabilization in the future "both in prevention and in remedy."

"If such an exhaustive examination meets with general approval, I shall," he said, "move to organize a body—representative of business, economics, labor, and agriculture—to undertake it.

"I do believe that our experience shows that we can produce helpful and wholesome effects in our economic system by voluntary cooperation through the great associations representative of business, industry, labor and agriculture, both nationally and locally.

"And it is my view that in this field of cooperative action outside of government lies the hope of intelligent information and wise planning. The government can be helpful in emergency, it can be helpful to secure and spread information."

The president warned, however, that any such action "must adhere steadfastly to the very bones of our economic system, which are the foundations of progress."

"We are not yet entirely through the difficulties of our situation," he said. "We have need to maintain every agency and every force that we have placed in motion until we are far along on the road to stable prosperity.

"He would be a rash man who would state that we can produce the economic millennium, but there is great assurance that America is finding herself upon the road to secure social satisfaction, with the preservation of private industry, initiative and a full opportunity of the development of the individual."

Inquiring into the progress of recovery, from the slump the president said that confidence and courage have been maintained: monetary panic and credit stringency have been avoided; interest rates have decreased since the crash and capital has become steadily more abundant; investment markets have absorbed over two billion of new securities since the crash and that there has been no significant bank or industrial failure. There have been no substantial reductions in wages, he added, and no strikes or lockouts connected with the situation.

At the same time, the president said, "we are suffering from a decrease in residential construction." In spite of this, he added, however, "we have reason to believe that the total construction will still further expand and we should during 1930 witness a larger gross volume of improvement work than normal."

"The accelerated construction has naturally not been able to absorb all the unemployment brought about by the boom and crash," he said. "Unfortunately we have no adequate statistics upon the volume of the unemployment. The maximum point of depression was about the first of the year when, severe as the shock was, the unemployment was much less proportionately than in our two last major depressions."

"A telegraphic canvass of the governors and mayors who are cooperating so ably with us in organizing public works brings with one exception the unanimous response of continuously decreasing unemployment each month and the assurance of further decreases again in May."

Another important need, the president pointed out is a knowledge of employment at all times. The present census, he added will show this for the first time.

REPAIRING FIRE DAMAGE TO OHIO PENITENTIARY

COLUMBUS, O., May 1—(AP)—Successful in putting down the mutiny of 1,300 Ohio penitentiary convicts, even though it required the National guard to do it, the state of Ohio turned its attention today to the task of repairing the damage caused by the Easter Monday fire in which 320 prisoners lost their lives, and by the siege of prisoners in the idle house.

The extent of the damage in the idle house, where the rebel convicts held the forces of law and order at bay for nine days, was learned for the first time this morning when Colonel Robert S. Haubrich, in command of the prison, made an inspection with the members of his staff and newspapermen.

The inspection revealed that every one of the 800 cell locks will have to be replaced or repaired, that new windows will have to be put in and cell doors placed back on their hinges. Death Row and the quarters of Company K, an outfit of bad men, will have to be renovated. The mutineers brought ruin to both these sections as well as other parts of the idle house.

CONVENTION OF ASS'N. OF COTTON MANUFACTURERS

BOSTON, May 1—(AP)—The federal farm board was held responsible for increasing unemployment and the fickleness of women was declared to be an important factor in the successful operation of a textile mill by speakers today, at the convention of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers. Sidney Y. West, of Little Rock, Ark., told the convention that the farm board had "practically cornered the May-July positions and forced them to an unnatural premium over the new cotton crop. This has increased unemployment in the industrial sections of the country, thus decreasing the purchasing power in those districts at a time when unemployment is already great."

Allyn B. McIntyre, vice-president of the Pepperell Manufacturing Co., appealed to manufacturers to advertise and to heed the fancies of women.

"You cannot make a success of a textile mill unless you cater to the whims and fancies of fickle women," he said.

Dr. MacKenzie's retirement was accepted Tuesday at a special meeting of the trustees, who elected him as president-emeritus of the foundation.

TO INVESTIGATE $252,500 SPENT BY MRS. McCORMICK

WASHINGTON, May 1—(AP)—Investigation was determined upon today by the senate campaign funds committee of the $252,500 campaign which Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick told it she waged against Senator Deneen to gain the Illinois republican senatorial nomination.

Smiling and obliging, Mrs. McCormick left with the committee a thick volume of papers giving an itemized accounting of the $252,500 which she said the contest cost her from her own pocketbook. The committee received it and at an executive session decided to "digest it" before resuming.

However, Chairman Nye said he certainly intended to investigate "thoroughly" the quarter-million dollar campaign and he indicated the committee would go to Illinois for that study in the near future.

MEETING VOTES $10,000 FOR AUDIT OF WINDHAM'S BOOKS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 1—At a special town meeting here tonight the action taken on April 9 was rescinded and it was voted to have made a thorough examination of all town books. An appropriation of $10,000 was made for the work. D. George E. Wilcox, president of the Taxpayers Protective association, Attorney William A. Arnold and Henry A. Bugbee were again named a committee to select the certified public accountant who will do the work and with whom the selectmen will complete a contract prepared by the committee. Attorney Arnold was elected moderator over James F. Twomey, former judge of probate, by an overwhelming majority. Daniel Capotosti protested against the preparation of the contract with the accountant by a committee saying it was a task for the board of selectmen as elective officers of the town. The meeting voted to have the audit and examination, appointed a committee to select the accountant, authorized the selectmen to enter into a contract and appropriated a sum not to exceed $10,000 before voting to reconsider and rescind the action taken earlier in the month. Shortly before the close of the meeting Town Clerk Fenton arose upon the presentation of a resolution for the repeal of the action of April 9 and said it was his belief the repeal could not be taken in the manner proposed by Dr. Wilcox. It was his opinion that the individual resolution passed at that time would have to be rescinded separately. Chairman Arnold ruled against this contention. The meeting was the aftermath of a difference of opinion between the town clerk and members of the Taxpayer's Protective association over the minutes taken on April 9.

SIX ENUMERATORS HAND IN RETURNS THURSDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 1.—In connection with the 1930 census, completed returns were received from the town of East Haddam in Middlesex county, at headquarters of the third district here Thursday. The town now has a population of 2,112 against 2,312 ten years ago, a loss of an even 200. The number of farms enumerated there was 222. The records of Colchester enumerators have also been compiled, giving that town a present figure of 2,121 as compared with 2,050 in 1920, a gain of 71. There were 220 farms enumerated there. The population of the borough of Colchester shows a gain of only 21 in the past ten years, advancing from 913 to 924.

A total of 13 towns in the district out of 64 have now been completed, while 79 enumerators out of 173 have finished their work. The following handed in their final returns Thursday: Joseph P. Duda, Middletown; Arthur H. Roberts, Durham; James Cooper, Stonington; Theodore C. Nielsen, Vernon; Francis Connell, Somers; I. Nelson Platt, Pomfret, and Edward Dion, Plainfield.

Mrs. Marjorie B. Ayer of Franklin has been added to the force of examining clerks at the local office. Mrs. Ayer was enumerator for the town of Franklin and completed her work on Monday, April 21st. According to the officials at headquarters, her schedules were the most complete and accurate of any turned in here. Chief Clerk Edward L. Dennis expects that at the beginning of next week final reports in the district will come in more rapidly as most of the enumerators are nearing completion of their work.

The national observance of Egg Week commenced Thursday, to continue through May 7th, and it would be well to bear in mind that Windham county is one of the largest producing sections for eggs in New England. The Windham County Poultry, Pigeon and Small Stock association is very active in promoting better chicken breeding and consequently better egg production. The annual exhibit of this organization, which is held at the state armory in January of each year, and which is not excelled by even the Boston or Springfield shows, is proof of the fact that the poultrymen of this section are keenly alive to the promotion of the best results for this industry.

Connecticut eggs are noted here and in the surrounding states for their high quality. The egg industry of this section is the most important agricultural industry in this community. The active cooperation and assistance which the Connecticut Agricultural college renders to the poultrymen of this territory is of great benefit to the industry locally. Meetings of the poultrymen are held in the chamber of commerce offices during the winter months and at various poultry farms at other seasons of the year. These meetings are held to discuss poultry diseases and how they can be cured; the general care of keeping poultry in good condition; and other phases of the industry. Willimantic and Windham county are particularly interested in National Egg Week.

FLASHING LIGHTS WANTED FOR SOUTH WIND. CROSSING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 1.—Windham town selectmen and a few others here have received notice from the public utilities commission that the Central Vermont railway has petitioned for the approval of proposed installation and operation of automatic flashing lights for the protection of travel at the crossing in South Windham, in place of the present flagman. The notices state that a meeting will be held at the office of the commission in Hartford on Tuesday, May 6th, at 9:30 a. m., standard time. The railroad has maintained a flagman during certain hours each day at this crossing, which is just north of the railroad station. The location in question is considered a very dangerous one. Approaching from the north, trains pass between two buildings before reaching the crossing and cannot be seen by pedestrians or vehicular drivers until almost on the tracks.

NAUSEA?

MAYBE IT'S WORMS

IS it any wonder that your youngster is nauseated if he is suffering from worms, poisoned with their secretions and robbed of nourishment? Worms are much more common than most mothers think.

Look also for the following symptoms: grinding of teeth, picking the nose, crossness, crying in sleep, offensive breath, loss of appetite or weight, or general restlessness. Any one of these signs may be your warning that worms are present.

Wise mothers take no chances with these dangerous and disgusting childhood pests. Even if worms are only suspected they give the child

TOO FRIENDLY WITH GIRLS, FRANK ABREU HELD IN JAIL

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, May 1—Two Jewett City girls, one 15 and the other 16, were at a session of the Griswold town court this morning, held in chambers, before Judge John T. Barry. They appeared as witnesses against Frank Abreu, 29, an employe of the Gammino Construction Co., who was arrested at the request of Humane Officer Frederick H. Wyant of Norwich on a charge of statutory rape. Judge Barry bound Abreu over to the next criminal term of the superior court.

Not able to furnish $3,000 bonds the accused was taken to Norwich jail. This afternoon Officer Henry Vegiard took the older of the two girls who had been friendly with Abreu to the Niantic State Farm for Women.

NIMRODS TO CARRY GUN FOR BROAD BROOK FISHING

"Doc" Wallace and Jimmie Blair, bring peculiar reports following a recent day's fishing on Broad Brook. The facts as reported include the story of the stocking of this well known stream last fall, when about 8,000 fingerling trout were put in. This stocking was followed a few days later by 20 cans of miscellaneous fry, intended as food for the young trout. It is now believed that these small fishes were taken from salt water somewhere along the coast, and that some of the cans must have contained a species of flying fish. These two well known knights of the rod and gun were trying out a few of the favorable pools last week. The "Doc" says that after catching a few during the forenoon, and while eating their cold snack, sure as shooting, a peculiar sort of fish broke water, skimmed the surface a short distance, then alighted on an overhanging bush. Jimmie declares that there are either flying fish in Broad Brook, or else there is something radically wrong with his new spectacles. Be this as it may, these two noted woodsmen are going to the same pool again, equipped not only with rod and reel, but with dog and gun. Charlie Palmer, the dead-shot rifleman, with a 500-yard score of 96 out of a possible hundred, is also going along. If any flying fish alights on a twig again in sight of this formidable trio, well! he's just a goner, that's all!

The mercury run up to 86 during the afternoon Thursday, the highest temperature of the spring.

MODERN CHICK RAISING AT WILD ACRES FARM, LISBON

Fred L. Kanahan, owner of Wild Acres chicken farm, in Lisbon, took a party over to his place Wednesday to see the wonderful sight of 2,500 white leghorn chicks, just hatching out in his big incubators. The spectators were allowed to pass along in front of the trays and peer through the glass fronts and actually witness the first appearance of the little yellow downy balls, with sharp little beaks, white toes, and shining eyes. In the top trays, being subjected to the first heat, are 2,500 more eggs, that will hatch out Saturday next. Mr. Kanahan has over 3,000 hens that are laying 1,500 eggs every day, from which the choicest eggs are selected for hatching. To take the place of the older hens that are disposed of each year, there are a dozen coops, where are to be seen 2,000 of the young stock, from four to six weeks old. Thursday the new hatch was all crated, in separate lots and shipped to twenty-six different points, some as far away as 600 miles. These little newly arrived baby chicks, will go by parcel post, and be contented and happy for three days without food or water. While en route in the postal cars, the mail clerks always store them away from the steampipes and out of any possible draft from an open door.

The Wild Acres' ten big houses are all piped with running water, where the supply is automatically kept at a stated level in the pans, by a device which Mr. Kanahan himself arranged. The feed supply is also fed into the troughs by gravity, from great hopper-bottomed bins, where a ton may be placed at one time. Hundreds of dollars go every month to provide the chicken's varied bill of fare. The owner told his visitors that his high class stock is kept so by careful attention to every sanitary detail.

One fact illustrated in a striking way the "home-at-night" instinct of even a two weeks' old chick. One big coop is 40x20 feet with a board, one foot high extending through the center. Last week 400 chicks were put in on one side and 400 on the other side of this center board. All day the birds hop over this board, one way or the other, with often most of the 800 in one compartment. As son as dusk comes on, the peeping, running broods separate, and strangely as it seemed to the lookers on, every little chap hopped over the board and stayed in the side where he was first placed for the night. The next day the whole lot go visiting again.

DANIELSON

BROWN TROUT CAUGHT IN SNAKE MEADOW CLUB POND

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, May 1—A brown trout, 11 inches in length, was caught in the lower pond of the Snake Meadow club this afternoon by a Massachusetts fisherman, Patrolman Gurdon E. Withey reported. This is the first brown trout ever taken from this pond or from anywhere along Snake Meadow brook, insofar as anyone can recall.

The stream naturally had only native brooktrout prior to stocking operations by the state through the years. No brown trout have been released in its waters. The fish taken this afternoon was a handsome one.

There are two explanations for this trout being in the pond. One of these is that it was an odd fish that happened at the hatchery to get mixed in with brook trout released in Snake Meadow brook. Another is that this fish had in the course of time worked its way from some stream where the state has released brown trout.

Mrs. Lucy Stock Chapin, Hartford, experienced leader in the religious education of children, will be one of the speakers at a meeting of the children's committee of the eastern district of the Connecticut Council of Congregational Women at the Westfield Congregational parish house next Sunday afternoon at :30. Her subject will be Methods of Teaching World Friendship to Children, after which will come questions and discussion of personal problems.

Another speaker will be Mrs. R. J. McCandless, whose subject will be China and who will, speaking from personal experience, tell some of the needs of that far-away land.

Tea is to be served at six o'clock, previous to which time an opportunity will be given to inspect an interesting exhibit of materials which may be used in carrying on world friendship work. The meeting will be open to the public, and is expected to be particularly interesting and helpful to teachers and those wishing to train in teaching.

Discussions that one heard here today indicate that that those who favor having the town hire trucks of the lowest bidders on contract to use on town highway work are going to be asked to establish for the special town meeting next Tuesday evening that they have a sound proposition. Their proposition is already challenged in some quarters as likely to be more expensive than the one in present use. That's where the introduction of figures is likely to come in, it is said. The average voter admittedly is not well informed as to either side of the question, but desires to be. First Selectman Charles A. Tillinghast, who in his own business has had much experience in the operation of motor trucks, says that the object of the present administration is to decrease the expenses of the town rather than to increase them, and he is among those who want to see figures demonstrating that a saving can be made under the proposed plan.

Lieut. Ross V. Urquhart, commanding officer at the Danielson barracks, and State Officer John Murphy were in Hartford today on department business.

Lefty Lou Brouillard, Danielson's hard hitting youth who has arisen to considerable fistic fame, is matched to appear in the star bout at the Worcester A. A., Friday night of next week against Clyde Hull, rugged Texas welterweight, and rated one of the country's leaders in that division. It will be Brouillard's first appearance in a main bout in Worcester.

It is being remarked in Worcester papers that Brouillard's rise to star bout class will not be marked by the appearance of any setup for his opponent. He will meet a tough customer in Hull, the boy who broke Johnny Indrisano's jaw in a bout in New York two years ago. An effort has been underway for some time to match Brouillard against the famous Al Mello, but Mello has so far respectfully declined.

Harry Shiliffer of Brooklyn, N. Y., was fined $100 and costs in a justice's court in the town of Brooklyn today for operating, on Wednesday, a truck that was overloaded by 1,400 above the maximum allowed in this state. The machine is owned by the New York Rigging and Trucking company and was bound for Boston. Shiliffer was a bit indignant about the whole proceeding for a time, but he finally became more reconciled and paid the charges imposed upon him.

A vote of the borough likely will be asked to authorize the purchase of a sufficient number of traffic markers to outline eight safety zones across Main street in or near the business section, at a cost of about $200. These markers are of white metal and are pronged into the pavement. They will wear for years and will do away with the painting of safety zone bands across the street several times each year and, in the long run, will be no more expensive than the painting. In addition to the safety zones already existing it is proposed that another one be created in Main street at a point opposite the Westfield Congregational church, where a great many people, including numbers of children, going to and coming from school, cross every day.

After Easter clearance sale, 150 dresses, the pick of our "up-to-the-minute" dress stock. All new spring dresses; prints and pastel shades; regular price $10.75-16.50, sizes 14-48, Friday and Saturday only, $7.45 each. Vogue Dress Shop, 44 Main street, Danielson.—adv.

Saul Aloha, Hampton youth arrested by State Officer Royal V. Scranton yesterday on a reckless driving charge, was fined $25 and costs in the town court this morning, $22 of the fine being remitted. Aloha was operating his car with one hand while riding with a young woman when espied by the state officer.

It would appear that baseball is going to be very popular in Danielson the present playing season. In addition to the local teams in the Y. M. C. A. league, there is the high school team and two or three other teams of youths, not to mention the small local league teams that will get to playing later.

The American Telephone and Telegraph company has purchased a tract of land from Dr. A. L. Cundall from the Cundall homestead property on the West Side, about opposite Day street. It is understood the company plans erecting a "booster" station there, on the line of its underground Boston-New York line, one of the most important in the east.

Members of Knights of Columbus councils in this section will be in Baltic Sunday to witness the exemplification of the third degree, and in Norwich the following Sunday for the same purpose.

Warden Gaston A. Maindon said that there is the prospect of calling a special borough meeting to pass upon petitions that have been or will be received for the building of sidewalks in streets where they were not authorized by the vote of last year. Spring and L'Homme streets are two thoroughfares where residents are anxious to co-operate with the borough in sharing the expense of walk building.

The Quinebaug team is weakened by the loss of James Canty, former Tourtellotte high star, who batted over .350 last seaoson. He is now playing for Dudley A. C. With Cany and Hetherman, one of Quinebaug's best hurlers, out of the line-up, Grosvenordale is the favorite to come out victorious.

PUTNAM

OAK HILL WATER TANK TO BE COMPLETED IN JUNE

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, May 1.—The city water commission expects that contractors in charge of assembling the water department's mill-gallon steel tank on Oak Hill will have the work completed sometime during the first week in June. The concrete base has been founded and riveters are now at work fastening the heavy steel plates into position. When the last shield has been set, the giant cylinder will rise 90 feet above the ground.

Work on the base of the tank is now underway. The plates are hoisted onto horses, riveted together and when a circle has been formed the first section will be lifted onto the concrete base and the remaining sections will be added, one collar at a time. The engineers directing the work are using a large crane for the lifting operations. Compressed air guns are used by the riverters to hammer the bolts into place.

Fire Chief Ralph E. Thurston and apparatus at the Central station in Union square, responded to an out-of-town fire call at 12:15 p. m. today for a chimney blaze in a house on Walnut street annex, owned by the estate of Earnest A. Davis. Chief Thurston rang in the out-of-town alarm. Upon arrival at the scene, the firemen found a brisk fire burning in the chimney, which they extinguished with water from the booster tank of the combination pumper and hose wagon. The alarm was the first of the month.

Employes of the Putnam Savings bank pleasantly surprised Treasurer Arthur F. Hughes of the institution this morning at the opening hour, when a large birthday cake, upon which was mounted a single candle, commemorating the completion of one year's service as active head of the bank, was set before him. In expression of his gratitude, Mr. Hughes in a few remarks thanked his co-workers for their splendid spirit shown in appreciation of his efforts.

Mr. Hughes was appointed on May 1, 1929, to succeed the late Daniel J. Byrne as treasurer of the savings bank, whose death occurred in February of last year. Since coming to Putnam's business circles, Mr. Hughes by reason of his genial and affable qualities, has made a host of friends and acquaintances, who congratulated him this morning on the occasion of his first anniversary as head of the bank. Mr. Hughes was formerly assistant treasurer of the Brooklyn Savings bank of Danielson.

The municipal fire alarm telegraph system is now composed of 26 stations and of the entire number, 21 of the stations are of the new improved Peerless type, Fire Chief Ralph E. Thurston said today. Five new boxes recently purchased by the fire commissioners have been put into service by Superintendent of Alarms C. T. Thayer. The alarm system, Chief Thurston said, for its size, is among the best and most efficient anywhere in the state. The new boxes, replacing those of obsolete type, are entirely foolproof. All possibilities of a fire alarm being mistinterpreted on the registering tape at the alarm headquarters are eliminated with the new boxes in service. It is the ambition of both Chief Thurston and Superintendent Thayer to have the remaining six boxes of the old type removed from service and replaced with the modern stations within a year, in order that the fire alarm system, the most important factor of the fire department, may become infallible.

THE YANTIC CROSSINGS

Some confusion as to what the Central Vermont is seeking in the way of crossing changes at Yantic has been created by reports concerning the railroad's petition.

Instead of the replacement of the flagman at the lower Yantic crossing with a signal, it is at the crossing close to the station that the consent of the public utilities commission is sought for the right to establish a light signal. This is the crossing to which reference was made yesterday in this column as needing greater protection for the public.

At the present time, it appears, this crossing has the services of an employe at the Yantic station who guards it at train time. This service covers the morning, afternoon and evening until the last passenger train has gone. Throughout the night it is without any warning for the public, the highway users being required to insure their own protection. Under the proposed change there would be signal service throughout the 24 hours, so that if it works it should furnish warning at all times of the approach of trains.

At the lower Yantic crossing, at which it was first supposed the substitution of the flagman for a signal was sought, there is a flagman on duty until midnight and in addition a light signal to warn highway users. This means protection at all hours at a point where there is more traffic and where the view to the south is more or less obstructed when going in either direction.

The need for warnings at crossings which are much used is apparent. They are only what should be established at more of the unguarded crossings, for, even though the highway user should be sufficiently mindful of his own safety, it is only fair that he should get some warning when a train is approaching. Then if he chooses to disregard the warning the responsibility is easily placed.

In the petition of the Central Vermont it will probably not be overlooked that a 24-hour warning service is to be established instead of what amounts to about half of that period.

NEEDED PROTECTION

There are those who have boasted about the large part of this country they have covered by begging auto rides. It has gotten to be a habit with many to resort to thumb jerking and curbstone appeals in going from place to place. Frequently they will completely ignore the fact that a passenger-carrying bus is approaching and begin to use all their efforts to attract the attention of motorists who follow.

The practice has gotten to be such a nuisance and such a danger to those who have been ready to furnish the lift that legislation has been resorted to in dealing with it. New York is the latest state to make hitch hiking illegal. In that state a law has just been passed making it a misdemeanor to solicit a ride and it is equally unlawful to stop motorists in the hopes of selling articles to them.

Many auto drivers have found it necessary, much against their better nature, to establish a rule that they will not yield to any more appeals for rides. They have noted the experience of those kind-hearted drivers who have taken people in to help them on their way, only to be sued for the results of an accident, to be made the victims of frameups or to be subjected to murderous assaults with firearms in order to obtain their money. The thoughtful driver cannot fail to recognize that his own protection lies in turning down those who are seeking rides.

But, despite the experience of many and the insults which are experienced because no attention is paid to the appeals, there are many who maintain that they will always take a chance with the hitch hikers. Those are the ones who make the business of the crook possible. They are unwittingly playing into the hands of the unscrupulous. They are meddling with fire without appreciating it.

New York's legislators have appreciated the fact that the situation is one which should no longer be left to individual opinion. The law enacted serves notice that the practice must stop or the violators will be penalized, and while 100 per cent enforcement may be difficult the discouraging effect of the law should have a beneficial effect in reducing the greater part of such activities.

AMERICAN SHIPBUILDING

In the past few months much stress has been laid upon the return to normal employment conditions in various lines of activity. Reports indicate that it is gradually being accomplished, but among other things there will be interest in the statements which were made by the postmaster general and the chairman of the shipping board to the National Merchant Marine conference in which they expressed the belief that before the year was over the shipyards of the country would be operating to full capacity. That means the resumption of activity in one direction where decreased operations were not due to the stock market slump.

This country has had its ups and downs in ship construction. There was a time when American ships were found on all the seas and Old Glory was not a stranger in any of the ports. Changes took place and the merchant marine dwindled. Other nations jumped way ahead of us and with plenty of clamors for increased interest in that direction before the war broke out, that world struggle found us in need of ships, ships and more ships. We built for immediate conditions and the close of the war found the government with a quantity of vessels which had no use. Some had never been put into service. It has sold, junked, rebuilt those ships. Some have been operated. Others have swung at anchor. The government still has more than it wants, but in getting rid of some of its best vessels it has adopted legislation which offers inducement to private capital to step into the shipping business. It is because of this that the speakers before the merchant marine conference felt so confident about the resumption of ship building. With the government getting out and providing a way for private capital to enter, the situation is looking up. The fact is that good progress is already being made, for in the first quarter this year we have moved up from fifth to third in the amount of ship tonnage constructed by shipbuilding nations. We are a long way from the top but only the British and Germany are producing more than we are, but there is one phase of the situation which halts attention and that is that much ship tonnage for this country is still being constructed in European shipyards. That has its reasons but it doesn't help American shipyards.

TIME TO LEASE IT

Having previously indicated how it felt in regard to the senate bill favoring government operation of the Muscle Shoals development, the house will soon have an opportunity, it is indicated, to express itself concerning the idea of leasing the property to private capital.

The house committee on military affairs has been considering this matter and has approved a plan for leasing the plant. There isn't much time left in the present session if there is to be an early adjournment, but it will be possible for the house to voice its sentiments in this respect.

With the senate having voted for government operation and the house facing a vote on a proposition to lease the plant, which seems likely to receive favorable action, the two houses would be in opposition to each other, and there is not such certainty that the attitude in the house would not have influence in the senate towards the leasing proposition. Whether a decision could be reached in the next few weeks is among the uncertainties.

There is no question but what the problem of doing something with Muscle Shoals should be settled. It has been hanging fire too long. It is time that it was put to work for such benefits as may be obtained therefrom by all concerned. Those who are looking for cheap power, those who see a chance to operate it at a profit and the government which should be getting something from its huge outlay have an interest in the disposition of the matter. The country, it is believed, does not favor government operation. The house gives evidence of that feeling. The business-like proposition seems to be to lease it under such conditions that the interests of the government and country will be properly protected and put it to its full use as rapidly as possible. Action on it has dragged along in a tiresome manner and there would be more satisfaction if there were greater uncertainty that the leasing idea could be put through this session.

UNDER MILITARY CONTROL

The decision to put an end to the situation which had developed in the Ohio penitentiary since the fire, where certain leaders among the convicts were endeavoring to exact demands and direct the running of the institution, was a wise one. It was time to let the unruly understand that if they were not prepared to accept the supervision and control of the institution's guards there were others who could direct affairs. It should not have been made necessary for the soldiers to fire into the prison in order to restore order, but such was the price which the prisoners insisted upon. Turning over control to the military authorities leaves the convicts' demands unsatisfied, but they can expect that they will be obliged to abandon their determination to run the prison.

As these new developments occur in the prison it is indicated that henceforth Ohio will proceed to make provisions for the prevention of any similar situations in the future. If the fire was set by prisoners it would have been possible for it to be done had there been no overcrowding, but such couldn't have happened in a fireproof structure. If there had been no such overcrowding, however, there probably would have been no such loss of life and the situation following the fire would have been virtually eliminated. Thus while the little word "if" plays an important part in the consideration of the prison tragedy and after-developments there can be no question but what Ohio will see its duty in a different light and it is quite evident that for the time being, at least, other states will profit from its shortcomings. Adequate prison facilities in non-inflammable institutions wouldn't solve all prison troubles but it would keep disturbances to narrower limits.

POINT AFTER TOUCHDOWN

"Kill Colvin! Kill Colvin!" roared the Hayden university rooters.

Of course, no one actually wanted to see him put to death, but in their football frenzy the supporters of the team he was turning back almost single-handed would have been pleased over almost anything which would have removed him frow play.

The annual game between Hayden and Bowles was a classic for both schools, and this year they were fighting for the conference championship. Hayden was the stronger team, but Bowles had Fullback Bruce Colvin, 6 feet tall and 195 pounds of human dynamite. He could pass, he could run, he could kick, he could smash, he could tackle. He was more than a triple threat; he was many threats.

Again and again for three quarters Hayden carried and passed the ball close to the goal line, but each time it was Colvin who either intercepted a pass or rushed in and alone held his opponent. When Bowles had the ball Colvin was a team in himself, but in spite of his brilliance, failure of his teammates to give him needed help and stubborn resistance kept him from scoring.

Shortly after the fourth quarter started, Hinckley, Hayden's fleetest back, lugging the pigskin, shot off right tackle, eluded one of the secondary defense and dodged by Colvin, who raced up for the tackle. Hinckley had an open field before him. The Hayden stands went wild. But Colvin spun quickly on his heel and gave chase. Step by step he gained; a mighty lunge and down he came with Hinckley in his arms, six yards from the line. Hayden rooters groaned. Hayden tried three line plays. Colvin stopped each one dead. Hayden tried a pass to the left. A blue flash caught the leather and bounded like a greyhound toward Hayden's goal, a hundred yards away.

"Colvin! Colvin! Go on, Colvin!" screamed the Bowles rooters. And Colvin did go. A moment later he drop kicked for the extra point. Score: Bowles, 7; Hayden, 0.

"Get Colvin! Watch Colvin!" howled the Hayden men.

"And I wish they would," said Myrna Winters, Hayden coed, dabbing at tears.

Hayden fought fiercely after the kickoff, but always, always, it was Colvin who blocked them. Twice Hayden managed to work within striking distance of the Bowles goal, but each time Bowles took the ball and then Colvin punted it far down the field. The game ended, a Bowles victory. Myrna Winters was only one of thousands of Hayden students and rooters who wept copiously, but no one was more furious than she. The very idea of one man almost being able to win that game all by himself!

Myrna tried to dine at her sorority house that evening, but food was not for her. She decided to take a walk—alone. Bowles rooters were celebrating all over town. Torchlight processions, giant firecrackers, toy canons, clanging cowbells, tootin horns, yells upon yells—the din was terrific, the joy unbounded. How Myrna hated them! She turned a corner and ran into a noisy group of Bowles students.

Myrna flared. She seized her colors, wrenched them away and started to run. But the students closed in around her, hurling taunts. Her little close-fitting striped hat was pushed back, displaying a wealth of disheveled brown hair. Her brown eyes snapped. Her beautiful face was flushed. She looked like an angry tigress at bay. Suddenly a powerful figure burst into the circle, bowling the tormentors in all directions.

"Fine bunch of sportsmen, you are," he growled, seizing the girl and leading her away.

"How do you get that way, Colvin?" grumbled a youth, rubbing a bump on his head from a flying elbow. Myrna gasped as she and her rescuer came to a halt. She recognized him, the hated, hateful Colvin! He stood, humbly now, smiling into her eyes, a handsome chap.

"Why, why," Myrna stammered, "weren't you the life saver who so heroically saved a man and a woman and three little children at Eagle Beach last summer? I thought his name was Colville. I saw you only for a moment then and I didn't recognize you in your football suit." Colvin grinned.

"And you," he said, "are Myrna Winters, who won the girls' diving contest at the beach. I tried to get a formal introduction to you, but you left before I could. I made up my mind then to ask you something, if I ever saw you again, and you weren't married, that I am going to ask you right now."

"No," she smiled later, "I shall not join in rah-rah-ing for Bowles, but I don't want you killed, Bruce, dear."

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 1—Passing the white house southern front on Easter Monday, the Bystander was moved to wonder just when this business of egg-rolling for the kiddies within that sacred enclosure began.

It is a very, very old Washington custom. Nobody now seems to know just how old.

But the white house lawn setting for it does not date back so far. That part of it makes interesting reading. It has a very typically Washingtonesque political slant to it.

Real Egg-Rolling

For it seems that Washington Easter egg-rollin's were originally staged on the broad lawns of the capitol grounds, more particularly on those fine, upsweeping green-swards of the western side of the great building. That probably is what gave the function its name.

Colored eggs would roll finely down those slopes and the business of rolling them against each other, owners of the stronger shelled eggs which succeeded in cracking the shells of competitors on the impact, taking over the busted eggs as spoils of war.

But along in President Hayes' administration, damage done to lawns and shrubbery by the thousands of youngsters and other thousands of oldster on-lookers began to cause apprehension. An edict went out one year that there was to be no more egg-rollin' at the capital for that reason.

Noble Gesture

What better opportunity could a politically minded president have for a noble gesture? President Hayes seized it. The capital-evicted kiddies with egg baskets were invited to do their rollin' on the great lawns of the white house on Easter Monday.

There were no long hills for actual rolling of eggs, it was true, but think of it? To picnic on the white house grounds? To see the president and the Mrs. President looking on? It is easy to imagine that the first turnout for the event in its white house setting was very large.

And the gatherings are still growing. Previous records went by the board this year with 50,000 folks on hand.

When President Cleveland took office first, he promptly cut down the white house staff very heavily. That seems to have inspired the remaining staff to move for doing away with Easter Monday egg-rollin'.

When the big, bulky, hawk-nosed New Yorker heard of that plan, however, he squashed it flat. The white house grounds were again thrown open to the kiddies by specific presidential order.

Mr. Cleveland did more than that. He received the little tots, allowing them to go trooping through the east room. He stood long shaking hands with them. But it was too great a task even for a strong man. Bending over to grasp the hands of the little folks almost broke his back and neither Mr. Cleveland nor any subsequent president repeated that tactical mistake.

YOUR HEALTH

How's The Machine Running?

By Dr. Clyde W. Beson, State Health Commissioner, Oklahoma.
(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

It should be customary periodically to examine and overhaul a good machine or automobile, and many poor ones can also be so renovated that they are able to run "as good as new" for a long time. The amount of wear and tear and missing cogs revealed by the overhauling is often a surprise to the owner of the machine, and would often be an early source of trouble.

The human body is the most complicated machine that we have anything to do with, when one considers the many parts—the heart, lungs, kidneys, liver, pancreas, intestines, brain, eyes, ears and other organs necessary for the human engine to function properly and remember that none of them can be replaced if it goes bad. It is not surprising that we suffer from accidents and from wear and tear that mar the perfect running of what we call "ourselves." But it is surprisingly foolish not to repair the damage.

We all enjoy saying "Oh, I am alright. I have not had to see a doctor for years." But the weak humor of the boast comes into the lime light in the daily papers when we read of some person dropping dead on the street or in the office, or dying very suddenly at a time when he should be in the prime of his physical manhood. A majority of these cases could have been avoided and the victims would have lived to enjoy their lives and families much longer if they had but known the condition of their "engines."

An annual physical examination will furnish you this information. Those who are evidently sick are probably seeing the doctor. But those who are apparently well are probably not and they are the very ones I am talking about who should have an overhauling once a year to ascertain the worn parts and to obtain advice as to what will be and what will not be of benefit to them.

An automobile will run on a flat tire, but if the speed is kept up there is a wreck unless repair is made. Similarly, if there is a weak part of your body it may run for a while; but the damage increases daily and in the end disaster, breakdown or collapse comes.

Physical examination charts can be obtained from the Gorgas Memorial Institute, or from your state or city department of public health. Be a good friend to yourself by getting and using one.

CHILD TRAINING

"The Flower Of The Flock"

Janette Stevenson Murray

"My sister, Clara, two years younger than I, was a beautiful child," said a woman well known for her wide experience and broad sympathy. "Clara was round and rosy, with brown curls, lovely blue eyes and a pink and white complexion. I was exactly the opposite, thin, tall, dark and sallow, with stringy hair.

"If I went out without my sister, I was happy, but there was never any chance for me when with Clara. People always looked at her and exclaimed, 'Oh, what a lovely child!' and never seemed to know that I was present. I would go home just heartbroken, feeling that I never wanted to go anywhere again. This made my childhood most unhappy for I couldn't help resenting the fact that Clara received all the attention.

"Mother was very wise. She never made any comparisons, and if reference was made to my plainness, she always said that actions went farther than looks. As we grew older, I surpassed Clara in school and so drew a small share of attention which helped to bring me to a more peaceful state of mind."

This woman's most vivid recollections of her childhood seemed to be of the unhappiness that she had experienced through jealousy. Another friend of mine who had suffered similarly because of a beautiful sister said her family didn't seem to understand how deeply the contrasts and comparisons made hurt her, and the feeling she had toward her sister was really deplorable; she grew almost to hate her.

It is the parents who are usually responsible when there is a family jealousy, when a child, because of the beauty or accomplishments of another, becomes difficult, suspicious, inclined to "carry a chip on his shoulder" or to have an inferiority complex. It is very easy to arouse this jealousy by giving undue attention to one member of a family who happens to be more gifted or finer looking than the others.

The following story by a pre-school study group leader suggests a wiser way of treating "the flower of the flock":

"We had guests from Chicago the other night. A young niece with her husband and three little girls—Peggy, five; Joan, three and a half; a baby, seven months.

"Having heard a great deal from the relatives of the smart and lively Joan, we had eyes only for her when they arrived. She lived up to her reputation, and we thought her a wonderful child. But we soon began to be interested in what the father and mother were saying about Peggy—how when only two years old, she had remembered putting her mother's diamond ring under a table cover several weeks before, how she often brought back unusual stories from the Sunday school.

"After the departure of our guests, I found myself thinking of the retiring Peggy really more than of the vivacious Joan; in fact I recalled that very little had been said of Joan. Could it be that these parents had learned to apportion the attention given to the two children? Certain it was that much of our attention had been wisely redirected by them thus preventing the younger child from becoming too forward or vain and the older one from feeling neglected and jealous."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

What About It?

Mr. Editor: Has prohibition increased industrial efficiency? Prof. Herman Feldman of the Amos Tuck school of administration and finance of Dartmouth college, in his survey found that prohibition had reduced charges for drunkenness, reduced industrial accidents, eliminated Blue Monday and increased efficiency and productivity. Evangeline Booth, commander of the Salvation Army, says applications for relief in our slum districts are reduced 50 per cent. There has been a significant decrease of mortality among young children. Wine-room or saloon-parlor seductions are rarely found. Our industrial-home managers bear witness that the old type of spineless, alcohol-soaked man is now phenomenal. Every phase of Salvation Army activity unites in extolling the prohibition law as beneficient in its results beyond all measure. The National Federation of Settlements survey on the social effects of prohibition says all of the things hoped for by the advocates of prohibition are being realized in some places and that even where the law is least observed some of them have come true.

The Rt. Rev. Monsignor James E. Cassidy, D.D., pastor of St. Patrick's Roman Catholic church at Fall River, states: "The extinction of the saloon by prohibition, in the circles in which I move, with the people with which I daily deal, for soul and body, has been a blessing and a benediction that no lover of truth, no lover of humanity, no lover of souls would knowingly attempt to deny, decry or diminish. Wherever the law of prohibition has been enforced, there have come better homes and better hearts, sober fathers and husbands, happy mothers and wives, better fed, better clothed, better trained children. Misery, wretchedness and wrangling have given way to peace, contentment and self-respect." Prof. Irving Fisher told the Economic association in convention address that although he had made a thorough canvass of the members, he was unable to get any speaker who would attack prohibition on purely economic grounds. In his book, Prohibition at Its Worst, he estimates that at least $6,000,000,000 has been saved yearly by the prohibition law. He also states that in New York city juvenile delinquency has decreased. Arrests for intoxication also have decreased. Professor Feldman states that during the pre-Volstead days, a large number of our employes would get their pay checks cashed at saloons. Today, the endorsers of these checks are the grocers, the meat markets and the dry goods stores. The present conditions are not satisfactory, even though much better than in the saloon days. However, modification will satisfy nobody, repeal would bring back the saloon. If each real American would do as Abraham Lincoln said we would be a nation living true to the name, Christian. "To the support of the Constitution and laws, let every American pledge his life, his property and his sacred honor."
—Abraham Lincoln.

Norwich, April 29, 1930.

In Recognition of R. Huntington Woodman

Mr. Editor: It may be of interest to some of the Norwich people to know that a service of music in recognition of 50 years of service by R. Huntington Woodman, as organist and choir director of the First Presbyterian church, Brooklyn, New York, was given in that church on Wednesday evening April 30.

The service was sponsored by the American Guild of Organists, and there were the choirs of eight other churches in Brooklyn and Manhattan, united with the choir of this church taking part in the service, making in all 178 people.

The selections for the choirs were composed by Mr. Woodman, and consisted of; Anthem—"A Song in the Night," and an anthem (composed for this occasion), also A Thanksgiving Ode. There was also an anthem, Psalm, 150, Ceasar-Franck.

Several of the Guild members were in the procession, and the music was most inspiring. The minister spoke commending the work that Mr. Woodman had done while with them, as did one of the officers of the church, and added that they should continue to have him with them. Frank L. Sealy voiced the sentiments of the Guild as to his worth. Following these words the audience broke into applause and rose, en masse, Mr. Woodman responding with bows to right and left.

A YANKEE ABROAD

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

Children of the Great.

LONDON — England is watching with keen interest and much sympathy several "baby" members of parliament who are just starting out to try to live down the fact that they are the offspring of famous statesmen.

These budding prime ministers naturally are proud of their heritages, but paradoxical as it may seem, one of the greatest handicaps they have to overcome is to force the world to accept them at their own value and, in a manner of speaking, forget that their fathers were great men.

The house of commons is in the interesting and unprecedented position of having among its members three youngsters whose fathers have held the highest political position which England can bestow—that of premier.

More than that, the fathers also are members of the same house. A piquant situation, and ont without its embarrassments.

Newcomers.

These newcomers are Miss Megan Lloyd George, liberal; Malcolm MacDonald, socialist; and Oliver Baldwin, socialist: It is almost unnecessary to add that their fathers are, respectively, David Lloyd George, liberal chief and ex-premier; Ramsay MacDonald, the present socialist prime minister, and Stanley Baldwin, former conservative prime minister and leader of his party.

Both the vivacious Miss Megan and young MacDonald have made their maiden speeches and have come through with flying colors, though it obviously was a trying time for fathers and children.

And perhaps partly because of the distinguished positions of the fathers, the house accorded a specially warm greeting to these first timid attempts at oratory, and the press of the country turned to and offered praise and encouragement.

Millstones.

Curiously enough, the distinctions of the elders henceforth will be millstones about the necks of the young, however.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, the distinguished British statesman, told me a while ago that he had great difficulty in making people accept him on his own merits, because he was the son of the famous Joe Chamberlain, who dominated the house of commons for years.

One is reminded of the remark attributed to Dr. Richard Derby, the New York surgeon, when he and his bride, Ethel Roosevelt, daughter of the great president, were about to sail for Europe on their honeymoon. A reporter rushed up to the bridegroom on the deck of the steamer and demanded:

"You are Theodore Roosevelt's son-in-law, aren't you?"

The young surgeon looked at his would-be interviewer with a cold eye, and then:

"No! I am Dr. Richard Derby."

What Kind

A small boy was visiting his country friend. One morning he rushed into the house and asked of the boy's mother, "Mrs. Blank, look at this bug! It was in my hair! What kind is it?"

The boy, not satisfied, said: "A tick? What kind of a tick? A bed tick?"

SUSAN ALLEN LEAVES ESTATE TO RELATIVES

Her brother, William H. Allen, who died about a year ago, is made the executor of the will of Miss Susan Capron Allen, late of 22 Church street, whose will was offered for probate Thursday before Judge Nelson J. Ayling of the Norwich probate court.

The will was drawn Feb. 9, 1922, and was witnessed by Loretta E. Ward, Charles L. Stewart and Andrew B. Davies. As the executor named under the will is dead it will be necessary for the probate court to appoint an administrator of the will.

Her undivided interest in the real estate known as 88-100 Main street, extending back to Church street, known as 45-55 Church street and occupied for many years by the Allen undertaking business, is divided between William H. Allen and another brother, Amos D. Allen, who died a number of years ago in California. The latter's interest is to go to his wife and children and their survivors. The will provides that William H. Allen's interest was to go to his wife if she survived him but she died before he did.

An undivided interest in real estate, 20-24 Church street and 10-24 Court street is divided equally between Ruth Rockwood Allen and Allen Denison Macrae.

The sum of $200 is left in trust to the city of Norwich, of which the income is to be used for care of the family burial lot in Yantic cemetery, which was deeded to Henry Allen, father of the testator.

All clothing, house furnishings, furniture, silverware, bric-a-brac, books, etc., are left to the executor named, William H. Allen, with request that he distribute them in accordance with a written memorandum to be left with the will, or in default of such memorandum, to make the distribution as he may deem advisable.

No memorandum was found with the will.

It is directed that all the legacies, except the devises of real estate be paid without deduction for inheritance or succession taxes, but that these shall be paid out of the residuem.

The death of Susan C. Allen last week Wednesday, at the age of 84, enables payment to be made of three legacies of $1,000 each under the will of Emily Allen, a sister of Susan Allen, who died about 20 years ago. She left the life use of her estate to Susan Allen and provided that at Susan's death $1,000 each should be paid to three nieces, Sarah Louise Allen, Bessie Prescott Allen and Ruth Rockwood Allen. Life use of the residue of Emily Allen's estate was left to William H. Allen, and it was provided that on the death of the survivor of her brother and sister, life use of the Court street property was given to Amos D. Allen and his three children, the nieces named above.

After the death of all of these, the Court street property, under the will of Emily Allen, is to go to Norwich Home chapter of King's Daughters, the proceeds of this property to be used to establish a home to be known as "The Allen Home" for worthy single women of Norwich.

WILL BE COSTLY TO IMPROVE WATER SUPPLY

Engineers have estimated for the public utilities commission of the state that the cost of making permanent improvements in the water system at Groton Long Point will be from $50,000 to $125,000, as it will be necessary either to drive additional wells or connect with some other existing water system.

The water that is now supplied by the Groton Long Point Land company is from an artesian well and dug wells and is pumped to tanks from which it is drawn to cottages.

The public utilities commission has ordered that temporary improvement in the plant and water supply be made on or before July 1 and general reconstruction and permanent improvement of the water plant and equipment by the summer of 1931.

CHIMNEYS SHOULD BE CLEANED AT THIS TIME

Soot must be cleaned from the flues of the boiler frequently if the householder wishes to get the maximum efficiency out of his fuel and his radiator heating system.

Soot, according to heating contractors, has the insulating characteristics of asbestos and if left on the flues, will result in a considerable waste of fuel.

The frequency with which soot should be removed depends upon the kind of fuel that is used.

The poorest grades of soft coal will cause the greatest accumulation of soot. At the other extreme is gas. When gas is used as a fuel there is practically no soot.

If combustion is right, oil will make very little soot. A thorough cleaning of the flues two or three times during the heating season will probably be sufficient. If, however, combustion is faulty, the burner will not only throw off a large amount of soot, but will consume from four to eight times as much oil as under correct burning conditions.

The lighter and more expensive oils cause much less carbonization than the heavier oils. It requires only a thin film of oil soot to cut down the thermal efficiency of the system.

Gas ranks first, oil second, anthracite coal next, coke is a close fourth, and the better grades of eastern soft coal are fifth in the relative amount of soot deposited on the sides of the boiler, the flues, and the smoke pipe.

Very little attention is necessary when anthracite is used. When coke is burned, a cleaning of the flues every month will usually be sufficient. Heating contractors recommend that the flues be cleaned every week if the better grades of soft coal are used and every day if the cheapest soft coal is burned.

The clean-out doors are located just above the fire-box door on every boiler. The number of clean-out doors is in proportion to the number of sections in the boiler. The upper section of the flue should first be brushed with a metal brush and then the scraper which is furnished with the boiler should be used to push the soot through the opening to the lower section or to the firebox as the case may be. As the soot will burn, it may be allowed to fall on the fire.

Thus, a small amount of attention will assure the home-owner of getting from his radiator heating plant dependable temperature, healthful heat at minimum expense.

Buildings of the future, houses and apartments as well as office buildings, schools, and theaters, will be made comfortable in winter and summer alike, irrespective of outdoor weather conditions, was the prediction made by speakers at the first international heating and ventilating exposition at Philadelphia.

The same grilles which now conceal the radiators will also be used to conceal the air cooling units, it was said by speakers who declared that not only will the air be cooled, but it will also be conditioned, that is, humidified and purified, so that it will be more healthful and pure than the outside air in most cities.

Walter B. Lashar, wealthy resident of Fairfield, appealed to the superior court against the valuation placed on 98 acres of land owned by him in that town at Center street and Barlow road. He set a valuation of $63,700 and the assessors made the figure $147,000.

Because of behavior of several seniors of the New Haven Commercial high school at a recent dance Principal W. B. Spencer has made a ruling, which has provoked parental protest, that the offenders shall be denied diplomas at the graduation exercises.

PLANNING A BUDGET

Ever since starting their little home, Jean and Allen had planned to include in their monthly buuget an entry under the heading "Savings." But month followed month and even though their original plans in the way of furnishing had been carried out, it seemed that Jean confronted her husband with a wry face every time he sat down at the big figuring book and to his question, "How much under savings, honey?" she would shake her head and prepare to give him her reason for having "no cash on hand."

"Isn't it adorable?" Jean had murmured happily the second month after their marriage, as she stood in the small living room gazing around at their newly furnished apartment. "We have just everything!" There was the oriental rug, the gift of rich Aunt Katherine. There were the two easy chairs they had bought, before the fireplace where glowed the polished andirons given by Cousins Betsy and Henry.

The bedroom suite had been the wedding gift of Jean's father, the dining-room things were heirlooms in Allan's family, the silver had been bestowed by a generous office force, and the blue-edged kitchen towels and asbestos holders were part of Jean's hope chest. Lamps, dishes and knickknacks all had come by way of showers for the bride or from well-wishing friends and it seemed to Jean that every wish of her heart had been filled—there was nothing, simply nothing, she needed to make life complete.

"Now that our initial expense is over," said Allan with his eye to the future, "we can begin a savings account right away. We'll start budgeting to see where all the money goes and learn to cut down the corners." He went over to the desk, and taking the big ledger he showed Jean the entries; rent, food, amusements, charity, clothes, miscellaneous and savings. "Let's see how much we can put in that last column next month," he said.

The month went by and Allan, seated at his desk on the evening of the 31st, called for his wife's report. Rent—there it was; food, charity (a tiny bit), amusements, (very few), miscellaneous (two or three items) and savings! Jean bit her lip.

"I'm sorry, Allan," she said, "but there's not a cent left. You see, I'd forgotten to get linoleum for the kitchen, so that made a big hole in what I had left, and the laundress reminded me that we had no wash boiler, wringer, clothesline, clothespins or laundry baskets. But I'll have cash on hand next month."

Another month passed and again on the evening of the last day Allan opened the big book. Item followed item until he reached the column "savings." Jean was the figure of distress.

"You know, I thought we had simply everything, but I'd forgotten about cooking things," she said. "You've no idea how expensive a big roasting pan and a double boiler, a set of frying pans and a vegetable cooker can be, to say nothing of sieves and paring utensils, cake, biscuit and pie tins. But there will be nothing like that next month."

Days came and went and Allan, after a hearty dinner, sat down another evening to make his report.

"I'm really ashamed to face you again with the news that there's nothing for the savings column, but there isn't," began Jean bravely. "I had extra buying to do for our two dinner parties, you remember. The maid worked overtime. I just had to get a mattress for the spare bed, the hemstitchers' bill for the curtains was twice what I expected, and I broke a $5 glass from Cousin Martha which had to be replaced. But just wait until next month, Allan dear!" Allan accepted the bad news with good grace and stoically looked forward to better days.

It was the end of the next month and Allan, again at his ledger, called his wife to account. "Savings?" he queried with a broad smile and a look of doubt.

"Don't be angry, Allan," began Jean, "but there was Aunt Betsy's birthday present to buy, and your alumni dues were due, and I had to get bridge prizes for our party and—"

"Wait!" commanded Allan. "I can guess all that. But I've good news. I got a raise today, so from now on we can really begin to save."

"Yes," said Allan, "I knew you would be glad to—"

"Glad! I should say I am. Now we can start making the payments on an automobile!"—Chicago News.

PROPER INSULATION PAYS.

Insulation properly applied is not expensive. It can be shown that it pays its own way, first by making it possible to reduce the size of the heating plant, and, second, by reducing the necessary consumption of coal.

Insulation goes on quickly — is not difficult or expensive to apply. Furthermore, it can be obtained from almost any reliable building supply dealer. Like all other materials used in building, it must be applied properly to get the desired results.

Another interesting thing about insulation is that it works almost as well in summer as it does in winter, for then it keeps the heat out and makes your house a more comfortable place to live in. Some of the modern comforts with which we surround ourselves, which having once been luxuries are now coming to be thought of as necessities, add to the cost of living, make it more difficult for us to build our homes on limited incomes; but insulation pays its own way. It is a bad building investment to do without it.

EHMKE FOOLED CUBS IN WORLD SERIES WITH NEW DELIVERY AND WHITE SHIRT

By EDWARD J. NEIL
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 1—(AP)—Howard Ehmke, the long blonde trickster of the Athletics, is enjoying many a quiet chuckle these days at the expense of the baseball experts and the fans who saw him mystify the Chicago Cubs in the first game of the last world series. He'd like to kep on fooling them but the story is too good to keep.

Every year as pitching arms grow old and lose their cunning the veterans search for something to ward off the inevitable slide back to whence all baseball flesh comes—originally—the minors. Ehmke will never hit that chute—he's too smart a business man in the off seasons—and besides he has discovered something at the end of the sixteen years in the majors that he believes will prolong his career indefinitely.

It is a new delivery, a discovery that came to him as he labored with an aching shoulder in Shibe park in Philadelphia while his team mates went west to win Connie Mack his first American league pennant in fifteen years. Ehmke was left behind, to prepare for his surprise appearance in the opening game of the world series. Over the season's stretch Ehmke had pitched only 55 innings although he won seven and lost two games.

As he worked alone, experimenting with throws from this position and that to ease the constant pain in his shoulders, the old side-wheeler tossed up a ball and let his body slide to the right with the throw. He watched the ball lob up to the plate.

"Suddenly I got an idea," he said. "I tried it again each time I threw a side-arm ball I moved to the right. I had on a white shirt. From my new position that ball came up to the plate on a direct line between the eyes of the batter and the white expanse of my shirt.

"Well, you know hitters complain on the hot days when the fans in the center field bleachers take off their coats and sit in shirt sleeves. The pitcher then is throwing a white ball with a white background behind him and the batter can't pick it out. My white shirt acted the same as the white expanse of the bleachers, except that it was closer to the hitter and I could maneuver so that it was always in his line of vision.

"I said nothing to anyone about it but I tried it out against the A's in batting practice and it worked. I used that delivery against the Cubs in that first game and struck out 13 of them. And the funniest part of it is that no one discovered what I was doing. Just see if I don't win some ball games with that old side ball when the weather gets hot this year."

Ehmke has only one great reason for wanting one more big season before retiring after sixteen major league champions with Detroit, the Boston Red Sox, and the Athletics. That reason is Connie Mack.

It was no secret that Ehmke planned to announce his retirement after the world series. He let things slide until mid-winter when he stopped in Philadelphia and found Connie Mack ill. He visited the 67 year old leader who was in bed, wan and spent from the excitement and grind of the campaign.

"I was to retire, Mr. Mack,' Ehmke said. "I wanted you to know first before I told the newspapermen. My arm is bad and I haven't been winning much. I'd like to step out now."

Connie Mack, pilot of the new world champions blessed with a grand pitching staff and a great all round ball club, rose up on one elbow.

"Howard," he pleaded, "you aren't going to quit me, are you."

Ehmke doesn't talk much about what happened after that. But he didn't quit.

A's CELEBRATE MAY DAY, SOUNDLY TROUNCE TIGERS

The champions greeted the first invasion from the west with five home runs, three doubles and two triples in their total of 18 hits.

Max Bishop opened a five run attack on Vic Sorrell with a homer and hit another in the fourth. Jimmy Foxx also hit two four baggers and Al Simmons one. WEISGRABER SLATED TO PITCH AGAINST WEAVER

The Academy is going after big city game for the first time this season when it tackles Weaver high of Hartford at the campus tomorrow afternoon. The Insurance city club is the first of the teams from the larger cities to oppose the Wildcats in this campaign and is one of the teams that will have to be beaten if N. F. A. is to have a state title this year.

The hitting of Ed Flather in the Gilbert high victory Wednesday may earn him a regular berth on the team. If he can continue to connect as he did in this tilt, there is a place in the local outfield waiting for him. Flather is one of the fastest men on the squad and, hitting well, he would be one of the most valuable players on the team.

Weaver, it is expected will start Capt. Phelps veteran of four years, on the mound against N. F. A. He has had success so far this year and is mainly responsible for Weaver's record of having lost only one game. Butsy Weisgraber is ready for the Academy pitching summons.

Souvenir score-cards, with individual pictures of the team members, will be issued by the team, this year, it is announced.

In the semi-finals tomorrow, Mrs. Jessup will meet Miss Page and Miss Townsend will oppose Miss Andrus.

Mrs. Madeira and Miss Andrus reached the third round in the doubles today, defeating Mrs. Jessup and Mrs. Edward Krumbhaar, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4 in the first round and winning by default from Miss Georgia Carleton, Moorestown, N. J., and Miss Florence Jamison, Riverside, N. J., in the second.

H. W. AUSTIN DROPPED FROM BRITISH DAVIS CUP TEAM

LONDON May 1—(AP)—H. W. Austin, No. 1 ranking tennis player in England, has been dropped from the British Davis cup team for the second round Davis cup matches against either Poland or Rumania.

Austin was dropped from the squad because of his collapse against Dr. Heinz Landmann of Germany in the first round Davis cup tie last week. Austin, suffering a severe cramp in the latter stages of the match, was beaten in five sets. Two days later, however, he trounced Daniel Prenn, the German champion, in straight sets and aided Great Britain to eliminate the Teutons and advance to the second round.

N. F. A. TRACKMEN BEAT CHAPMAN TECH

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 1—Chapman Tech fell a victim to Norwich Free Academy here today as the Wildcats opened their season with a smashing 87 to 33 triumph on the Morgan park track.

Capt. Sam Berkman of the Rose City athletes was the high scorer with 16 points, corraling two firsts and two seconds. The firsts came in the broad jump, which he did in 18 feet, 9 inches, and the 440 yard run, where he was clocked at 57 seconds. He was runner-up in the 100 and 220 yard dashes.

Dolan and Miner were the Tech stars, the former taking a pretty mile run in 5 min., 4 2-5 seconds and the latter breasting the tape ahead in the 100 yard dash, in 10 3-5 seconds and the 220 affair in 24-3 seconds.

The mile relay, in which N. F. A. was a heavy favorite, was not contested. Likewise, the pole vault event was dropped.

Frank Barber, league shot put record holder, took his event in convincing fashion with a heave of 38 feet, 7 inches. Bill Agnew, Norwich, won the half mile run in 2 mins., 18 sec.

This victory was considered a good start for the league championship Norwich squad, in the drive to retain their eastern-Connecticut-Western Rhode Island league title. The Interscholastics will be held at Storrs the middle of the month.

The summary:

One mile run—Miner, (CT), Wood, (N), (CT). Time 5 min., 4 2-5 sec.

100 yard dash—Dolan, (N), Berkman, (N), Rootes, (N). Time 10 3-5 seconds.

Meets Hartford Today

The Academy track team fresh from its victory over Chapman Tech at New London yesterday, will get right back to the wars today, in a meet with Hartford Public high at Hartford. This will be the first time these schools have met on the cinders in some time.

Hartford, state champs for the past three years, will be a favorite to win over the locals, although Coach Murphy is not at all pessimistic about the chances of the Wildcats, expecting them to make a good showing.

PIRATES DISPLACED FROM FIRST PLACE BY BRAVES

PITTSBURGH, May 1—(AP)—The Boston Braves, with their ex-Pittsburgh manager, Bill McKechnie, opened the first east-west series in the National league today by beating the Pittsburgh Pirates, 4 to 3. The defeat drove the Pirates from the league leadership.

The contest was decided by the hitting of Walter Berger after Harry Seibold of Boston and Larry French of Pittsburgh had fought a pitching battle for six innings. Berger hit successive home runs over the left field wall in the seventh and eighth innings. Neun hit a homer right after Berger's first.

The Pirates put together two hits for a run in the first inning and then did not touch Seibold until the eighth when they bunched four more blows for two runs.

P. WANER HEADS BIG SIX WITH PERCENTAGE OF .479

(By The Associated Press)

Only two members of baseball's Big Six got into major league action yesterday because of the movement of the clubs between the east and the west, but Paul Waner and Al Simmons did almost enough hitting for the entire sextet.

Waner, despite Pittsburgh's defeat, went to the top of the hitters with three blows in four times at bat. This lifted his average to .479, ten points ahead of Jake Flowers of Brooklyn, Wednesday's National league and Big Six leader. Simmons could get only a single and a homer out of the Athletics' 18 hits against Detroit, going to bat five times. He had to relinquish his tie for the American league lead with Bill Cissell, dropping to .429.

STORRS, May 1.—Fifty-seven major letter certificates and 29 minor letters were awarded to Connecticut Aggie athletes at the annual Connecticut Night which was conducted this evening in the Community house at the Connecticut Agricultural college. CHUBBUCK ENTERED IN EIGHT EVENTS IN R. I. MEET

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, May 1.—Dan Chubbuck, star Aggie athlete who took fifth place and set a new discus record in the decathlon events at the last Penn relays, will be entered in eight events when the Connecticut Aggie track team meets the Rhode Island State team at Kingston, Friday, May 2. Chubbuck is expected to account for at least 30 points, although he is not in the best of condition due to his strenuous work at the relays.

Tyenty members of the Connecticut Aggie track squad will make the Rhode Island trip which is the second of the season. Last week the Aggie team lost the initial meet of the year to Norwich university, at Northfield, Vt., by one point. Chubbuck did not participate in this meet, as he was at the relays, and Captain Bob Groat has been ineligible since the beginning of the season. Had these two men taken part the meet would have been an easy Aggie victory. Paul Bitgood is still convalescing from a recent operation for appendicitis and will not be with the team for some weeks.

It is expected that Rhode Island will provide stiff competition since they were nosed out by Brown in the last meet by only one point. The members of the Aggie squad who will make the trip are: Chubbuck, French, Harger, Robinson, Elliott, Hakanson, Peresevich, Gwin, Tracey, Sayers, Brown, Barnes, Geissler, Moore, Rathbun, Christen, Joslyn, Hawkins, Jackson, Lewicki, and Williams.

YALE GETS FAVORITE LANE FOR BLACKWELL RACES

DERBY, May 1.—(AP)—Pennsylvania's four crews held two workouts today on the Housatonic river following their arrival for Saturday's Blackwell cup races against Yale and Columbia.

The four Columbia crews will arrive tomorow and will finish their preparations with two practice rows. Pennsylvania will also hold two sessions tomorrow, while Yale will confine itself to one practice.

Three changes were made in the Yale freshman crew today. William Walcott, son of U. S. Senator Frederic C. The official lanes for the races were announced tonight by the Yale A. A., as follows:

AMERICAN WOMEN VANQUISHED BY BRITISH EIGHT MATCHES TO SIX

SUNNINGDALE, England, May 1—(AP)— In 15 matches, five foursomes and ten singles, all featuring fine sportsmanship and better golf than might have been expected from American girls so soon after an Atlantic voyage, Miss Molly Gourlay's British team today won from Miss Glenna Collett's American lineup, eight matches to six with one halved.

The British women accomplished something no British team of men amateurs has been able to do, but whether the British girls are better golfers is still a matter for debate which will be continued in the women's championship to be played ten days hence.

The British women played a better all round game than did the visitors. They were steadier in the pinches and produced better shots generally with all clubs.

Having just crossed the Atlantic most of the visitors were still a bit shaky. Miss Maureen Orcutt, who preceded her colleagues, had an opportunity for practice before the arrival of her sister players and she was the only one to show her genuine form throughout. She was the only American to triumph in both morning and afternoon matches.

British golfers who had seen the excellent shot making qualities of the newcomers to England, such as Helen Hicks and Virginia Van Wie during their brief practice period yesterday, were surprised at their defeat today, but it was the inability of the visiting stars to string brilliant shots together that cost them dearly.

Misses Collett, Van Wie and Hicks led, only to fall back and suffer defeat.

Miss Gourlay's victory over Miss Collett was attained through stronger play at the finishing holes. The American champion was two up with six to play, and few beat her from that position, but Miss Gourlay finished in even fours and her opponent helped her by fluffing two shots, each costing her a hole. Miss Collett dropped a 20-foot putt at the 17th green to keep the match going but could not win the home hole and prolong it. Each captain had a medal round of 75 which was a tribute enough for their play over Sunningdale's 6,300 yards.

The foursomes in the morning resulted in an even break, the Americans and British each winning two with one halved. The British were off in front when Miss Gourlay and Miss Enid Wilson defeated Miss Collett and Miss Marion Bennett, New Britain, Conn., four up and three to play.

The Americans squared the count when Miss Orcutt and Mrs. H. A. Martell, Hartford, Conn., defeated Miss Dorothy Pearson and Miss Phyllis Lobbett, seven up and six to play.

Another American victory was registered in the foursomes by Miss Hicks and Mrs. Lee Mida of Chicago, Miss Doris Park and Miss Diana Fishwick, failing at the home hole.

Miss Van Wie and Miss Peggy Wattles, Buffalo, halved their match with Mrs. J. B. Watson and Miss Jean McCulloch but the British made the morning's play even when Miss Elsie Corlett and Mrs. Latham Hall defeated Miss Fritzi Stifel, Wheeling, W. Va., and Mrs. O. S. Hill, Kansas City, one up.

The Americans thereafter never were ahead. Miss Gourlay defeated Miss Collett one up to start the singles play and although Miss Orcutt again squared matters by defeating Mrs. Watson, four and three, Miss Wilson defeated Miss Van Wie, 4 and 3, and Miss McCulloch won from Miss Hicks, two and one. Miss Pearson defeated Miss Edith Quier, Reading, Pa., two and one, to make the British lead 6 1-2 to 3 1-2. Miss Hill kept the Americans in a threatening position by stopping Miss Corlett, two and one, but the British won two points running when Miss Park defeated Miss Bernice Wall, Oshkosh, Wis., 3 and 2, and Miss Diana Fishwick won from Mrs. Leo Federman, New York, 6 and 4.

With two matches out, the British led 8 1-2 to 4 1-2 and could not fail to win but the margin of victory was narrowed when Mrs. Stewart Hanley, Detroit, defeated Miss Lobbett, one up, and Miss Louise Fordyce, Youngstown, Ohio, won from Miss Doris Chambers, former British champion, 3 up and one to play. The last points scored for the visitors left the count 8 1-2 to 6 1-2.

NEW SUBSTANCE REDUCES PALPITATION OF HEART

BERLIN —(AP)— Palpitating hearts the world over need palpitate no longer if the claims of Dr. E. Zuelzer of this city are true.

He announced to the Berlin Medical society the discovery of a heart hormone which reduces palitation to a minimum.

He calls it eutonon and says it is isolated from liver and muscle. It reduces the size of the heart, he claims, enabling it to function with less oxygen. It also enlarges the coronary vessels so that they put more oxygen into the blood.

He says that athletes who received it in training showed reduced fatigue and above everything else, no signs of palpitation of the heart.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

Danny Meadow Mouse Is Out of Sorts.

By Thornton W. Burgess.

The anxious you will seldom find
Possessors of a tranquil mind.
—Danny Meadow Mouse.

Peter Rabbit was hopping along, lipperty-lipperty-lip, over near the Long Lane that leads from Farmer Brown's barnyard down to the cornfield on the Green Meadows. It was early in the morning and he was on his way home to the dear Old Briar-patch.

"I'm a little late," thought Peter. "Yes, sir, I'm a little late. I ought to have started for home sooner. I hope that Reddy Fox and Mrs. Reddy and Old man Coyote are nowhere around. I don't believe they are. And I hope Redtail the Hawk isn't hunting over this way. O dear, I do believe there is old Whitetail the Marsh Hawk now. Well, I'll have to stay hidden over here in the bushes beside the Long Lane for a while. If Bowser the Hound and Flip the Terrier stay at home, I'll be all right." So Peter turned into the bushes along the Long Lane and prepared to make himself comfortable.

Peter had been sitting there half-dozing for some time when a faint rustle of dry leaves caused him to open his eyes in a hurry. The rustle of dry leaves, especially when none of the Merry Little Breezes happens to be about, is always a matter of suspicion. Peter knew by the sound that small feet were rustling those leaves. Shadow the Weasel has small feet, for he is a small person. So Peter couldn't help being anxious.

In a moment, however, his anxiety was relieved. He saw a chunky grey-coated small person with a short tail. It was Danny Meadow Mouse. There was nothing to fear from Danny. Peter and Danny had been friends ever since Peter could remember.

"Hello, Danny Meadow Mouse!" cried Peter.

Danny jumped for he hadn't seen Peter. "Hello yourself!" he replied in his squeaky little voice. It was a cross voice. It was very plain that Danny felt out of sorts.

"What are you doing over here?" demanded Peter.

"That isn't the question at all," retorted Danny. "It is, what are you doing over here? I live here."

Peter opened his eyes very wide. "The last I knew, you were living out on the Green Meadows," said Peter.

"I don't have to tell you every time I move, do I?" retorted Danny crossly. "I've been living over here all this winter."

"Hello, Danny Meadow Mouse!" cried Peter.

"Is Nanny Meadow Mouse with you?" asked Peter.

"Of course she is," replied Danny. "You don't for a minute suppose I would be living over here all alone, do you?"

"Where is Nanny?" asked Peter.

"She isn't far away," replied Danny. "She's taking care of the children and trying to make up her mind where we'll move to."

"Move!" exclaimed Peter. "Why do you want to move?"

"On account of the neighbors," replied Danny. "We've got some new neighbors and now we've got to move."

Peter looked all around, as if he expected to see those new neighbors. "What's the matter with those neighbors?" he demanded. "Don't you like them? Or is it that they don't like you?"

"I don't like them and they do like me," replied Danny Meadow Mouse. "And that's why I've got to move. Just as soon as we get this family off our hands, Nanny and I are going to find a safer place for the next family. Life is just one worry after another. Here we are with a good place to live, plenty to eat without too much work to get it, and everything fine, when these new neighbors had to move in. The trouble is, I don't know where to move to."

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

William L. Barrett, Bristol.

Prior to 1856, glass was cut entirely by means of diamonds. About that time workmen in the Dunbar factory in Bristol, discovered that steel had so improved in quality that it could be made hard enough to scratch glass. In 1858, S. G. Monce of Bristol invented and patented the first rolling steel wheel glass cuter. Although he was entitled to a basic patent, his was so narrowly drawn that he was unable subsequently to protect it from infringements.

In 1880 William L. Barrett entered Monce's employ and became foreman for him. For the next 13 years this factory competed with another in New England for the monopoly on glass cutters, the main product of both being the novelty tool which is still sold to a small extent on the streets—the combination glass cutter, can-opener, corkscrew, and knife-sharpener. Astounding progress was made in the quality and production of cutting wheels, the cost being reduced from $3 each for a complete glass cutter to as low as 3c each in 1893.

At this time rM. Barrett rented space in the old Root shop and started in business for himself. 1893 was a panic year for the United States, but Barrett glass cutters were a success from the start. Under his personal direction the product became a tool instead of a novelty and the glass factories of the world started really to use it. Requiring larger quarters in 1903 he purchased land on School street, Bristol, and built his own factory, which has been running continuously full time ever since, never having closed except for holidays.

The Barrett factory today is one of the four major producers of glass cutters in New England where 12,000,000 out of the 17,000,000 cutting wheels, annually produced in the world originate. There are 18 operations all of which are in varying degrees dependent upon hand control, in the making of a glass cutter wheel. Workmen in the Barrett plant average 15 years' experience at this work and every advantage is taken of special machinery and modern scientific improvements. William L. Barrett, with the aid of his son, still directs and manages the production of cutting wheels and as a result Barrett glass cutters, made in Bristol, are favorably known throughout the world as examples of specialized New England skill.

Wind blows through brick wall. A well-laid thirteen-inch wall in the face of a thirty-mile-an-hour wind will allow 14.75 cubic feet of air to pass through it every hour, G. L. Larson, D. W. Nelson and C. Braatz reported before the International Heating and Ventilating Exposition. This datum is obtained from researches they have conducted at the University of Wisconsin. But proper plastering with gypsum directly on brick, they find, will stop 96 per cent of the leakage. Less air will leak through a wall which has been well constructed and in which all spaces between bricks are filled with mortar.

THE FARMER'S TALK TO FARMERS

COMPENSATIONS OF OLD AGE

(Written Specially for the Bulletin)

Are there any old fellows in the congregation, this morning?

If so, I want to get off with them in a corner where we can talk a little, just between ourselves, about this much misunderstood matter of old age.

You youngsters who haven't yet reached three-score and ten, please go out in the back yard and play. You won't be interested in anything we're going to say. You wouldn't even understand it. And we dont want to be bothered by any of your childish questions. Take your ball-bats and your dolls and your golf-sticks and have a good time, (as you understand it,) and let us patriarchs have the rocking-chairs to ourselves, just for once.

There appears to be a rather common feeling that age is something to be dreaded and staved off with all available artifices and camouflages. Inexperienced young things who want to say pleasant words to us oldsters gushingly assure us that we're looking "like two-year-olds." They solemnly asseverate that we don't seem a bit older than we were five years ago. Once in a while, one goes so far as to say: "My, but you're getting younger every day!"

The whole theory underlying this chatter is that old age is a distressing affliction, that we don't want to grow old, and that it'll tickle us pink to make us believe we're not doing so.

Now I think it's about time for some of us veterans to examine that theory a little and see if it will really hold water.

Is old age something so dreadful? Is it simply a bigger burden laid on already over-weighted shoulders? Is it something to be scared of? Is it wholly evil?

Or are there some compensations going with it? Are there some rays of light illuminating its shade? Are there any positively good things to be said for it and of it?

I have been young, said the psalmist, and now am old. We old chaps echo it after him. We've all been young and we're young no longer. Not to palter with soft words, we're old, old, old, and getting older every day. The old backs are no longer springy; the old hands are somewhat uncertain; the old eyes have to hide behind spectacles; the old legs are more or less tottery; the old blood leaps no more

"As it leaped and sung
When we were young."

Well, admitting all these things, what of them? It's natural for everything, from mowing-machines to men, to wear out. There's nothing shameful in that fact, if the wearing out comes from honorable use. It's only rusting out that's disgraceful. And I don't at this writing recall any New England farmer who ever got the chance to rust out. His job negatived any such possibility. He had to scratch gravel to keep ahead of the tax-collector.

Oh, well, some one may say, a condition may be nothing to be ashamed of, yet may have nothing to take pride or comfort in. If old age is simply a series of deprivations which there's no use in grouching about, that's one thing. If, however, it has some special functions and particular comforts and valuable uses, peculiar to it and resercved for it, that's another thing.

Let's see if that last supposition has any sound basis. Let's see if, instead of just holding our tongues about our aches, we can't find some rewards to be vocally and sincerely thankful for. Let's see if there aren't some good things about old age, some actually pleasant and highly desirable things, pleasant and desirable in themselves, and not make-shifts substituting for something better.

To begin with, we've discovered, and proved the discovery by many years' testing, that we don't know much. As Edison puts it, that nobody knows one-millionth of one per cent about anything. That's about as valuable and comforting a lesson as life can bring either to a Solomon or a Simple Simon. It makes for peace of mind, serenity of soul and suavity of manner.

We can remember the days when we felt that we knew it all, or at least, most all. We can also recall the amount of trouble we were constantly in because we felt that we had to persuade, cajole, or coerce our less intelligent and moral neighbors into seeing things as we saw them, and doing them as we did them. Gradually the great truth has dawned and broadened upon us that our eyes are not all-seeing, that our judgments are not infallible, that our methods are not necessarily perfect nor even the best available. We have attained a degree of wisdom which acknowledges its own ignorance. That tends to tolerance and humility, both greatly needed virtues.

Having been relegated by physical weaknesses to the rocking-chair and the chimney-corner, we can relax our efforts to make God's world over into what we think He intended but wasn't quite able to accomplish without our help. In other words, we no longer carry responsibility for the universe on our shoulders. If you think that isn't a relief worthy of much thanksgiving you have something yet to learn. In Rostand's famous play of "Chanticleer" the big barn-yard rooster was firmly convinced that he crowed the sun up, every morning, and that it would never rise if he stopped cock-a-doodling. Imagine his sense of responsibility! It fairly weighed him to the ground and made his life one long-drawn out struggle. It wasn't till he got to be a really old bird that he came to appreciate his own comparative unimportance in the celestial mechanism. The relief was great. We old fellows share it. We've been through the same experience. Let us give hearty thanks that the safe conduct of the universe no longer rests in our hands. And that we know it.

Another of the charms of old age is that the dotard is under no compulsion to be what Jones, Brown and Robinson call "reasonable."

He is regarded as out of the running and, therefore, not restricted by the rules which govern still contesting rivals.

He is also expected to be more or less "cranky," "old-fashioned," not to say "old fogyish." It is assumed that he finds modern modes misfitting and uncomfortable and, "bless his old heart, why shouldn't he splutter and grumble," say the understanding.

He is popularly endowed with the freedom of thought and speech which accompanies the acknowledgement of helplessness and irresponsibility.

He is not even required to make his reminiscences dovetail. If the story, as he tells it today, differs from the tale related last week, he is not accused of lying, as younger men would be. The discrepancy is leniently ascribed to a perfectly natural lapse of memory.

He is graciously permitted to be as critical and as objurgatory as the fit takes him. He is allowed to dilate, sometimes at considerable length, upon what his juniors "hadn't ought" to do. They will listen, perhaps amusedly but outwardly with respect, while they decide for themselves what they are going to do.

The beauty of it is that he knows, all the time that what he asserts or what he denies will be as water on the duck's back, just a non-penetrating patter. Hence for him the sky is the limit.

Nobody is expected to learn from his experience, be warned by his mistakes, or profit by his advice. Consequently, he may be as free with his suggestions as an equally disregarded Providence is with its air and water.

He feels no necessity of consulting reason for either his advice or his monitions. He knows neither will be seriously considered by anybody. They are emitted, just as steam is from an over-heated boiler, to relieve internal pressure. Doing that, they accomplish their sole purpose.

I don't remember, indeed I don't think I ever knew who it was that said old age is the climax for which all the rest of life is but preparation. Whoever it was, he was a wise philosopher. He knew his world, he knew his neighbors, he knew himself.

The fairest portion of day is the sunset, "splendid and serene," passing from visible glory to glory, till it finally sublimes into the invisible glory which "never was on sea or land," "the inspiration and the poet's dream."

The fairest portion of life is that which crowns its closing years. Youth may arrogate the center of the stage to itself and push us old chaps into the side-wings, calling us "has-beens." Well, that very phrase is confession that we HAVE BEEN, and that youth owes its stage to us. We built it and furnished it and acted our parts till they grew tiresome. Now we rest.

Let the new actors take up the drama. We can watch their comings and goings, their exits and entrances, with combined sympathy and amusement. The tragi-comedy of life no longer arouses us either to fury or to excessive merriment. We know that most of their swords are painted laths and their armor gilded tin. We smile at their futile combats or unashamedly doze during their most impassioned heroics.

After the battle the soldier gathers the spoils of victory. After the day's toil the laborer takes his earned rest. It was for these that the battle was fought and the work done.

That's what old age is or ought to be, a rest after toil, on the laurels of victory.

It's the best part of life, if you'll only take it as it comes and for what it is. It's an asset, not a liability.

Let's not pray to be young again; let's rather, pray for grace to comprehend the greater blessing we share!

THE FARMER.

CHICK MORTALITY CAN BE KEPT BELOW 10 PER CENT

With the new methods in poultry production there is no reason why chick mortality should not be kept below 10 per cent, says Dr. M. A. Jull, poultry specialist of the United State department of agriculture. In certain sections it has been common to regard a 15 to 20 per cent chick mortality as nothing unusual, he says.

Doctor Jull bases his statements on results of experimental work conducted by the department and on results of poultry growers in several states where definite campaigns for reducing chick mortality have been conducted. For the past three years the mortality for chicks up to four weeks of age at the department's animal husbandry experiment farm at Beltsville, Md., has been below 4 per cent.

Keeping chick mortality below 10 per cent is largely a matter of sanitation, according to Doctor Jull. The first thing necessary is to get eggs or chicks from breeding stock that has been tested for bacillary white diarrhea. In the second place, be sure that the incubation of the eggs has been carried out under the most sanitary conditions possible. Then the brooder house should be carefully disinfected and the litter replaced two or three times a week. Clean feed, fed in clean troughs, is another important factor in reducing chick mortality.

SOME NEW IDEAS IN PLANNING OLD AND NEW HOME GROUNDS

The modern conception of the well-planted home grounds is that every part be attractively developed so that the whole will be harmonious and pleasing. No longer is the home owner content to have just the front portion of the lot appear at its best—now the entire grounds are developed so that every part will be in step with the times.

In order to obtain the best results it is essential that the grounds be planned before changes and new additions are made. Imagine a house being built without a definite plan to be followed! It would seem foolish to make a shopping tour of the lumber yard, selecting here a door that pleased the fancy, there a new variety of shingles, and then adding to it the necessary flooring and so on, wouldn't it? Yet that is the haphazard way in which a great many gardens are made. The owner buys his favorite varieties in shrubs, trees, flowers and vines, and then just plants them without any definite idea of what the finished effect will be.

Even though he gains a certain amount of satisfaction in having these various plants growing in his yard, such a hod-podge collection will never give him the real pleasure that he will feel had he planned his garden in advance and then purchased material to fit the plan. For such a plan, professional skill is not essential, though always worth what it costs. If the amateur gardener will take as much interest in gardening as he takes in golf, for example, he can have a harmonious and effective garden. Simplicity is desirable in garden design as in all else, and the fundamental points to be observed are few.

The first thing the home owner should decide is the part his garden is to play in relation to his home. Most amateur gardeners cannot overcome the idea that the out-of-doors is outside the home and that its decoration must be designed for public display and not for private enjoyment.

The modern garden is now planned as a grass-carpeted living room with the sky for a ceiling and flowers and plants for decoration. Such a garden answers the need for outdoor living in our summer climate. This need has always been felt. When the heat of summer comes we attempt to escape it by returning to pioneer conditions, fleeing to the woods to live in camps. But gradually homes were changed in design so that they were more comfortable in summer—we moved from the inside rooms to the screened porch.

Now comes this new change—the pleasure and satisfaction of living in our gardens amid comfortable surroundings of ordered beauty.

Of course, not the entire home lot can be thus developed for private enjoyment—there is the front yard that is always on display. However, it can be developed in harmony with the neighboring yards, and so planned that it will present at all seasons of the year a dignified and pleasing appearance.

THIN VEGETABLES FOR QUALITY

It really seems a waste to plant seeds, see them germinate and then have to pull up and kill half of them. This, however, is the only way in which quality vegetables can be secured. The greatest fault in gardening, particularly vegetable gardening, is letting the plants grow too thickly. Radishes and lettuce in particular are too often planted thickly and left to struggle for existence in the row. Not half the crop is realized under these conditions.

The way to obviate much slaughter of infant plants is to plant the seed thinly. This is not the easiest task in the world for the seed will roll out of the packets all too freely unless handled with a very steady hand and once on the ground it can't be thinned. Do the best you can to plant thinly and then there won't be so much thinning necessary.

To do its best and give the full crop it is capable of producing each plant must have room to develop its full growth both of root and top. Thin leaf lettuce to at least three inches apart. Four inches will be better but the little plants will look lonely until you get used to the idea. Give each radish two inches in which to expand and it will expand much more quickly than when it has to push other radishes out of the way.

Give each pea vine three inches on either side to get the most from the vine. Usually the vines come up touching each other in the row and soon become a hopeless tangle. Don't be afraid to thin. Seed is the cheapest commodity on the market. It is always an easy matter to obtain more if a crop fails, but don't plant it too thick. It is poor economy. The seed will go twice as far and produce twice as good crops if planted thinly than if sown thickly. It will only have to be thinned out when it comes up.

In transplanting from the hotbed or seed box, do not set the plants too close together. Observe the distances apart specified on the seed packets rigorously and you will get best results in the long run. Nothing is gained by crowding.

DISCOVER BETTER SWEET-CLOVER GROWING METHODS

Sweetclover has so recently been added to the list of important American forage crops that new methods of growing and using the plant are constantly being found.

L. W. Kephart, agronomist of the United States department of agriculture, points out that new methods have made it possible to grow sweetclover on slightly sour soil with very little lime; to get better stands by double inoculation; to obtain satisfactory results with unhulled seed sowed in the winter and with sweetclover mixed with grasses in pasture; and to feed green sweetclover to livestock so as to cause the minimum of bloating.

Sweetclover may be grown successfully on soil only slightly sour with a relatively small quantity of lime by mixing it with the seed. Usually about 400 or 500 pounds of hydrated lime with the seed is enough for one acre. The mixture is sown through a fertilizer attachment of a wheat drill. Applied in this way the lime falls close to the seed, Mr. Kephart says, and it is immediately available to the seedlings. Apparently the seedling stage is the critical time with respect to lime requirement, and if the seedlings become established the plants thrive.

Both laboratory culture and soil from sweetclover fields are used successfully in what is known as double inoculation to doubly assure a good stand, Mr. Kephart says. The seed is treated first with the laboratory culture and then is mixed with three or four times its bulk of the sifted soil.

To overcome slowness of germination of sweetclover seed, seed may be scarified for late spring or summer planting, but growers have found that the seed in the hull is better for late fall or winter and will ordinarily germinate by warm weather, Mr. Kephart says. In most of the central and eastern states unhulled seed scattered on a frozen wheat field in January or February has proved to be one of the most reliable methods of obtaining a stand.

The binder is being used to bundle sweetclover when cut for hay, thus improving the curing, at reasonable cost, and clover is used in pasture mixtures with grasses in some sections, increasing the pasturing season and improving the grazing. Farmers have learned to reduce the danger of livestock bloating while feeding on green sweetclover by feeding some hay before turning stock on sweetclover pasture, so the animals will not gorge themselves on this plant.

STRUGGLING WITH HEAVY SOIL

This is the season for the annual struggle with heavy soil which makes spading and garden preparation a rather onerous task. This need not be so if the gardener will take the trouble to ameliorate the conditions which can be done easily. Clay soil is the hardest medium at the start.

Liming heavy soil is one of the first steps. The lime has the quality of assisting in breaking up the closely cohering soil particles and is an excellent start towards making the earth mellow and friable. Add to the lime mechanical action in the way of incorporating sand, ashes, fine cinders, pulverized limestone, and humus and the work is well under way.

The new peat moss is one of the most excellent of materials for breaking up clay soils by adding humus. It should be spaded in liberally. The main thing is making a start. Dig into at least a part of the garden some of these lightening materials thoroughly. It may be too slow a task to do all at once but part this spring and part next fall and by another year the task will be materially lighter.

In soils which are heavy because of lack of drainage and where there is no good drainage outlet for tiling, the practical means is to elevate the beds by small rock walls about the beds or borders two or three stones deep, filling in and digging in the lightening material. There are many communities where the soil because of the lay of the land is wet and heavy and owing to paving and street improvements no effective drainage system can well be installed. These must be treated be elevating beds, which is not as difficult a task as it looks and has been done in many properties.

Sand is an easily procurable material. Torpedo sand is a favorite type for heavy clay soils and seems to be more effective because of its coarser particles than silver sand used in heavy black soils. Pulverized limestone does the work even more efficiently by adding the solid particles to break up the clay and also by adding lime which by its chemical action helps to loosen up the soil.

HOME-GROWN MUSKMELONS PAY WELL ON LOCAL MARKETS

Muskmelons produced locally and sold in small towns and on roadside markets could often be grown to advantage in small acreages in many parts of the country, according to Farmers' bulletin 1467-F entitled "Muskmelons," recently revised by the U. S. department of agriculture and available to anyone requesting it. The country's carlot markets are well supplied from the big producing centers, but local growers in many sections can advantageously produce and sell melons on the smaller markets which are now not fully supplied by the carlot movement, says the author, W. R. Beattie, horticulturist of the bureau of plant industry.

Well drained, warm, sandy-loam or silt loam soils are best adapted to melon growing although some of the finest melons grow on sandy river bottoms and rich clay loams, Mr. Beattie points out. Warmth, drainage, abundance of quickly available plant food and humus are essential for success. Any garden soil is suitable for melons grown for home use.

Insect pests and diseases are the greatest obstacles to muskmelon growing, according to the bulletin. This crop must be rotated, appearing not oftener than once in five or six years on the same land and with no related vine crops in the rotation if the soil is to be kept uninfested. Seed treatment and dusting or spraying will be necessary for success, the bulletin says.

The author also comments on varieties and types of melons best suited to the local markets and home gardens, on the preparation of soil, cultivation, harvesting and packing of melons. In established melon growing sections the most urgent need is for improvement of quality and standardization of packs, says Mr. Beattie.

STUDY OF DISEASE PUTS TURKEY BUSINESS ON A STABLE BASIS

Turkey raising in the United States has been regarded as a side issue and a gamble, but increasing knowledge of parasitic diseases and their control is putting the industry on a more stable basis, says A. R. Lee, poultry husbandman of the U. S. department of agriculture. "There are now more than 3 1-2 million turkeys on farms in this country, and they constitute 1 1-2 per cent of all poultry. The 1929 crop of market turkeys indicated a decided advance in the business as compared with 1928. The estimated increase was about 9 per cent."

In recognition of the increased interest in turkeys and the need for further information concerning parasitic diseases, the U. S. department of agriculture has established a foundation flock of turkeys at the U. S. Range Experiment Station at Miles City, Mont. This work got under way last spring. Of 600 birds raised last season 300 were selected for the breeding flocks. Everett E. Wehr, a research worker, is devoting all his time to the investigation of parasitic diseases. The work at this station will also include a study of the comparative cost of raising turkeys in confinement and on free range.

The flock was established by purchasing hatching eggs which were incubated artificially. The young birds were brooded in special brooder houses with clean yards until they were about 8 weeks old. The investigators took these precautions to prevent infestations of the poults by such parasites as are introduced by adult turkeys. When large enough to range the young poults were provided with large fenced lots and inexpensive shelters for roosting.

"Modern improvements in mechanical means of hatching and brooding have done much to develop the turkey industry," Mr. Lee says. "Day-old poults are now produced by commercial hatcheries and shipped by parcel post in much the same manner as baby chicks. Artificial brooding has been of particular value in preventing losses from blackhead disease which at one time threatened to destroy the industry."

Research workers have determined that this disease is caused by a parasite which can not live long in soil, but which may be transmitted in the egg of another parasite, the cecum worm. The blackhead parasite survives for long periods in the worm egg. As both turkeys and chickens may have blackhead, usually in a chronic form in mature birds, and as both may also have cecum worms, prevention of the acute, destructive form of blackhead in young turkeys calls for rearing on clean ground away from chickens and older turkeys.

SILO OF GREAT BENEFIT TO DAIRY FARMER

"Succulence is one ration quality that passes from the grasp of some dairymen with the arrival of the first killing frost," says R. G. Connelly of the New Jersey department of agriculture. Characteristic of all green summer forage, succulence can be advantageously transferred over to the winter feeding program with little additional expense where dairying is a definite enterprise in the yearly farm business, he says. The advantages of having a stimulating feed of this kind are little appreciated until after the dairy farmer has had experience with it; then he never wants to be without some form of silage either in winter or summer, Mr. Connelly declares.

"The reasons for the extensive use of the silo as a preserver of forage for winter feeding are many," this authority continues. "In the first place, it provides ample insurance against a shortage of good succulent feed in all seasons at low cost. By experiments and actual farm practice it has been repeatedly demonstrated that roughage stored in a silo is stored at low expense and that it provides a feed far cheaper than and yet as effective as beets. Where cows are under forced production, or are being specially fitted in flesh, perhaps there may be some advantage in feeding beets. But where the least bother and expense are desired, silage is hard to displace.

"Another fact that may escape the notice of dairymen who must get a large supply of feed nutrients from a small land area is that when crops are properly ensiled, less of the feed nutrients are lost through fermentation than is apt to take place when the same crops are cured as hay or fodder. According to a number of experiment station field trials, corn fodder or other forage may lose as much as 20 per cent of its dry matter under conditions of weathering in the field. Furthermore these losses fall heavily on the nourishing sugars, proteins, and starches, which are greatly preserved by ensiling. In a silo thirty feet deep, the loss of dry matter should not be over 20 per cent if reasonable care is exercised to pack the material at the time of filling. In the silo the bulk of the loss is in the material that must be scraped off the top when feeding is started.

"The silo may be used to cut down forage wastes, for dry corn fodder as well as other crop residues can be ensiled to make satisfactory dairy feed. Weedy crops which would make poor hay have been successfully ensiled, yielding silage of a good quality and killing practically all weed seeds as well. In such silage, however, a quantity of shredded corn stalks might well be incorporated so that preservation is more certain.

"A final advantage in the use of a silo rests on the fact that it economizes in storage space. A cubic foot of hay in the mow, weighing about five pounds, will contain about four and three-tenths pounds of dry matter. On the other hand, a cubic foot of average corn silage from a thirty-foot silo will weigh about thirty-nine pounds, and will contain about ten and two-tenths pounds of dry matter; nearly two and one-half times as much as in the hay. Where corn fodder is stored in the barns even more space is required for a pint of dry matter than is needed for hay. To the dairymen needing mow space, the silo might be made a worthy adjunct to his other farm buildings.

"Indian corn is without a doubt the most satisfactory silage crop. The sorghums, as well as meadow grasses, may be successfully ensiled to make a good dairy feed. At this season, however, there may be corn stover, soybeans, beet tops, apple pomace, or sweet corn wastes that might be ensiled if the usual corn supply for silage is short."

TUBERCULOUS ANIMALS FEWER

That the campaign to eradicate livestock tuberculosis is succeeding is proved by the decline in the number of cattle and hog carcasses condemned for tuberculosis under the Federal meat-inspection service of the United States department of agriculture in the fiscal year 1929. The number of cattle carcasses condemned, per million of cattle slaughtered, declined from 430 in 1928 to 380 in 1929; in the case of hogs, the number declined from 1,150 in 1928 to 990 in 1929.

FERTILIZE THE GARDEN

If the garden is not doing well, some extra fertilization this summer may encourage the plants, says the United States department of agriculture. A top dressing with a complete mixed fertilizer, at the rate of 2 pounds per 100 square feet, may be applied. A mixture containing 5 per cent nitrogen, 10 per cent phosphoric acid, and 5 per cent potash, is suitable. Bone meal can be used at the same rate, but is slower in its action. If the plants have a poor color they may need nitrogen. This can be supplied by nitrate of soda or ammonium sulphate at the rate of one-fourth pound to 100 square feet. To distribute this amount evenly it is well to mix the fertilizer with sand, ground phosphate rock, or bone meal.

A Hit!

Armour's New Star Bacon with FIXED* FLAVOR achieved by the "double-f" process

HOUSEWIVES have discovered a new "star" of particular brilliance . . . Armour's Star Bacon, prepared by the "double-f" process — a complete revision of our cure and smoke methods. Star Bacon was already the most melting, mouth-watering morsel that ever decorated a dish. But we were bent on "doing the impossible." And we discovered the "double-f" process.

You'll be on the verge of knowing the full meaning of "double-f" when the fat sputters in the pan, and that glorious fragrance percolates through the kitchen. And you will know, when your fork divides each marvelous mouthful. Uniformly sliced in cartons, or your dealer will slice it from the original piece. Ask for Star Bacon, and you'll get Fixed* Flavor. Armour and Company, Chicago.

[illegible] You can see what you're getting through the window in the pound and half-pound cartons.

WATER POURED ON BLAZE PROVES TO BE GASOLINE

Excitement was caused in Old Mystic Wednesday evening when at about 7:30 o'clock some boys playing around the dump, which is in the swamp, half of which is owned by G. R. Swain of Old Mystic, started a fire. They had a can of water which they had picked up from the dump, and when they decided to put out the fire, they poured the water on, but it happened to be gasoline. The fire spread quickly and flames were soon shooting many feet in the air. The fire warden was called and several men stood by to see that no damage was done to near-by property, as it was practically impossible to put out the blaze. It is thought that the fire may burn for several days, as there is a great deal of stuff that will burn.

In Tuesday night's play in the first open bridge tournament of the Westerly Cycle club, the following Mystic teams did their bit. A very interesting table was the one at which R. Burrows and W. Reynolds lost to Westerly partners, margin 1991; Roscoe Burrows and William McGregor won from Clyde Clendennen and Edgar Collington, margin 878; Charles Gremley and Charles Kleburg lost to Westerly and Stonington partners, margin, 1541; S. PLANE MINUS PILOT TAKES OFF, CRASHES

CIAMPINO, Italy —(AP)— A huge two-engined Caproni plane made a five-minute fight here without the guidance of a human hand, and then crashed in flames.

A mechanic had been in the cabin warming up one of the engines. In leaving, his belt accidentally touched the carburetor and turned the engine on full.

The plane took off perfectly, as though guided by a pilot, circled over the field, dipped toward a hangar, righted itself, soared, and then nosed to the ground as a gust of wind struck it.

TO BURN PLANES, HANGAR IN TESTS OF SPRINKLER

WASHINGTON —(AP)— A newly-built hangar will be deliberately burned here by fire control experts to test the protection of automatic sprinklers.

Obsolete planes of the army and navy, stripped of power plants and instruments, will be sacrificed before a federal "fact-finding" committee for data on a proposed code to regulate construction and protection of airports.

The hangar, donated by the national committee on wood utilization, has been built at the bureau of standards and will be fired before officials of the aeronautics branch of the department of commerce, the national of fire underwriters, the army and navy, and others.

Blazes will be started in the walls, in airplanes, and in gasoline poured on the concrete floor in an effort to simulate actual airport fires.

The hangar is 80 feet long, 66 feet wide, and 28 feet high to the top of its arched roof.

Discovery of the skull of a musk-ox at a high elevation near Bonneville, Utah, is believed to indicate these animals were in existence more than 100,000 years ago.

ADVANCED CENSUS TOTAL GIVES THE TOWN 10,987

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., May 1—Thursday afternoon Supervisor T. Frederick [illegible] of Newport, R. I., announced census results for several Washington county, R. I. towns, as follows: Westerly, 10,987, an increase over the 1920 census of 1,025, when the population was numbered as 9,962.

In the 1925 state census Westerly was reported as having a population of 11,177, and if the returns are complete and correct there has been a loss in population during the past five years.

The population of other Washington county towns has been returned as follows:

	1930	1920
Charlestown	1,162	739
[illegible]	1,302	1,038
[illegible]	1,237	993

The returns from other towns will be announced from time to time as the tabulation is completed, although these figures are subject to review by the officials of the federal census department in Washington.

A brush and grass fire off Oak street, near the residence of Joseph Coduri, Thursday afternoon shortly before 2 o'clock was undoubtedly started by children playing nearby. A telephone call was sent to Westerly fire headquarters where alarm No. 33, the usual call for an out-of-the-district fire, was [illegible] in so that not all the pieces of apparatus would respond. The [illegible] pumper and men extinguished the small blaze by the use of the booster tank hose before the flames were given a chance to spread.

ELOQUENT NORWICH PRIEST GUEST SPEAKER FOR K. OF C.

Rev. Fr. John Joseph Reilly, junior assistant at St. Patrick's church, Norwich, was the principal speaker Wednesday evening at the [illegible] anniversary banquet of Narragansett council, No. [illegible], Knights of Columbus, Theodore Cote, grand knight. "We live in a world of hero worship," declared the Norwich clergyman when referring to the tribute paid Columbus, and continued, "The world delights in making heroes. Whether someone spans the ocean like a bird, or someone takes a journey into Arctic regions or throws a lifeline to a sinking ship—it matters not what is done, but the world takes him up and offers homage to him," he said.

Other speakers were Thomas F. [illegible] of Providence, Judge John W. [illegible], Supreme Dictator Charles P. [illegible], District Deputy Walter F. [illegible] and Father Powers. Grand Knight Theodore Cote of Narragansett council presided and James W. [illegible], past grand knight of that council, was toastmaster.

Decide Against Strike

A [illegible] session was held by Westerly Laborers' Union Wednesday night at the Central Labor Union headquarters when a second strike of Westerly laborers was averted. The trouble which has threatened to become serious during the last few days was [illegible] out at length. An element of the union has been agitating for an increased wage from 60 to 65 cents an hour for laborers, and a proportionate increase for masons and bricklayers. Business Agent [illegible] of the Laborers' Union succeeded in securing a vote against a strike. The agitating element had urged that a strike be called Thursday to tie up all construction work in Westerly and vicinity. Such a strike would have further delayed construction of the new junior high school. Between two and three hundred members of the union attended the meeting which lasted until nearly midnight.

With the arrival of May 1st the office of Town Clerk Everett E. Whipple, treasurer and collector of Westerly Fire District will be visited much less frequently by taxpayers and dog owners. With the closing of the collection period from April 15th to April 30th on the [illegible] levy the sum of $14,341.30 of the total taxes of $19,373.70 had been received.

Clerk Whipple reported Thursday evening that in addition to this $14,341.30 over $1100 had been received in Thursday morning's mail and doubtless there will be more checks which were mailed late.

Registration of dogs compares very favorably with that of last year. This year [illegible] dogs were registered and last year [illegible]. These figures do not include kennel licenses, however. This year there were [illegible] male dogs, 52 female dogs licensed and six kennel licenses granted. Last year there were 526 male dogs and [illegible] females registered and [illegible] kennel licenses granted.

AMERICAN LEGION POSTS SHOULD BE BOOSTED

Now that the great World war is over, once in a while you run into a buddy, when war stories are told, also a great laugh is enjoyed. Some are sad, but the chance may never come again to see your old pals together. If a war breaks out it might be 10 years or 50 years but all would be new faces. So the American Legion was formed throughout the world where ex-service men meet once a month or so. During the first part of the meeting of the Legion in all places in this United States it got going good, making a hit. Some posts had over 800 men. That would be, in a city, but in a small place over 200 men sat in the Legion romm listening to war stories and plans for Memorial day, taking the place of the Civil war soldiers, having a clam chowder and with smoke floating around the room. Now the American Legion has a big drive on. In every place there is a Legion post. They need men for the posts to keep up the good work. Connecticut is trying hard to go over the top on new members and they have a good start. In the cities it is hard to get new members on account of so many places to go to in an evening, but many ex-service men cannot understand what the American Legion is for and what good it does. Each month one evening is put aside where business is told and a light lunch and the commander will say is anyone sick and needs help. It gives a good chance to meet a buddy that you have not seen since Uncle Sam gave you the sheepskin. They tell how the mud holes were slept in and the rain drops for a pillow, or how a bullet hit the tin roof on your head and slid off. When I was out west recently the newspapers were full of the American Legion having a big drive for new members. I think 1930 will be the biggest year in the history of the Legion for all the posts will work hard to make it the best year yet.

Attending a meeting in Clayton, Mo., there was a turn-out of about 25, when the wooden mallet hit the table for order. When it came to the good of the legion, if anyone had anything to say, a young fellow around 29 years got up and said he went to war when he was 17, ran away from home to fight for Uncle Sam, went across the pond and saw lots of action. Only about a couple of weeks ahead of time they had orders to go over the top. It was around three o'clock, dark and talk about noise of guns! Everything went with the war. A shell came over and hit near us and killed many. It blew my left leg off. When I was picked up and came to, I was in a hospital, back of the lines The nurse asked me about how I got my leg shot off. I said with a smile, "I gave that to Uncle Sam, where others gave their lives! It was some battle and I am a cripple, but glad I went to war and am able to give my leg for my country, buddies, of legionnaires. I am not a legionnaire yet, but going to join before I leave the Legion hall! For it sure is a great thing to belong, where you can light up the cigar or pipe and hear a buddy tell over all the good times with the sad ones. I am glad to be here tonight with the Clayton post." He was given a big hand by the legionnaires for the fine talk about his war experiences in Sunny France, known to all the A. E. F. soldiers as the land of sunshine, rain and mud.

A Missouri oyster stew was served at the close. During each month, each district will hold a meeting where things are planned for conventions and the big time in Boston in October and where you can have a Harvard Hop with a young lady, also good eats; four hours of a well spent evening. So all those who don't know what the American legion is, join and meet your buddies and let's boost the American legion posts in the United States.

Cook Non-Support Case May Be Decided by Wife

Frederick Cook of Mohegan Hill, who was arrested by State Officer Arthur Whitmarsh of Groton barracks for non-support, on complaint of Captain Day of the New London Salvation Army, had his case tried this afternoon in the Montville justice court before Justice of the Peace Oscar E. Church. William H. Shields, Jr., of Norwich, was counsel for Mr. Cook and Moses Blumenthal of Norwich was counsel for Captain Day. Mr. Cook had three witnesses, two of his sons and Mr. LaPie, who has a grocery store close by and who testified that there was always plenty to eat in the Cook house and Cook bought the family clothes within his means. Mr. Cook claims that his wife attended the Army meeting three and four times a week and in the meantime he and his two boys, who were working, had to come home and cook their own meals. Mrs. Cook testified that she has not been living with her husband for the past two years; she has been working two or three days a week to help support herself and her two daughters, with the help of the Salvation Army. She also claims that her husband came home drunk with other companions and used vile language in the presence of her two daughters. Cook agrees to take his wife and three daughters back, but Mrs. Cook is yet undecided; so the court continued the case till next Wednesday afternoon, May 7, at 3:30 p. m., when the woman will decide.

No need to Change Laxatives

If in your fight against constipation you have been continually increasing your doses—changing from pills to salts and back to pills for relief—you will welcome this interesting discovery of modern science.

It is now known that the success of any laxative depends on uniform internal distribution—that unless it is thoroughly and evenly distributed throughout the intestinal tract irregular and unsatisfactory action will result.

This explains the success of the modern chewing gum laxative known as Feen-a-mint. As you chew this delicious gum, the tasteless laxative it contains is mixed with the saliva and carried to the intestinal tract evenly, smoothly, without shock to the system.

Because of its thorough distribution, you will find Feen-a-mint effective in milder doses than ordinary laxatives. With the proper dosage it is not necessary to increase the amount of Feen-a-mint you take nor to switch to another laxative for a change. Feen-a-mint is harmless and contains no habit-forming drugs. Truly the health laxative. Ask for a package at any drug store.—Adv.

LEADING INVESTMENT SHARES SHOWED LOSSES OF 3 TO 9 POINTS YESTERDAY

NEW YORK, May 1—(AP)—The celebration of May day on the New York Stock Exchange proved to be entirely in the hands of the bear faction. Giving the market only a brief respite at the outset, the operators for the decline continued to hack large chunks from the prices of leading investment shares and net losses of 3 to 9 points were common among the prominent rails, industrials and utilities, some of the more volatile issues, as usual, tumbled considerably more.

Railroad and steel shares were again the most vulnerable. The persistence and strength of the attack, which has been proceeding with only minor interruptions for about a fortnight, was well illustrated by the toboggan ride taken by U. S. Steel. This market leader, sold in large blocks, broke below 180, its previous resistance point, halting its decline at 178, or 4 points net lower. The close was fractionally above the bottom.

Despite the widespread character of the movement, price indices showed that the losses were slightly less than on Monday, which saw the largest since late in December. Volume was well below the 5,000,000 share mark and only about 100,000 shares above yesterday's total, but final prices were generally at the lowest of the day and new minimums for the year were numerous.

The day's news contained several significant items most of which affected the credit outlook. Most important was the reduction in the New York Federal Reserve bank's rediscount rate to 3 per cent, after cuts had been made by the central banks of England and France. This step rather surprised financial circles, which have been viewing the outlook for money with considerable equanimity, but it was seen as another move in the reserve system's easy money program inaugurated after the stock market crash as an aid to business recovery.

Another surprise, marketwise, was the $37,000,000 gain in brokers loans to a total of $4,274,000,000 which contrasts with $5,532,000,000 at this time a year ago. In view of the rather steady decline in prices during the past week Wall street generally had expected the loan figures would show a decrease. The compilation, however, includes changes only through last Tuesday.

Brushing aside the basically favorable news from London and Paris, as well as a reduction in bankers' acceptances and the prospects of a further cut in this paper tomorrow, operators for the decline waded into the rails with particular vigor. Southern Railway was spushed down to 101 1-8, the lowest since 1925, although it recovered about 1 1-2 from the bottom to close 2 1-2 lower. Losses of 2 to 7 points, net, in Atchison, Rock Island, Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, Union Pacific, Canadian Pacific, Northern Pacific, New York Central, Louisville & Nashville, Missouri Pacific, Erie, Missouri Kansas Texas and Reading, demonstrated the breadth and strength of the selling in response to the cumulative effect on unfavorable first quarter earnings statements.

Pressure was also exerted against such leaders as American Can, Union Carbide, Consolidated Gas, American Telephone, General Electric, Westinghouse, Radio, Eastman Kodak and National Biscuit, down 2 to 6 points. J. I. Case lost 16 points, Auburn Auto 9, and Columbian Carbon 8. Vanadium, selling ex-dividend, was down 7 and Bethlehem more than 2 points at the day's lowest figures.

Oils were unsettled by the reduction in Pennsylvania crude prices. Standard of New Jersey fell 3 points and Houston T. Pierce, which is being linked with Sinclair in merger reports, was firm.

The money markets were fairly easy. Demand loans, which have held at 4 per cent over the month-end period largely because of gold imports, remained at that figure, but time money was lower.

Commodity prices were little changed, although the trend was lower. Cotton closed irregular, while May wheat reached a new low and corn sagged slightly.

Foreign exchanges were steady, with the leading European rates virtually stationary despite the bank rate revisions.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, May 1—(AP)—Crowded conditions of grain elevator storage space resulted today in sharp breaks in prices, May delivery of wheat outdoing any low record heretofore this season. The tumble in values followed announcement that railroad track deliveries of grain in Chicago would hereafter be valid under an emergency ruling, and that warehouse receipts would be unnecessary. In this connection, reports were current that huge holdings of wheat congesting elevators here were likely to be loaded out into railroad cars and offered in settlement of May delivery contracts.

After collapsing to within 3-4c of $1.00 a bushel for May contracts, the wheat market rallied somewhat and closed unsettled at exactly yesterday's finish to 5-8c off. Corn closed unchanged to 1c down, with oats varying from 1-2c decline to 5-8c advance, and provisions showing 2c to 10c gain.

Contributing to acute weakness which developed at one stage in wheat values today were first-of-the-month deliveries of much more than usual magnitude. Before trading had ended, the total of such deliveries in Chicago amounted to 5,362,000 bu., and the aggregate for all the leading markets, including Chicago, was about 10,000,000 bu. At first, however, the market was undisturbed about May deliveries, and even paid little heed temporarily to emergency measures being taken in regard to overcrowding of elevators here. The seriousness of the grain storage problem, though, was soon pressed home by the fact that corn prices began to slide downward because of sudden curtailment of demand for corn, a result of lack of immediate available warehouse space here.

Semi-demorilization of prices quickly spread from corn to wheat. Then came a report that there was about 9,000,000 bu. of wheat in private elevators here which owners were hoping might be taken by farm board allies in exchange for May delivery contracts. Talk was heard that in case such an exchange was not brought about, as much as 5,000,000 bu. might be taken from the elevators and disposed of through track deliveries under distressed circumstances. The outlook that such a procedure would form a burden on the market resulted in more than wiping out early price gains which had resulted from apparent ready absorption of wheat on May contracts here and from good-sized new export business in North American wheat.

Corn as well as wheat showed an upward trend at first but tumbled badly later after announcement that track deliveries of corn and all grain including wheat would be permitted of May contracts. Oats were unsettled by the action of other cereals and by narrowing of the May-July spread in oats prices.

Provisions rose on account of upturns in hog values.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—May .99 1-4, 1.03 1-4; July 1.02 5-8-3-4, 1.05 7-8-1.06; Sept. 1.06 3-8, 1.09 3-8-5-8; Dec. 1.11 1-2, 1.14 1-4. Corn—May .78 7-8, .80 3-4; July .80 5-8-3-4, .82 1-2-5-8; Sept. .82 3-8; .84 1-8-1-4; Dec. .76 7-8, .78 3-4.

NEW YORK, May 1—(AP)—Claude Neon interests, in association with General Electric Co., Ltd., and the Osram Co. of Germany, have organized Claude-General Neon Lights, Ltd., with headquarters in London. The new company will operate under the Neon patents of Georges Claude throughout Great Britain and Ireland.

The securities market of the New York Produce exchange has admitted to trading 500,000 shares of United Artists Theatre Circuit, Inc., no-par common.

Dow Jones & Company's average price for eight important iron and steel products declined to $47.80 a gross ton, Pittsburgh, from $47.94 the previous week, based on Iron Age quotations. The decline was attributed to a cut of $1 a net ton in bars. Not included in the averages were declines in No. 2 foundry pig iron, Chicago, to $19 from $19.50; malleable iron, Chicago, to $10 from $19.50; in bars, New York, to $46.82 from $47.94; in wire nails, Chicago district mill, to $49.28 from $50.40, and plain wire, Pittsburgh to $51.53 from $53.14.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, May 1—(AP)—Leading curb stocks generally lost 1 to 7 points today, in selling which became increasingly urgent in the late afternoon. The selling appeared to be largely in response to the sharp decline on the big board, led by the rails, although there are but a few rail stocks listed on this market. Pittsburgh and Lake Erie, one of the small group, lost more than 3 points.

Official denial of reports that a merger of United Corp. and United Gas Improvement was being arranged undoubtedly accelerated the decline in the utilities. United Corp. turned heavy on the big board on this development, and American Superpower, which had been a strong feature on the curb, reacted, for it has large holdings in United. Superpower was very active, opening with a block of 14,000 shares, up about a point.

Electric Bond and Share, American and Foreign Power warrants, American Gas and Electric, American Light and Traction new, North American Power and Light, and Duke Power were among issues losing 2 to 4 points. Commonwealth Edison, a high-priced issue, lost 7. Some of the natural gas stocks held firm, Alleghany and Memphis reaching new high for the year in expectation of merger developments.

Oils were somewhat unsettled by a reduction in Mid-Continent crude prices, although it is believed in petroleum circles that this is due to local conditions, and that crude prices generally are on the upgrade. Lower prices in Venezuela may also have been a factor. Gulf lost 6 points, Humble 4 and Vacuum 2. Cities Service lost about a point.

Industrials and specialties were mostly dull. Deere new was a firm feature, selling up more than 4 points, and closing with a gain of more than a point. The amusements were strong during the morning. Universal Pictures reached new high ground, and closed firm. In the radio issues, Hazeltine sold up nearly 3 points to a new high. Agfa Ansco lost 2 points, and A. O. Smith more than 6.

'America For Me

'Tis fine to see the Old World, and travel up and down
Among the famous palaces and cities of renown,
To admire the crumbly castles and the statues of the kings,
But now I think I've had enough of anti-quated things.

So it's home again, and home again, America for me!
My heart is turning home again, and there I long to be,
In the land of youth and freedom beyond the ocean bars,
Where the air is full of sunlight and the flag is full of stars.

And Paris is a woman's town, with flowers in her hair;
And it's sweet to dream in Venice, and it's great to study Rome;
But when it comes to living, there is no place like home.

I like the German fir woods, in green battalions drilled;
I like the gardens of Versailles with flashing fountains filled;
But oh, to take your hand, my dear, and ramble for a day
In the friendly Western woodland where nature has her way!

I know that Europe's wonderful, yet something seems to lack;
The past is too much with her, and the people looking back.
But the glory of the present is to make the future free;
We love our land for what she is and what she is to be.

Oh, it's home again, and home again, America for me!
I want a ship that's westward bound to plow the rolling sea,
The blessed Land of Room Enough beyond the ocean bars,
Where the air is full of sunlight and the flag is full of stars.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, May 1—(AP)—Cheaper money strengthened the bond market today and the first day of the new month brought the largest turnover in two weeks with rails leading the advance, in contrast to the decline in rails on the stock market.

The general tone of the market was considerably improved as news of further easing of money rates brought sales of $14,850,000, the greatest since April 16. The cut in rediscount rates in Paris and London, lowering of bankers acceptances, and the reduction of time money rates were the stimulating factors.

Further easing of the money market with a beneficial effect on bonds was assured when the Federal Reserve bank of New York cut the rediscount rate to 3 per cent, after the close today. The general trend of conditions affecting bonds was regarded as promising a favorable market for the sale of the German reparations issue by the bank of international settlements.

Union Pacific and Southern Railway led the advance of the more popular railroad liens, with gains of more than 1 1-2 points. Baltimore and Ohio 5s, Rock Island 4 1-2s, Lehigh Valley, Pennsylvania Consolidated 4 1-2s and Wabash 4 1-2s were strong.

The movement among convertibles was irregular, as some were influenced by the decline of stocks. Atchison 4 1-2s American Telephone 4 1-2s, Baltimore and Ohio 4 1-2s, International Telephone 4 1-2s, and Warner Brothers Pictures 6s sold off from a fraction to three points, while General Theatres 6s were steady.

Utilities remained practically stationary while leading industrials were slightly off and second grade issues dull.

Fractional gains were made by United States governments on nominal sales, the heaviest being in Liberty 4th 4 1-4s and Treasury 3 3-4s. The demand for foreign issues was moderate and the prices firm.

COTTON

NEW YORK, May 1—(AP)—Cotton futures closed barely steady, 14 points higher to 18 lower. Spot steady, middling 16.70.

Drink six to eight glasses of water daily. Water drinking does much toward keeping the skin clear and free from odor. Water is necessary to dissolve the food materials and wash away the waste.

A MERRY ADDITION TO SMART MODERN HOMES

A merry little nook, frequently dubbed "the bridge corner" has recently come into being in many a smart American home. Gayly audacious in decoration, delightfully intimate in furnishing, the room invites acquaintance in that pleasant half-hour 'twixt teatime and dinner when the cares of the day are pushed aside by friendly chatter and tired business men relax.

It's a room of infinite possibilities, an intimate room, a personal room, the very heart and soul of the home's hospitality. For the occasional home of dignity and charm, where dining remains a leisurely art, what a gracious, tranquil room it may be, a deep blue floor, a Chinese rug, a hearthfire inviting placid reverie.

But as a rule the bridge corner is keyed to a different tempo. Smart, amusing, daring—its skyscraper furniture, commercial texture—leather, metal, cork—its linoleum floor, every decorative detail bespeaks an age of action.

One popular young hostess, famous for her amusing parties, has created for her bridge corner a novel and significant floor. It is dotted with fitting colorful insets. There are card spots and a flame-tipped cigarette placed about in casual disorder in a gray background. Each one of them was cut from linoleum, and inset, at the owner's direction. The floor sets a vivid keynote for the decoration of the room, and her friends find it highly diverting.

Practical reasons dictate the adoption of linoleum as a floor for game room, smoking room, or card room. The constant attack of dripping ashes are an easily-managed part of the day's operations when floors are of smooth surfaced, easy-to-clean linoleum. There are plain colors—vivid orange, deep blue, coppery red—or interesting tile designs equally well suited to the less pretentious bridge corner or game room as a specially designed floor.

Linoleum, cork, metal, glass—there are new textures to deal with in modern decoration, new mediums for expression of the spirit of the day. And there is no better way of stepping up yesterday's house to tomorrow's demands than to use these new materials in the decoration of a "playroom" for the grown-ups of the family.

Demise—the death of a person who leaves a large estate.

MODERN WAINSCOTING GAINING POPULARITY

A new note in interior decoration has been sounded. Architects, stylists, and decorators are sponsoring colorful wainscoting as another step forward in modern interior decoration. This is no idle gesture or unnatural attempt to be artistic. It is a movement that has been carefully planned and is now being skillfully executed.

We all know that the interior walls, particularly the lower portion, in any building are subject to much abuse. In the home folks simply insist on leaning their chairs against the wall. Children will scoot around on kiddie cars and bump against the walls. In preparing food in the kitchen most unexpected things will happen. Water from the sink will splash against the walls or an egg beater running at high speed is likely to misfire and place portions of the batter upon the wall.

In office buildings, desks and filing cabinets, wastebaskets, and chairs inevitably leave their marks upon the walls. In hospitals too, wainscoting is fulfilling a long felt want. Carts that once bumped and scratched the ordinary walls now encounter a substance that resists them.

That the idea is basically sound is proved by the fact that wall coverings which usually are 3 1-2 to 4 feet in height are rapidly gaining popularity. In addition to fulfilling a practical need, wainscotings add color and beauty to any wall. Designed in beautiful patterns in numerous colors, wainscotings are readily adapted to all types of construction requirements.

Of the many materials that may be used for this purpose linoleum is one that is quickly and reasonably installed and easy to clean. As with other wainscotings the baseboard is removed, the material is firmly cemented to the wall, a moulding is installed at the top of the wainscoting, an dthe baseboard is replaced. To use it is to breathe farewell to stained and spotted walls.

Life, sparkle, and interest may be added to a commonplace room by the use of floor silhouettes, cut from linoleum in any design to suit your fancy. Ship, compass, anchor, deerhead, duck—any silhouette significant of the tastes or occupation of the members of the household—may be cut from plain linoleum in any desired color and inserted in a plain color, tile, or marble linoleum floor. Certain stock designs, known as Linosets, can be secured from linoleum stores, and any figure you wish will be cut to order.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

There is no question that Norwich people like variety in their motion picture programs, and there is equally no doubt that the Broadway supplies just what they want. With today's showings, one of the most joyous of the many double-feature bills ever shown locally comes to a close with the evening performances of Richard Dix's first starring picture, "Seven Keys to Baldpate," and the reunion of George Sidney and Charlie Murray with their belligerent wives in "The Cohens and Kelleys in Scotland." Mystery and hilarity are about equally blended in this spring festival of joy, as attested by the smiling faces of the outgoing crowds who have so far witnessed it. If you need a tonic, here it is—take a good dose tonight and forget your troubles.

Tomorrow, the "he-man" of the screen, hero of "The Mighty," "Thunderbolt," "The Showdown," "The Dragnet," and a dozen other virile pictures, George Bancroft, creates his greatest character in "Ladies Love Brutes" as Joe Forziati, an Italian immigrant, who by dint of superhuman strength and brains becomes a contractor, literally rising to the heights, for he is a builder of skyscrapers, those monsters of steel and stone that house New York's millions of workers. Inflamed with wealth and power, he decides to "crash the gates" of society, but racketeering enemies, jealous of his success in business and affairs of the heart, conceive a plan to wreck him which he defeats in a terrific battle, eventually fighting his way through to the greatest success of his life. Not everyone knows that Bancroft has lived much of the lives he portrays on the screen, for he enlisted in the navy when very young, was appointed to Annapolis as the reward for an act of sheer heroism on the old U. S. S. Oregon, and, while a brute for strength, is noted for his gentleness and courtesy toward the aged and infirm. In "Ladies Love Brutes" his supporting cast includes lovely Mary Astor, Fredric March, E. H. Calvert, Crauford Kent, Margaret Quimby, and two clever screen youngsters, David Durand and Freddie Frederick, the latter the son of Norwich's own beloved Pauline Frederick.

Good Will Store

We are doing very well, thank you. Our blood pressure was pretty high last week, but we are getting back to normal, and feel thoroughly fit to carry on. This is one of the places you run across occasionally, out of the high rent district, where you get full value for your money. Your first thought is, "How do they do it?" Well, you will notice that at No. 46 Franklin street we have no expensive mahogany and plate-glass fixtures. Every member of our organization is a worker. We buy in large quantities, and the savings from all these economies are shared with our customers.

When you get one of our bargains you show it to your friends, tell them what it cost and compare the value with like purchases elsewhere. No further argument is necessary.

Our general manager, Mr. David D. Russell, has had a number of years' experience in the manufacture of automobile and radio accessories, knows what the public requires, and values. And these values are put into the price of the goods rather than into high rents and high-priced fixtures.

Our line of automobile tires is manufactured by a concern whose reputation is world-wide, our prices are very, very low. But the quality is there, just the same.

We feel that we have made no mistake in opening one of our stores in Norwich. So far its buying public has done well by us, and we know we have done well by them. We feel that we shall see the old faces again, and that each satisfied patron will come again and bring a friend with him.

Electric Refrigerators

The electric refrigerator is probably more capable of increasing the health and happiness of the American family, than any other recent invention for the household.

A few years ago little thought was given to refrigeration by homemakers. Almost any nook or corner, cooler, in even the slightest degree, than the outside temperature, was deemed a satisfactory storage place for even the most perishable of foods.

This belief has been disproved by the scientists and bacteriologists in the employ of the manufacturers of electric refrigerators.

According to Mr. E. G. Taggart, City of Norwich Gas & Electrical department, agents for the General Electric refrigerator, one of their first discoveries was that harmful bacteria developed with great rapidity in foods stored in a temperature above 50 degrees Fahrenheit.

"Destructive bacteria is present in foods at all times," he continued, "and it requires only warmth and moisture to develop it. The growth of this bacteria causes mold, which if consumed, may result in serious ailments.

"It is necessary, therefore, that food be stored in a temperature ranging between 40 and 50 degrees Fahrenheit until used.

"The majority of the people now realize these facts, which in addition to the convenience and utility of electric refrigeration accounts for its tremendous acceptance in a few years time.

"A good electric refrigerator will pay for itself in a short time by the food saving and convenience it makes possible. In the average home, approximately 10 to 15 per cent of the foods purchased are lost by spoilage. By installing an electric refrigerator, the purchaser not only constitutes a saving, but insures the health and happiness of his family against spoiled foods for all time."

Celebrating the first anniversary of his appointment as chairman of the national executive committee of the democratic party, Jouett Shouse of Kansas came to New York for a short visit, predicting his party will win at least 40 seats in the next house of representatives and six in the senate.

CAMDEN, BUSHNELL AND SUBMARINES AT NEW LONDON AFTER CRUISE SOUTH

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, May 1—The personnel at the submarine base was increased several hundred this afternoon and tonight by the return of the fleet of a dozen boats that have been in southern waters four months. As a result of the return to port of the bluejackets there was a greater number of sailors on the streets tonight than at any time since last summer. The first of the boats to arrive was the submarine, O-3, which came into the harbor about noon and went direct to the base. At 6 o'clock the tender Camden with about 700 officers and seamen aboard arrived in the lower harbor and anchored off Pequot avenue. About 9 o'clock the convoy Bushnell with several hundred additional officers and men reached the harbor, together with the remainder of the submarines. These anchored in the lower harbor. The crews of the latter boats were not given shore liberty, but they will enjoy that recreation tomorrow night.

The U. S. Coats Guard has decided not to make an attempt to raise the rum-runner Esther B., which grounded on the rocks off Montauk Point and then sunk when pulled into deep water, several days ago.

Mrs. James Little and infant daughter, 20 Reed street, George Thomas, Fishers Island, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Fire at Perry Home

A house owned by Arthur Perry was damaged by fire early this morning. The blaze undoubtedly started from a defective fireplace burning through the woodwork by the chimney and through the roof. Waterford fire company responded and quelled the fire after an hour's hard work.

George E. Fisher, State street merchant and Mrs. Mary E. Winthrop, also of this city, were married today at the Madison avenue Baptist church, New York. They are now at Atlantic City and upon their return to New London will reside at 715 Montauk avenue.

OFFICER AUGUSTUS RAY STRUCK BY DECKHAUT CAR

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 1—Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray was painfully injured this evening when the cycle he was riding was hit by an automobile driven by Charles A. Deckhaut, 20 Bunnreath street, Boston, manager of the Tilo Roofing company, of this city. Ray was knocked from the cycle and sustained ugly lacerations about the upper limbs. Deckhaut was arrested by Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolman William Riordan charged with violation of the state motor vehicle law in failing to grant right of way. He will be in court tomorrow. Ray was riding at the corner of Meridian and Church street, when the automobile operated by Deckhaut was driven at fast speed by the intersection. The driver failed to slow up for the motorcycle officer, with the result that the machines crashed with great force. Ray was caught in his machine as it was hurled to one side of the highway. Pedestrians and Deckhaut went to the assistance of the officer and a telephone message to headquarters brought the two officers. Ray was taken to his home. Fitch avenue where he was attended by a physician. His injuries are of such a painful nature that he will be laid up for at least several weeks.

An Uncasville man was the only occupant of a cell at police headquarters tonight, having been arrested by Patrolman Henry Hick this afternoon charged with intoxication. He will be in court tomorrow.

David Faikas, 115 Chauncey street, Boston, was arrested this afternoon charged with violation of the city's laws in parking in restricted area on State street. He posted the customary bond of $2 for his appearance in court tomorrow.

FINN, ELEVATOR MAN, WALKS INTO OPEN SHAFT

Martin Finn, elevator man at the Goldsmith building, State street, was painfully injured today when he walked into the open elevator shaft and fell a distance of about 10 feet, landing on his back. Finn, who is a cripple, believed that he was walking into the elevator, when in reality the car was on the floor above.

Dr. and Mrs. Henkle Appeal

Several additional property owners have given notice to the city that they will seek a reduction in tax levy through the courts, claiming that the assessments are unjust and unequitable. Samuel M. Prentis, is one of those to take an appeal. Joseph and Jennie Birenbaul, Green street; Leon Dorsky, Main street; Dr. Emanuel A. Henkle and Sophie Henkle, Ocean avenue and Federal street, respectively, husband and wife and Andrew Sacchiaroli, Faire Harbour place, are the other aggrieved property owners.

WOMAN AND MAN SCRAP OVER AUTO COLLISION

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 1—Mary F. McDermott, 35 Perry street and Isadore Diamond, 122 Montauk avenue, were arrested tonight by Patrolman George Laboue, each on the complaint of the other. Both were ordered to explain in court tomorrow, the woman charged with reckless driving and the man with failing to give a signal and failing to have his driver's license signed. The truck Diamond was driving and the pleasure automobile crashed at the corner of Montauk avenue and Orchard street, both vehicles being damaged, especially in the case of the woman's auto. Each claimed the other was responsible when Officer Laboue made investigation, so both were ordered into court.

SILVA FOUND NOT GUILTY— EVIDENCE INSUFFICIENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 1.— Because of the absence of incriminating evidence, George Silva was found not guilty of violation of the liquor law on two counts, when tried in the police court this morning. As a result of a raid last night of the premises, 97 North Bank street, but two doors away from police headquarters. Silva pleaded not guilty of the charges of keeping with intent to sell and reputation.

Sergeant Samuel Hick, Automobile Patrol Officer Elwood Bailey and Patrolman Dennis Murphy raided the building on a John Doe warrant and the testimony of the raiders was the real cause of Silva being adjudged not guilty for the officers lacked evidence of a sufficiently convincing nature to warrant Judge Daniel M. Cronin in finding the accused guilty.

Acting on information of Patrolman Murphy on the beat, a search warrant was issued. The raiders arriving at the rear entrance to the building found the door securely locked. Murphy shattered a panel of the door and reaching the lock, the officers entered. A thorough search was made of the premises, but less than two ounces of liquor, if it really was liquor, was found. A bottle with only the bottom covered with alleged liquor was found and a liquid removed from the trap of a sink-pipe, it is alleged, showed alcoholic content of 15 per cent when tested at police headquarters. The quantity was not sufficient to fill a glass, but these two liquids, together with two enamel pitchers and eight whiskey glasses were seized as evidence.

Sergeant Hick related his story of conducting the search. He said that upon entering the kitchen Murphy removed the trap, from which a very small amount of liquid was obtained, but that the pitchers and glasses carried a strong odor of liquor. His attention had been called to the building on several occasions since the first of the year by officers on the beat, who said that liquor was being sold there.

Patrolman Murphy testified that when entrance to the building was effected, he went to the sink, which was damp and indicated that it had been used a few minutes before. He removed the trap and obtained the liquid that tested 15 per cent. There were two or three broken bottles in the sink. In testifying to the reputation of the building, the officer said that it had been reputed to be a drinking resort a long time and he attained that belief from observing uniformed men frequently entering and departing from the place, sailors, when questioned, had informed him that liquor was sold there. On cross examination the officer would not state that all places sailors were seen to enter or depart from would be subject to the reputation of selling liquor, which he admitted in the cases of theatres, restaurants or churches. He also admitted that several one-gallon alcohol cans found on an attic stairway, nor the alleged broken bottles in the sink, taken as evidence, were not sufficient to establish the reputation of the building. Officer Bailey corroborated the testimony of Sergeant Hick and Officer Murphy, in some respects, but both Bailey and Hick testified that they did not observe any broken glass in the sink. Silva, in his own defense, testified that he had occupied the building but a short time, having but recently sold his restaurant business on Main street. He said that he was engaged in fitting up the building for occupancy when the raiders entered, two uniformed men, there when the officers entered, had visited the house in search of other sailors. Silva testified that water had not been turned on in the building since last winter, which statement was found to be true.

FALCOFSKY MUST PRODUCE BADGE FOR JUDGE TO SEE

Israel Falcofsky, salesman in the employ of the Inter-State Furniture Co., which has a branch in Norwich, was charged with impersonating an officer. He was defended by counsel, who requested a continuance for the purpose of bringing into court the badge that Falcofsky used and the display of which was the cause of his arrest. Judge Cronin ordered the case continued to Saturday. Falcofsky went to the residence of Albi Bettinson, 131 Bayonet street, yesterday, and demanded money or the furniture, which had been purchased from the furniture company, but for which payment had not been made. When the money, about $40, was not paid, Falcofsky started to remove the furniture and Mrs. Bettinson was given a receipt for the articles taken. When Falcofsky was asked for his authority to remove the furniture he is alleged to have displayed a badge, saying "this is who I am." Mrs. Bettinson informed her husband of what had occurred when he returned home and the latter made complaint to Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin, who arrested Falcofsky. Counsel for Falcofsky said that the badge the salesman used was similar to those used by employes of commercial houses in collecting debts. Judge Cronin desired the badge produced for exhibit in order that he could determine whether its shape and appearance would indicate that the possessor of it was an officer.

Berube Too Speedy

Leo Berube, 43 Howard street, was charged with reckless driving and driving without a license. He pleaded guilty and was fined $25 and costs on the first count and on the second charge a fine of $10 and costs was meted out. Berube was arrested on Williams street last night by State Police Officer Arthur Whitmarsh. The car that Berube was driving passed the officer between the city line and Connecticut College for Women and then started at a speed of over 50 miles an hour, Whitmarsh gave chase, but did not overtake the autoist until the corner of Main street was reached. When taken to police headquarters, Berube gave a fictitious name, but eventually revealed his identity.

Tripped Up On Lie

One man, employed as cook, was charged with intoxication and if he had testified truthfully he probably would have obtained his liberty. When questioned by Judge Cronin, the accused said that he had only been in court once before, in July last. In the judge's interrogation of the witness it was brought out that the man had been there on other occasions and a sentence of 30 days in jail was given.

Dr. Winthrop E. McGinley, of Federal street; Arlene MacNeil, 591 Main street; Annette Davis, 15 Franklin street; Mrs. Adelaide Silva, 279 Williams street; Mrs. Grace Gray, 9 Division street; and Viola and Anna Andriola, Groton, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Protest Against Police Dogs

Several residents of the Pequot colony have filed a petition with Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney requesting that action be taken against the roaming about the streets of police dogs owned by Guy T. Arms, 83 Glenwood avenue and Frederick S. Langdon, 883 Montauk avenue. It is claim that the animals have attacked and killed at least one dog and have displayed ugliness as pedestrians pass along the highways. The petitioners are: Dorothea Christianson, Mrs. W. T. Babcock, Joseph Corkey, Mrs. Charles A. Sackett, Mrs. H. H. Appledorn, Mrs. John Redman, Lillian F. Morgan, Mrs. T. T. Wetmore, John W. Moon, Mrs. F. I. Sexton and Dr. Frank E. Wilson.

An automobile driven by Charles Gallagher, of Waterford, last night struck Morris Rogoff, a youthful cyclist, of Station 5, Waterford, at the corner of Ocean and Lee avenues. The youngster was knocked from the wheel and sustained a head injury. He was taken to Lawrence-Memorial hospital where he is being detained under observation, although an X-ray picture has not revealed a fractured skull.

City Manager William A. Holt today notified Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney that Thomas Sullivan and Arthur Powell had been appointed supernumerary police officers. The candidates for police work attained an average of 77.5 at the recent examinations when nine young men participated in the mental tests. Although the appointments have been made, Sullivan or Powell will probably not perform police duty this year, because of the fact that several such officers are already on duty, but the former will be subject to call should an emergency arise.

APRIL ARRESTS TOTAL 198, WITH 67 FOR DRINK

During April, 198 arrests were made by the police, according to the report submitted to City Manager Holt today by Captain of Police Pinney. As usual intoxication tops the list, as 67 men and women were arrested for this offense. Fourteen automobiles were stolen and all of them were recovered. Three young men were apprehended for some of the thefts and were disciplined. During the month one patrolman, John P. Foley died. The list of arrests is as follows: Intoxication, 67; breach of the peace, 16; violation of auto law, 28; driving while drunk, 5; violation of the traffic law, 12; violation of the liquor law, 5; keeping a disorderly house, 3; frequenting a disorderly house, 11; evading fare, 2; fraud, 1; theft, 6; arrested and held for other departments, 15; runaways, 5; felonious assault, 1; breaking and entering, 2; vagrancy, 4; violation city taxi ordinance, 1; lascivious carriage, 11; insanity, 1; indecent exposure, 1; total, 198.

Patrolman Advanced

Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney today recommended that five patrolmen be promoted from Grade C to Grade B, and the appointments will be made within the next few days. The officers are Patrolmen Lawrence Fardy, Louis Wheeler, Arthur Feeley, Cornelius Moriarty and Albert Iverson. The recommendation is also made that Supernumerary Louis Tooker be promoted to Grade C. Officer Tooker has been performing patrol duty continuously for a period of several months since Oct. 16, 1927, except when he was given leave of absence to work in the former J. N. Lapointe factory.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

"Mammy," Al Jolson's newest and best white and black face show, comes to the Palace theatre tomorrow and it will be shown through Tuesday of next week. "Mammy" gives Jolson the golden opportunity of his career and he makes the most of it. Based on his life as an end man in a minstrel, this picture was written for laughter and not tears and while it is very dramatic it is essentially a comedy.

Jolson is supported by a fine cast including Lois Moran, Louise Dresser, Lowell Sherman, Hobart Bosworth and Tully Marshall. Miss Dresser was chosen by Jolson to play the Mammy he has made famous the world over and her ability is fully displayed in this production.

Spectacular sequences of "Mammy" were filmed in technicolor which adds greatly to their effectiveness. If you like Jolson in black face or white face, if you like to hear him sing, if you like rousing dress parades and real old-time minstrels, if you like a dramatic story and fine acting you will like this picture. "Mammy" has everything.

Irving Berlin, who holds the same position in the song-writing world that Jolson holds on the stage and screen, wrote the story and music for "Mammy" and that feature alone makes this production one of the most remarkable offerings in screen history. Jolson sings many old songs as well as many new ones and he sings them as only Jolson can.

"Notorious Affair," a drama sketched from real life starring Billie Dove and Basil Rathbone, and "The Second Floor Mystery," a thriller taken from the novel "The Agony Column" by Earl Derr Biggers with Grant Withers and Loretta Young, are the two productions which will be shown on the double-feature bill at the Palace for the last times today.

These programs are a part of the Spring Festival which started April 20 and which will be continued until June 3 in all Warner Brothers' theatres. During this time the high quality of entertainment to be maintained during the coming year will be featured and the management promises a brilliant schedule.

TRAFFIC JAM FORCES FIRE CHIEF TO LEAVE AUTO AND WALK TO FIRE

Drastic action is threatened, according to officials, if automobile drivers do not cease their dangerous practice of racing to every fire when a bell alarm is sounded. When Box 6 was pulled in early Thursday evening for a small fire at Main and Talman streets nearly 100 auto drivers tried to get to the box ahead of the fire department.

They drove to Preston bridge, from all directions, at all speeds, with reckless abandon for traffic conditions, crowding onto the bridge until they and about everyone else were all properly tied up.

The resulting jam at Preston bridge held up Acting Chief Dennis J. Brennan as he was responded to the alarm, and he was forced to abandon his machine and walk the rest of the way over the bridge to the fire. Acting Deputy Chief John E. Blackburn encountered considerable difficulty due to obstinate ones who refused to give an inch or to stop as the law directs them to do. Not only was the acting deputy chief delayed but the fire companies responding encountered some difficulty due to careless automobile drivers. It is understood that the registration numbers of a number of machines that figured in the traffic jam were taken and that court summons with stiff fines are in the offing for the guilty drivers. In the future such conditions as prevailed at the scene of last night's fire will not be tolerated as court summons will be served on drivers who interfere with the progress of the fire apparatus or race to fires.

Police headquarters despatched three officers to Preston bridge to untangle the jam of machines.

NEW LONDON MINISTER HEADS PHI BETA KAPPA

Outlining a campaign for the encouragement of scholarship in the secondary schools, Dr. Oscar M. Voorhees, secretary of the United Chapters of Phi Beta Kappa, speaking at the Mohican hotel, in New London, Wednesday evening, before the New London Phi Beta Kappa association, urged active efforts toward proving to the youth of America that scholarship pays, if not in dollars and cents, certainly in opportunities for service and distinction.

"A careful examination has been made of the latest edition of Who's Who in America," said Dr. Voorhees, "as a result of which we learn that Phi Beta Kappa furnishes 5,555 of the 28,805 living men and women whose names appear in that volume. This is just about 19 per cent of the entire number in Who's Who, and nearly ten per cent of the society's entire living membership. Few attain such prominence as to be admitted to Who's Who within 15 years after graduation, and we find that fully one in five of the 22,500 Phi Beta Kappa members who graduated 15 or more years ago are now listed in Who's Who. That is, from the upper one-seventh of the graduates of less than one-half of our colleges are found one-tenth of all the men and women who are rendering such outstanding service as to be so listed."

The guest of honor at this meeting, Mrs. A. V. D. DeWitt, Vassar, '76, spoke interestingly of college life in that day.

The officers elected for the ensuing year were:

TRAINING CAMP ENLISTMENTS ARE GOING BEYOND QUOTA

Latest reports received by the war department from the commanding generals of the nine corps areas indicate that applications for attendance at citizens' military training camps exceed by 2,407 the number which has been allotted for training. The total number to be trained is 37,500. The total number of applications received is 39,907.

In view of the fact that applications for enrollment in the four C. M. T. C. camps in New England are being received in large numbers, all boys who desire to attend should file their applications without delay. Even though the number of applications received to date is slightly in excess of the quota originally allotted, there is still room for a few more, provided applications are submitted without delay.

SHAD FISHING INDUSTRY OPENING ON CONNECTICUT

At midnight Wednesday night the shad fishing season for 1930 opened. This is an old industry on the Connecticut river, dating back to the very first settlers.

Shad were also caught in the Thames river at one time, but it has been many years since a shad catch was reported there as pollution of the stream from textile and other industries long ago drove the shad away.

Every year since history began on the Connecticut river these fish have come up the river during the spring months to the spawning beds in the smaller streams and creeks which are tributaries to the Connecticut. In the early days these fish came in such numbers and were so plentiful and easy to take that they were little prized and it was a matter almost of disgrace to eat shad. The regard for this dish has changed so much by time and their scarcity until today it is considered one of the finest dishes which can be placed on the table.

Years ago after the fish began to have some value a great deal of money was invested in the fishing industry all along the river from Old Saybrook to Hartford, but during recent years the cost of equipment has become so expensive and the fish so scarce that most of the fishermen have given up the fishing business. During the last two or three years, perhaps because the number of fishermen has been less, or for some unknown reason, the fish have been somewhat more plentiful than for some years previous and the prices have reached such figures that some fishermen have really done well financially.

The way the fishing is done along the river is to put out the net across the section where experience has shown the fish swim and allow it to drift with the tide for several hours, then the net is pulled together and hauled into the boat and the fish are found trapped in the meshes of the net.

Locomotive Sparks Start Fire

At 4.47 o'clock Thursday afternoon the fire department responded to a telephone alarm to extinguish a small fire in the heavy railing on the retaining wall along the edge of the Shetucket river in the rear of No. 40 Shetucket street. CHICKEN COOP FIRE SPREADS TO HOUSE AND SHEDS ON TALMAN ST.

A house, and the roofs of two sheds were damaged in a fire caused by an overheated brooder in a chicken coop at No. 15 Ripley place, owned by Gustave Lambert, early Thursday evening.

A telephone alarm, followed a few seconds later by a bell alarm from Box 6 called out the fire department at 6:40 o'clock. It is thought that the brooder became overheated and exploded, throwing fire in all directions for when the firemen arrived, there was little left of the chicken coop, one side of Mr. Lambert's residence was in flames and the roofs of two nearby sheds were also on fire.

A chemical line held the flames in check while two lines of two and a half inch and a line of inch and a half inch hose were being laid. The water quickly squelched the fire and the recall was sounded 12 minutes after the alarm. The clapboards on the side of the house were badly scorched from the ground to the roof. One of the sheds is owned by John McDonald and the other shed is owned by Mrs. M. H. Donohue and used by John Donovan of 413 Main street, a member of the Norwich police force.

DRY AGENT TO CALL FOR THE FORFEITURE OF TWO FARMS

Court Proceedings Are Based On the Gounds That Their Owners Permitted Violations of the 18th Amendment On Their Premises—New Method of Prosecution Resorted to By E. C. Yellowley, Prohibition Administrator of Illinois—728 Acres of Farm Land Involved.

CHICAGO, May 2.—(AP)—Libel proceedings for the forfeiture of two Illinois farms on the ground that their owners permitted violations of the federal prohibition act on the premises, were begun today in federal court at Peoria, Ill., E. C. Yellowley, district prohibition administrator, said late today.

Flaherty's farm is a 208-acre tract. The forfeiture proceedings were in charge of U. S. District Attorney Walter M. Provine at Peoria.

Yellowley indicated the forfeiture method was a departure in prosecution of alleged violators of the prohibition laws.

Yellowley said his agents last Wednesday seized a $40,000 still on the Englehaupt 520-acre farm and in another raid yesterday confiscated a distilling plant worth between $20,000 and $25,000 in operation on Flaherty's farm.

NEW CHINESE GOVT. TO BE ESTABLISHED AT PEIPING

PEIPING, China, May 2—(AP)—The new Chinese government which will be established at Peiping, aims at a legal and stable government instead of military or provisional rule.

Dr. Tohoun Gao Hsiang, commissioner of foreign affairs for Yen Hsi Shan, the northern conqueror of this old city, said today that the peoples congress called to meet this month by Yen had that goal as its desire.

Dr. Tohoun said a telegram from Yen announced that Marshal Feng Yu Hsiang and Wang Chin Wei were in perfect accord on forming the new government, emphasizing that they were "determined to co-operate in overthrowing Chiang Kai Shek."

The new regime intends to change the name of Peiping back to Peking and restore its ancient glories. When the Nationalist government was established by Chiang Kai Shek, the capital was moved southward to Nanking.

Yen, head of the northern forces which recently took over Peiping without bloodshed, is usually known as the "model governor" of the province of Shansi. Marshal Feng will command the military, and Wang, who heads the left wing of the Kuomintang, will be a leader in political affairs.

The new regime will be known as the national government of China, as opposed to Chiang's nationalist government.

OFFERS TO STAND TRIAL SECOND TIME FOR MURDER

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 2—(AP)—Lila Jimerson, "The Red Lilac" of the Cayuga Indians, went into county court here this afternoon and flung aside her assurance of life in order to stand trial a second time for the murder of Mrs. Clothilde Marchand, wife of the noted artist, Henri Marchand.

Her first trial was halted abruptly when she collapsed in court and was taken to a hospital, suffering from hemorrhages induced by tuberculosis. In that hospital she later pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of murder, second degree, and was brought into court today to receive the mandatory sentence of 20 years to life imprisonment.

Discarding the attorneys who defended her at her first trial, the Indian woman was represented by John F. Rogers of Corning and John S. McGovern, a former assistant United States district attorney here. Her newly-retained attorneys refused to withdraw the plea of guilty to murder, second degree, contending that the improvised courtroom in the hospital had been illegal and that Lila still was on trial for murder, first degree.

By almost the same margin, she exceeded the American women's endurance record achieved a year ago by Miss Elinor Smith at Roosevelt field, N. Y., a mark of 26 hours, 21 minutes, 32 seconds.

Mlle. Bernstein took off at 7:18 o'clock yesterday morning and landed here at a fraction after 7:00 p. m., tonight, when her fuel was gone.

It was announced that her flight constituted a world record for airplanes of all categories having only one pilot, male or female.

STATEMENT BY PRESIDENT OF THE CHRYSLER CORP.

NEW YORK, May 2—(AP)—Poor first quarter earnings announced by the Chrysler corporation today were coupled with an announcement by Walter P. Chrysler, president, that the company's position is good; that during the year ending March 31, the dividend requirements were earned, the corporation's debt reduced and its ratio of current assets over liabilities increased.

Net earnings for the first three months amounted to but $180,717, equal to four cents a share on 4,421,575 no-par common shares. They compare with $8,838,173, or $2 a share on 4,411,900 shares in the corresponding quarter of 1929.

In his statement, Mr. Chrysler said that the "net operating profits for the 12 months ending March 31, were $13,244,712, which shows that notwithstanding the current recession in business, the corporation during the past 12 months has earned its dividends, reduced its debt and substantially maintained its net current asset position."

The ratio of current assets to current liabilities, after providing for first quarter dividends, was 4.05 to 1, as against 2.77 to 1, on March 21, 1929.

"Conditions in the automobile industry are now more stabilized and the industry has probably turned the corner for the better," Mr. Chrysler said.

Col. Lindbergh Ha[illegible] Returned To Miami

Concluded Two Day Flight From Cristobal, C. Z., At 5.03 P.M., E.S.T., Yesterday

MIAMI, Fla., May 2—(AP)—Completing his round trip inaugurating seven-day air mail service between the Americas, Colonel Charles Lindbergh arrived here at 5:03 p. m., E. S. T., after an 899 mile flight today from Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua. He carried 211 pounds of air mail bound from Buenos Aires to points in the United States on the new seven-day schedule of the Latin-American express service.

Colonel Lindbergh was three minutes behind schedule when he landed at Pan-American airport here. He was held by an east cross-wind despite an early departure from Havana.

Average speed for today's flight which started at Puerto Cabezas at 5:55 a. m., E. S. T., was 97 miles an hour. Colonel Lindbergh and Basil Roe, co-pilot, averaged 92 miles an hour from Puerto Cabezas to Havana, a water flight of 638 miles across the Caribbean Sea, and had an average speed of 110 miles an hour from Havana to Miami, northern terminus of Pan-American Airways, Inc., the company holding the mail contract.

Colonel Lindbergh and Roe accomplished the first leg of the homeward flight from Cristobal, C. Z., to Puerto Cabezas, a distance of 395 miles yesterday at an average a fraction less than 98 miles an hour.

During today's flight, the colonel, completing his third inauguration of air mail service between the Americas, brought another novelty into his record of accomplishments as he sat the plane's radio and tapped out his own location message to the Pan-American Airways radio control station here. The message was sent from a point approximately 280 miles south of Havana, and 60 miles west of Grand Cayman.

Weather conditions generally were reported to be excellent.

Colonel Lindbergh blazed the new air trail from the United States to Central and South America last weekend. His only stops on the southbound and northbound flights between Miami and Cristobal, C. Z., were at Puerto Cabezas and Savannah and these were made for refueling purposes only.

The plane left Puerto Cabezas one hour and five minutes before the scheduled 7 o'clock time of departure today.

Lindbergh changed places with Co-Pilot Roe to chart his locations during the day, while Radio Operator B. A. Denicke maintained constant radio communication with the Pan-American station here.

The trans-Atlantic flier landed at Havana at 12:50 p. m., E. S. T., and departed after a brief halt for refueling and lunch.

Behold the Stranger !

A stranger moves to your neighborhood. You observe him tolerantly, but with no immediate display of interest. You are an established resident, getting along very nicely before he came.

You note his manners, talk with him and form an opinion. If he comes up to your requirements you accept him, and often he proves a welcome addition to your group of friends.

It is exactly with the same attitude that the intelligent newspaper reader regards the advertisements of products new to him. These strangers may add something to his civilized enjoyment. They may contribute to his comfort, safety—even his success. In many ways they may prove valuable. Certainly it is wise to give them careful consideration.

Read the advertisements daily in The Bulletin. They may be the means of introducing you to products that will take important places in your life. And every day they will give you information that enables you to buy intelligently and make your money go farther.

UNCERTAINTY PREVAILS ON CONFIRMATION OF PARKER

Discussion In the Senate Was Deferred Until Monday, With Foes Claiming They Had the Vote to Defeat Him—Eight Members Are Conceded to Be In the Doubtful Column—A Vote By Tuesday At the Latest Is In Prospect.

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(AP)—After a week of debate, uncertainty still existed in the senate tonight as to whether Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina would be confirmed as an associate justice of the supreme court.

The discussion was deferred until Monday with foes claiming that they had the votes to defeat him. Eight members were conceded to be in the doubtful column, however, and friends of Parker expressed optimism.

A vote by Tuesday at the latest was in prospect. Senator Borah, republican, Idaho, leader of the opposition, said that if a vote had been taken tonight, Parker would have been rejected.

In a three-hour attack which concluded the day's debate, Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, complained that the federal judiciary was creating laws as well as interpreting them and cited several injunctions restraining laboring men

Norris said these injunctions in many instances were "unfair and inhuman" and concluded "we must pass on these judges before we give them the opportunity to pass on us." He said Judge Parker in an injunction restraining the United Mine Workers had shown "the bent of his mind."

Senator Fess, republican, Ohio, who is leading the Parker forces, defended some of the injunctions complained of by Senator Norris without endorsing all of them. He argued that it was up to congress to make the law or modify the law in order to guide the judiciary in this.

Senator Simmons, democrat, North Carolina, read to the senate a resolution sent to him today by the North Carolina Bar association now in session at Pinehurst, which urged the confirmation of the nominee.

Signs of new opposition to Parker on the democratic side developed when Senator Black, democrat, Alabama, read part of an injunction upheld by the circuit court of which Parker is a member restraining unions from giving money, food and medical aid to miners in homes belonging to operators and from which the owners were seeking to eject them.

The Alabaman asked for an interpretation of this injunction but none was given in today's discussion. Black voiced no opinion, however, on the nomination.

Senator Norris denied that the opposition to Parker was aiming at the independence of the judiciary.

TESTIMONY BEFORE THE SENATE LOBBY COMMITTEE

WASHINGTON, May 2.—(AP)—Questioned before the senate lobby committee concerning memoranda found in his correspondence files which mentioned gin, Scotch and other alcoholic beverages, William H. Stayton, chairman of the board of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, testified today that he had no "personal knowledge" that liquor had been served at a dinner for a 1928 presidential candidate.

This testimony resulted from questions by Senator Blaine, republican, Wisconsin, the only wet member of the committee.

Blaine did not mention any presidential candidate by name and did not specify where the dinner he had in mind was held.

Another version of President Hoover's attitude toward prohibition was given, however, in a letter written by Representative Peavey, republican, Wisconsin, which said the chief executive was "so dry he squeaks."

Stayton was excused after his testimony today and the committee adjourned until uesday. It will then begin an investigation of dry organizations, inquiring first into the activities of the Anti-Saloon league.

MOSCOW IS FINANCING STRIKES IN THE U. S.

NEW YORK, May 2.—(AP)—Police Commissioner Grover Whalen today made public documents, variously described as authentic and as forgeries, purporting to give evidence that the Communist International of Moscow was financing riots and strikes in the United States, fomented by emissaries sent here for the purpose by soviet officials.

Photostatic copies of the documents, which were seized by New York police, were furnished to newspapers with translations by the commissioner with a statement in which he evidently accepted them as authentic.

One of the documents was a letter on the stationery of the Amtorg Trading corporation, official purchasing agent for the soviet which has done millions of dollars worth of business in this country, and was signed with the name of G. Grafpen, an Amtorg official.

It listed 30 persons said to have been sent here as soviet agents.

23 DEATHS BY TORNADOES THAT HIT NINE STATES

CHICAGO, May 2.—(AP)—Scenes of desolation today marked the paths of tornadoes and storms which curveted over nine states of the middle west Thursday, leaving 23 persons dead and scores more injured and homeless.

The whirring black funnel of the tornado dipped to four widely separated places—Tekamah, Neb., Westby, Wis., Norborne, Mo., and Russell, Ia.—and cyclonic winds dealt death elsewhere in the affected area.

Property damage, it was estimated, ran into seven figures.

Tekamah, Neb., had 4 dead; Norborne, Mo., 5; Russell, Ia., 1; Westby, Wis., 1; Lake City, Minn., 3; Duluth, Minn., 2; Kickapoo, Kas., 2; Lawton, N. D., 1; Rockford, Ill., 1; Galesburg, Ill., 1; Cicago, 1, and Antioch, Ill., 1.

Nine of the dead were women.

Livestock was lost, crops were damaged and few villages in the area escaped. Nebraska, Minnesota, northeast Kansas and northwest Missouri were hardest hit by the erratic storms, but high winds, driving rain and lightning distributed destruction also over Iowa, Wisconsin, Illinois and the Dakotas.

CHARGES FORGERIES BY ENEMIES OF SOVIET GOVT.

SEATTLE, Wash., May 2—(AP)—White Russians or other persons "jealous" of trade development between the United States and Soviet Russia, were accused by Seattle agents of the Amtorg Trading corporation today of forging the documents made public in New York purporting to show that company was secretly active in fomenting riots in this country.

"Why would the Amtorg corporation be so naive as to have such incriminating messages written under its letterhead," said Peter Belski, one of the agents of the official Russian purchasing corporation.

"Similar forgeries were perpetrated by enemies of the soviet government in Germany a few years ago and that is only another effort to halt our work because we are meeting with some success," said Belski.

Justice of the Peace Mrs. Fannie Dixon Welch of the Columbia town court today rendered her decision in the "test" case of Abraham Tennenbaum of that town, by finding the man not guilty of setting a fire in the open without a permit. The violation as alleged was based on Chapter 65 of the Public Acts of 1925, and the defense was established on the grounds of a conflict between the federal and state laws. After taking counsel with several prominent lawyers Justice Mrs. Welch found that there was no conflict regarding the corn borer law. The state, however, was found to have failed to produce sufficient evidence that the accused actually set the fire, and it was on this finding that he was discharged.

Only delicious slo-baked Bread can pass this TEST by TOASTING

Even before you begin the test by toasting, you'll notice a difference between Wonder Bread (above, wrapped) and the other bread. The most delicate slices of Wonder Bread will fall away easily before the knife edge, without breaking or crumbling. The best ingredients, perfectly blended, give Wonder Bread its superior texture.

YOU'LL find a delicate, taste-teasing flavor sealed within the golden crust of every Wonder loaf that will make your appetite sit up and beg for more. Try Wonder Bread for one whole week, for every bread use. After that we'll leave the decision up to you.

Here's a test by toasting that will confirm your own test by tasting. The test is so easy to make—right in your kitchen—yet it's a conclusive proof of bread quality.

Toasting proves quality because only perfect bread can make perfect toast. Only bread made from super-quality ingredients, baked clear through to the heart of the loaf, will toast to an even brown from edge to edge. And only perfect bread will toast without a single burned, scorched, or under-done spot. Try this test by toasting—it will tell you quickly why Wonder Bread slices better, keeps better, tastes so much better.

Let's look into one of the sunny Wonder bakeries and watch the loaves take a leisurely ride through the ovens. They come out evenly and thoroughly baked—slo-baked—to the innermost bread cells.

Wonder Bread, the slo-baked loaf, cost more than $6,000,000 to perfect. $2,000,000 extra is spent each year for super-quality ingredients. Wonder Bread toasts better because it is made of better ingredients, and is baked better.

Your grocer has Wonder Bread, double-sealed in its red, yellow and blue balloon wrapper, delivered to him fresh from the bakery twice each day.

Easy to tell the Wonder toast. Notice the slice in front of the loaf of Wonder Bread (wrapped). The Wonder Bread, toasted for exactly the same length of time as the other bread, is a richer brown from crust to crust than the other bread (without wrapper).

DANIELSON

ORDERS ALL OUTSTANDING FIRE PERMITS CANCELLED

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, May 2—Selectman Alcott D. Sayles of East Killingly, as district fire warden, said this evening that he had been notified from state headquarters that all outstanding fire permits have been cancelled, and that no further permits are to be issued until after a heavy rain comes. This order cancelling permits comes about because of the unusually dry conditions now existing and the extreme danger of disastrous forest fires getting underway. The order is effective immediately. All deputy fire wardens have been notified.

Ready For 31st Series

The Danielson Building and Loan association, announcement is made, is now ready for issue of its thirty-first series of shares. This is the first series offered the public since last winter, when a special effort was made to interest the public in buying in order to further Danielson's building campaign.

The current statement of condition of the organization shows that the resources include $208,225 in first mortgage loans, $1,900 in share loans and a cash balance of $1,849.87, a total of $211,974.87.

This organization was incorporated in 1916, the mid-period of the World war, for the purpose of helping relieve Danielson's housing shortage. It has accomplished much toward that end during the years that have followed, but it is a matter of interest that though much building has been done meanwhile, every year, in fact, Danielson continues to need more homes.

OBITUARY

Venerand A. Bernier

Venerand A. Bernier, 21, a native of Danielson, and a life long resident here, died during last night at a Norwich hospital where he had been a patient since last July. The body is now at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Amadee Bernier on Oak street. Mr. Bernier was in the employ of the Connecticut Light and Power company as member of one of its line crews when his health suddenly failed. A few weeks ago he was at his home here for a time and appeared much improved. He returned to the hospital for further treatment. About a fortnight ago a change came fro the worse and his life had been despaired of for the past few days.

He was the son of Amadee and Lucy Gaudreau Bernier. His mother's burial took place 18 years ago today. Mr. Bernier leaves his wife, who prior to their marriage was Miss Larrow of Putnam, two sons, Norman and Harvey; his father and a brother, Abel, all of Danielson.

PROPOSED ROAD WORK PLAN NOT ECONOMICAL SAYS DOWNS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, May 2—Oliver F. Downs, a former selectman of the town of Brooklyn, now a resident of Killingly and of the borough of Danielson, today expressed his opposition to the plan to contract Killingly's town motor truck work to a lowest bidder. Mr. Downes' outspoken opposition to the plan is based, in a nutshell, on his experience with that sort of thing in the town of Brooklyn while he was a member of the board of selectmen. He insists that the system did not work out economically, and said that the roads were in far worse condition when it was decided to abandon the arrangement than when it was started. And he added "If you adopt the plan in Killingly, you will have to send out a man to watch every truck that goes on the job, and pay him for it, to see that the work is done as it should be."

There you are. Those who want the trucks that work on the highways to be owned by men willing to bid to do the work at the lowest price insist they can save the town money under the system, and they honestly believe it. It is a matter open to honest argument the more or less disinterested citizen will tell you.

Those who watch political affairs insist that the renting out of the trucking work on town highway jobs is just, and purely, a political gesture. In a word, the boys that have trucks that are not doing too much just now would like a crack at the revenue that goes out to truck owners that do work for the town.

As the average voter does not own a truck, and has neither the time nor the inclination to talk trucking costs in connection with town highway work, he is but casually interested. The matter is important nevertheless. It is well that the whole subject is to be aired in a special town meeting the early part of the coming week.

Those who pay the bills will get the low down on the entire affair, and may vote accordingly thereafter. As to this, the meeting, whatever it decides, may be regarded as well worth while.

Colonel Henry W. Babson, one of the few remaining veterans of the Civil war claiming Danielson as a home, has returned here after spending the period since last fall at Winter Haven, Fla., and it may be made a part of the record that everyone here is right glad to see him back home again.

W. W. Wheatley, Broad street, an officer of Putnam lodge of Elks, in which many residents of Danielson hold membership, said this afternoon that the annual Ladies' night of the lodge is planned for Thursday, May 15. The forecast is that many will be in attendance from this town.

Thermometer at 90 Degrees

Militant spring backed Old Man Winter off the boards today, apparently for the full count. Enthusiastic thermometers about the borough showed readings at high as 90 degrees this afternoon, a mark that is attained ordinarily but a few times during July and August.

For no reason that might rate as good and sufficient here, the state highway department has peremtorily turned down the request of Warden Gaston A. Maindon for permission to embed little traffic markers in the surface of Main street, through the business section. Just why the highway department should take such an attitude is beyond the ken of the average citizen. But there you are. The matter may be a subject of negotiation.

With the pickerel fishing season opened on the first of the month, the public has been spared the broadcasting of tales of great catches. Apparently nothing important has happened along this line. Shy on fish stories today.

William Sangster, manager of the Danielson division of the Connecticut Light and Power company, and Sidney P. Marland have been at Holyoke attending the spring conclave of Rotary clubs in southern New England.

Martin Dolley, ill with pneumonia for several weeks at his home on Furnace street, remains confined to his home, his convalescence being slow.

Tuesday afternoon with Mrs. J. H. Milligan at the home on North Main street the Fortnightly club will meet.

A flock of fight fans out of this town have signified their intention to be at Worcester, Friday evening of next week to see Lefty Lou Brouillard, Danielson fighting ace, in combat with Clyde Hull, the Texas Cyclone, and rated among the topnotchers on the welterweight division.

Ralph H. Dunbar, here since last winter as cashier of the Windham County National bank, left today for Augusta, Me., to arrange for the removal of his family to Danielson.

John Crosby, student at New Hampshire State university at Durham, N. H., is visiting for a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Crosby, of Academy street.

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, May 2.—Three persons were injured, one seriously, at 4:15 o'clock Thursday afternoon when a Chevrolet coach owned by William Gildard and operated by his daughter, Miss Lauretta Gildard, 17, of 6 Providence street, this city, in attempting to enter the Danielson pike road from the Chopmist, R. I. highway struck a telephone pole on the side of the road, after the driver lost control of it. Considerable damage was done to the car.

Besides the driver who escaped with minor abrasions of the face and head, Edward Gildard, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Gildard of School street, who is at the Day-Kimball hospital, is suffering from a possible fracture of the skull and a severe laceration of the face. Hospital authorities reported his condition to be fair today. His mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Gildard, sustained a laceration of the knee and was cut about the face and hands. She was not seriously injured, however.

According to officers of the North Scituate, R. I. state police barracks who investigated the Gildard car, being operated by Miss Gildard was proceeding along the Chopmist hill road at a moderate rate of speed in a southerly direction. In entering the Danielson pike road, Miss Gildard is believed to have been blinded by a bright sun that caused her to momentarily lose control of the car. The child was rushed to the Day-Kimball hospital by a passing motorist who stopped to investigate. Both Miss Gildard and the child's mother returned to their homes last night. They were reported to be improved today.

All previous heat records for May were shattered here today when the mercury at 3 o'clock this afternoon ascended to a temperature of 92 degrees to drive hundreds to soft drink fountains, seeking relief from the sudden heat wave that rode into town yesterday on the crest of balmy southwest winds, that prevailed today with marked intensity. JEWETT CITY

AN INGENIOUS BOY MANAGES TO GET FISH

A highly entertained gallery Friday afternoon were much interested in the very successful sucker fishing exploits of a small Polish lad. Where the excavations for the south bridge pier were completed, the river bed was strewn with small stones and gravel. From the temporary bridge which was run across for the convenience of handling the span girders, down in the shallow water, a great school of suckers came Friday afternoon for the purpose of spawning. Within a short time the kids had spotted the fish. All over a foot long, the fish presented an unusual display of one of nature's regular spring occurrences. A half dozen of the lads came with lines and baited hooks. Fine fat angle worms and wiggling night crawlers were of no avail, for the fish were evidently not interested in dining. One little fellow, with no hat and barefooted, who said his name was Stanley, after failing with bait, declared that he would get them. Soon he appeared with a pole, to which he attached a piece of brick so that he could control it in the current. Below the sinker he rigged a noose of copper thread. The school paid not the slightest attention as this device was moved slowly among them, which proved to be their undoing, for the boy landed ten big ones before the school took fright and swam away in disorder. The fish were all caught in full view of the spectators. What seemed peculiar was the fact that when the boy would lift one out from the ranks, the others that swam so closely that they touched, seemed not to be aware that one of their scaly brethren had been snatched into the sucker's eternity.

Honey Bear From Brazil

A honey bear in a cage in the window of one of the Park square stores, Friday, drew a crowd of interested spectators. He is a friendly chap, except that one might get a finger snapped off if he didn't watch out. A sailor man off a molasses tanker from Brazil gave the agile South American resident to Mr. St. John. Aboard ship the animal was always very friendly with the cook. One day as the chops were being cut, so the mariner says, Mr. H. B.'s long tail got in the way of the cleaver, with the result that said member is eight inches shorter than it really ought to be.

Stewart and was covered in the colors of the order. It contained beautiful gifts from the officers for Mrs. Johnson. Star sandwiches, olives, strawberry shortcake with whipped cream and coffee were served by Mrs. Carl Benjamin. May baskets were the favors, an individual favor for Mrs. Johnson being a housewife doll. The rooms were artistically decorated with festoons of crepe paper in blue, yellow, white, green and red, the colors of the order.

The judges declared a tie between Mary Lewis and Elmer Miller. These two tried again and Elmer Miller was declared winner and given a prize of a fourth degree P. of H. pin. A group of ten songs was then played by Miss Helen Weaver to see how many the patrons could guess correctly. Twelve patrons had them all correct. TRIED ALL KINDS OF LAXATIVES

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN Gave Only Permanent Relief

As everybody knows, the market is flooded with cathartics, pills and patent compounds for the relief of constipation. At best, whatever results are obtained are temporary. Besides, there is the danger in certain drugs and the habit-forming menace.

Mr. P. M. Fisher, 517 Olive Street, Scranton, Pa., has something to say on this subject which will be interesting to all constipation sufferers. He says:

"For many years I suffered from constipation and used, for relief, all kinds of laxatives. After a few days' treatment, I would only find my condition the same as before and at times worse.

"Some time ago I started to use Kellogg's ALL-BRAN regularly, once a day as directed. Since doing this, I have found that I do not need any other medicine to procure the desired result, and it keeps me in a very healthful condition."

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is positively guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation or the purchase price will be refunded.

In addition, it adds needed iron to the diet. You will like its delicious flavor. There are many delightful ways to eat it. Your grocer has Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

HOW ABOUT ARBOR DAY?

The date for Arbor and Bird day has been fixed by Governor Trumbull for the ninth of May, next Friday. What arrangements have you made to participate in the observance of it? Is it going to be left chiefly to the exercises which are held in the schools?

The purpose of Arbor day is to get the display of interest and the participation in the planting of trees that the day calls for. Tree planting has been going on for a number of weeks. The city has been doing some as part of its plan of replacement, where such seems to be necessary, and it may do more. But there is always the opportunity for the general public to get back of such efforts and make provisions for more attractive grounds, better looking streets and public places.

When it comes to the matter of fruit trees it is expected that individuals will be alive to their own requirements. New homes, the laying out of new grounds and the change in ownership can be relied upon to produce results in this direction, but it should not be overlooked that there are excellent opportunities for placing shade trees at fitting locations so that they will improve the looks of property and in time serve greatly to enhance its value.

And with the planting of trees there may well be a bit of thought given to the setting out of shrubs and flowering bushes. These things go on as a matter of routine in parks where beauty is properly rated, but the homeowner with a yard that will permit it should be mindful of the chance to contribute to the appearance of the neighborhood as well as to his own home-lot. Along with the flower gardens in which Norwich has ever shown a keen interest, there is always an opportunity to contribute to the attractiveness by new trees, new shrubs, new roses.

In a city which proudly proclaims the [illegible] of Rose of New England, [illegible] not be too much interest dis[illegible] the culture of roses. In fact, [illegible] prising to residents, as well [illegible] visitors, that there isn't more attention given to this detail. With the fixing of Arbor day date, it is time to grasp the spirit of the day and endorse the purpose by actually doing something.

HAVE YOU BEEN COUNTED?

The pleas that are being made quite generally that all those who have not been seen by the census man should make it a point to get a blank and send in to the enumerators or supervisors the facts that are desired in order to have the enumeration complete are well directed.

The desire is to get everyone. Everyone should be anxious to be included. In various ways it is possible for persons to be skipped and there are difficulties involved in finding certain individuals. All persons should be desirous of making the enrollment as large as possible and while there is good reason for giving all possible assistance to the census man when he calls there is equally good cause for contributing aid through directing attention to omissions and supplying the deficiencies which the persons themselves know exist.

It is always possible to hear this one or that declare that he has not been seen. It can be certain that this has not been intentional, and there should be a sufficient amount of public spirit, a proper desire to have the correct population of a community set forth, to cause those who have been missed to correct the situation. Each one is worthy of being counted, each one is wanted. The federal census should be accurate and it will come much closer to the mark if there is the right sort of cooperation on the part of the people in general.

Just what satisfaction can be gained from dodging the census man or in gloating over an oversight is difficult to fathom. Some of the excuses for failing to respond to the ring of the census man are ridiculous. They reflect upon the intelligence of the persons concerned. It is a sufficiently difficult job to comb a city, or a smaller community, even with the organization set up by the census bureau, without making studied efforts to handicap and embarrass. In these closing days when the enumeration must be wound up let each one, who needs to, recognize his civic duty and step up and be counted. It is a situation where everyone should insist instead of waiting to be coaxed. We hate to think what some of the uncounted would say if anyone suggested that they were not worthy of being counted.

ITALIAN AND FRENCH NAVIES

What is going to be the effect of the naval construction programme, which Italy has announced, upon France?

It cannot be forgotten that these two countries have been watching each other rather carefully. Both participated in the London conference but the scope of the agreement reached at that session was limited because of the inability of these two countries to come to an understanding that would permit them to go the whole distance with the other countries.

It didn't take Italy long after the close of the conference to reach the decision that it would build a 10,000-ton cruiser, two 5,100-ton scout cruisers, four 1,240-ton destroyers and 22 submarines, or a total of 29 warships with a total of 42,900 tons. Italy is going to build because it believes that it should provide as much naval protection as France has. That means a new warship programme. It is a parity move on the part of Italy, not through agreement, but as a matter of competition.

The natural reaction might be expected to be that France would start building in its determination to protect itself by remaining as much ahead in naval strength as Italy seems to think it now is. It would be a repetition of the old story of building to keep up with the other fellow, and building to excel. It means that they are looking upon each other with suspicion instead of confidence. Their relative strength may be the same after they have indulged in all the warship construction that they plan, but it will involve a huge expenditure of money which might easily be avoided by agreeing to the maintenance of a relative strength, such as the present, for instance, without participating in a naval race.

France hasn't as yet spoken but the opportunity exists for it to do one of three things. It can rest on its oars, which isn't likely. It can build as rapidly as Italy is going to do or it can make the most of the opportunity to stress the need of both countries becoming full-fledged members of the London conference agreement. It would seem to be a capital time for both of these countries to rally to the support of a limitation agreement that would encourage friendly and peaceful relations instead of causing each other to pour money, which can be used in many other ways, into bigger and threatening war machines.

INTERFERING WITH FIRE DEPT.

When it gets so that the head of the fire department is obliged to walk in order to respond to the call to a fire, the situation is a serious one. Possibly it made no particular difference at the Ripley place fire, since it was not a large one, but the conditions which prevailed in the main highway leading to the fire were similar in character to what has happened repeatedly. It is getting so that a traffic squad is required in order to keep the streets clear in the neighborhood of a fire, and the sounding of an alarm is the signal for a race to beat out or keep up with the fire department.

It is conceivable that there are those who are directly interested when a certain alarm is sounded. There is the possibility that it may involve their property or family, but that doesn't justify everyone with a car rushing to the blaze and then stopping the machines in the highway so that it is impossible for those in the rear to move. Many drivers push ahead regardless of the fact that they may create a jam. Others will park their cars double and leave them to bother legitimate traffic. In too many instances there is no thought of parking legitimately at a distance and then walking to the fire. The aim seems to be to get the best vantage point possible and let the firemen make the best of the situation.

The situation on the East Side would have been quite the same if it had been a piece of apparatus instead of the chief's car that could not get through.

If the firemen are going to do effective work they should make as quick a response as possible and be relieved of any handicaps which come from the automobiles of spectators. But, aside from the obstruction that is caused the fire department, there is no justification for so jamming the streets that ordinary traffic, not attracted by or interested in the fire, cannot move. It is time to break up the practice.

FEDERAL PRISONS

While states are making inquiries to determine if there are conditions in their prisons which would invite such a tragedy as that which occurred at Columbus, O., it is impossible for congress to overlook the situation which has been presented to it relative to federal prisons.

This situation, it will be remembered, was called to the attention of congress a considerable time in advance of the Ohio trouble. It cannot, therefore, be regarded as something which has been prompted by that disclosure.

Not only has congress been told of the necessity of relieving the congestion in federal prisons, a congestion which makes it necessary for the government at times to utilize state prison facilities, but the president has recently called attention to the need for immediate action.

What he has said is accentuated by the statement of Attorney General Mitchell, in which he shows that there are now 13,223 prisoners in federal institutions which are intended to accommodate 6,943, and in addition there were on February 15, last, 13,585 federal prisoners housed in state prisons or jails who could not be sent to federal prisons for lack of room.

This represents a congestion which cannot be disregarded in view of the Ohio case. The call is for more prisons and the suggestion advanced is that they be located at points that would be of greater convenience to parts of the country which commit many prisoners to federal penitentiaries. This is one matter which congress should realize rests with it to correct.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

Much has been written from time to time of a very diversive character as to the prevailing opinion throughout Europe in regard to prohibition in the United States. As might be expected there would be nothing like a consensus of opinion. One prominent wag seems to be greatly exercised over the probability that this country will become the laughing-stock of the rest of the world. The rejoinder has been made that there are somethings about us at which other countries are not disposed to laugh. They do not laugh at the wages which our industries manage to pay. They do not laugh at the standards of living of our working people. They do not laugh at the millions we send over to some countries to keep them from starvation. They do not laugh at the number of automobiles, radio sets, electric household appliances and baby carriages which our people manage someway to afford. They do not laugh at the growth of our savings bank deposits. Nor our building and loan associations.

In a recently published pamphlet on "Prosperity" by Walter S. Gifford, president of The American Tel. and Tel. Co., some very thoughtful things are said that may be helpful to those who fear that financially America is headed for the rocks. Any careful review of the trends of American economic life cannot fail to make clear to all save the wilfully blind that the soundness of our present day standards is enduring. Business is attaining a respected place among other professions that contribute to a high civilization. Mr. Gifford thinks that grave responsibility rests on all chambers of commerce to so direct business and community affairs so that everyone will have the fullest oportunity for making the most out of life. He thinks that unless the temper and genius of our people are suddenly changed there will continue to be improvement.

Another striking article has recently appeared having this caption: "The Continuity of Moral Vitality." The writer maintains that our worship to be real must continue beyond the meetinghouse into all the meeting places of our lives. Church services should have a continuity of moral vitality. The hymns and anthems will always make the unheard of melodies of the heart. New light will always be coming from the Scriptures as we walk with those whose daily lives are fashioned by these same scriptures. Sermons will be heard again and again as we stand at our posts of duty and acquit ourselves like men. The prayers will instruct us to continue both in the day and in the night those dialogues with God, and help us to keep a fine poise and balance when assaulted by the confusion of the world. It teaches us to carry our sanctuary with us, and to pitch our tent with God in the wilderness every night.

A well-known writer of religious subjects has asked this question in a recent article: "Do young people as a general thing, after they have joined the church, feel that they are a part of the church family in any different sense than before?" If not it may be that they are not wholly to blame. It is a matter in which the church as a whole has an important part to do. Some churches—where a considerable number has joined—hold a public reception, as an expression of their interest in the step taken. Some young people unfortunately when they join the church, instead of getting into a sun parlor as they expected find to their sorrow that they have only hit an ice chest. It is well for young converts, if there is not already a young people's organization, to form one and make it a live thing by contributing to their personal holiness.

In more than one sense "tall oaks from little acorns grow." It applies to persons as well as to trees. Take for illustration the case of Abraham Lincoln. As a baby he was very diminutive, but not so in March, 1861, when he was inaugurated president of the United States. He was a little acorn when in early May, 1833, he was appointed postmaster of New Salem, Illinois. Now, this place at that time, was typical of many villages that did not transact enough business to call for a post office building, and therefore the young postmaster when he distributed the mail in person carried it around in his hat, which was a sort of movable post office. This was radically different from the system in vogue in New York at present. One wonders if at that time this acorn had even a dream that one day he would control the mightiest mail distributing agency the world ever saw. "Tall oaks from little acorns grow."

Is it not true along many lines that we are very apt to let really good ideas carry us to absurdity, and sometimes far beyond? The writer was recently reading one of "The Parables of Safed the Sage." It was the experience of Safed who was dining with a vegetarian. The latter had ordered a plate of baked beans, while Safed was enjoying a juicy steak. The vegetarian by way of mild rebuke quoted this well-known passage of Scripture: "Thou shalt not kill!" The answer was that every time we inhale a deep breath of air we assassinate a great army of minute insects, and do the same when we drink a glass of water. If that idea about the destruction of life were rigidly carried out in a few years there would be neither human beings nor vegetation. Let the farmers go on that principle where would their crops be? With no attempt to exterminate insects and virmin would life be worth living?

At the time this paragraph was written we were in the grip of really cold weather such as we might think seasonable in the early part of arch. Some spring flowers that with commendable zeal had put faith in the genial sunshine began to show themselves above the soil. The tender things put reliance upon the signs of coming warm weather. But since then they have repented in sackcloth and ashes and look as if they had been ostracized. Now the question is; will nature furnish some form of restitution? At least we know that there has been no season yet when the flowers have been entirely denied us. When the golden sunshine gets a fair chance to function, it puts in some licks that are perfectly amazing. Seedtime and harvest, summer and winter, day and night have never been denied the earth thus far, neither have been the flowers.

One naturally asks the question, after the resurrection of Christ, what, in the continuity of life in the Great Beyond? This is an all important question pertaining to our own existence hereafter. Our greatest authority in this matter is the statement of the Master himself as recorded in the Gospel of the Apostle John, from which four things may be inferred: First, Christ went to prepare a place for us. The exact statement is, "I go to prepare a place for you" referring to His disciples. Secondly, this going on the part of Christ indicates in His own language that he will come again. But he does not indicate in anyway when that time will be. Any dogmatism on our part must be a matter of pure speculation. Thirdly, when He comes, the purpose will be to receive His disciples unto Himself. He will then be more intimately our leader and protector than now. This is due to the fact that where he is we shall be also.

KILLINGLY HENS HOLD TWO WORLD RECORDS FOR PERSISTENCE IN SURVIVAL

After lying buried for eight months under unnumbered tons of hay, a white Wyandotte hen is now capering about, gaunt but chipper, on Otis Chase's farm, the old Durfee place, in East Killingly. When rescued she weighed only a pound and a half, but otherwise she seems to have suffered little or nothing from her long entombment. This is said to be a unique instance among poultry of the phenomenon which the philosophers describe by the term "the will-to-live."

Another unrivalled example of the persistence in survival shown by Killingly hens is furnished by a member of the black Spanish breed which survived the vicissitudes of life for 27 years and, when reported on by the Bulletin correspondent in the issue of April 9, 1915, was still going strong:

Dayville Hen a Mrs. Methuselah.

Here's a story about a hen (the correspondent writes). It's a true story. Anybody that yips "Nature faker," will have the truth of all set down here on the subject demonstrated to his, or her, satisfaction. The hen is 27 years of age; no, we did not count the teeth to find out. We accepted the word of the man who knows. The hen is the property of James Blanchard, at Dayville, and has been ever since she was a chick. He knows all about her and her remarkable career.

She's a pure-blooded black Spanish, an aristocrat of her line. In her youthful days she was as black as coal, her feathers of raven shade winning the admiration of all who looked at her. She was beautiful then, but gave no indication of an ambition to set up a new record for hen longevity. She lived on during her regular season's stent of laying and brooding until all her contemporaries had passed to the hen heaven.

As the years rolled by her glossy, jet-black feathers began to undergo a transformation until after successive periods of moulting she presented a speckled appearance. Last year she was immaculate in a dress of pure white, the reproduction in adornment of a white Leghorn. This year the white feathers are sprinkled with others of black, giving her something of the appearance of a Wyandotte.

Although she is now in the great-great-great-grandmother class and then some, the classic black Spanish continues to be aregular hen. She has been turning her customary allotment of eggs this spring and is now making it definitely known that she is anxious to set. Roaming about the yard where Mr. Blanchard's flocks are kept, she seems much the same as the other fowl there and gives no indication of her extraordinary age. She is active and eats well. She may live for years more, though the average of hens that are allowed to go as far as they like is said to be not much more than ten years.

Some time since Mr. Blanchard was besought to permit the grand old lady to be taken to the big poultry show at Boston, but he refused, fearing a risk to her health that might prove fatal. Her photograph has been taken, however, and represents as much in her own royal line as do some shafts of granite erected in memory of some persons and things.

Made New Yorkers Sit Up.

The Bulletin's story about this Dayville wonder attracted nation-wide attention. New York was especially interested. One metropolitan newspaper's story was thus referred to in The Bulletin of April 9, 1915:

Fame has come to the aged black Spanish hen owned by James Blanchard of Dayville and introduced to the public in this column one day last week. Down in the rural village of New York she was made the subject of a write-up in a Sunday paper. Evidently that New York crowd doesn't believe that there is a hen 27 years of age in the town of Killingly, but Killingly doesn't care anything about that, because Killingly is as big as New York in some ways, and bigger when it comes to aged hens. Here's what the New York Sunday story says on the subject of that wonderful hen:

"Eusapia Palladino," the oldest hen in the town of Killingly and perhaps in the entire world, is to have a birthday party on the occasion of her 27th birthday, which falls on June 2. All the old hens in Killingly are looking forward to the event, and it is probable that a few young chickens will be asked, just to give the party a metropolitan flavor.

Eusapia, though of Spanish origin, lays her eggs in English and began her work when but five months old. Her first egg, which her owner, James Blanchard, still has, was landed in November, 1888, and since then she has laid an average of 144 eggs a year. She has just laid another egg as this story is being written and only the greatest haste can prevent her from laying another before it is finished.

She just lays around all day, as might be expected at her great age. Unlike the Madagascar Bingle Hen, which lays square eggs with a monogram, Eusapia lays but one egg at a time.

Eusapia, it will be readily reckoned, was hatched from a black Spanish egg ten years before the Spanish-American war, when shells burst less frequently. She has seen a very active life and greatly deplores the dissipation, irregular hours and loss of sleep incident to poultry shows which have become popular of late years. She does not smoke, has never on any occasion partaken of alcoholic liquors, and can now read without glasses if she cared to.

Brookfield Takes a Hand

Massachusetts, as represented by the famous poultry center of Brookfield, then assumed a part in the discussion. On April 13, 1915, The Bulletin thus reported the life-story of Brookfield's claimant to the honors of hen-longevity:

A story that appeared recently in The Bulletin about a 27-year-old hen at Dayville has been the cause of giving rise to a number of rival stories about hens of advanced years. Here's one from Brookfield, Mass.

According to Fire Engineer Walter B. Howe, the much talked-of 12-year-old hen owned by his brother, Irving C. Howe, a Spencer barber, that is supposed to have laid an egg every day this year, is not the hen Brother Irving thinks it is.

Mr. Howe says: The Rhode Island Red my brother thinks he has is in my henhouse, where it has been since it was hatched 12 years ago. This breed of hen has been in the Howe family 36 years, the grandmother of the much-talked-of being hatched while we lived in Maine. She lived to be 13 years old.

The mother of the hen was hatched at my home and lived to be 11 years old. A peculiarity of this strain of hen had always been that no matter how many eggs were placed under her for hatching, they would only hatch one chick and sometimes not any. The grandmother, the mother and the present hen didn't begin to lay until they were three years old and always stopped when they were nine years old.

It appears that some time since Mr. Howe's brother wanted to trade for the remarkable old hen, so a trade was made. When the brother came to get the hen Mr. Howe was not at home, so the brother picked out the one he thought was "it." This selected hen was five years of age and had never laid an egg. As the old hen didn't lay either, Mr. Howe let the mistake go without saying anything about it, for he figured neither he nor his brother had been stuck, as one non-laying hen is as good as another, in his opinion.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

Peter's Mistake

Peter loved the Lord. He was ready to die for Him and right valiantly did he defend his Lord and Master by drawing forth His sword and smiting the servant of the priest. He it was who said "Though all shall be offended in Thee, I will not be offended.

Peter loved the Lord with all his strength, but how weak is strength when the heart and soul enter not into it. When he was in the midst of friends how strong He was.

But now his Lord in humiliation stands before His persecutors in the guard house. All have forsaken Him and fled and Peter having gained admission into the court of the temple mingles with the servants about the warmth of the fire. Then saith the damsel that kept the door unto Peter, "Art thou not also one of this man's disciples?" He saith, I am not.

Yet the third time he repeats his declaration, was it timidity that brought forth such an answer as this? Peter was not of a timid temperament. He was the same man as a few moments before, but then his Lord was the one who could raze to the ground the armies of the earth, and bring down fire from heaven if need be to perform His work of destruction, but now He was smitten and afflicted, dispised and rejected of men.

Peter was willing to share His glory, but not His humiliation. Then it was that the cock crew for the third time and Peter fled out into the blackness of the night. But it was the darkness that precedes the dawn. He saw himself as the Lord saw him. Oh! so weak! He saw himself as he really was, one who loved the Lord, but whose flame of love was but a flicker, not bright enough to light his path through the dark vale of trial. He might follow true to the end.

Never before had Peter realized his own weakness as at that moment. That one look from his Lord had revealed to Him His nothingness. But, "blessed are those, on whom when He looks, the Lord looks also with love," for it had also revealed to Him His strength and as He beheld His weakness He became strong.

"Sternly, yet tenderly, the spirit of grace led up this broken hearted penitent before the tribunal of His own conscience and there His old life, His old shame, His old weakness, His old self was doomed to that death of Godly sorrow which was to issue in a new and noble birth.

Such need not be our experience. Let us not make the mistake which Peter made in following the Lord in our own strength, but let us put on the whole armor of God, having His love in our hearts and then when reproach comes and familiar foes are turned away and hands up-raised in scorn it shall but deepen our conviction that we are but "Strangers and pilgrims on the earth who desire a better country."

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 2—That justly celebrated thesis about dogs prepared for the Congressional Record so long ago by senator, then representative, Harry Hawes of Missouri, seems to be wagging a very long tail of consequences.

This column before has noted how it led Hawes to become one of the most prolific of senatorial authors, with five books or so to his credit, all about things of the out-o'doors.

And now it has, quite obviously, led to creation of a senate select committee of five, backed by a $20,000 expense fund, to study and recommend to the senate appropriate measures for the "replacement and conservation of wild animal life, including aquatic and bird life."

That is the language of the Hawes resolution, adopted by the senate without debate. On the committee are Senator Walcott of Connecticut, President Hoover's one time assistant in the Food Administration, as chairman, Senator Hawes as vice chairman and, no doubt, active head, and Senators McNary, Oregon; Norbeck, South Dakota and Pittman, Nevada.

Camping?

Under the resolution this group may "sit and act at such times and places during the sessions and recesses of the seventy-first congress" as it desires. So it seems possible that Senator Hawes and such of his committee colleagues as are not immediately concerned this summer with primaries and politics may be senate mandate go adventuring about the land after adjournment, looking into a lot of odd corners where wild animal life still lurks—and where it should be might pleasant for men with a taste for camping out and whipping a trout stream.

Walcott's assignment to the committee and his election as chairman by his committee colleagues is an easily explainable thing. He was chairman of the Connecticut state board of fisheries and game at one time and also chairman of the state water commission.

In those capacities, the official narrative of his life discloses that he "devoted himself to the building up and conservation of the forests, water resources and wild life of the state." He and Harry Hawes should find their work on the select committee most congenial.

In Philippines

And while Walcott of Connecticut is putting in the summer thus pleasingly at home, his colleague, Bingham, hopes and expects to be far from the madding political crowd heading a congressional committee visitation to the Philippines. He introduced the pending bill for that purpose back during the special session.

Now Bingham is an explorer, the only one in the senate. He also is a native of Honolulu, and it was the prospect of this summer exploration in the Pacific islands which made him decline a seat on the primary campaign expenditures investigating committee.

THE GARDEN

By REX REES

The Wild Flowers

Bees and butterflies and children delight in the opening of the spring; and boys and girls reared in the country follow the seasons by their flowers. They know where the very earliest flowers grow and can pilot you to the place where in the earliest spring the arbutus grows, nor do they miss the dells where white violets grow, or where the spreading patch of blue violets are to be found. They know the hillside where the mountain laurel blooms, the hidden haunt where the ping orchid grows, and the rocky ledge where the columbine which droops on its slender stem and yet blows to and fro without breaking. To them it is a mystery and remains a mystery. Their knowledge of them all is an intimate and loving knowledge all their own. The swamps and the woods, the hills and roadsides are the special domains of boys and girls who live in the country.

The great poets of America have shown a profound love for the incomparable wild flowers of America. A very dear friend destined I feel to become known as America's naturalist poet, W. W. Christman, in his "Songs of the Helderhills," has written beautifully of the wild flowers so common to use all. I like to repeat his lines as I hunt for jack in the pulpit, I think, too, that you will like them. And I will quote them for you that as you go wild flower hunting for your home garden, they may stimulate you also:

"Jack lives in the Helderhill,
Jack-in-the-pulpit and his Jill,
Jack is blond and quite thick set,
Jill the same but a brunette.

Big and bulbous at Jack's foot,
Bites the bitter memory root,
Boiled 'tis sweet and tender but,
Raw and mixed with his fine cut.

It will start a great to do,
When the hired man takes a chew!
Cuckoo-pint! It decked the wood,
Where of old lived Robin Hood,

Fairy folk the poets tell,
Ring Jill's purple clappered bell,
In a book of rhymes he writ,
Sweet will Shakespeare mentioned it.

Neighbor of the whip-poor-will,
Jack lives in the Helderhill,
Jack is clad in Lincoln green,
In deep purple, Jacqueline."

If you look carefully at this poem you will notice how closely it follows the lines of scientific observation. A group of school boys brought a large bouquet of jacks into the school room and inquired as to why some were light colored and some dark. The teacher could not tell, but sent them to the minister. "Oh, yes!" he said, "I can tell you why, the light colored ones are the male flowers, and the purple ones the female. So you see here Jack and his wife Jacqueline."

All, or the great majority of wild flowers, have their own unique personality. They exist as individuals and reproduce themselves. But there are many flowers however that are dependent on their fellows. Take for instance some varieties of strawberries, though they bear delicious fruit are barren without fertilization from other varieties. Every plant belongs to a family as much as animals and has its relatives scattered world wide, to know them it is necessary to seek them in their homes as they very seldom seek us. Perhaps the most wonderful parent plant in the world is the buttercup, so wonderful indeed that it should always have a capital letter beginning its name, Madam Buttercup. To trace out all her children would indeed be a really vital task. All our flowers, according to many botanists, are descended from the buttercup. The mallows, geraniums, pinks, phloxes, snap dragons, roses, saxifrages, parsleys, honeysuckles, bluebells, asters, lilies, irises, orchids, arrow heads, rushes, sedges, and grasses, one knows not where to stop. I submit to you the fact of this kinship almost universal of all flowers, and you will find if you analyze any flower, that it consists of four principal parts—stamens, which produce the fertilizing pollen, tipped by authers; pistils, which receive the pollen in the stigma and conduct it into the ovaries where it fertilizes the seed produced there; petals, that form the corolla and advertise the specific need of the flower for the pollen bearers; and calyx, whose chief duty is to shield and protect the stamens, pistils and petals. It is by the modification of these parts that all flowers have been developed.

In the garden varieties of roses, tulips, verbenas, petrunias, and a host of other flowers all advertise their relationship. It will help you in your walks to recognize the family to which a flower belongs, if you can say: "Now this is one of Madam Buttercup's children; let me see if I can remember to what branch of the family it belongs—tulips, hyacinths, trilliums, onions, solomon seals, anemones, marsh marigolds, clematis, peonies, columbine, larkspurs." Environment has a lot to do in the development of form and texture. Take for instance water lilies, they bear the mark of their habitat in stem and leaf. The fashioning force of light and heat and drought upon stern and leaf and root system all go to make the flower a thing of beauty and a joy forever.

"Heigh-ho! daisies and buttercups,
Fair yellow daffodils stately and tall,
When the wind wakes how they rock
in the grasses,
And dance with the cuckoo buds
slender and small,
Here's two bonnie boys and here's mother's own lassies, Eager to gather them all."

His ignorance will soon expose.
—Danny Meadow Mouse.

Peter Rabbit was much puzzled. All the time that Danny Meadow Mouse had been talking about those new neighbors, whom he didn't like, but liked him, Peter had been looking this way and that way. But look as he would he could see no one, except Danny.

"Who are these new neighbors?" inquired Peter.

Just then there was a shrill cry. It came from somewhere up above. Danny Meadow Mouse seemed to shrink. Yes, sir, he seemed to shrink and actually grow smaller, although of course he didn't. But he did flatten himself so close to the ground and draw himself in so that he seemed to be smaller than he really was. Peter stared at Danny for a moment. It was plain that Danny was a badly frightened Meadow Mouse. As Peter could see nothing to cause such fright, he concluded that it was that shrill cry that had given Danny such a scare.

Again he heard that shrill cry of "Killy! Killy! Killy!" And between the branches of the tree above him he caught a glimpse of a bird. He recognized it at once as Killy the Sparrow Hawk. Killy was circling overhead. Suddenly it popped into Peter's head that Killy might be one of the new neighbors. He looked down at Danny Meadow Mouse. Danny was still crouched there, a picture of fright. Presently the voice of Killy sounded from some distance away. Danny Meadow Mouse drew a long breath. "Do you see anything of Mrs. Killy anywhere?" he inquired in his squeaky little voice.

Peter looked all around, but could see nothing of Killy or Mrs. Killy, and said so.

"Probably she's on the nest," said Danny. "Those are the new neighbors. It is bad enough now. A dozen times a day I have a fright just like the one I had a moment ago. But that is nothing to what it will be when they have a family to hunt for.

"You said those Sparrow Hawks had a nest near here," said he Nanny and I have got to move before then. We have got to have a little peace in life."

Peter was, of course, all curiosity. "Do you mean that Killy the Sparrow Hawk and Mrs. Killy have a nest around here?" he inquired eagerly.

"I mean just that," replied Danny. "Why they couldn't have picked some other place I don't understand. Here we were, all comfortably settled, and they had to come over here and set up housekeeping. What with those two in the daytime and Spooky the Screech Owl at night, an honest Meadow Mouse hasn't much chance around here. It is a wonder that Nanny and I are alive as it is."

Meanwhile, Peter was looking up through the trees in search of a nest. He couldn't see one. He looked and looked, but he couldn't see a nest anywhere.

"What are you looking for?" inquired Danny when he noticed what Peter was doing.

"You said those Sparrow Hawks had a nest near here," said he, "and I am looking for it. But I don't see a nest anywhere. It ought to be a good-sized nest and I should be able to see it."

Danny stared very hard at Peter. "Do you mean to tell me, Peter Rabbit," said he, "that you have lived around here as long as you have and don't know that Killy the Sparrow Hawk's nest is in a hole in a tree?"

Peter looked quite as foolish as he felt. "Of course I knew it," said he, "now that you mention it. It had slipped my mind."

YOUR HEALTH

Constipation

Beaumont S. Cornell, M. D., Fort Wayne, Indiana.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Constipation is infrequent or insufficient elimination, but no iron rule exists to show where diarrhoea ceases or constipation begins. Every person is a law unto himself. The trouble may be due to actual organic changes—piles, fissures, fistulas, paralysis, "falling" of the colon; or it may be associated with an inflamed gall bladder or appendix; often enough it is due to a diet too poor in "roughage" (cellulose—containing fruit or vegetables), or too poor in vitamines, which beneficially influence the bowel lining; the continued strain of ambition and hard work may produce a lasting contraction of the colon, thus impeding elimination,—a status which responds to relaxation and diversions. Most often, constipation is due to careless neglect of going regularly to the lavatory.

Colon-worship is expressed in offerings of harmful purgatives. Prevalent ideas of "auto-intoxication" are not true. All the ill-feelings which attend constipation result from pressure of fecal masses on neighboring organs, and may be at once relieved by a simple saline enema.

A sensitive person may be rendered irritable by the lodgement of dried-out feces in the colon, but this organ has been overcharacterized as a villan, and is constantly more sinned against than sinning. Colon-consciousness (just one of the modern abnormal states of mind) is due largely to the clever advertisement of purgative manufacturers. Dread of constipation is, in itself, a common cause of the condition. An attitude of confidence and faith is just as important here as in religion. If such an attitude is adopted, if a well-balanced, vitamin-rich diet is eaten, an if the individual will not be too absorbed in his affairs to devote a few quiet moments each morning to this simple ritual, the matter will soon take care of itself. If it does not, a physician's care is required to search for organic hindrances.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

Universal Stamping Machine Co.

In 1919, the Universal Stamping Machine company, of Stamford, and the American Postage Meter company, of Chicago, combined interests forming the Pitney-Bowes Postage Meter company, with factory and general offices in Stamford. The Universal Stamping Machine company, of which Mr. W. H. Bowes was president, had manufactured automatic postmarking and cancelling machines for the post office departments of the United States and many foreign countries since 1910.

Through the efforts of Mr. Bowes and his organization, the use of metered mail was authorized by congress in 1920, and the Pitney-Bowes postage meter approved by the United States post office department in September of that year.

The first setting of a postage meter was made on September 16, 1920, at Stamford, for the Pitney-Bowes Postage Meter company, and the second Metered Mail installation was made for the Commercial Travelers Insurance company of Utica, N. Y.

Since this first installation, the metered mail system has been adopted, and Pitney-Bowes postage meters and mailing machines installed by several thousands of the most prominent business concerns located in nearly 500 different cities and towns in the United States. The leaders in finance, commerce and industry are now receiving the benefits of this new postal system.

Metered mail equipment comprises of two units, namely, the mailing machine proper, which is sold outright, and the postage meter, which is leased to the mailer on a service contract at a nominal monthly fee. The meter device being approved by the post office department for the printing of postage, cannot be sold. The manufacturer or distributer of such devices is responsible to the government for the proper maintenance and functioning of these postage meters.

The two units combined, seal the envelope, print postage (the metered mail indicia), postmark, count and stack mail simultaneously at the rate of from 100 to 300 pieces per minute.

In 1929, the Pitney-Bowes Postage Meter company succeeded in having a new Postage Meter and Metered Mail indicia approved by the post office department. This latest equipment being of the multi-denomination type, whereas the former meter printed but a single denomination of letters bearing the metered mail indicia, escape such time-consuming operations at the post office, as facing, cancelling and postmarking, thus permitting them to go directly to the sorting section for distribution.

Metered mail safeguards and audits the mailer's postage and saves the government the cost of engraving, distributing and carrying large inventories of stamps.

Business concerns are fast becoming familiar with the benefits of the metered mail system for the prompt and safe preparation and dispatch of their mail. With the introduction of the lower priced equipment, it is safe to predict that soon all important business correspondence will be dispatched by metered mail.

Chocolate Nut Bisque and Toasted Almond

MENTION a CHOCOLATE NUT bar and you get a nod of approval from any jury of sweet-lovers. Rich chocolate with full-bodied walnuts should rank high in popularity. But whip them together with golden cream, eggs and sugar—and freeze. Well, there's only one possible verdict—everyone agrees its "immense."

No, that isn't the whole story—that's only the bisque . . . There's toasted almonds, too. Know the smell of roasting almonds—the aroma of pure vanilla? How they blend! Now, put them all together, and what's the jury's finding? Guilty! —of a new taste-sensation that ought to make the front page in big headlines.

RELIEF FROM CURSE OF CONSTIPATION

A Battle Creek physician says, "Constipation is responsible for more misery than any other cause."

But immediate relief has been found. A tablet called Rexall Orderlies has been discovered. This tablet attracts water from the system into the lazy, dry, evacuating bowel called the colon. The water loosens the dry food waste and causes a gentle, thorough, natural movement without forming a habit or ever increasing the dose.

Stop suffering from constipation. Chew a Rexall Orderlie at night. Next day bright. Get 24 for 25c today at the nearest Rexall or Liggett Drug Store.

V. F. W. AUXILIARY

The quarterly meeting of the Department of Connecticut, Ladies' auxiliary to the V. F. W. of the U. S., was held at Waterbury, Sunday, April 27, with a very fine attendance. A delicious dinner was served at noon at the mess hall, state armory, and following this the women held their business meeting at Ricks academy, East Main street, and this session proved most interesting. Mrs. Bessie Hanken, of Revere, Mass., the national president, was the guest of honor. She gave a very inspiring and instructive address taking in numerous subjects, veteran legislation, the V. F. W. national orphans' home, the return of the "Polar Bear regiment" to be buried in this country instead of Russia, and the "Buddy Poppy" drive.

Following the business session a get-together meeting was held with the comrades, and motion pictures of the national home, Eaton Rapids, Mich., for the orphans of deceased veterans, were shown. Members of other veteran organizations were among the guests. Plans are being perfected for the V. F. W. state encampment, to be held in Danbury, June 21 to 24. A wonderful program is already outlined and all that remains to be done is to line up every member and then, "On to Danbury and a fine convention."

Among those who attended the quarterly meeting from Norwich were: Mrs. Rosamond Jacques, department council of administration; Mrs. Mary Hull, department guard, and Mrs. Lena Maynard, president of R. E. Hourigan auxiliary.

LOUIS KAMPF RETURNS FROM CHINA TO SALEM, MASS.

A former resident of Division street, Norwich, is thus referred to in a Salem, Mass. story: "China isn't such a bad place to live, despite the reduced value of the Chinese dollar and the continual fighting," says Louis Kampf, who has traveled and lived there for many years. Mr. Kampf has just returned to his home, 40 Raymond avenue, Salem. He is connected with the firm of Anderson Myer, whom he represents in Manchuria. He was the resident engineer in charge of the construction of the Naumkeag mills of Salem. In speaking of China he says:

"Chinese conditions are by no means the best. As one of the few countries that still use the silver standard, the recent drop in silver sent the value of the Chinese mex down and the paper money is at a very low figure, compared with the American dollar.

"Farm machinery is being used by the farmers in that country more than ever, making a good market for foreign products, and the automobile is becoming a factor in that country.

Mr. and Mrs. Kampf came back to the United States from China on the Europa, now the fastest ship afloat, and he was the first Salem man to sail on the ship. Mr. Kampf brought back Chinese works and brasses that give his home the appearance of a museum.

He has a large oil painting, a copy of the "Reply of the Cossacks of Zaporijie to the Sultan," made by a former pupil of Hapin.

Mr. Kampf also brought back a number of tapestries and bronzes, also other objects of interest from the Orient.

Mr. Kampf graduated from Norwich Free Academy and is a brother of Miss Mary Kampf of 33 Division street, who is a teacher in the Hobart avenue school.

WINS HARMONICA CUP AT PALACE THEATRE

The Red Arrow harmonica contest at the Palace theatre Friday night furnished a lot of interesting competition between the five entries, each of whom performed to the best of his ability and the decision was left to be determined by the volume of applause from the audience.

The second prize of $5 went to George Bemont (Blind George), who has musical talent not only on the harmonica but upon the violin and the accordion.

THIRD NIGHT OF NORWICH BROADCAST HAD ELECTRICAL STORM INTERFERENCE

The Norwich broadcast from WTIC at Hartford Friday night, which was the third in the series, had an electrical storm to struggle against, making unsatisfactory conditions for reception. However, much of it came through to the many listening in and they profited by the interesting way in which they were told about the Norwich line of ancestors which the 13th president of the United States had, about the Thermos bottle which is made in Norwich, about the Uncas-Miantonomoh fight and the reasons for the fame of Bean Hill.

There was also some well-put information about that substantial banking institution, the Norwich Savings society, and a reference to the Thanksgiving bonfires in Norwich, as well as to some old New England customs.

The musical interludes by the orchestra, of which there were five, were well chosen and for the bonfire period in the broadcast the orchestra played Just a Song at Twilight.

The broadcast was given as follows:

ANNOUNCER: The program for the following half-hour, ladies and gentlemen, is being sent to you by the Merchants Bureau, chamber of commerce, Norwich, Connecticut, "The Rose of New England." Just a word, before we begin, to introduce to you the city of Norwich. You'll find it in the eastern part of Connecticut, 150 miles by highway from Boston, 168 miles by highway from New York City, 60 miles by highway from Providence, 45 miles from Hartford, an inland city, yet a seaport, with direct water connection with the seven seas by the way of Long Island Sound, and the Thames river. You will recognize the name of the Thames river as that of the setting for the annual classic, the Yale-Harvard regatta, the starting-point for this race being eight miles south of Norwich.

Within sight of the Thames river also, at a ten-minute motor car ride from the center of Norwich, stands the new Norwich inn, a 70-room hotel of old English architecture, built on an elevation of ground which commands in every direction a view of Connecticut's most beautiful country.

On the porch of the inn we find our guests of the evening, or rather, of the morning, for the Doctor and the Schoolmaster are up with the chickens, to witness the rising sun. A cottony mist floats over the river, thinning slowly, purple shadows are creeping slowly out of distant valleys dissolving before the rays of the morning sun, striking through to tip far hill-tops with emerald. The aroma of coffee hangs in the chill air.

DOCTOR: Breakfast will taste all the better for the wait. Great country, eh?

DOCTOR: Ever hear of John Fillmore, professor?

SCHOOLMASTER: Don't believe I ever have. In what connection?

DOCTOR: Pirates, for one thing. Young John was raised in Ipswich. He went to sea when very young. That was about all a boy could do in those days, go to sea. He and a number of other sailors were captured by a pirate.

SCHOOLMASTER: Not recently, I trust.

DOCTOR: Oh, no, a couple of hundred years ago. Some time around 1724. After serving with the pirates for some little while, Johnny started something. The captain and a few of his "yes-yes" men were thrown over the side of the boat, the rest of the crew were put into irons, Johnny steered the boat into Boston harbor. The crew below were handed over to the authorities. If I'm not mistaken, there was a later ceremony in which rope played an important part.

SCHOOLMASTER: I don't doubt it. But what's the connection with this Johnny Fillmore and Norwich?

DOCTOR: I'm coming to that. Johnny got married and brought his bride to Norwich. Lived happily ever afterward. Fourteen children. One of them was named Nathaniel. He moved to Bennington, Vermont, fought in the French and Indian war, and in the Revolution. He also had a son, called him Nathaniel, too.

SCHOOLMASTER: That made Johnny Fillmore a grandfather.

DOCTOR: Correct, professor. And this Nathaniel Fillmore grew up and married Phebe Millard. The young couple decided to strike out for themselves, in the new country just opening up in the west, western New York. They, too, had a son.

SCHOOLMASTER: Great-grandson of Johnny Fillmore, and what did they name him?

DOCTOR: Millard Fillmore, he became the thirteenth president of the United States, a great-grandson of old Norwich.

SCHOOLMASTER: Did you ever stop to think, doctor, that Norwich owes a lot to a famous English scientist?

DOCTOR: I presume we owe much to a number of persons whom we know nothing of. I can't recall any debt to an English scientist.

SCHOOLMASTER: A man by the name of Dewar, Sir James Dewar. He used to experiment with gases reduced to a liquid. In fact, he was an authority on liquidified gases. He had one trouble, however. His experiments called for a temperature that would not vary over a considerable length of time.

DOCTOR: That is, if I understand you correctly, these gases in liquid form had to be kept cold, or hot, or warm, without getting colder, or hotter, in other words, remain just at an even temperature. Seems like an impossible problem.

SCHOOLMASTER: He tried everything he could think of, wrapped his test tubes in insulating material, layer after layer of it. Then a thought struck him. Why not use a vacuum?

DOCTOR: In other words, wrap the test tubes in nothing!

SCHOOLMASTER: Yes, very carefully wrapped in nothing. A vacuum, you know, is the best of all insulating media. So Dewar set about to make a test tube with a vacuum around it. The idea was sound, but Sir James Dewar was no glass-worker. He had to go for help to a German glass-blower.

DOCTOR: Naturally. I imagine putting nothing around a bottle would be a trade in itself!

SCHOOLMASTER: Quite so, doctor! The German glass-blower made a test-tube encased in another and larger test-tube, sealed at the necks, with an air-space between the two. This air was exhausted, and the outer tube sealed, leaving a vacuum between the two test-tubes.

DOCTOR: And Sir James had his test-tube!

SCHOOLMASTER: For many years those tubes, they were called Dewar flasks, were a common sight in the laboratories of the world. They became very indispensable to scientists. A liquified gas placed in one of them would remain hot for a full day or if cold, for about three full days. But they never left their laboratories.

DOCTOR: No reason why they should!

SCHOOLMASTER: No, there wasn't. The tubes were very fragile, they had to be handled with extreme care. One day, an American manufacturer chanced to be passing the shop of the German glass-worker. He saw one of the Dewar flasks in the window. He was quick to grasp the principle of the double test-tubes. But he picked up the idea where Dewar had left off. This man saw a need for the Dewar flask out in the world.

DOCTOR: I can't see where the general public would have any great need for a Dewar flask. It doesn't experiment with liquified gases.

SCHOOLMASTER: No, but it has other liquids that might be kept hot or cold. So the manufacturer worked with the Germans and developed his ideas, covering them with world-wide patents. Today, doctor, those vacuum bottles are made in Norwich, and the product is distributed all over the world. You've doubtless heard of them?

DOCTOR: Yes, indeed! The largest manufacturers of vacuum bottles on the globe, and the name is Thermos.

SCHOOLMASTER: You were going to tell me some time, doctor, about the square-shaped memorial on Sachem Plain, what's the old Indian's name? Mianto, something or other?

DOCTOR: Miantonomoh, sachem of the Narragansetts. Well, now's as good a time as any. That was purely an Indian battle. It took place some 16 years before the nine miles square that was to become Norwich was purchased. The battle, the pursuit of the Narragansetts, the capture of Miantonomoh, all took place on ground that is today the town of Norwich. You've heard of Uncas, of course?

SCHOOLMASTER: Couldn't very well help it, not in Norwich.

DOCTOR: Takes two to make a fight, you know. Uncas was the other man, sachem of the Mohegans. He offended Miantonomoh, who called five or six hundred of his warriors together, and set out against the Mohegans, a little family quarrel back in 1643.

SCHOOLMASTER: I see. Uncas, of the Mohegans, and Miantonomoh, of the Narragansetts.

DOCTOR: Miantonomoh chose a season that usually found the Mohegans busy in their corn-fields, or engaged in fishing. He hoped for an easy victory. But he reckoned without Uncas, who was a crafty Indian. Hardly had the Narragansetts left their village than the news of their coming was carried to Uncas.

SCHOOLMASTER: Some organization evident there, doctor.

DOCTOR: Uncas had some system of the sort. At least, in times of

STATE BUYS LAND TO DO ROAD STRAIGHTENING

Thirty-nine parcels of land have been sold by the Groton and Stonington Traction Co. to the state of Connecticut, according to deeds filed Friday in the towns of Groton and Stonington.

Thirty-three parcels are located in the town of Groton and six parcels in the town of Stonington. The land consists of strips adjoining present state highways and the parcels range from 100 to 500 feet in length. It is estimated that the parcels aggregate about 20 acres. The sale price was reported to be $1,500.

The strips of land were selected by representatives of the state highway department as a step toward the ultimate improvement of the highways by cutting away curves and widening narrow sections of the road.

The land was formerly used by the Groton and Stonington Traction Co. as a bed for trolley tracks between New London and Westerly. Since the company replaced its trolley cars with motor buses some time ago most of the track has been removed.

ONE DIVORCE GRANTED; ANOTHER DECISION RESERVED

One uncontested divorce was granted and decision was reserved in a second by Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court at the short calendar session in New London Friday.

Nicolay Ulasik of Sprague was given his freedom from Martha Ulasik of Sprague on grounds of desertion. They were married Feb. 11, 1911, and desertion was alleged since July 4, 1925.

Decision was reserved in the case of Stella Mary Pillar of this city against George Pillar of Bozrah. The suit was brought on grounds of desertion alleged since February, 1924. They were married May 1, 1917.

Pays Fine for Parking Violation

Benjamin F. Krieger, 30, of Norwich, paid $2 at police headquarters on a charge of violation of the traffic laws. Krieger was charged with parking his machine three feet from the curbing on Main street, near the corner of Shetucket.

Krieger stopped his car where there was a motorcycle between it and the curb. When a trolley car came along the motorman squeezed the trolley by all right without touching the automobile, but when another trolley came along from the opposite direction the motorman decided he could not get by and appealed to Officer Michael Carroll, who gave Krieger a red ticket.

After breakfast the club motored to Providence, returning home by way of Narragansett Pier and through Mystic, and stopped at Captain Clarke's for supper.

EX-GOVERNOR WHITMAN FOR SPEAKER AT BANQUET

President Henry Trumbull of the Connecticut chamber of commerce has announced the program for the state chamber's 81st annual meeting to be held at the Hotel Bond, in Hartford, on Wednesday, May 21. The sessions will consist of a luncheon at 12.15 and a banquet at 7 o'clock.

Ex-Governor Charles S. Whitman, of New York, who is known to Connecticut people through his activities in the Becker case in 1912, while he was district attorney for New York, will address the banquet session. Born in Norwich, Connecticut, in 1868, Governor Whitman is a descendant of Lieutenant Charles Buckley, who fought under John Paul Jones in the early years of the American revolution. Although his activities have been principally in New York state, he has maintained an interest in Connecticut, being a member of the Connecticut branch of the Society of Cincinnati. He was formerly president of the New York Bar association and governor of New York from 1915 to 1918. He is now a member of the New York law firm of Whitman, Ottinger and Ransom.

CHARLES S. WHITMAN

John J. Pelley, president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad, who has won much distinction as a forceful speaker, will talk at the banquet on the subject of "Service." Mr. Pelley has been identified with the railroad interests the greater part of his life, having entered that field as a station clerk in Anna, Illinois, in 1899.

The spice of the evening program will be added by Captain Bruce Bairnsfather, creator of the famous character of "Old Bill" and the author of "The Better 'Ole," which ran on two continents for several years and which twice has been made into motion picture.

In addition to the humorist, a number of other entertainment features have been scheduled for the banquet.

"General Co-operation Among Business Men," will be the subject of an address at the luncheon meeting by John E. Edgerton, president of the National Manufacturers' association. Col. Frederick L. Devereux, general manager of the Electrical Research Products, Inc., of New York, as subsidiary of Western Electric company, will demonstrate the sound picture as it applies to business.

"Significent Trends In Marketing Analysis," will be the subject of an address by Brinton Carrigan, market-councillor for the Scovil Manufacturing company of Waterbury.

DIES SUDDENLY AT ROSE PLACE DOCK

One of a group of men who have been making a hangout of the Rose place dock neighborhood where they have consumed anything with an alcoholic kick in it died there suddenly on the grassy bank Friday afternoon about 4:30 o'clock. Most of the gang with him at the time scattered but two were too far gone with drink to get away and were arrested when the police arrived.

The man who died was John Francis Foley, about 70 years old, who had been living at Riverside home on Asylum street through the winter but had been out of there about two weeks, it is understood. Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve gave Undertaker Thomas J. Shahan permission to take charge of the body.

The men arrested were Albert Labonte, 56, of Waltham, Mass., and Thomas Cavanaugh, 73, of Stafford Springs.

Officer Barney Keenan, who went to the dock to make the arrests, reported back to police headquarters by telephone that he thought one of the men was dead and Chief George Linton notified the medical examiner and sent the motor patrol wagon to bring in the men arrested.

Foley formerly lived in the Falls section of the city and was a mule spinner. He has a brother, Patrick, who is a weaver and has also lived at Riverside home, and another brother in Wauregan.

INCIDENTS IN SOCIETY

Faith Trumbull chapter, D. A. R., has received a cordial invitation from Lucretia Shaw chapter, of New London to attend the annual May luncheon of that chapter, Monday next, at one o'clock, at The Mohican.

Norwich friends were guests at an exceedingly well appointed luncheon given Wednesday by Mrs. Christopher M. Gallup, of "Crissways," North Stonington, for her house guests, Mrs. Hiram Percy Maxim and Mrs. Harry Tyler Smith, of Hartford.

Mrs. Ralph H. Melcer, of Montville, is in Virginia for the pilgrimage of the Garden clubs.

When the three-table Thursday bridge club was entertained at luncheon by Mrs. George L. Ingalls of Sachem street the prize winner was Mrs. Louis A. Wheeler.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Tyler Olcott are so pleasantly established in Tucson, Arizona, that they are making no definite plans for returning home this summer.

ACADEMY HAS STIFF OPPOSITION IN WEAVER HIGH AT CAMPUS TODAY

Game starts at 3 p. m.

Weaver high, one of the best teams in the Hartford sector, will give the unbeaten Academy nine its ninth test of the season this afternoon at the campus in the first of the "big city" games on the Wildcat slate. The tilt starts at 3 o'clock with Hank Morin and Johnny Murphy calling the decisions.

The Academy needs today's game to stay in the state title chase and will strain every effort to put it in the right place. Coach Brigham will start his veteran right-hander, Butsy Weisgraber, backed by practically the same lineup that has been seen in most of the tilts this year.

The boys were put through a two-hour batting and fielding session Friday, at which time several new plays were tried out.

The Academy is not winning its games this year with heavy slugging, as of yore, but rather in combining good pitching and neat fielding with timely hitting. The Wildcats have only broken loose as sluggers in one game, that with Stonington, so far, when they won 22 to 3. The other victories have come more from taking advantage of the breaks and then going out and holding the opposition dead.

	In	R	H	S.O.
Greene	36	2	20	40
Weisgraber	16	7	10	16
Lavarge	15	6	15	10
Hamil	1	2	2	1
	68	17	47	67

It was announced Friday that Stewart, instead of Phelps, may toe the slab for Weaver today. Phelps, the captain, will be in centerfield. Stewart was very successful in stemming a West Hartford rally Wednesday and looks like Coach Stone's choice.

FINE RELIEF HURLING BY PETTY GIVES PIRATES GAME

PITTSBURGH, May 2.—(AP)— Jess Petty's fine relief hurling after Boston scored one run in the ninth and had filled the bases with one out gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 3 to 2 victory over the Braves here today.

Prior to the ninth, Remy Kremer, who started for Pittsburgh, had pitched good ball and had seldom been in trouble.

Paul Waner of the Pirates and Neun of the Braves each rapped out three hits in four times up.

Two double plays by each team held down the scoring. Hemsley's double in the fourth scored what proved to be the winning run.

LEAGUE LEADERS TROUNCE ST. LOUIS, SCORE 13 TO 5

WASHINGTON, May 2—(AP)—The Senators pounded three St. Louis pitchers for 17 hits today while Sam Jones was holding the Browns to 7 safeties to pace the way to a Washington victory by a score of 13 to 5.

Joe Cronin, Washington shortstop whose big bat has helped put the Senators on top of the league, hit four times out of five at bat for a single, two doubles and a triple thereby accounting for four of the Nats runs.

INDIANS DEFEAT BOSTON; SEWELL'S RECORD BROKEN

BOSTON, May 2.—(AP) —Cleveland won its fourth straight game today by scoring six runs in the last two innings to beat the Red Sox 8 to 3 in Boston's first east-west game of the season.

Joe Sewell's record for consecutive games played ended when he was forced to remain in bed today with a temperature of 102.

Starting in 1920, Joe had played 1,102 consecutive games for Cleveland.

Johnny Hodapp, who was hit on the head by a pitched ball in St. Louis earlier in the week, led the onslaught on Lisenbee and Ruffing. Todt of the Sox hit a homer on Ferrell, the winning pitcher in the second with Regan on base. Score:

LYONS ALLOWS YANKS SIX HITS AND CHICAGO WINS

NEW YORK, May 2.— (AP) — Ted Lyons and Bud Clancy took the show away from the other players today as the Chicago White Sox opened their eastern tour with a 10 to 1 victory over the tail-end New York Yankees.

Lyons held the Yankees to six hits and kept them well scattered. Clancy, Chicago first baseman, hit two home runs, a triple and a single to drive in six runs. Each homer came while Cissell was on base.

Henry Johnson, Yankee moundsman, was wild, although he struck out eight, and contributed a pair of costly wild pitches to New York's defeat. Earl Combs made two of the Yankee hits.

N. F. A. LOSES TO HARTFORD IN TRACK

The Academy lost a close and exciting track meet to Hartford Public high Friday afternoon at the campus, the half-mile relay, the last event on the programme going to the visitors and proving the margin of victory. The final count was 51 to 44. This was quite a surprise as the Academy is exceptionally strong in this event, but the Wildcats were minus one of their regulars and consequently suffered considerably.

The meet was originally scheduled to be run off at Hartford but was changed during the day to the campus.

Capt. Berkman Big Scorer

The Academy was only able to gather four first places and three of these went to Capt. Sam Berkman. He finished a head in the 100 and 220 yard dashes and the broad jump while Frank Barber, league record-holder in the shot put, easily won with a heave of 39 feet, 10 1-2 inches. Berkman also scored a second in the 440 yard run, giving him a total of 18 points for the day. Thursday against Chapman Tech he scored 16 of the points in an Academy victory.

The high jump provided a feature for the faithful when Barlow and Clarke, visiting Negro athletes, completely [illegible] the field and then went after the Hartford school record of 5 feet, 10 inches, only to fail.

The summaries:

Mile run—Worden (H), Wood (N), R. Castagna (H). Time 5 min, 3 4-5 seconds.

Shot put—Barber (N), Goldberg (H), Barach (H). Distance, 39 feet, 10 1-2 inches.

880 yard run—Colgan (H), O'Meara (H), Kenney (H). Time 2 min, 12 3-5 seconds.

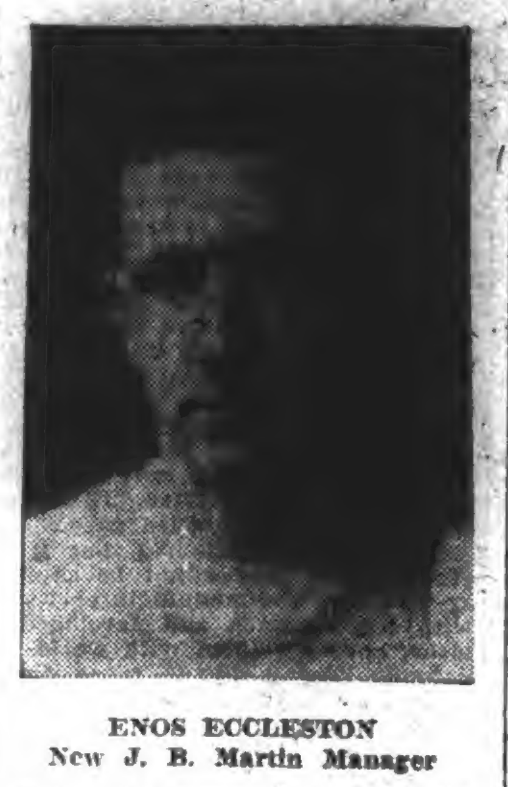
ECCLESTON WILL MANAGE J. B. MARTIN TEAM THIS YEAR; ERLBECK RESIGNS



ENOS ECCLESTON
New J. B. Martin Manager

Enos Eccleston, catcher-outfielder, will be at the helm of the J. B. Martin baseball team this year, it was announced Friday evening, the appointment of Eccleston coming as the result of the resignation of Fred Erlbeck, manager of the team for several years. Eccleston has been playing with the Martins in either of two positions, catcher and outfielder, and has materially assisted the squad in winning many ball games. He is to continue to hold down a position in addition to his managerial duties.

Four veterans of the team that last year furnished local fans with a nice brand of baseball will hold berths on this year's team. These men include Russ Fisher, pitcher, Nap Liberty, third base, Eccleston, catcher-outfielder, and Carlie Krauss, shortstop, all of whom have gained wide reputation as bat swingers. The present plan is to have all "home-talent" on the team, with the probable exception of the pitcher, who will come from foreign fields.

According to John Murphy, who is booking agent for the Martins, the first game will be played at the local field on May 11, with the opposition furnished by the Universal Winding team of Providence. This team has appeared against the Martins on previous occasions and has always put up a stiff game.

The fastest semi-pro teams in the state are to be booked for appearance here.

ATHLETICS GET 14 HITS IN WIN OVER DETROIT

PHILADELPHIA, May 2.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Athletics had no trouble making it two straight over the Detroit Tigers this afternoon, 9 to 4. Bing Miller led a 14 hit assault on Whitehill and Herring with three doubles and a single.

The champions walloped Whitehill for five runs spaced over the first five innings and knocked him out of the box in the sixth, when they scored four runs by also whaling Relief Hurler Herring, for a triple, double and a single in the same inning.

Rube Walberg, hung up his third victory of the season against no defeats. He was hit hard in only one inning, the eighth. In this frame the visitors bunched two singles and two doubles for three tallies.

POLISH A. C. CROSSES BATS WITH SAILOR TEAM TODAY

The Polish American Citizens nine plays the U. S. S. Wilkes team of New London at Caulkins field, New London, Saturday afternoon. The coast guard representatives have made an enviable record so far this season, not having lost a single game. They have played some of the fastest teams of the country in their stop-overs at ports, including games at Miami and St. Petersburg.

The local aggregation, nevertheless, represents a number of the best players in the city and are out to trounce the sailor boys. The local manager has chosen Lamory and P. Finn to do the battery work with Fregeau covering first, Red Burelle, second, Lemieux, third, and P. Labenski, shortstop. Leo Jarvis, Snow and Wilk will take care of the outer garden. Raymond will be held in reserve.

It was inadvertently stated in this column yesterday that the Polish A. C. was beaten by a Baltic team, which was incorrect.

Track Meet Monday.

The annual Academy-Bulkeley track meet will be held Monday afternoon at the campus and this year it promises to be one of the most keenly contested affairs in years. The Academy holds the league title but last year, in a dual meet, they were beaten by their ancient rivals from the Whaling City. The Wildcats intend to erase this verdict with some to spare.

REDS SCORE EIGHT RUNS IN 2ND TO BEAT GIANTS

CINCINNATI, May 2—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds put on a big burst of hitting in the second inning today and opened their stand against the eastern clubs of the National league by beating the New York Giants, 9 to 8. They made eight hits, among them a double and a triple by Heilmann, off Fred Fitzsimmons and Ralph Judd in the one inning.

The Reds touched Judd for two more runs in the third to complete their total, then barely stood off the Giants rallies. New York drove Eppa Rixey from the mound with four runs in the sixth and rallied for two more in the ninth, just missing a tie.

Bill Terry's home run featured the ninth inning stand. There also were ten doubles and two triples in the game.

HILLHOUSE GOING GREAT GUNS, PLAYS HERE JUNE 7

Events which have transpired this week in state high school baseball show New Haven Hillhouse as one of the strongest teams in the state. Local fans will be interested in this team for it plays against the Academy at the campus Saturday, June 7, and has gained a 50-50 split with the locals in their two games of recent years, the first in 1927 being won by the Elm City nine and the second in '28 by the Wildcats.

Hillhouse has been winning high, wide and handsome, trimming opponent after opponent by lop-sided scores. Last Saturday, with the veteran Flynn, pitching, they walloped Choate prep, 16 to 3, and Tuesday, slammed Milford high, 13 to 3, with Mack registering his fourth hurling victory.

Warren Harding, another prominent opponent of the Academy this year, coming here Memorial day for its annual tilt, has also got a good start, having beaten Collegiate Prep of New Haven Wednesday, 3 to 1.

AUSTIN WILL PLAY WITH DAVIS CUP TEAM LATER

LONDON, May 2—(AP)—H. W. Austin, the young and somewhat erratic British tennis ace, has not been dropped from the Davis cup team, it developed today, but is only resting and remaining out of Britain's second round match against either Poland or Rumania at his own request.

Austin, in a letter to the English Lawn Tennis association, said he did not desire to play in the next series, feeling the need of a respite.

"I told them," Austin said, "that I did not think I could do either my country or myself justice in my present form and that I needed at least a fortnight's rest from strenuous lawn tennis. The team selectors agreed and that is the reason I shall not be on the next team."

JUNIOR BASEBALL LOOP TO HAVE ONLY CITY TEAMS

Organizations desiring to enter teams in the Junior Baseball circuit, which is again to be sponsored by the Duwell Athletic association, have been asked to file applications to the committee in charge as soon as possible, so that organization may be effected. By a new ruling teams within the city limits are only elegible to join the league, as several local teams, which did not compete last year, want to enter. As a result the Taftville American Legion team and Baltic will be dropped from the league. The former was twice champions.

COLUMBIA FAVORED TO WIN COLLEGE ROWING CLASSIC AT DERBY TODAY

DERBY, Conn., May 2.— (AP) —On the eve of a race that has taken high rank among the college rowing classics of the east, Columbia's strong and polished eight tonight was favored to repeat its victory of last year over Yale and Pennsylvania in tomorrow's varsity dash for the Blackwell challenge cup.

Yale men, pouring into this usually quiet town from New Haven in ever-increasing numbers, showed plenty of respect for "Rich" Glendon's Columbians but were not slow to express the view that the New Yorkers are not quite so good as last year and that Ed Leader's 1930 edition is better than a year ago. Columbia won by a bare half length last spring.

This race was once a runaway for Yale, year in and year out. Even the great Columbia combination of 1927 which went on to win the intercollegiate championship on the Hudson bowed to the blue in this early season spring. The New York victory of 1929 ended a string of six straight Eli wins.

Penn, not yet victorious since this regatta was first staged in 1923, still has hopes. Although looked upon in the pre-race doping as a decided outsider, Rusty Callow's Penn aggregation is the most experienced crew on the river. Six of its eight men rowed in the varsity here last year.

Four races, all spiced with rivalry and uncertainty, are on the program. In all, a dozen crews will be in action—more than half as many as raced in the record-breaking field at Poughkeepsie last June.

The 150-pound eights open the day's racing over the Henley distance of a mile and five sixteenths. Penn is given a good chance to win.

All of the preliminary races are open affairs. All that is known about them is that Columbia, whose oarsmen swept the river clean in all four events last year, made a poor showing in all except the varsity race in its debut against Navy and M. I. T., two weeks ago. For the fleets of both Yale and Pennsylvania this will be the season's opening regatta. The varsity "Jayvee" and freshman races are at 2 miles.

Since the crews arrived the coaches have stood pat on their lineups. Columbia pulled into town about noon with Bill Sanford sternly entrenched in the varsity stroke oar position which he held in the winning race against Navy and Tech. Ed Leader will shoot with Woody Tappen, his light boy experienced pacesetter, while Callow will call on a sophomore, 6 foot 4 inch J. K. Martin.

DES MOINES WINS EVENING GAME BEFORE 12,000 FANS

DES MOINES, Ia., May 2—(AP)—Des Moines tonight won the first regularly scheduled night baseball game in a Class A league defeating Wichita in the inaugural contest of the Western league season here, 13 to 6. Approximately 12,000 persons jammed the park.

Playing conditions described as comparable to the customary daylight baseball. Fly balls, sailing ninety feet high, the height of the projectors, were caught without trouble.

Des Moines players fielded in errorless fashion and the vision was considered as good as provided by nature.

The apparent success of the innovation means the culmination of seven years of planning for night baseball by E. L. Keyser, president of the Des Moines club.

Baseball celebrities from all parts of the country were in the stands to pass judgment on the venture.

A local lad, Lefty Dugas, playing for Wichita in right field, came to bat at least twice in the contest, the first time getting on through an error by the third baseman and the second time receiving free passage to first. Dugas also caught a liner in the outfield. Lefty has been hitting well so far, making two home runs in the first two games.

SHIRES BOUND IN TAPES AWAITS CALL FROM BUSH

NEW YORK, May 2.—(AP)—A pint of blood, more or less, means very little in the athletic life of Punch 'Em Art Shires, the big blonde first baseman of the Chicago White Sox who made baseball prize ring conscious.

Chewing on a massive cud of ball players' delight, the terrible Texan muscled his way into a uniform this afternoon and stood around expectantly in the hopes that Donie Bush, the little manager, would shove him into the White Sox opening match this season with the New York Yankees. And all this only ten hours after the great one underwent a minor operation on his hip. Late last night doctors at a local hospital drained a pint of blood and pus from his right side, injured April 22 in a collision with Johnny Hodapp, Cleveland second baseman.

Shires was bound in tape but highly expectant and ambitious as he took his turn in batting practice just as though nothing was wrong with him. He hadn't been able to play since the accident.

Shires is through with the fight game that reaped him so much publicity last winter.

"It was a great chance to make some money," he said. "I'd have been a sucker to turn it down. I could just as easy get into fights on the ball field and not get paid for them. Besides that dough made up for all those fines they plastered on me last season for the same thing—fighting.

"I don't care if the fans think I'm a swell head blabbermouth just so they pay to see me and I'm out there getting my hits. What they think won't help or hurt me, because if I stop getting them I'll slide right back to the bushes, like anyone else, and what they think won't help me then. And I helped get Hack Wilson a raise because he stayed out of the ring and I didn't do Al Spohrer any harm except get him some money.

"Donie Bush is a great fellow. Just the kind of a fighter we needed, experimenting all the time, too. We've got the pitching and that's more than half the battle with any club. You can bet right now we'll finish in the first division."

Bush came along just then, sweaty from clouting fungoes to the outfielders, and patted Shires' arm in fatherly fashion.

"He's a fine boy," he said, "and a dandy ball player.

"We understand each other."

WESTERLY

GRASS AND BRUSH FIRES KEEP DEPARTMENT BUSY

Westerly and Pawcatuck firemen were again kept on the run Friday in fighting brush and grass fires. Shortly after 11 a. m., No. 33 was blown on the Westerly headquarters building for a fire in the open lot to the south of the residence of Michael Brown on East avenue, a blaze thought to have been started by children. The Ahrens-Fox pumper with Driver Daniel Ashworth and force of firemen responded and a stream from the booster tank was used to put out the flames, which were confined to a small area. The pumper had returned to the station but a short time when a No. 33 was sounded for a telephone call to Bradford. The Fox pumper and men went to Bradford and even crossed the Pawcatuck river bridge into Hopkinton and then returned to District No. 3 when the fire was reported as near the home of Peter Girard. Here the firemen found no flames and the return to the Westerly station was by way of the "Pound road" through the cedar swamp to Oak street without discovery of blaze. The firemen on their return saw dense clouds of smoke rising from a forest fire in North Stonington.

For the North Stonington fire, the Ahrens-Fox pumper with Chief Joseph Purtill and force of men of Pawcatuck Fire Co. No. 1, made the trip up the Westerly-Norwich road shortly before 3 p. m. when it was reported that the blaze was approaching the Preston place near the Stonington-North Stonington town line. Here the firemen remained until the blaze, which had worked against the wind, was put out before it had a chance to jump the North Stonington road toward the Pawcatuck river. Many acres of land were burned over on what was known as the Randall farm, now owned by Harvey Perry, of Westerly.

The second in a series of card and social parties was held Friday evening in the Pawcatuck Fire district headquarters building. The committee in charge was John Roche, chairman; Michael Spellman, William Lord, Henry Harvey and Jeremiah Shea.

Judge Oliver H. Williams held a short session of the Friday morning Third district court. Matters disposed of were: Civil docket—Howard Wright vs. A. L. Castritius Co. Continued three weeks to May 23rd, by agreement of counsel. Equitable Life Insurance society vs. C. C. Maxson. Continued four weeks. Isaac Prosser vs. F. A. Simmons. Continued one week. Jennings vs. Ernest Panciera, et al. Continued one week. William Segar and Co., vs. Raymond Barber. Entered settled.

SOCIAL CORNER POETRY

Prayer of a Pent-up Soul

Oh, fortune, make me a way of escape,
From this narrow, grinding life
That [illegible] me and crushes me
With its prettiness and strife.

Give me instead of fretting cares
That bind and sear and kill,
Things that broaden and elevate
And let me drink my fill.

Take me where kindred spirits are,
Where noble deeds are wrought,
Strike the shackles from off my soul
And free my pent-up thought.

Let me feel my latent powers unfold,
Let me mounts of vision know,
Give me power to use from this dwarfing life
To planes where my soul can grow!

The Answer

Look for that power within yourself;
Would you have a higher fate,
Go forth to meet it. Even now
It waits outside your gate!

The Lazy Day

Well, this has been a splendid and a very perfect day;
I took my work and worries and I threw them all away—
I took the work I ought to do and looked it in the eye
And said: "You get a holiday, old task of mine, goodby.
I hope you have a pleasant time wherever you may roam.
Now, don't get lost, but just the same you needn't hurry home."

My work stood begging at my side, my elbow Duty nudged,
But with a stern and haughty heart I never even budged.
I stretched myself upon my back within the hammock here
And swung and swung and let my soul get bubbling full of cheer.
My work went galley-west, I guess—I know it isn't done—
But, friend, to have a Lazy Day is certainly some fun.

I gave them all to understand they might as well take wings.
I'd worried over them in a most faithful, earnest way,
But worry hasn't any place in any lazy day.
Some little worries fretted up and sighed: "What can you do?"
I blew them all to smithereens with one intense "Pooh! Pooh!"

So here I am, with work undone, unworried worries, too,
And still the grass is nice and green, the sky is nice and blue,
The world is rolling right along, no doubt the stars will gleam—
I guess I'll linger here a while and muse and doze and dream.
My friend, when Work is fighting you and Worry wants to stay,
Just throw the whole thing to one side and have a Lazy Day.

The Optimist

Don't sigh nor cry, or dim your eye
With tears of sorrow—
Though dark today, the skies of gray
Will clear tomorrow!

Just sing and bring your songs to ring
In joy and gladness—
A smile, a laugh, a bit of "chaff"
Will banish sadness.

Though life's dark plots and tangled knots
Are hard to ravel,
A smile, meanwhile, smooths many a mile
You have to travel.

Why sigh and cry for things gone by?
There's joy still waiting!
The morning's light for blackest night
Is compensating.

Though dark the way, one shining ray
The path discloses;
Though thorns are bad, be glad, be glad
The thorns have roses!

ZULIEKA'S SUNBEAM LETTER

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: I always turn first to this department of ours when the paper comes regardless of the multitude of home duties which every housekeeper finds awaiting her attention, for after a little chat with friends one can work all the better you know. Can't you accomplish much more when you are in a happy frame of mind? First of all I wish to thank our editor for the yellow slip of last month and I also want to thank all the friends who sent me birthday greetings. I received 18 cards all told. I certainly do appreciate their kind thought for me.

Well the months of blustering old March and April with its sunshine and showers have come and gone since last I sent a letter to this Corner, and now comes May day. Child Health day is its newer name and it has blossomed into a full-fledged special along with many other days. President Hoover has issued a proclamation designating the first day of May as Child Health day. All honor to President Hoover. No one knows better than he how much every nation depends on the welfare of its children.

May has other special days as I need not tell you. Mother's day is one that is sure to be remembered as few are which are not actual holidays. This falls always on the second Sunday of the month. Then there is Decoration day the last of May holidays and we can rejoice as we scatter flowers over the resting places of those who have passed on because we are sure as sings Poet Whittier that:

Death is but a covered way
Which opens into light
Wherein no blinded child can stray,
Beyond the Father's sight.

I, for one, am glad to have spring with us again as we all need the out-of-door life when May comes around, and we need also to be friendly if we are to find a generous measure of happiness as we go along. So right here I am wishing you all the very brightest and happiest of May day, and in order to do my share toward making it everything I wish, I'm sending in a May basket in the form of a sunbeam letter. Do you remember, dear friends, when with bated breath and throbbing heart you used to tiptoe to your best friend's home and hang a May basket on the door? Can you not feel again the thrill which flooded your heart as you prepared the basket? Do you not even smell the freshness of the woods as you went into the secret haunts and found the choicest anemones, violets, Indian moccasins, trilliums and perhaps a spray or two of delayed arbutus? And if you also found a bit of suitable green to put around the edge of your basket, how you arranged the gay bits of paper and ribbon around the box which you were transforming into a May basket? You never doubted in your heart that it would be lovingly received. You never questioned the suitability of the gift that your hands were fashioning. You never worried for fear some one else would make and give a finer basket than was yours. You just gave yourself with your gift and if the one for whom it was intended opened the door and found the basket while you were still hiding behind a big tree in the yard, weren't you happy? Could anything have pleased you more than the joy that spread over your friend's face as the basket was clasped close to their face buried in its fragrance? Blessed, happy, carefree childhood. Bless God for the children. They are the real teachers. Bless God for keeping awake in our hearts memories of these joys.

My May basket is a riot of colors in each blossom with a wish that they may remain fresh in your hearts. The ground pine which enwraps the handle comes as a token of friendship. Anemones tell you the fairy secrets of a quiet woodland. The pansies showing their many colored faces are "happy thoughts." Dew-drenched violets from the Johnny-jump up to the English violet look up at you, each one bearing its message of modesty and grace. Columbine waves its slender blossoms to you telling you to take root and grow and blossom in the place just where God has placed you. Buttercups bring to you their golden message of prosperity. Little blue quaker ladies bear a message of trust to you. Crocuses, snowdrops and arbutus have pushed their way through frost and snow to tell you to have no fear for life will bloom if one has faith to keep growing upward. The star of Bethlehem nestling in the green grass reflects in its five dainty points the beauty of the Christ star and brings to the very bosom of mother earth his message, So I am with you always. The forget-me-nots tell you of the one who will neither slumber nor sleep. A saucy little dandelion peeps from one corner just to prove that he could keep his golden heart singing all through the cold winter days, that he could not be kept down by either frost or criticism. The apple blossom tells the secret of its fragrance and beauty in the perfect outline imprinted in the heart of each apple. Lilacs beckon to you, scattering the rare perfume which is God's blessing to them when first he breathed upon them. Bridal wreath tell you of your union with Him who careth for us and in the midst of them all is a lovely Easter lily, symbol of purity and charity. Nothing can be more precious for in the lily's heart God beholds us as His children. So I say again a happy May month to one and all, a month where all that is good, all that is pleasant, all that brings peace and contentment in your life and deepest sympathy to the sick and sorrowing ones.

MAYFLOWER PASSENGERS

Dear Social Corner: I suppose every one is over house cleaning, all the handleless and cracked cups are back on the shelf, and husband good natured again. It was a come down to eat from the wood box and top of stove, and beds and chairs in a new place, so husband can fall over them when he comes in late from the lodge.

Gertrude: You are the girl to clean house. What is the use of filling the house with such rubbish when you can buy a set of dishes for 50 cents? I wian I had four rooms. That is enough for one and I take it you are alone. I am sending in a list of the passengers on the Mayflower.

The male passengers who signed the compact on the Mayflower were: John Carter, William Bradford, Edward Winslow, William Brewster, Isaac Allerton, John Allerton, Myles Standish, John Alden, Samuel Fuller, Christopher Martin, William Mullens, William White, Richard Warren, John Howland, Stephen Hopkins, Edward Tilly, John Tilly, Francis Cook, Thomas Rogers, Thomas Tinker, John Ridgdale, Edward Fuller, John Turner, Francis Eaton, James Chilton, John Crackstone, John Billington, Moses Fletcher, John Goodman, Degery Priest, Thomas Williams, Gilbert Winslow, Edward Margeson, Peter Brown, Richard Brittesige, George Soule, Richard Soule, Richard Clark, Richard Gardiner, Thomas English, Edward Dotey, Edward Leister. With the passengers came 14 male servants who bore the names of Carter, Coper, Holbeck, Hooke, Laugmire, Latham, Minter, Moore, Prower, Sampson, Stery, Thompson, Trevire and Wilder. Peregrine White was born on the Mayflower in Cape Cod harbor.

I have a list of the unmarried women who were on the Mayflower, but can't locate it today. It will come to light some time. I asked a daughter of the Mayflower if she could tell me the names of the people who came in the Mayflower. She named two, then it was like singing the Star Spangled Banner—we all know the first verse. She was silent so long that I thought she had gone to sleep. At last she confessed she did not know. So for the benefit of those who don't know have sent in a list and I think I am correct.

It is a long while to look back to 1693 when Richard Evans first settled in Killingly. I refer to the History of Windham County, page 160. How everything has changed in looks and manners. No God fearing people now. We never see a Bible except in church, never in the home. What is the world coming to? Most of us are interested in other books and amusements and if we go to church once a week we believe we are on the road to heaven.

Thanks to Primrose and Last Rose of Summer and Artificial Flowers! Very kind of you.

Aries: Did you get the answer to yours? Hope everything is coming your way. How is the little dog?

L. Hopkins: I am waiting to hear about the village of Clayville. Why call it by that name, is it all clay soil, or named after a person? PISCES.

CLUB 5 MEETS ON THE SEVENTH

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: Just a little reminder to you all that Club No. 5 meets Wednesday, May 7, and I hope every one will make a special effort to come out for the day. Elva is to be hostess and I hope that every one will make and bring lots of nice food. Remember we need salads, cold meats, pickles, cakes and pies, and fruit if you will bring it. You all know that we cannot have all of those things to eat unless each and every one does their part. Any one that has anything to read or sing and any one that can play the piano, please do not hesitate to do so.

Remember, we have only one more meeting after this one. The June meeting will be the last one in the Buckingham until September.

Balsam Fir: I received your card and was glad to hear from you. Will write you later.

Hoot Owl: Am very sorry for you. Please except my deepest sympathy in your sorrow, and remember that God doeth all things well.

With love and sympathy to all the sick ones and a speedy recovery to health, will close hoping to see a good crowd May 7th. Remember you are welcome to bring any friend that you think would care to come.

WRITE TO THE CORNER OFTEN

Dear Editor and Social Friends: I, like Eveline Burr, am sorry to see so few letters in the Corner page the past two weeks, so here I come with my little contribution. We are all cleaning house now so will be busy for a while, but you who can, write an interesting letter, sit down, and while you rest, just write a short letter to the Corner.

Olga: I save all my soft pieces of cloth and use them when we have a cold. Have done that for many years. It is a much healthier way.

Necia: Did you get home all right? I expect to see you soon. I hope most of the sisters have escaped the grippe colds that have been so prevalent the past month.

Calla Lily: It was very nice of Black Eyed Susie and Mayfare to offer. I know we will have nice service as we always do.

Eliza Jane: Hope you are feeling better and that hubby is well. I will ring off for Sonnie is begging for his dinner. That is my cat. He pulls me down and kisses me when he is hungry. Isn't that cute? Sympathy to all in sorrow or trouble. SCOTTIE.

ANTICIPATING WESTERLY VISIT

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: First, I want to thank all who sent me Easter cards. I was in Westerly for four weeks and attended Social Corner club No. 6, the 18th of March, met lots of old friends and visited many of them. I had a wonderful time with them all and I expect to return to Westerly next week for a six weeks' stay. I hope the sick are much better in health and I shall find them all well when I retunr to Westerly. Love to O. D., E. L. M. and Skipper.

Lima bean chowder: (Very good). 1-2 pound lima beans, 2 cups chopped or diced potatoes, 1 large onion chopped, 1-2 cup carrots, sliced thin, 1-2 can condensed tomato soup, 1-2 pound sausage, salt, pepper. Soak beans over night, cook in some water until nearly done, then add raw vegetables and soup. Make sausage into small balls and add salt and pepper to taste. Cook until vegetables are done. Time for cooking, 1 1-2 hours. Recipe makes 12 servings.

I had a little hammer once
With which I used to strike,
And I went knocking everywhere
At folks I didn't like.

My hammer had a dismal sound
That brought nobody cheer,
And every time I made my round
I put some people queer.

I have thrown away my hammer now
As far as I could fling,
And taken up a booster horn
And you should hear it ring!

I am glad I am with the booster crowd
I like the way they do,
And if you will lay your hammer down
I'll get a horn for you.

Only when we are loyal ourselves can we expect loyalty in others.

BUSY IN THE GARDEN

Dear Social Corner Members: What a fine day this has been! I have been walking out in my garden and looking over the work I did there during the past week. I forgot my lame back as I looked at the neat bed of butterfly delphinium with the pansies marching in between the fringed leaved plants. These delphinium are blue and white and as I planted the seed in cold frames last August they should bloom well this summer. There are two beds of the tall delphiniums, and there are still several plants in the frame, some to be set out in my garden and some to be given away. These plants have fine roots and I am hoping to have wonderful luck with them. Whether I will or not is a very different story. A new plant for my rock garden has come through the winter well—I said new but it is new to me—perhaps it is one of your old stand-bys. This is statice armeria and its everyday name is thrift. Who can tell me whether it is satisfactory or not?

We were delighted to find a number of seedlings near the oriental poppy plants and you may be sure that they were taken up and transplanted to a safe spot as quickly as possible. Where the grass is kept down it is much easier to find and to take care of these young plants.

What do you use for fertilizer? Most articles about flowers seem to tell us that bone meal is the safest thing to use. PERNICKETY.

GREETINGS FROM MARIGOLD

Dear Social Corner Sisters: Just 20 letters in Saturday's Social Page. Not many, but all very interesting. I suppose everybody is busy, house cleaning, and a bit tired.

The sunrise service that Jennie wrote about must have been beautiful. You surely had a great pleasure and I thank you for the Easter greeting, and you don't know how pleased I was with the letter.

Olga tells us about the lovely time at the April meeting of Club 1, Willimantic.

Too Late: How can you do it all with the large family you have?

Hone Cobweb: Thank you very much for Easter greetings.

Canterbury Bell: Hope you are all right again. It's been a long time since we have seen one another.

Best wishes to the Corner.

MARIGOLD

GREETINGS FROM WHITE CHRYSANTHEMUM

Dear Social Corner Sisters: What nice letters we are having in the Corner page. By Jingo started something when she wrote that letter, but I don't think she meant every middle aged woman made trouble. I have an idea that someone is making trouble for her and she resents it. I do not blame her for that, as you cannot put up with everything. Omaha Bee's statement that the cutting lashes of the tongue can never be forgotten, is true. I had a taste of it myself and know just how it feels. Well, it just hurts and plenty at that. But the sender of smart retorts never gains anything by it.

Quid Nunc: Fun in Jerusalem. What a nice account you gave of it. It must have been fun. We all enjoy your letters.

Crimson Rambler: Hope you are enjoying your vacation. Missed you that night we went up to play cards. We had a lovely time. Lots of skunks out that night. Write me a letter.

The sisters that wrote about flowers must have nice flower gardens. I love flowers and will be glad when they bloom. Everything is coming up fine but the nights are very cold. Hope it warms up soon as May will soon be here and it's still cold.

Fire Fly: I think I know who you are. Just got acquainted with you when that accident happened. You have a daughter by name of Ethel. Am I right?

I wonder who Lular Wylie is? You must live around the Gardner lake section. Write some more. Your letters are missed.

Be True: How are you? I think that's your pen name. Remember the Sunday, Elm Tree, Bobbie and I came up to see you. That was a nice ride. How are your plants doing? You have quite a selection. I still have the honey I got from you. I use it with lemon juice to break up a cold and I think there's nothing better. Best wishes to all the Corner sisters and also our good editor.

WHITE CHRYSANTHEMUM.

SAD HOLIDAYS

Dear Social Corner Friends: Aries, you are a dear to send me a paper again. When I first began to write there were so many writers, but I suppose you all are cleaning house. Here where I live on the bay, we have had no warm days. The wind is so cold and when it comes from the south up over the white caps it is no summer breeze.

Tomorrow is my wedding day, and a one it will be as my kind brother-in-law is to have a church funeral. All my days when a wedding or a Christmas day comes, my family, some of them die. My mother also mother-in-law both died a few days before Christmas, father on Easter, aunt on May 30th, and uncle on his birthday also Feb. 14th. And my only nephew died on his birthday. (My aunt was killed when she came out of church).

Of course that does not interest you, or that I was born on Thanksgiving day.

I wonder if there are any other family like this?

My grandfather in Lynn named all his fice children after great men or women.

My father was named De Witt Clinton White.

Guess I better change the subject and as I have a poem that I think is good, taken from the Watchman-Examiner, I'll write it for you.

Myself

Let me be a little kinder, let me be a little blinder,
To the faults of those about me,
Let me pray a little more
Let me be when I am weary, just a little bit more cheery.
Let me serve a little better,
Those that I am striving for.

Let me be a little braver
When temptations bid me waver,
Let me strive a little harder;
To be all that I should be;
Let me be a little meeker
With the brother that is weaker,
Let me think more of my neighbor
And a little less of me.

JANE of R. I.

HOW TO CARE FOR GOSLINGS

Dear Editor: Woodside wanted to know how to feed goslings to prevent weak legs. Goslings should be given tender grass, clover leaf and nettles cut up first week, also dry rolled oats or yellow meal, hard boiled yolk of egg, if you have any. They should have sand and water and crushed egg shell and should be allowed to run for exercise on grass not too sunny. They get weak legs if closely confined (without exercise) and too much fattening food. Bread soaked in water and squeezed dry as you can is all right after a week or two, but the grass and nettles are best. Sour milk is needed too and change their run daily unless they have a very large yard. A small brook through their yard is ideal but a tub of water sunk in ground and stones laid in the water so little ones can climb out easily is good if water is renewed daily. It is natural for them to swim and keep clean of lice. ARIES.

QUICKLY CHANGED HER MIND

Dear Social Corner Folks: I am very grateful to you for admitting me into your society. I did not think at one time I would care to join this "Social Corner," but after visiting one of the gatherings I was completely taken by surprise by the real social time. I, a stranger, could and did have. I was converted from my idea of not wanting to belong to the society to one of wanting to belong.

I enjoy reading the letters of the different writers and hope some time to be able to write a letter of interest too. It is something to be initiated with the art of letter writing. I will jog along until I get into tune with the different writers or catch up with the idea of what is wanted.

I hope I may be acquainted with a goodly number personally, or by pen name. As there is no password to admit one what are the essentials for one member to recognize another member?

Hope my curiosity may be gratified and that I may sometime write something that will be of help to someone.

PLANET X

PLEASED WITH SHOWER

Dear Social Corner Members and Friends: I would like to thank every one who so faithfully responded to my wish for a card shower for my father's 90th birthday, April 23rd. He received even more than I ever expected he would. Every day he would ask: "Well, I wonder how many I will get today."

His health is fine but his eye sight is very poor. I had to read every one to him and then perhaps the second time over. I want to thank Evelyn Burr for the lovely poem she sent him. He enjoyed it very much.

Pale Face: Don't be so fussy. Never mind the invitation to come down. You are always welcome. Best wishes to the Corner

RIVERVIEW. (Club No. 1.)

WANTS BIG CROWD AT MEETING

Dear Social Corner Sisters: This is certainly a beautiful day. It gives us more ambition to do our house cleaning. The days have been so cold and winds I just wanted to hug the stove. But I hope this good weather will continue as I have the club meeting this month. I want good weather so a good many can come, as it isn't any joke to prepare these dinners and then not have a crowd. Our crowds have been awfully small and it doesn't pay to plan so much and then have to waste it. So I hope to see a good-sized crowd this month.

As this is May basket month I wish each one would bring a May basket with a gift in it and each one that brings one will get one in exchange.

TUNY ANN (Club 1)

WINDOW PROTECTION WHEN BLASTING

Dear Editor and Friends: Well, the wind has not blown me or the cottage off the rock. It was built on a sure foundation, but there will not be so many rocks when they widen the state road. There was one woman who had over 30 panes of glass broken in her home when they blasted near her place, so if there is to be any blasting near your home be sure and raise the windows about two inches. This stops the vibration and there will be no broken glass. It is an easy preventive.

We are having fine weather for house cleaning today. All you would have to do would be to raise the windows and open the doors and out would go everything. The wind is certainly making everything hum down here. I know they are getting it some down on the dear old hill but it has stood the blasts of many a long year and is still there.

Ma of Greene Gables and Rural Aunty: Did you hear the gentle breezes this past winter. I know how softly they used to blow when I was a little girl.

Aries: Many thanks for the letter and lovely Easter card. It is so nice to get cards or letters.

Emma S.: Don't think I have forgotten you or yours.

Midget, Butterfly, Keziah Doolittle and Awilda: Hello! Did you thing summer is on the way or has it gotten sidetracked?

Wish good luck to all and hope all the sick are better.

NONESOPRETTY (Club 4)

ON CHILDREN GOING TO CHURCH

Dear Readers of the Social Corner: Another beautiful Sunday, too nice to stay at home, so I went to church and listened to a very interesting sermon. I repeat: "I listened to a sermon." I should say, "I tried to listen." But the confusion in the back caused by children was so very annoying it took away the pleasure one finds in listening to an interesting speaker.

I always said children should be brought up to go to church. They are better there, than at home, catching up work they should have done through the week or playing ball or in mischief, but I do say children ranging from four to 12 ought not to be sent to church to sit in the back seat, three or four together, without the supervision of an adult. Naturally, the parents of those children fully expected they would keep quiet but that is almost an impossibility with some boys and girls.

The constant shuffling of feet and turning pages of a book and laughing in the Lord's house, a sacred tabernacle of worship, is to me a shameful affair.

If children could be taught that they were not going to a picnic or affair, but to the Lord's house (not a mere neighbor's across the street) perhaps it could be impressed on their minds the reason why there are being sent to church.

I wish to thank our editor for forwarding the postcard and also thank those who took interest in the pictures. I received them all.

To Olga for her birthday 28th inst:

When Time who steals your years away
And steals your pleasure, too,
The memory of your happy past will stay
And half your joys renew.

OMAHA BEE

WELCOMES NEW, DELIGHTS IN OLD

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: Just a few lines to prove that I have not forgotten you. I have been sick nearly all winter and am still very poor. When able to read I have enjoyed the letters as usual in the Corner and now look forward to seeing them each week. It will soon be time for out-of-door picnics. I hope you will all enjoy them. I like to welcome the new writers and when I see the name of old writers, I have a good time reading their letters. Changes have come and we miss the old writers who have gone beyond, but we are glad that interest in the Corner continues and others will continue the good work. Much love and sympathy to all in trouble, sorrow or who are shut in from sickness. Best wishes to all.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

Al Jolson in his newest and best black and white face show, "Mammy", comes to the Palace theatre, today. "Mammy" is a comedy and it will be difficult to find any of the tears which have been characteristic of other Jolson productions. Jolson says that he is tired of making people cry and so he asked Irving Berlin to collaborate with him and write the story of his early days when he was an end man in a minstrel. There are many new songs in the picture also written by Berlin and Jolson sings the old ones and the new hits as only Jolson can.

There is a fine supporting cast and among the stars are Lois Moran, Louise Dresser, Lowell Sherman, Hobart Bosworth and Tully Marshall. Miss Dresser was chosen by the comedian to portray the Mammy he has made famous the world over and this she does to perfection.

Many of the scenes are in technicolor and particularly notable among these are the dress parades when the whole town turned out to see the entertainers on review. There are men in the cast who have played black face parts most of their lives and are familiar with circus ballyhooing, burlesque, vaudeville and cabaret singing, small town show trouping and almost everything on the showman's calendar.

Jolson himself is familiar with all these too, since the early days of career were spent in traveling all over the country performing in many kinds of entertainment. For three years he has planned to make a picture which would glorify and bring into being the Mammy whom he has sung about and talked about for so long.

"Mammy" is only one of the splendid productions which is to be shown during the Spring Festival now being held in all Warner Brothers' theatres. This event marks the period when Warner Brothers set the standard for the coming shows of the season. It began April 20 and will continue until June 5. A most unusual program has been planned during this time and theatre-goers of Norwich are to be presented with the best that there is in the way of films as is indicated by the present bill.

"Mammy" will be shown at the Palace through Tuesday of next week and capacity audiences are anticipated by the management.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

During April, 1880, a license year in Norwich, there were fewer jail commitments than during April of the year previous, when there was no license. In April, 50 years ago, 53 schooners, 14 barges and a barque arrived in Norwich, bringing to this port 16,000 tons of coal. Only 250 out of 950 dogs had been registered at the end of the month. The remaining 700 were due to be registered by the first of May in order to avoid prosecutions for the owners. Interesting extracts from the files of The Bulletin of April, 1880, are as follows:

Monday, April 26, 1880—For the past two Sundays quiet has reigned among the youth of the West Side, but yesterday afternoon the gang resumed their noise and boisterous actions, which Officer Bowen put a full stop to by arresting three of the offenders and taking them to the lockup.

The Yantic store was entered by thieves on Friday night. They first got into the cellar and then forced a door at the head of the cellar stairs. They made a pretty thorough overhauling of the stock of boots and shoes, but so far as known, succeeded only in carrying off a few pennies.

The Rev. Mr. Starkey of Mystic officiated at Christ church, yesterday, in the absence of the Rev. Dr Giesy who was called west by the death of his brother. The Rev. Dr. Jewett of Trinity church assisted in the evening.

Tuesday, April 27, 1880—The Madame Rentz Minstrels gave a first class variety performance in Breed hall last evening before a large audience. The songs, dancing and music were superior to those of average entertainments of the sort. It is a troupe that merits patronage by its originality and excellence and we doubt not it will receive it wherever it goes.

The offering at the Greeneville M. E. church on Sunday reached $32 and the attendance was so large that the windows were opened so that the people assembled on the outside might listen to the discourse. It looks as though a new meeting house would be called for there.

The many friends of Chief Engineer Carrier always seem to hold him in sweet recollection. Yesterday he received a charm, representing an alarm box from devoted friends in New York, who bore in mind his courtesy to the gentlemen comprising that august body which recently assembled here—the M. E. conference.

Wednesday, April 28, 1880—St. Joseph's Sodality and Literary, organized several months ago by Father Alexis, held a debating match in their parlors in Pierce block, last evening. The question under discussion was, "Resolved; That strikes are injurious to the laboring class." The discussion was lively, three speaking in the affirmative and three in the negative. The winning side is to be announced at the next meeting.

The A. J. Talbot has been appointed pastor of the A. M. E. Zion church on Franklin street, for the period of one year, and has already begun his services. The election of trustees will take place on Monday evening, May 10th. An endeavor will be made by Mr. Talbot to build up and strengthen the society.

At the Free Academy, yesterday, W. S. Allis was appointed for the "Presentation Speech." The valedictorian for this year will be that pupil who has received the highest marks for the course.

Thursday, April 29, 1880—Mrs. Nancy Church Bidwell, wife of the Rev. I. M. Bidwell, whose funeral takes place today, leaves three sons and two daughters to mourn her loss. The family have the sympathy of the whole community in their bereavement.

The rolling mills at Thamesville, which started up with the iron boom, and for several months ran night and day, have on acount of the present falling state of the iron market and the lack of demand for their manufactures, shut down their works.

The residence of Mr. Charles T Rarstow on Franklin street was discovered to be on fire Tuesday afternoon and was extinguished by two gentlemen passing. It caught in a closet upstairs from an imperfect chimney, which was on fire, as a result of building a heavy wood fire in a stove. No damage was done.

Friday, April 30, 1880—This city is becoming quite a coal depot. During the month of April, 53 schooners, 14 barges and one barque have arrived at this port laden with coal, freighting not less than 16,000 tons.

During the month of April there have been 56 commitments at the station house, against 65 in April, 1879. This makes the best showing for April in the license year.

Mr. Joshua E. Woodworth, who fell and broke his leg while carting timber last fall, died at his residence on the New London turnpike, near the fair ground, yesterday, at the advanced age of 73.

Two hundred and fifty dogs have been registered and 700 more should be recorded before tomorrow night. Prosecutions will promptly follow the limitation if the law is not complied with.

Saturday, May 1, 1880—The funeral of Miss Mary J. Taylor, an estimable lady who died on Wednesday at the age of thirty-seven, was held at the Central Baptist church, yesterday afternoon. The attendance was large. Two handsome floral wreaths adorned the casket. The services were conducted by the Rev. William S. Palmer of the Second Congregational church.

Mr. and Mrs. Constant H. Foote celebrated the 10th anniversary of their wedding at their residence on Summit street, last evening. There were some 50 guests present.

The coal merchants of the city are getting well stocked up and it is quite evident that they do not anticipate a fall in prices.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

At The Y. M. C. A. Sunday

A seven-reel moving picture feature of unusual merit will be shown at the large gymnasium of the local Y. M. C. A. at 4 p. m. on the coming Sunday.

The picture is titled "Shadows," the main characters being Margaret de la Motte, Lon Chaney and Harrison Ford. The story opens with the inhabitants of the little village of Urkey, on the New England coast, facing the tragedy of a fishing settlement—a terrific storm that has wiped out the fishing fleet. After a night of prayerful watching bits of spars are cast up, a fisherman and an aged Chinaman drifting in with the wreckage. Running through the story are those human sympathies and thrilling experiences that are bound to not only deeply impress but to uplift. There are heroes and heroines who demonstrate their great loyalty in exciting and sorrowful moments. This is without doubt one of the choicest motion pictures of the day, and a large number should see it on this occasion.

The adult public is specially invited. Boys and girls from eleven to fifteen will be admitted on condition that they are accompanied by their parents or guardians.

POETRY

MAY

Come walk with me along this willowed lane,
Where, like lost coinage from some miser's store,
The golden dandelions more and more
Glow, as the warm sun kisses them again!
For this is May! who with a daisy chain
Leads on the laughing Hours; for now is o'er
Long winter's trance. No longer rise and roar
His forest-wrenching blasts. The hopeful swain,
Along the furrow, sings behind his team;
Loud pipes the redbreast—troubadour of spring,
And vocal all the morning copses ring;
More blue the skies in lucent lakelets gleam;
And the glad earth, caressed by murmuring showers,
Wakes like a bride, to deck herself with flowers!

—Henry Sylvester Cornwell.

The Library

Give me the room whose every nook
Is dedicated to a book
Two windows will suffice for air
And grant the light admission there;
One looking to the south, and one
To speed the red, departing sun.
The eastern wall from friese to plinth
Shall be the Poet's labyrinth,
Where one may find the lords of rhyme
From Homer's down to Dobson's time;
And at the northern side a space
Shall show an open chimney-place.
Set round with ancient tiles that tell
Some legend old, and weave a spell
About the fire dog-guarded seat,
Where, musing, one may taste the [illegible]
Above, the mantel should not lack
For curios and bric-a-brac,—
Not much, but just enough to light
The room up when the fire is bright. . . .

Such be the library; and take
This motto of a Latin make
To grace the door through which I pass;
Hic habitat Felicitas!

—Frank Dempster Sherman, in "Lyrics For a Lute."

All the cement required for the recent construction of a sixteen-mile concrete highway along the Allegheny river mountainous Warren county, Pennsylvania, was pumped across the river in dry bulk through a three-inch pipe, it was reported to the Engineering News-Record. Compressed air at 100 pounds pressure carried the cement in powdered form from freight cars a distance of 783 feet, the length of the pipe, to the batching plant. This unusual method of handling cement proved thoroughly practical and economical. The pipe was suspended across the river from a cable.

Broadway Theatre

A giant in strength, possessing all the qualities of the steel he loved to handle in erecting his giant skyscrapers, Joe Forziati, master contractor, who had risen to the top through sheer strength of mind and body, was yet as soft at heart as a baby, but when his big moment came—when he, the victim of a gang of cold-blooded killers, cornered and alone, without a weapon, had to choose between the lives of his own youngster and the boy of the woman he loved, all the steel came to the surface and he made his decision. A slave to honor and loyalty yet torn between two loyalties—that of blood and that of love—what was the decision? And what the effect on his life? As Joe Forziati in "Ladies Love Brutes," which opens today at the Broadway. George Bancroft has the one great role of his life, surpassing "The Mighty," "Thunderbolt," and all his other "he-man" characters. Dominating his fellow-men, leading the steel men of the country in his work, he is like a pariah dog among the society men, who seek his handiwork, but shun his companionship, the one thing in life he craves. Through a mutual friend, Forziati is introduced to a lovely woman, Mary Astor, who is about to divorce her uncongenial husband, and loses his heart at once. The rival gang of contractors, jealous of his success, determine to strike at him through the woman he loves, and her child, together with Forziati's motherless boy, are kidnapped. Forziati is trapped by the gang, and forced to the decision between the lives of the two lads, and his choice and the ensuing mad battle of physical giants, makes one of the thrilling stories on the talking screen. Also in the cast are Frederic March, Stanley Fields, and the two youngsters, Davie Durant, and Freddie Frederick, the latter the son of Norwich's own, Pauline Frederick. On the same bill Charlie Ruggles heads the cast in "The Family Next Door," a riotously funny featured comedy of modern apartment life, which will make every spectator's sides ache with laughing, while the clink of ice in silver shakers will make them jealous. Lee Morse, dainty and lovable contralto, with the most marvelous throaty voice on the screen, has a most unique specialty in "A Million Me's," a brand new and most novel idea in screen presentations. The latest Paramount Sound news has some of the latest headline shots. At today's matinee, the kiddies will enjoy the new chapter of "Tarzan the Tiger," with not a few grown-ups stealing more than a casual look, as well. Interest is running high in the Broadway's "Summer Girl" contest, in which some young lady will receive a complete summer costume in time for Memorial day.

GEORGE BANCROFT

Breed Theatre

"Men Without Women" which opens tomorrow night at the Breed theatre, is a picture of which all concerned in its making may well be proud. For, it is as tense and grim a film drama as any ever seen here.

It is the epic of 12 roistering sailors trapped in a submarine at the bottom of the Yellow Sea. In a brief, illuminating hour the character of each one of these men is revealed as he struggles desperately for life again apparently impossible odds.

One of the group goes mad and threatens to destroy all his companions before the rescuers can reach them. Another gets drunk on the ship's alcohol supply. The young commander is willing, but frightfully inexperienced. He is supported in his authority by another young, heroic officer of whose darkling past there are rather confused hints.

All of these sailors, as they feel the end approaching, reminisce over their amorous affairs in curt, picturesque dialogue. And this conversation constitutes the only role that the "fair sex" plays in the film—with the exception of a few rather unimportant opening scenes.

Great credit for the success of this extraordinary film must be given to Director John Ford, who in this production has surpassed such admirable achievements as his "The Black Watch" and "Four Sons."

SHORT SELLING AND POOL LIQUIDATION CAUSED NET LOSSES OF 2 TO 16 POINTS

NEW YORK, May 2—(AP)—Disregarding the favorable traffic signal of cheap money, the stock market steered today into a one-way street and came up precipitately at the bottom of the largest decline since early last December. Sales totaled 5,986,300 shares, the year's record total.

After moving irregularly during most of the day, the market was carried downward with exceptional rapidity in the final hour on an enormous volume of short selling and pool liquidation and the final prices disclosed net losses of 2 to 16 points, chiefly in the industrial, utilities and specialty groups.

Sales in the last 50 minutes exceeded 2,000,000 shares as blocks of 5,000 to 20,000 shares of prominent stocks were unloaded. The late selling came suddenly and found the tape well abreast of the trading, but the ticker soon fell behind under the enormous volume of offerings.

The decline, as measured by the price index of 90 shares was 5.3 points, surpassing the drop of last Monday by exactly a point. The industrials tumbled 5.5 and the utilities 2.7, while the rails, which had borne the brunt of the bear attack in recent sessions, moved up slightly despite the fact that half a dozen stocks in the group went to new lows for the year.

The day's news was rather mixed. President Hoover's encouraging report on business prospects before the United States chamber of commerce and a lowering of money rates on this market were accompanied by a reduction in the prices of a few steel items by United States Steel subsidiary and by another ease in commodities. The cut in the New York Federal Reserve bank's rediscount rate did little but bring money into adjustment with the new figure, and failed to have the bullish stock market effect which previous reductions had had. Wall street was inclined to regard the new rate as an indication that money was going begging, and operators for the decline seized on this point to bolster their case.

Stocks were heavily sold during the morning but the volume declined around noon and the list got mild support only to meet the severe pressure of the last hour. U. S. Steel, after touching 180 1-4 on the rally, was shoved down to 174 3-8, a new low for the movement. At the closing price of 176 it showed a net loss of 2 points. Allied Chemical United Carbon, and Columbian Carbon were whirled down 8 to 16 points. Oil and amusement stocks dropped 2 to 12, Standard Oil of New Jersey losing 4, Houston Oil 12, Keith Albee preferred 9, Warner Brothers Pictures 4, and Shubert and Loew's 3. Radio lost 7.

Eastman Kodak, American Can, General Electric, American & Foreign Power, Consolidated Gas, Electric Power & Light, Public Service of New Jersey, International Telephone, National Power and Light and Stands & Electric fell 4 to 12.

Chrysler was firm despite the earnings statement showing first quarter profit of four cents a share against $2 in the same period of 1929, for the unfavorable showing was about in line with estimates.

The foreign exchange list was mixed, featured by an advance in the French franc and a slight easing in sterling. Cotton closed steady with small net declines. Wheat sagged fractionally and corn lost about a cent.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, May 2—(AP)—Reduction of the New York Federal Reserve discount rate, and generally easier money conditions gave new strength to the listed bond market today.

The standard railroad securities led the advance on the heaviest buying in weeks and closing prices in some instances were not far from the year's high. Practically the whole list, with the exception of speculative issues and secondary industrials, felt the buoyant influences in the market.

Sales were smaller than yesterday, the busiest session in five weeks, but the general price trend was improved, the averages for thirty bonds reached 100.1 the highest since March 27.

The developments of yesterday and today tending to ease credit asserted themselves. Call money renewed at 3 1-2 for the first time in a month and the rate then went to 3. Time accommodations were easier by 1-4 per cent.

Unusually heavy buying was shown in some of the high grade rails, including Union Pacific 4s, Missouri Pacific 5s, Erie 5s, St. Louis and San Francisco 4 1-2s, with gains reaching 3-4 of a point.

Utilities also advanced, although not as extensively as the rails. Denver Gas and Electric 5s, gained a point. American Telephone debenture 5 1-2s, Utah Power and Light 5s with warrants, North American Edison 5 1-2s advanced from 1-4 to 3-4 of a point.

National Dairy 5 1-4s, U. S. Rubber 5s, Inland Steel 4 1-2s, and Armour and Co. 5 1-2s made the best gain in the industrial group. Cuba Cane Products 6s sank to new low ground at 17 1-2.

Gains of 1-4 to one point were made by the most popular foreign governments. British 5 1-2s, Belgium 6s, German 7s and French Republic 7s were the features.

Heavy buying in the United States governments brought moderate improvement to the group. The largest sales were in Liberty 4th 4 1-4s up 15-32s.

NEW YORK, May 2—(AP)—R. G. Dun & Co. reports 472 failures in the United States during the week, compared with 547 defaults the previous week and 421 in the corresponding week last year. Fewer failures occurred this week in each geographical section, with a marked reduction in the west, but there were increases in all instances over the figures for the corresponding week last year. Canadian failures this week numbered 43, compared with 44 last week and 41 a year ago.

The Marlin-Rockwell Corp., and subsidiaries earned $376,22 during the first quarter, equal to $1.03 a share on 364,145 no-par shares, as against $702,786, or $1.94 a share on 362,145 shares during the first quarter of last year.

Today's gold statement of the New York Federal Reserve bank showed withdrawal of $5,000 for export to the Philippine Islands. There were no imports and no net change in the amount of gold ear-marked for foreign account.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, May 2—(AP)—The curb market was carried off sharply today, the more active issues generally losing 1 to 5 points, while some of the high-priced specialties lost 10 to 20 points.

The decline was one of the sharpest of the year, although it was comparatively less severe than the decline on the big board. Total sales aggregated 1,686,900 shares, about 260,000 less than the record 1930 turnover of April 23.

The utility shares, which dominated trading during the recent bull movement on this market, were sold in heaviest volume. American Gas and Electric dropped about 8 points, and such issues as Electric Bond and Share, Brazilian Traction, American and Foreign Power warrants, United Gas old stock, and United Light and Power A lost 3 to 5 points. American Light and Traction old stock tumbled 20 points.

Several of the recent strong spots in the oils were also under heavy selling pressure. Gulf Oil lost 6 points, Cities Service and Humble each lost about 3 points. Standard of Indiana, however, lost only 1 5-8 points. In the mines, Noranda sagged 3 points to a new low for the year, influenced in part by continued rumors that a further cut in red metal prices is imminent.

In the industrials, such recent favorites as Deere new stock and Dresser Manufacturing A lost 3 points. Driver Harris tumbled 6. Aluminum Co., a high-priced issue, dropped 15. Investment Trust Share sold off with the rest of the market, reflecting market depreciation of their holdings. Goldman Sachs lost 3 points, and Taggart Corp. 6.

A STORY OF YOUNG LOVE, WHEREIN A HOMELY FAMILY TRADITION TURNS THE TRICK FOR CUPID WHEN OPULENT OSTENTATIONS FAIL

By HELEN ST. BERNARD

JAMES RALEIGH CLAVERING stopped and stared. What's more, he did not move to one side of the path to allow her to pass, both of which were very rude—especially for a Clavering of Boston.

She wore orchid; orchid from the tops of her little suede pumps to the crown of her felt hat, and what Jimmie thought of orchid—and its wearer—was eloquently expressed in his eyes as he looked down at her. Her head just came to his shoulder.

And she was alone! That, in itself, was a surprising thing, inasmuch as there were no fewer than 4000 students at New Haven that afternoon who would have been willing to walk beside her.

She stopped and returned his gaze. There was nothing else to do, for the path was narrow and hedge-bordered, and Jimmie made a formidable barrier. He had never paid much attention to the color of eyes—he had never been interested—but in this particular instance he knew that the ones that looked up at him were blue, big and bright. She jerked her head haughtily and stepped over the low hedge on to the grass beyond.

While Jimmie still stared, he heard distinctly and clearly:

"Darn!"

She was balancing on one foot, the other leg drawn up at an angle and encircled with her hand as she scanned the length of silky sheen.

"Now look what you have done!"

Jimmie came out of his daze. "What—what is it? I'm sorry."

Still balancing on the foot, she stuck the other out in midair, her gloved finger pointing to a ragged hole in her stocking from which a run had started toward the ankle.

"You should be! I caught my stocking on that hedge!"

"Gee, I'm sorry."

This was great. If it had not been for the hedge and for the stocking, she never would have spoken to him.

She stripped off her glove and placed her finger in her mouth. She wabbled unsteadily as she bent over and carefully pressed it to the hose just below the run, leaving a round damp spot.

"You might at least offer to hold me up," she said acidly.

"Oh, pardon! I didn't think. Of course * * *"

And while her finger alternated between her mouth and the miscreant run, he held her elbow and watched the operation with interest.

"I'll send you another pair."

"Butterfly chiffon or gossamer shadow. Either. I wear eights. There! Guess that won't run any farther until I get home."

SHE removed her orchid tweed elbow from his hand and proceeded to pull on her glove.

"I must go."

"Why, you've just come!"

"Just come! Drove up here from New York this morning to spend the day with Chet and we quarreled all through lunch and then I went for a walk with Barney down there—" jerking her head in the general direction of the narrow path. "Then Chet came after us and we had a perfectly horrid fuss. I'm going home! I'll never, never speak to him again. Do you know Chet?"

They were walking together across the campus toward the parking space.

"Chet?" he queried, thinking hard.

"Bacon."

"Oh, sure I know Chet. He's in my class—law."

He was very fond of Chester Bacon, a fine chap and popular around school, affable, a good fellow. It was queer for him to treat a girl in such a manner. She had driven all the way up here to see him, too. Then his heart warmed suddenly to Chet for his brutality, for if he had not been so "perfectly horrid" then she would never have come up that narrow path alone.

"Men are so unreasonable," she was saying.

"They certainly are—some of them," he agreed. "My name is Clavering—James Clavering."

"Oh," and she arched her eyebrows as she looked at him. "Clavering? I have never heard Chet speak of you."

Most people recognized the name of James Clavering. He was a trifle annoyed. He seldom talked about himself—it was one of his pet aversions—but this time it was quite necessary. Time was short, and New York was such a big place.

"Yeah, James Clavering, Boston. I played on the team last year."

"I didn't come up for any of the games," uninterestedly. "I have been at school—in Europe."

They had come to the parking space.

"Won't you * * * wouldn't you like some tea before you go?"

"Thanks, no. I'm going right away. I want to get out before Chet comes. I just won't let him see my new car now, after being so perfectly horrid! I must hurry."

She circled in and out among the parked cars and finally stopped beside a long, low scarlet roadster, eloquently now. Jimmie opened the door and she slid into the seat behind the driver's wheel and, under the pressure of an orchid-shod foot the starter whirred!

"Your name, please * * *"

She put the gear into reverse and the car backed out from between two big black limousines, and Jimmie, his arms still on the window frame, went along with it.

"Just a moment, please," he pleaded.

"There's Chet over there. I can't wait." She whirled the wheel dexterously and the nose of the car pointed in the general direction of New York. "Good-by. I'm still mad about my stocking."

"But listen * * * I don't know your name," he pleaded as he ran beside the car as it gained speed.

"Ask Chet," was the only reply he received as the scarlet roadster slid smoothly away.

James Raleigh Clavering drew a long breath. Some girl! Never before had he met one like her. The rest of them were all so darned anxious. Just like regular leeches. She wouldn't even give him her name, the little vixen! He liked blondes! But wait a moment. Was she a blonde? He just couldn't remember, although he knew a little wave of hair lay against her cheek just below the perky bow of felt on the close-fitting rim of the orchid hat. Anyway, blonde or brunette, she was some girl!

He met Chet on the campus as he strolled back, deep in meditation.

"Hello, Chet," Jimmie sang out.

Chet merely grunted.

"Why the grouch?" Jimmie inquired.

"Aw, these darned women. They certainly can spoil a fellow's day for him. And that one that just pulled out of here in that red speed-wagon * * *"

Instinctively Jimmie bridled. He would defend womanhood from such as Chet. Then his shoulders sagged. That might be a little awkward, seeing that Chet didn't know * * * he would make up for it all later. And this was the chance! She had asked, "Ask Chet."

"What's the trouble, Chet?"

"She came up here today," and he jerked his thumb over his shoulder in the direction in which the red car had disappeared, "after I had told her to wait until Sunday. I had other plans for today. When I told her she shouldn't have come, she got sore and started to flirt with Barney McNutt—he has always been keen about her—and they skinned out while I was in my room for a moment. I followed them and bawled her out * * *"

Jimmie's heart warmed a bit to Chet. Barney McNutt was always in disfavor with the students because he was particularly handsome and the girls liked him. He was commonly known as the campus sheik. Jimmie nodded understandingly.

"I had told her to keep away from McNutt, but she wouldn't listen. Liked his line, I guess. And then McNutt jumped all over me and we got in a devil of a row and she went home. Gee, she was sore. Darned if I care, though."

He turned to walk back, his hands deep in his pockets, shoulders hunched, a bulldog pipe hanging dejectedly from his mouth. Jimmie put his hands deep in his pockets, hunched his shoulders and fell into step beside Chet.

"Let me tell you something, Jimmie," Chet continued solemnly. "You have never been much of a hand for girls, have you? I've never seen you go dizzy over any of them and heavens knows they would all be willing to have you. Well! Just stay clear of them! They can cause more grief in one day * * *"

"You're right, I guess," conceded Jimmie, feeling considerably disloyal and guilty as he did so, but he would make up for it later. A little more encouragement and he would have the orchid girl's name. Chet was unusually voluble.

"Darned little flirt," he was saying. "She ought to be spanked. She wasn't only content to get McNutt on the string, but she lands another before she leaves!"

Chet was a jealous man. Jimmie decided it was not advisable to ask for any information concerning the chief offender of the day.

IT WAS three hours since the scarlet car had disappeared down the highway before Jimmie could find Barney McNutt, deep in a leather chair in the club, behind a ponderous book, awaiting the dinner hour.

Jimmie approached him nonchalantly. He had no particular reason for disliking Barney. Of course, there had been a time when Dorine Reid, whom he had invited up for the Easter party, had fallen pretty hard for McNutt and had cut a dance with Jimmie. It was partly Jimmie's fault, too, because he had been smoking on the porch between dances, knowing that his guest was well taken care of, and when the music started he had just lighted a fresh cigarette. He lingered for a few extra puffs and when he went in Dorine was dancing with Barney again, her head close to his shoulder.

McNutt had appropriated Gretchen Meige, too, at the commencement prom last spring, but neither had that worried Jimmie, for it was an excellent chance to break off a correspondence with the young lady which had recently assumed serious aspects on her part. So the affair with Barney had finished that! In fact, Jimmie had a feeling of affection for the campus sheik.

"Hello, McNutt! Say, do you * * *" This was awkward. He should have thought out a method of approach. Barney evidently was not in good humor. Then a happy thought! "Do you know where Chet Bacon is?"

"No! I don't know where Chet Bacon is, and I don't care where he is!"

This was a good opening.

"Why all the gnashing of teeth, my boy?"

"Well, the way he jumped all over me this afternoon just because he was sore at his sister * * *"

"His—what?"

"His twin sister—Nancy! They had a scrap and Nancy and I went off for a walk while he cooled off. And when he found us! Oh, boy! She went back to New York sore as a boil and we finished the fuss. Nancy and Chet scrap most of the time, anyway. Well, I'll be darned! Have you—gone—crazy?"

For Jimmie had dropped into a chair, his long legs sprawled out in front of him, smiling rapturously. The seat next to Chet Bacon's at the dinner table was empty and Jimmie slipped into it. It was easy to renew their afternoon's conversation. Chet rejoiced in finding a sympathetic listener.

"She managed to get dad to buy her another car * * * darned little gold-digger, and then couldn't wait until she came up here to show it off. I had other plans for today. Dad gives her everything she asks for. I wanted a speedboat this summer, but dad told me I would have to figure my allowance a little closer and buy it myself * * * and she just wanted to rub it in. These women!"

"These women!" responded Jimmie fervently.

WITHIN the next two weeks Jimmie and Chet became inseparable. Jimmie had, on a visit home, done some secret shopping at an exclusive shop that his mother and sister patronized, which resulted in three pairs of chiffon hose being sent to the Bacons' apartment on Park avenue, New York. He was unable to get the special kind she had designated, but, judging from the price, the substitute, he thought, must be pretty fine.

No acknowledgment was received.

When Chester suggested he accompany him home for a week end Jimmie accepted with alacrity. When they arrived Nancy was just leaving for a week end with friends on Long Island. There was no spark of recognition in her eyes when Chet, after kissing her warmly and telling her she looked like a million dollars, introduced her to Jimmie and then went away to find his father. She smiled languidly up at him from a cloud of gray fox fur that almost hid her little head in its fluffiness and extended a limp hand.

"Have I ever met you before?"

"Sure you have," anxiously. "Don't you remember * * * you tore your stockings on that hedge?"

"Oh, yes. Let me see * * * whom did Chet say you were?"

"James Clavering, of Boston. Law."

"Oh. And, by the way, was it you who sent me that pair of chiffon hose?"

"Three pairs!"

"Oh, yes, three pairs. I had quite forgotten. Why?"

"I promised. Don't you remember?"

"Any one can keep promises. They don't amount to much. I'm really sorry I won't be able to be home while you're here. Have a nice time * * * and do come again."

In November he wrote her a note and asked her to come up for a party. She didn't answer the note, but told Chet to tell him she couldn't this time. She refused his invitation to one of the big games. Jimmie saw her wrapped in a squirrel coat, a saucy little green hat peeping out from the enveloping collar, cuddling close to Barney McNutt's shoulder. Jimmie was mad. Good and mad! Heretofore girls had not meant much to Jimmie Clavering, but now it was different.

ON HIS last trip home his father had told him that now that school days were about over he had better think about a wife. A good wife was a splendid help to a lawyer. The Claverings always married young * * * he must not wait too long, and then his mother had anxiously cautioned him about the right kind of a girl * * * to be careful * * * and he had smiled tolerantly as they mentioned Gretchen Meige and Dorine Reid and a few others. All the fellows and girls he knew were either getting married or already married. But he wouldn't marry until he was 60 if he couldn't have the right girl—and that girl was Nancy Bacon. Jimmie was in love.

Through Chet's co-operation Nancy finally consented to come up for a Saturday night dance. The next day he threatened to punch Barney McNutt's head because, before the evening was half over, Nancy and McNutt had disappeared and she had cut two dances with Jimmie.

In December he went to New York again with Chet and Nancy was nice to him and he sent her an extravagant box of flowers, duplicated at Christmastime. In January she broke an engagement with him at the last moment because a friend from Europe had arrived sooner than expected, and, of course, she could not disappoint him, coming so far for such a short time.

In March Chet confided to Jimmie that he guessed Nancy was going to marry the Count Something-or-other! Jimmie decided to go to New York and expostulate with her. To tell her those titled foreigners only wanted fortunes that he did not love her; as he, Jimmie, did, and that she would be unhappy. Then he decided against it and, instead, wrote a long letter over which he labored for hours, and, although he did not definitely threaten suicide, nevertheless, he informed Nancy that life would not be worth living if she married some one else.

The titled foreigner at last went home and Nancy came up to New Haven for the Easter dance. But when Jimmie went to New York on a Saturday and purchased two of the best seats for a show, after her tentative promise that she would go with him, he found word at the apartment that she was sorry, but something most important had come up and she would not see him that afternoon, but would meet him at 6.30 for dinner. That night, when he left her in the lobby of the Park Avenue apartment house, he asked her to wear his diamond-set fraternity pin, and she had dropped it into her purse. Chet afterward told him that she had a collection of them on her pincushion.

THE day after Jimmie received this information—a rainy, cloudy Sunday—he sought solitude in the deserted clubroom. He shuffled through the piles of magazines on the table, and of all the collection there, war stories, air stories, adventure stories of the west and sea, he picked up a last issue of a society magazine which he had often seen his mother reading. He was lonesome today. He fanned the pages idly, and then something familiar flashed by and he thumbed the pages back until he found it. There was a familiar rock garden in an oval, with a waterfall playing over the stones. And below it was another picture of a splendid big white stone house, its deep stone chimneys, ivy-covered, flanked by terraced lawns, winding boulevards and English yew hedges. It was the home of James Raleigh Clavering, of Boston, built by the father of the present owner, more than half a century ago * * * was one of the showplaces of New England—an imposing monument to a family well known throughout the east. Right then and there that splendid house took on a glorified appearance to the son and heir of the present owner. Jimmie had a bright idea.

He spent a great deal of time over that letter to his mother. In fact, the rainy afternoon had drawn to a close and the call for dinner had sounded before it was ready for its envelope. It was a long letter; that is, long for Jimmie, and there were several underscorings to bring out important points. He reread parts of it aloud to himself:

* * * Chet is sure a peach and always likes to have his twin sister around. They think a lot of each other, just like Alice and I do * * * and if you will write Nancy and tell her you would like to have her spend a week end with us * * * you probably know who her father is, Arnold G. Bacon—Wall street, you know. They sure are real folks, and Nancy is a peach of a girl * * * everybody is crazy about her and she treats them all alike. * * *

* * * I'll leave it all to you, mother, for you sure know how to do it right! I'm not worrying about that—it will be perfect. I know we will have a good time, and you will like Nancy and Cet. * * *

And then a note came from his mother saying Nancy had accepted the invitation with Chet and she would expect them the next week end. Jimmie was supremely happy. Since the previous fall he had tried by every means and device employed by a man in love to gain Nancy's favor. But, as her brother said, she treated them all alike, himself included. Now, if that home couldn't win her over, nothing could. Nothing? Then what would he do? It was an appalling thought, for Jimmie had definitely made up his mind to marry Nancy Bacon when he was established in his father's law office.

JIMMIE and Benjamin had always been great friends, since the days when Jimmie sat in the front seat with him on the drives to and from school. Benjamin was on the alert for the usual effusive greeting, but Jimmie spoke in a most dignified manner, much the same as used by his father.

As the car turned into the imposing stone gates at the entrance to the Clavering estate and wound slowly up the boulevard, Nancy sighed with delight.

"Just—beautiful!" she said. "It is terrible to live in apartments such as ours—stuffy, horrid little places way up in the air, when there are houses like this for folks to live in: * * *"

The Bacon apartment on Park avenue boasted twenty-four rooms. Jimmie was very happy and nodded. So happy that when Bejamin opened the car door at the porch, he winked at him, which Benjamin knew meant a confidential chat over cigarettes in the garage later. Benjamin unsmilingly winked back.

"How do you do, Henry," said Jimmie to the dignified butler, who was swinging open the massive oaken doors. "Is my mother down?"

"No, Mr. Jim—James. That is, she is coming now. I will take the luggage up—sir."

Jimmie was very proud to introduce his family to his guests—his charming, vivacious mother, who looked almost as young as pretty little Alice, his debutante sister, and his father, handsome, broad-shouldered, splendid.

"You have met us all except grandmother," said Alice as they went upstairs to dress. Somehow, Jimmie had over-looked grandmother, and such an important person as she was—this Mrs. James R. Clavering. He hoped she wouldn't spill a lot of stuff about her illustrious ancestors and all that * * * grandmother was pretty old and she liked to talk.

WHEN they descended the stairs for dinner a little old white-haired lady, with a lacy collar and cuffs over the black silk of her old-fashioned dress, sat before the fireplace.

"Grandmother," said Jimmie, "this is Miss Nancy Bacon, of New York * * * and her brother, Chester. My grandmother, Mrs. Caroline Raleigh Clavering."

The Sargent portrait looked at them carefully through her gold lorgnette. Then, in a voice carefully modulated and formal, she said:

"I am pleased to welcome you into our home. And I trust your sojourn beneath its roof will be a pleasant one. Dinner will be served in nine minutes."

Things were going good. Jimmie glowed with pride and happiness. Even grandmother was all right, so far as grandmothers go, if she would only relax a bit and forget she was a direct descendant of Sir Walter Raleigh. Who cared, anyway? He had been brought up on that fact. He looked up at the framed painting of his grandmother's illustrious kin above the fireplace and grinned. Sir Walter did not grin back.

The butler announced dinner. His father offered his arm to Nancy and they went off, gayly discussing golf scores. Dad had made a hit. Some dad! Chester took Mrs. Clavering and she was promising to show him the new litter of police dogs in the kennels the next morning. Just like mother, a good sport. He offered his arm to grandmother, as he always did when he was at home, and Alice went with them.

"Isn't she just adorable?" Alice whispered. "And will you believe it, she belongs to the same sorority I do. Isn't that grand?"

Great! Jimmie was hungry and he anticipated the dinner before them. Nancy had dined in the home of royalty in Europe. Jimmie did not even scowl tonight when he recalled the titled foreigner who had sailed home just last month. She had traveled with the very best, both at home and on the Continent. Well, Clavering dinners were always imposing affairs—always had been. Wait until she tasted some of the delectable viands prepared by Oscar, the chef, who had been a Clavering institution for years; in fact, imported from his native heath, France.

AHEAD, the soft glow of a candle-lit dining room, an expanse of glistening linen, silver and flowers! It looked like a banquet table. Then the door opened from the butler's pantry and Henry came in, bearing in both hands a heavy silver dish of huge proportions. Grandmother always proudly explained that it was part of the family plate which had been brought from England. It had a cover, ornately frescoed, with a branch of leaves for a handle, and Henry was removing that cover, having deposited the dish directly in front of Jimmie's father. Jimmie closed his eyes for a second and looked again.

Baked beans! BAKED BEANS! BAKED BEANS! Baked Beans—for the Bacons of New York!

The Claverings—especially grandmother—were slaves of custom. Baked beans on Saturday night! Oh, the irony of it! Nancy and Alice were discussing their sorority activities over heaped plates. Ten minutes later Jimmie dared to look toward Nancy again. Her plate was empty. She smiled at him! Chet was receiving a second helping. Chet was a good sport all right.

Two hours later he was dancing with Nancy at the country club. Never had she been so lovely, so desirable. Gee, what did she think of them, anyway?

"Nancy," he gulped. "I—I——"

"Uh huh! I'm having a gor-geous time, Jimmie."

"Yeah?" She was a good sport, too. He held her a little closer. Her head almost touched his shoulder. He recalled the day she tore her stocking on the hedge and he had wondered if that head would ever touch his shoulder. He knew it was bad form to apologize, but, certainly, there was an apology coming.

"Nancy—" he began again.

The music had stopped and they were standing near an open window.

"Something tells me, Jimmie, that you are going to say something frightfully serious! Let's go out on the porch."

She was a silvery mist in her spangled frock as she sat in the shadows on a marble bench.

"Nancy, I just don't know how—how to apologize—about that! I'm frightfully sorry!"

"Sorry! Sorry—for what?"

"Those beans. You see, I—I had forgotten about Saturday night. I'm so seldom home any more, you see—I had forgotten. I—I guess I have forgotten everything—since you tore your stocking down there last fall—except you! But—those beans! An old New England custom, you know—"

"Jimmie Clavering! Now you've gone and spoiled it," she moaned.

"Spoiled—what?"

"Oh, Jimmie, can't you see? I was having such a gorgeous time just because your family was natural. I really felt at home at supper tonight. I'm bored stiff with conventions! And you, Jimmie, are like all the rest—"

"But Nancy—"

"Yes, you are! You have done absolutely everything—that Barney McNutt and all the—nuts—do, since I met you. You sent me stockings! Three pairs! So do the rest of them. Elise, the maid, loved them! You have invited me to dances—politely! Why didn't you tell me I had to come? You sent me flowers! Flowers! Flowers! Violets! Why didn't you send dandelions—or thistles! You have been jealous! You even wrote something about life not worth living. I have tried to make you see—by being rotten mean—but you wouldn't. I have oodles of frat pins like yours. Why, you'd let me walk over you with both feet—just like the lady walked over your grandmother's uncle's—or was it her grandfather's—coat!"

"But, Nancy—" He moved closer and reached for her hand. "It was because I loved you."

"So did all the rest—the same way. Why couldn't you be different? But after that supper tonight, I just thought perhaps there might be some hopes for you—that you might be like them and that things would be interesting instead of so ghastly 'monotonous—just years of it! And just now, when I—I thought you were going to propose to me—you looked so serious—you go and spoil everything."

He moved still closer, and now her head was against his shoulder and his arm about her, holding her close.

"But, Nancy—"

"Hush, Jimmie, don't do any more damage. And—if that frat pin means—what it should—Jimmie, then you can make up your mind to one thing!"

"What?"

"That there will be baked beans for supper in the House of Clavering every Saturday night, always and forever!"

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, May 3—(AP)—Unofficial monthly crop summaries indicating reduced yields and decreased acreage for the United States 1930 wheat harvest did much to steady wheat prices today. The effects of the jolt given to all grain markets yesterday by emergency measures relative to over-crowded storage facilities here were still apparent, though, and buyers showed lack of confidence. On the other hand, not much disposition was shown to press aggressive selling and the day ended in virtually a draw as between bulls and bears.

Closing quotations on wheat were irregular, varying from 5-8c net decline to 3-8c advance, compared with yesterday's finish. Corn closed 3-4-1 1-8c down, oats 1-8c off to 1-8-1-4c up, and provisions showing 10c-40c gain.

Outstanding as features of the May unofficial crop reports were estimates pointing to 7,000,000 bu. less domestic winter wheat yield this season than was suggested by the government's April forecast. This curtailment implied that the 1930 winter wheat production would be 35,000,000 bu. below last year's harvest. Moreover, today's private estimates foreshadowed 7.3 per cent decrease of United States spring wheat acreage and 4.8 per cent decrease in Canada. The general run of other news was also a little more favorable to friends of higher prices for wheat, notably advices from Liverpool saying traders there were uneasy over the fact that the Liverpool market is below a world parity.

Wheat bears in Chicago, nevertheless, made much of statements by a leading crop authority in his monthly survey that good rains lately in most sections of the winter wheat belt were developing in the southwest. There was great benefit, and came in time to check a serious situation which was too much notice taken of comment in other monthly private crop report that crop prospects are above official reports for all territory from Texas to Nebraska inclusive but that May rainfall must be abundant if the satisfactory outlook is to be maintained. Under such circumstances, wheat values held within relatively narrow limits today from start to finish.

Heavy liquidating sales continued in the corn market today, with much speculative selling also. Crowded storage facilities here were a bearish factor. Oats averaged higher, influenced by bullish estimates of stocks of oats on farms as compared with a year ago. Provisions advanced, responsive to gains in the value of hogs.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—May [illegible] 3-4, 1.02 5-8; July 1.01 7-8-1.02, [illegible] 3-4-7-8; Sept. 1.05, 1.05 5-8-3-4; [illegible] 1.10 3-4, 1.12 1-4. Corn—May [illegible] 5-8-7-8; .79 1-2; July .79 1-2, [illegible]-4-3-8; Sept. .80 5-8-3-4, .82 3-4; [illegible] .76 3-8, .77 1-4.

UNION

Beginning with Sunday, May 4, the morning service at the church will open at 11, daylight time, one hour earlier than has been the custom during the winter season.

An enjoyable community social, under the auspices of the L. B. A., was held at the Town hall, Friday evening, April 25. There was an attendance of about sixty. The members of the committee who arranged and served the supper received many compliments for their successful efforts. Following the supper the evening was occupied with music, games, and social enjoyment.

Sunday afternoon, April 27, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Horton, their daughter, Miss Evangeline, and their little son, Donald, were in a serious automobile accident. They were on the Buckley highway, proceeding to carry the daughter, a student in Stafford high school, back to Stafford Springs after a week end at home. As they were going up the hill near the base of Mt. Ockepetuck, they met a car that was towing another car. Mr. Horton turned out as far as possible, but the second car swung around and smashed into the Horton car, almost completely demolishing it. Mr. Horton escaped with a bad shake up and scratches and bruises. Little Donald Horton also had a remarkable escape with no injuries more serious than fright and with surface scratches and cuts on his face. Mrs. Horton and Miss Evangeline are in Johnson Memorial hospital where they were taken immediately following the accident. The former is suffering from the shock, a dislocated shoulder and injured hand. Her daughter's knee was seriously injured, the ligaments being badly strained.

Several guests from Worcester and Hopedale, Mass., and from Hartford were at the home of L. M. Reed, Sunday afternoon.

Miss Julia Heck, of Springfield, is at her home for a short vacation. Her mother, Mrs. George Heck, is the guest of relatives in New Jersey this week.

President Hoover announced that Matthew S. Sloan, chairman of the committee appointed to study electric public utility construction, had reported that the program for the present year called for a total of $800,000,000 of such new projects.

INSURANCE

All Good Automobile Insurance Is Not the Same—

If you have that idea, it's costing you money.

1. Complete protection.
2. Prompt, capable service when needed, not only at home but anywhere in this country and Canada.
3. A share in the welfare of their company—a return of whatever part of their premium is warranted at the end of the year.

If you are not getting these things, you owe it to yourself to find out more about automobile insurance written in the American Motorist's Insurance Company.

American motorist's policyholders have always received a substantial dividend saving on each year's automobile insurance premium. Phone Norwich, 3636 NOW and secure further details.

Motorists Ignore Laws

Several heedless automobile drivers were arrested this evening for violation of the city's traffic laws, in spite of the fact that much advance notice has been given that these laws would be strictly enforced. Thomas R. Don, 65 Jay street; Francis Gorra, 92 Union street; Alvin N. Pappenheimer, 29 Worth street, Scarsdale, N. Y.; Leonard B. Watson, 34 Columbia street, Portsmouth, N. H., and Guiseppe Leonardo, U. S. Coast Guard academy, were all charged with parking overtime on State street. The drivers posted a cash bond of $2, each, for appearance in the police court tomorrow.

An automobile driven by Wayman Allison, of Connecticut College for Women, and a bicycle operated by Ernest Oliver, 14, of 29 Cottage street, collided this evening. The youth escaped injury. The cycle was wrecked.

Seeks Missing Brother

William C. Mills, 237 Scott avenue, Bridgeport, has communicated with the police here for the purpose of endeavoring to determine whether his brother, Edward T. Mills, is in New London. The Bridgeport man said that his brother came to New London in an effort to obtain employment as pianist at a Waterford road house, leaving April 21, but nothing has been heard from him since. The man sought is described as being 29, about five feet seven inches in height and weighs about 185.

PORTRAIT OF SHERIFF BROWN GIFT FROM DEPUTIES

The deputy sheriffs of New London county have provided an enlarged photograph of former Sheriff Sidney H. Brown which has been hung from the wall of the superior court room here. The picture was taken about 10 years ago, but is an exceptionally fine likeness of Mr. Brown.

Converted Rum-Runner

The former rum-runner Marjorie, a large speedboat, is now in the service of the United States coast guard, stationed at the state pier, this port. The Marjorie was captured during last December by the crew of a patrol boat when the rum-craft grounded off Montauk and after a chase during which gun-fire was necessary to cause the crew of the rum-runner to beach the boat. Aboard the Marjorie was found about 500 cases of liquor. The Marjorie is a 40-footer and is equipped with high power engines.

RETURN OF THE FLEET MAKES BUSINESS FOR COURT

(Special to The Bulletin)

With the arrival in port last night of the advance boats of the fleet of submarines and tenders, that have been in southern waters and the bluejackets being given shore liberty, the sailors started out for a night's enjoyment and this they had until the police broke up three of their "parties." Two disorderly houses were raided as was one drinking resort.

The raiding squad first visited the black and tan resort at 4 Douglass street, of Corrine Morris, who was charged with conducting a disorderly house. In the building when the bluecoats entered were Ethel Vaden and Anna Ayers, colored and Charles Osaga, Dominic Ingarozza and Alfred Gautjor, white sailors, who were charged with frequenting. The Morris woman, who has a long police record, when presented in the police court today, was fined $50 and costs and the two female frequenters were each fined $10 and costs. The three sailors were not penalized, a nolle being entered in each case.

The house, 32 Shapley street, long the rendezvous of sailors and occupied by John Herndon, was next visited and the evidence obtained there was such as to leave no doubt as to the nature of the business conducted by Herndon. Herndon was arrested charged with frequenting. The Morris woman and violation of the liquor law; Ernest P. Scott, white sailor and Mrs. Edna Zeine, 26 and married, residing in the upper tenement of the building, were charged with adultery. Leola Herndon, Alfred Goodwin, Melvin J. Solari, B. R. Varnell, H. H. Henderson, J. L. Wellhoit, James S. Fower, Paul R. Batchle, Gerald Parker and Fred J. Stohl, white sailors, were charged with frequenting. In court today all the cases were continued to tomorrow. The Shapley street house has been complained against several times by officers of the U. S. Coast Guard.

The final resort raided was the drinking room of Enrico Fabri, 19 Smith street. The officers entered the building while a group was there consuming home brew. Fabri was arrested on two counts of violation of the liquor law, keeping with intent to sell and possession. When presented in court, Fabri, who has been arrested many times for the same offense, entered a demurrer, which was overruled and he was fined $200 and costs on each count. The frequenters, Fred Cross, Paul Devine, Henry Erickson, Edward Hayes and Henry Smith, were not penalized for a nolle was ordered in each case; still, by their arrests, they now have a police court record.

Charles A. Deckhart, 20 Bunnreath street, Boston, was charged with failure to grant right of way. His case was continued until May 17. The automobile Deckhart was driving last evening struck Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray at the corner of Church and Meridian streets, the officer being painfully injured and the cycle wrecked. Deckhart stated that his automobile was fully five feet beyond the intersection of the streets when the crash took place and that he sounded his horn as he approached the corner.

JUDGE BROWN'S REQUEST DISCLOSES STRANGE CASE

A. Peter Furman, employed as a chemist by the Corticelli Silk company and Blanche Molles, were sentenced to three months in jail each, but execution of the sentences were suspended. Furman, who has a wife, deserted her in New York, when he claims to have discovered that she was unfaithful to him. He has, however, he says, paid her $15 per week since, for several years. When he left his wife, Furman was taken ill and his predicament brought him and the Molles woman, who is a nurse, together. Their friendship ripened into love and the pair came to New London where they have since resided at 50 Federal street as man and wife. A child, a girl now three and one-half years was born to them. A few months ago Mrs. Furman brought suit for divorce and the husband did not contest, in fact he wanted to be freed from the woman, but as he was guilty of desertion he could not bring it, so he continued to reside with Miss Molles. The divorce action came up in the superior court here a week ago, at which time Judge Allyn L. Brown of Norwich reserved decision. Yesterday Judge Brown obtained information that Furman and the Molles woman were living here as man and wife and requested that the case be investigated. This was done last night by County Detective William Lewis and Detective Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh, who found Furman and the Molles woman together at the Federal street house where they were arrested. It is the intention of the couple to be married provided Mrs. Furman is granted a decree.

Stole Motor Meters

Christopher Saransen, a sailor, was charged with intoxication and theft. His case was continued to May 10. Saransen was driving his automobile last night on State street where many other autos were parked. He stopped his car several times and removing motor meters from the parked cars placed the equipment in his own car and then drove away. His acts were called to the attention of Sergeant Patrick Murphy, who with Patrolman George Bruhns, commandeered another auto and gave chase to Saransen, who was overtaken and arrested on Main street.

Charles Reilly and James Smart, sailors, were charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. They were fined $10 and costs, but as neither could pay, they were committed to jail. Reilly and Smart were arrested last night when found fighting on the street by Patrolman Henry Sylvia.

Cases Nolled

Josephine McDermott, 35 Perry street and Isadore Diamond, 122 Montauk avenue, the latter employed as a truck driver, were tried on charges of violation of the state motor vehicle law, the former being charged with reckless driving and the latter with failing to give signal and not having his driver's license signed. A nolle was ordered in both cases. The pleasure auto the woman was driving and the truck collided last night on Montauk avenue, corner of Orchard street. As each blamed the other for the crash, the woman and man were arrested by Patrolman George Laboue.

Rose, Waterford, trustees of the A. M. E. Zion church. The trustees recently sold the church property, corner of Ocean avenue and Bank street, to the Beaver Oil Co. The new site will be used as a place of worship by the Negroes, for a church will be erected there at once.

Injuries Serious

Michael Finn, elevator man at the Goldsmith building, State street, who was painfully injured yesterday by falling into the elevator shaft, is more seriously hurt than was at first believed. Today Finn was taken to Lawrence-Memorial hospital. Finn, who is a cripple, sustained injuries to his head and back by the fall of about ten feet.

Mrs. Alexander Douglass, of Division street, today made complaint to the police that thieves stole numerous articles of apparel from the clothesline of her home last night.

May Have Punctured Lung

Rosario Sammatara, 9, residing at 564 Bank street, is a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, where his condition is critical because of injuries sustained last night when the boy was struck by an automobile driven by Walter N. Palmer, 24 Pleasant street, employed as engineer on the Thames river highway bridge. The lad is suffering from a possible punctured lung and a fractured leg. The boy had been to a store on Truman street and when returning to his home, started to cross that highway. When midway of the street the boy was struck and hurled to the highway. A passing autoist conveyed the child to the hospital and today it was said that the chances of his recovering are slight.

Victor Stark, employed at the Portland Trawling Co., Groton, was arrested this morning by State Police Officer Donald Brown, charged with violation of the immigration laws. Stark was locked up at police headquarters to await the arrival of a federal officer to take charge of the prisoner.

Automobiles driven by Andrew J. Maynard, 102 Squire street, and Joseph Longo, 41 Shaw street, collided this noon at the corner of Hempstead and Truman streets. Both cars were damaged and as Maynard and Longo both placed the responsibility of the crash upon the other, alleging reckless driving, they were arrested by Detective Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Patrolman Harry Watterson. The drivers will be in court tomorrow.

A large force of city employes is engaged in making repairs to the highway between the tracks of the Connecticut Co., on Montauk avenue. The work has now progressed to a point beyond the overhead bridge of the New Haven railroad.

THIRD BROADCAST INTERFERED BY STORM

danger, he had pickets out. But when he knew the Narragansetts had taken the war-path against him, he assembled as many warriors as he could, not many, according to the best traditions, so few, in fact, that Uncas knew only strategy could save his men. At the head of his small army, he advanced boldly to meet the enemy.

SCHOOLMASTER: In other words, he had to take a chance.

DOCTOR: He took more than one! When he reached the Great Plains, a mile and a half southwest of the Yantic, at Noman's Acre, he learned that the Narragansetts were then crossing the fords of the Yantic, and were pouring down upon him. He halted his men on rising ground, communicated to them his plan of battle. The last word of instruction had scarcely been spoken before the Narragansetts appeared, ready for war.

DOCTOR: Interesting, doctor. I'm getting excited!

SCHOOLMASTER: Uncas sent forward a warrior, with a request for a parley. It was granted. And Uncas and Miantonomoh came forward, and met, between the two armies of Indians. Uncas proposed a personal combat between the two sachems.

SCHOOLMASTER: Heard of it before, very rarely among Indian tribes.

DOCTOR: Uncas reasoned it out in this fashion. "Let us two fight it out. If you kill me, my men shall be yours. If I kill you, your men shall be mine."

SCHOOLMASTER: It sounds fair enough!

DOCTOR: Miantonomoh didn't think so. He was suspicious. He replied that his men had come to fight and that they were going to fight. At that, Uncas gave the signal and his men, lying behind him, with arrows in bent-bows, let fly. Under the cover of this barrage of arrows, they leaped up and into the Narragansetts, tomahawks flying, with Uncas at their head.

SCHOOLMASTER: Poor tactics, docotor! They should have been wiped out!

DOCTOR: But they weren't! The Narragansetts had been standing at ease, awaiting the result of the conference. They made a feeble attempt at resistance, then went into a panic. And there's no stopping Indians in a panic. They turned and ran.

SCHOOLMASTER: Uncas got the breaks, then. That wouldn't work once out of a hundred times.

DOCTOR: I imagine it was a scene without parallel in the history of the country, if not in the world. Six hundred Indians in a blind frenzy, sweeping like a whirlwind over the hills, regardless of tangled forests, rushing torrents, or deep ravines, pursued by a small band of howling Mohegans, possibly a hundred in all.

SCHOOLMASTER: Hardly seems possible. But if it's history!

DOCTOR: The flight led across the Yantic shoals below Noman's Acre, and through what is now Norwich, over the high-ridge of Ox Hill, and on toward the fords of the Shetucket, above the mouth of the Quinnabaug.

SCHOOLMASTER: And there was no attempt to rally, to turn and make a stand!

DOCTOR: None whatever! The Narragansetts were most thoroughly routed. One of the Mohegan captains, a swift runner, singled out Miantonomoh, caught up with him, kept beside him, threw himself against the sachem repeatedly, to hinder his progress until Uncas could come up and make the capture.

SCHOOLMASTER: Considerate!

DOCTOR: The moment Uncas touched his shoulder, Miantonomoh stopped. Uncas, after waiting for a word from the Narragansett, asked him why he did not speak. Uncas reminded Miantonomoh that had the day gone in the opposite way, he would have asked Miantonomoh to spare his life. Miantonomoh refused to ask for mercy.

SCHOOLMASTER: The Narragansetts should have had more Miantonomohs in the ranks.

DOCTOR: The battle was soon over. All told, the pursuit covered a distance of about six miles. Later, Miantonomoh was executed by Uncas, but that's a story of itself.

SCHOOLMASTER: But what of the square memorial?

DOCTOR: That stands on the spot, as near as we can determine, where Uncas captured Miantonomoh by touching him on the shoulder.

SCHOOLMASTER: Oh, but why should the place be marked with a memorial?

DOCTOR: Well, there's a bit of sentiment attached to the spot. It stood in those days near a trail used much by Indians. When a Mohegan passed, he tossed a stone on the spot, with a yell of triumph. A Narragansett, passing by, tossed a stone with a wail of sorrow. In that way, both victor and vanquished built a memorial.

SCHOOLMASTER: It must have been some stone-pile. What happened to it?

DOCTOR: Carted away, I suppose, disappeared naturally when the country was cleaned up. That square memorial you see there now is a gift of the white race, to replace the one left there by the Indians.

SCHOOLMASTER: Very well thought of, doctor.

DOCTOR: And besides, we mustn't forget it's a historical spot. The monument was erected in 1842. The school children helped out with the dedication. And when you stop to think of it, why shouldn't the white race honor old Miantonomoh, too!

SCHOOLMASTER: I was about to ask the same question, yes, why not? He was a brave man. And we should honor a brave man, white or red, or any color, wherever we find him!

DOCTOR: Been over on Bean Hill yet, professor?

SCHOOLMASTER: Do you know how that hill got its name?

DOCTOR: I know there's a story or legend in connection, but I couldn't tell you what it is.

SCHOOLMASTER: The story goes that a group of tired and hungry prospectors, passing over the hill, found pots of beans buried in the earth. The story doesn't tell whether the beans were cooked or not. But the prospectors made good use of the find, and in honor of the beans named the hill, Bean Hill. That's a story I picked up yesterday.

DOCTOR: You'd better drop it today, then. I guess if the truth were known, the place was named Bean Hill because of the superior quality of beans that can be grown there. As you know, New England holds the humble bean second only to its aristocracy.

SCHOOLMASTER: And brown bread! By the way, doctor, do you know that the brown bread and baked beans of Norwich are in a class apart?

DOCTOR: That is my private opinion, sir, but I've kept it to myself for years. That's very close to treason, professor! You wouldn't dare make such a remark outside of Norwich.

SCHOOLMASTER: I have it on good authority. In 1819, one of your citizens made the journey from Cleveland to Pittsburg in a Conestoga wagon, through the wilderness. One Saturday night, the wagon stopped at a settlement of five or six log cabins with one frame house bearing the sign: "Entertainment."

DOCTOR: Entertainment, eh? for man and beast! In 1819? I don't envy him his journey.

SCHOOLMASTER: The man from Norwich stepped into the house of entertainment, a tavern of sorts. The family was just sitting down to the Saturday night supper. The centerpiece on the rough table was a big dish of baked beans. At one side, stood a plate of brown bread, steaming!

DOCTOR: Careful, professor, it's a long way to breakfast!

SCHOOLMASTER: The man from Norwich stood in the doorway for a moment, halted by astonishment. He surveyed the baked beans, browned to the traditional Norwich shade.

DOCTOR: Don't linger over this, professor.

SCHOOLMASTER: He gazed at the brown bread and sniffed. In the air hung the fragrance and appetizing odor inseparable from Norwich brown bread. Then he lifted his hat and spoke to the lady of the house. "Madam," he said, "have you heard from Norwich recently? I hope they are all well."

DOCTOR: Oh, come now, professor!

SCHOOLMASTER: The woman's eye-brows went up half an inch. She rose and smiled. "Come in," she said, "My daughter Susan heard from Norwich last week, and they are all well."

DOCTOR: I won't doubt you, professor. You might take it as a compliment. But I still stick to my original theory. Beans, and beans only, are memorialized in the name of Bean Hill. For the same reason that mountain laurel gave its name to Laurel Hill.

SCHOOLMASTER: I like the flower of mountain laurel. And mountain laurel is one of the few things in Connecticut you Yankees haven't been able to put to any use.

DOCTOR: Haven't we! The mountain laurel is our state flower.

SCHOOLMASTER: That's what I call thrift. And say, doctor, speaking about thrift. I dropped in at the Norwich Savings Society the other day.

DOCTOR: That's an old institution, professor, more than a hundred years old, and the second savings institution to be organized in the state of Connecticut.

SCHOOLMASTER: We learn something each day. I was told that the idea of mutual savings institutions originated in the fertile brain of Daniel Defoe, author of Robinson Crusoe.

DOCTOR: You should see the list of founders of that institution! Almost all of the long-established families of Norwich are represented.

SCHOOLMASTER: It's odd, though, doctor. At the start, the society opened its door only twice a month, and then only for two hours. Imagine waiting two weeks to put money into safe-keeping.

DOCTOR: Let's see, 1824, Norwich was then a town of about 4,000 population.

SCHOOLMASTER: The first deposit was made by a woman, Dorcas Mansfield, she put in $300.

DOCTOR: That was the limit the society would take. And in the more than one hundred years of its existence, the society has failed to declare a dividend but once, a semi-annual dividend back in 1843, a bad year for the country. But in 1847, the society declared an extra dividend to make up the omissions.

SCHOOLMASTER: You should hear some of the stories of accounts which have been opened, and then forgotten. The society has 27 such sleeping accounts. One of them, the Eliza Clark acount, has been on the books since 1833. Eliza deposited $5 in 1833, and $235.23 is waiting for its owner.

DOCTOR: All hail the power of compound interest! How money grows if one lets it lay!

SCHOOLMASTER: But their classical account is that of John Higgins, a railroad laborer, who deposited $116.40 in 1836. It has grown to $5,427.36 still waiting for the heirs of John Higgins.

DOCTOR: Now that you mention it, professor, I recall that I am distantly related. I'll call on the Norwich Savings society tomorrow and collect.

SCHOOLMASTER: What'll you do with it? take a trip to Europe?

DOCTOR: I'll do better than that. I'll deposit it in the Norwich Savings society, and stay in town. It's more convenient and more satisfying.

SCHOOLMASTER: I suppose the old-fashioned bon-fire has about seen its day, or its night, in this section.

DOCTOR: Yes, the old-fashioned bon-fire is out, but not forever, I hope. In the old days, Thanksgiving wasn't Thanksgiving without a bon-fire on the Plains, for a suitable finish to the holiday.

DOCTOR: Why, say, professor, a bon-fire over on the Plains used to light up this whole valley! And how they used to make them! First, a high pole set in the ground. Then barrels, a hundred of them, painted with tar, piled up in a pyramid around the pole. She'd burn for an hour or more!

SCHOOLMASTER: What a spectacle it must have been, doctor! Ah, well, the world changes. Where are the old training-days of the militia? Where are the sleighing parties? The tripe suppers? The husking-bees? The barn-raisings? And that old fashioned classic, where friends were friends and neighbors were neighbors, the turtle supper! I'd be willing to trade a week of 1930 for a day of 1830.

DOCTOR: Who wouldn't! One day among old times, old friends, old pleasures, old music!

SCHOOLMASTER: Speaking about turtle-suppers, doctor, in the Norwich Packet of 1779, there is an advertisement, some lady lost a brown camulet riding-hood at a turtle-supper given by Mathew Leffingwell. I've often wondered if she ever found it.

DOCTOR: Speaking about turtle-suppers, professor, I think breakfast is ready. Shall we retire to the dining-room?

SCHOOLMASTER: Lead on, doctor, lead on!

ANNOUNCER: The program to which you have just listened, ladies and gentlemen, was a presentation of the Merchants Bureau, chamber of commerce, Norwich, Connecticut, "The Rose of New England." Exceptionally fine water-power in the immediate neighborhood of the city, has given great impetus to the development of industry here. Among the lines of manufacture for which Norwich is famous are textiles, boilers and radiators, thermos bottles, firearms and leather goods. Nearly 100 manufacturing plants produce a most diversified list of products, known and used in the four corners of the earth.

Many of the old colonial homes have been preserved and are objects of great historical interest. Its maples and elms are famous, many of them dating back to the days of the Revolution.

The chamber of commerce wishes again to remind you that no tour through Connecticut is complete without a visit to Norwich, "The Rose of New England," and the surrounding country. They offer you the hospitality of the city, and invite you to be present next week, at the same time, for the fourth program of the Doctor and his friend, the Schoolmaster. 'Til then, they bid you "good-night."

COLCHESTER FOREST FIRE STARTS NEAR DEEP RIVER RESERVOIR PROPERTY

(Special to The Bulletin)

COLCHESTER, May 2—About 75 acres of brush and meadow land located between the Norwich Deep River reservoir property and the Schiller's summer hotel property on the Colchester-Norwich turnpike was burned over this afternoon. The blaze is understood to have started between 10 and 11 o'clock this morning but District Warden John M. Riley of Colchester was not notified until 2:30 this afternoon. Warden Riley with Deputy Wardens Charles A. Kramer and Elmer H. Foote at once hastened to the fire with a force of 30 volunteers. It was found that the blaze had started a short distance east of the reservoir dam and was burning steadily northward through the brush and meadow and towards the Colchester-Norwich highway. The fire jumped the Scott Hill cross road and after a hard fight with hand pumps the men finally succeeded in checking the blaze at the edge of Schiller's golf course about a quarter of a mile from the old Jerry Stark corner on the Norwich turnpike. At 8:30 tonight the fire had been extinguished, but Warden Riley had two men patrolling the section until late in the evening to make sure of no fresh outbreak. The wooden planking on two bridges was burned so badly that replacements will be needed. Warden Riley has not as yet made a definite checkup as to any other damage done by the blaze.

Over 675 mothers and daughters attended the annual mother and daughter banquet held Friday evening at the Masonic temple under the auspices of the Norwich Council of Girl Workers. The decorations were yellow and orange and spring flowers, furnished by Otto F. Ernst, and orange candles graced the tables. MISS LUDINGTON LEADS DISARMAMENT OPPOSITION

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 2—(AP)—From a bitter convention floor battle on blanket support of naval disarmament, the League of Women Voters tonight turned to gayety, pageantry and birthday candle lighting—a fete to the 19 national honor roll pioneers present to celebrate ten years of suffrage.

Hardest fought of today's problems was a measure making direct link for the first time between an international disarmament programme and national disarmament measures in their support.

By a vote of 115 to 79, the measure won through in face of committing the league, as a working organization, to support "international reduction of expenditures for war, and national measures related to such international reduction treaties."

This would cover cruiser bills, as well as the London disarmament treaties, for which a "hearty support" resolution will be considered on the floor tomorrow.

Miss Katherine Ludington of Lyme, Conn., first vice president of the league, led the strong opposition, contending that the convention should not put the league "into the vanguard" unless they are willing to pay the cost of so "highly specific" a measure which should, she said, have further "thinking through."

ZEPPELIN STAMPS SHOWN IN BOSTON STORE WINDOW

The newly issued set of air mail stamps designed and issued by the United States to commemorate the Zeppelin's new Pan-American air trip from Fredericksbafen, Germany, has been received in Norwich and is now on exhibition in the Boston Store windows. The set consists of three values, one of 65c, another of $1.30, and the last of $2.60 is to be used for the round trip over the whole route that takes in Seville, Spain, and then hop off for Pernambuco and Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, and then to Lakehurst, N. J., from where it will return to Germany.

WATERBURY MAN'S BLACK CURRANT BUSHES TO GO

John McLean of Waterbury will lose 30 cultivated European black currant bushes in the state's campaign for control of the fatal white pine blister rust. This particular currant will carry infection a mile and is the most dangerous factor in spreading the rust. A recent statute forbids growing it in Connecticut.

Mr. McLean's father, who died recently, brought the bushes over from Scotland 18 years ago. The berry is highly prized for jams and jellies in Europe; it is not so widely grown in the United States.

When Mr. McLean read newspaper accounts of the law, which went into effect April 1, he wrote the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment station reporting his bushes. J. E. Bailey, Jr., in charge of the control work, went to Waterbury and identified them as the condemned species.

RELIEF CORPS PRESENTS FLAG TO GIRL SCOUTS

An American flag was donated by the Woman's Relief Corps, Sedgwick post, G. A. R., to St. Patrick's Girls Scouts at an enthusiastic meeting held in the assembly hall of St. Patrick's church at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon. Mrs. James Dutton, councilor of St. Patrick's Girls Scouts, introduced Mrs. E. Grace Fowler, patriotic instructor of the Woman's Relief Corps, who made the presentation in a most fitting manner.

Miss Katherine Farrell, captain of Troop 6, expressed appreciation of the gift on behalf of the troop. Speeches were also made by Mrs. Iola Bjurstrom, president of the Woman's Relief Corps, and two charter members, Mrs. Lydia Perkins and Mrs. John Irish. The ceremonial was concluded by the furling of the flag by the color bearers while the Girls Scouts and visitors sang the Star Spangled Banner. The Girls Scouts formed a receiving line for guests and stood in the ceremonial formation during the exercises.

H. J. GIBBS WILL ATTEND R. R. TELEGRAPHERS' CONVENTION

Hermon J. Gibbs, station agent for the Central Vermont railroad at Yantic, is to leave Monday morning to attend the national convention of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers, which is to be held this year at Los Angeles, Cal. He will be accompanied by his daughter, Miss Marion Gibbs, and by Miss Rosalie E. Matassa of 12 East Town street, who is to visit her brother in Los Angeles.

Upon reaching St. Louis they will have a day in that city and from there to the Pacific coast the trip will be by special train that will visit a number of points of interest. These will include Pueblo, Colorado Springs, Salt Lake City and San Francisco, before reaching the convention city on Sunday, May 11.

The telegraphers' convention will occupy two weeks in Los Angeles and Mr. Gibbs and his daughter will be home about the first of June. Miss Matassa will remain in Los Angeles for two weeks after they leave, visiting her brother for about a month.

1,255 Dogs Licensed

There were 1,255 dogs whose owners got them under the wire in time to have them licensed at the town clerk's office without paying the extra dollar for being late. As there are about 1,450 dogs in all to be licensed this indicates that there will be about 200 dogs for which owners will have to pay a dollar extra to secure the brass license tag.

FOUND DEAD IN BED AT TAFTVILLE BOARDING HOUSE

Albin Doraud, about 60, a cotton mill worker, was found dead in bed at the Ponemah mill boarding house Friday morning by a chambermaid who went to the room when he had not appeared. Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve rendered a verdict of death by alcoholism. Undertaker G. G. Grant took charge of the body.

Nothing could be learned about any relatives of the man, but Coroner E. G. McKay learned he had worked in the mill for some time until he had accumulated $375, when he laid off and deposited the money with the boarding house keeper. He drew his last $10 Monday and his credit would have been exhausted by the end of this week.

TAFTVILLE

REV. J. R. DANFORTH, SPEAKER AT MEN'S CLUB MEETING

The members of the Men's club of the Taftville Congregational church enjoyed an appetizing supper Thursday evening at the church vestry. There were about 50 in attendance. Divine blessing was invoked by Rev. William Penner, pastor of the church. The menu: Meat and potato pie, string beans, celery, olives, rolls, apple pie a la mode and coffee. The committee in charge consisted of Robert B. Schmidt, Allan Bogle, Albert J. Aberg, Adam Heinrich and Albert Airey. Clarence J. Nagle had charge of the serving of the spread.

After supper, the business meeting was called to order by the president, Albert Airey, and the reports of the last meeting were read by the secretary and treasurer, Robert E. Cooper. It was voted to defer the club meetings until fall. After other routine business matters had been disposed of Mr. Airey introduced Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ, Congregational, of New London, as the speaker of the evening.

Rev. Mr. Danforth, taking for his topic "Points" because as he said, it was a subject that he could not wander very far from, began by telling of his early life in Nebraska, where he held his first pastorate after his graduation from theological seminary. His highly interesting talk was interspersed with bits of humor, greatly appreciated by his hearers.

By way of illustration, the speaker exhibited an Indian spear head, an arrow head and a German machine gun cartridge which had been brought back from the French front after the war by a New London boy who had presented it to him. Rev Mr. Danforth called attention to the fact that all the projectiles were pointed and that they had but one point. They were made, he said, to go somewhere and to do something when they got there. The only difference between them was the force which drove them, and he likened them to a man's life, saying that man should have a definite purpose in life, and a main thought which would go, somewhere and do something when it got there. Again he compared the single purpose of a person's life to the keel of a ship, explaining how the steering of a vessel would be impossible unless it had a straight and even keel. The keel should be the main purpose underlying man's life, and the ribs, which on a ship come down and fasten firmly into the keel, should be the minor purposes and thoughts in life.

At the conclusion of the talk, the speaker was warmly applauded and the members gave him a rising vote of thanks.

Oneseme Doron of Norwich avenue leaves this week for Windsor Mills, P. Q., Canada to visit his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Leadore Paquette and family, former Taftville residents, for the coming two months.

Alphonse Paquette and his daughter, Miss Mary Paquette, of South A street are spending several weeks with relatives in Canada

ECONOMISTS ASK HOOVER TO VETO THE TARIFF BILL

More Than 1,000 Professors, Representing 179 Colleges, Have Joined In Sending Letter to President Hoover—They Maintain That "Increased Restrictive Duties Would Be a Mistake" and Would Increase the Cost of Living—Contend That Higher Tariffs Would Inject Bitterness Into Our International Relations — Export Debenture and the Flexible Clause Were Voted Down In the House.

WASHINGTON, May 4.—(AP)—More than 1,000 economists representing 179 colleges throughout the country joined in a letter to President Hoover and the congress today protesting against enactment of the tariff bill and asking that it be vetoed if passed.

The Hawley-Smoot measure, the conference report on which will be taken up in the senate after the Parker nomination is disposed of this week, also was the target for a statement by Representative Collier, democrat, Mississippi, who said the bill left the house yesterday carrying the "highest rates of any bill ever enacted by the American congress."

Dr. Clair Wilcox, associate professor of economics at Swarthmore college, presented the statement on behalf of the economists, who included Irving Fisher, Yale; Frank W. Taussig, Harvard; Frank A. Fetter, Princeton; Wesley C. Mitchell, Columbia; Henry R. Seager, Columbia; J. Lauwrence Laughlin, Chicago; Willford I. King, New York university; M. B. Hammond, Ohio State; E. M. Patterson, University of Pennsilvania; Emory R. Johnson, dean of Wharton school, Pennsylvania; and H. S. Person, managing director, Taylor society.

The statement expressed the conviction on the part of the signers that "increased restrictive duties would be a mistake," and would increase the cost of living and injure the great majority of our citizens.

Few people could hope to gain from such a change, the statement said, adding that the vast majority of the farmers would lose, American export trade in general would suffer, and unemployment would not be lessened.

"Finally," it concluded, "we would urge our government to consider the bitterness which a policy of higher tariffs would inevitably inject into our international relations."

It was contended the pending bill violated the spirit of the world economic conference agreement of 1927 in which the United States was represented, and which resolved to discourage higher tariffs and to "move in the opposite direction."

Collier, a member of the ways and means committee, asserted all the 15 rate schedules have been materially increased over existing law.

"The congress was called primarily for the benefit of agriculture," he said, "and while in most instances the rates on agricultural products were immaterial and the rates have been raised, yet the real substantial raises have all been on manufactures of steel, cotton, wool, flax, hemp, jute, and rayon."

Republican leaders hope to send the Hawley-Smoot measure to the white house in a week or ten days. The senate must yet act on the conference report and instruct its conferees on the provisions stil lin disagreement through adverse house action.

Of the eight major amendments unsettled by the conferees and voted upon last week by the house, six are still subject to change by senate action, including the silver and lumber rates, the Blease cement amendment, and the export debenture, flexible clause, and tariff commission reorganization provisions. The house rejected the senate amendments touching all of these, but finally settled the sugar and shingles disputes by accepting 2 cents on the former and the free list for the latter.

In turning down the export debenture and the flexible clause withdrawing presidential authority to make emergency rate changes the house supported President Hoover in both instances. Representative Tilson, Connecticut, the house majority leader, expressed the opinion that the executive would not sign a bill with the debenture plan in it.

Republican chiefs in both houses are confident the debenture is definitely out of the bill and that a compromise on the flexible provision retaining in the president the right to raise or lower duties within a limit of 50 per cent will be worked out in conference.

PARKER'S FRIENDS TO TAKE OFFENSIVE IN THE SENATE

WASHINGTON, May 4—(AP)—Facing an uphill contest for votes, friends of Judge John J. Parker, of North Carolina, prepared today to take the offensive tomorrow in the senate debate in a final effort to win his confirmation as a member of the supreme court.

There was no apparent change over the week-end in the line-up, the foes still claiming victory and the proponents still working for a majority.

Senators Waterman, republican, Colorado, and Stephens, democrat, Mississippi, two members of the judiciary committee which voted 10 to 6 against Parker, will take up the Parker cause tomorrow and several others, including Senators Allen, republican, Kansas, and Jones, republican, Washington, are in line to follow up the attack.

The president is represented as taking a most active part in the drive for votes and the Parker foes expressed alarm today that his efforts might upset their calculations.

She was a pioneer in the movement for sanitary and comfortable working conditions for laborers. Through her efforts domestic economy was introduced into German schools and her cookbook still is a classic for German kitchens.

His speech was no sooner ended than excited crowds outside the theatre began to fight, and the fighting became general in the streets nearby. Mounted and foot police, charging several times, finally re-established order amid great excitement and made some arrests.

Annual Warfare On Summer Mosquito

NEW HAVEN, May 4.—(AP)—The Connecticut Agricultural Experiment station has begun its annual warfare on the summer mosquito.

Old Lyme, under the supervision of the station, is digging 200,000 feet of ditches to drain off her salt marsh areas. These marshlands of 1,393 acres constitute one of the largest breeding grounds of the pest in the state. Last year the town spent $5,000 in elimination measures and a like sum was appropriated for the work this year.

Hamden recently completed ditches through her entire area of salt marshes, 571 acres. The appropriation was $5,000.

The experiment station, which is charged by law with misquito control, this spring and summer will clean every mosquito ditch from Greenwich to Stonington in towns that do not provide their own maintenance. Fewer than half a dozen maintain their ditches. Lack of appropriations has prevented such extensive work by the station until this year.

LAW ENFORCEMENT TO HAVE ATTENTION OF CONGRESS

WASHINGTON, May 4—(AP)—As both branches of congress planned to give attention this week to the law enforcement commission's proposals to strengthen prohibition enforcement, Representative Laguardia, republican, New York, today assailed the program urged by President Hoover in a recent message to congress as "impossible of execution."

Nothing to date shows the impossibility of prohibition enforcement more than the recommendations of the Wickersham commission endorsed by the president."

In that connection, however, the senate juriciary committee will meet tomorrow to consider reporting for passage the Williamson bill to transfer prohibition enforcement from the treasury to the justice department, one of the most important items in the commission's program. It previously passed the house.

On the other side of the capitol, the house judiciary committee plans to respond to the chief executive's appeal to expedite action on other commission proposals Tuesday. A decision on whether the Christopherson bills to authorize juryless trials before United States commissioners or the Bachmann bills to increase the number of federal judges as a solution to federal court congestion is to be reached at that time.

Fire companies were called from all neighboring cities and towns in New Hampshire and Massachusetts and late in the afternoon three companies of militia were called out to aid firemen and police in the fire area.

While an unconfirmed rumor circulated that three women had been burned to death, Mayor Sullivan called together at city hall a meeting of the city's business men to make plans for the care of the homeless. One thousand cots were immediately ordered.

Co. E of the National guard was called out to aid police and firemen, who were called from Manchester, Lowell, and Lawrence, Mass., and several other places.

The flames swept with such rapidity through the houses that piles of furniture carried into the street became lines of bonfires between smoking ruins and still standing chimneys.

Spreading out in a fan-like shape from the bridge where the trouble started, the fire finally reached the extreme edge of the city and jumped into a pine grove beyond which stood the Nashua Country club house.

FOREST FIRES ON LONG AND STATEN ISLAND

NEW YORK, May 4—(AP)—High winds that drove flames rapidly through tinder-like underbrush today balked efforts to stamp out raging brush fires in the metropolitan area.

VOLUNTOWN AND SALEM HAVE SMALLER POPULATIONS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 4.—The completed reports of five more towns of the third census district were filed at the office of Supervisor Otto B. Robinson here Saturday, three of them having suffered losses while the other two gained in population since 1920.

The towns: Chaplin, Windham county, 415 persons in 1930; 365 in 1920, a gain of 80. There were 52 farms registered.

Chester, Middlesex county, 1,429 in 1930 as against 1,675 in 1920, a loss of 246. There were 31 farms.

East Hampton, Middlesex county, 2,612 as compared with 2,394 in 1920, a gain of 218; number of farms, 85.

Salem, New London county, 404 persons in 1930 as against 424 in 1920, a loss of 20. There are 56 farms in the town.

Voluntown, New London county, 651 as compared to a population of 656 in 1920. Voluntown, which has 61 farms, therefore shows a loss of five persons in ten years.

The vital statistics for the month of March show that the birth rate for that period was quite low, there being but 20 births. With the Lenten season falling during the month of March, marriages were scarce, only three being recorded. There were 15 deaths, also a comparatively low figure for March.

The traffic signal at Lincoln square was given considerable of a twist about 2:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon when it was struck by a gasoline truck operated by Thomas Hennessey, of Attleboro, Mass., and owned by the Gulf Refining Co. The truck was following a machine operated by William A. Wolfe of South Coventry. The leading car turned around at the traffic signal and in order to avoid striking the rear of that machine the truck driver swung into the silent cop. The trucker said he would arrange for a settlement of damages, in reporting the accident to Officer Albert Montie.

Someone with a perverted sense of humor or suffering from a false sense of police authority has caused annoyance to automobile drivers on the Mansfield highway out of the city by sounding a police whistle as cars pass on the dark road. The police were notified of this Friday night and a run was made to the scene in the police car, the party including Mayor Walter R. King and County Detective Rowe H. Wheeler. The party with the police whistle evidently had no regard for the conspicuous lettering on the sedan which announces that the car is that of the Willimantic police department, for the official party was signalled. The responsible party is believed to have been seen and an effort is being made to locate the man answering the description.

TO LEVY TAX TONIGHT AT SPECIAL CITY MEETING

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 4.—It was indicated today that motions would be presented at the special city meeting to be held in the town building Monday night for the levying of an 11-mill tax on the grand list of 1929. The grand list, as corrected by the board of relief, amounts to $20,982,327 and the city administrative heads have signified that an 11-mill tax, plus other sources of income, would be sufficient to meet the budget of $258,603, including the recent $3,000 appropriation for repairs to the footbridge. Despite the special appropriation the budget remains $42,000 lower than that for last year. An 11-mill tax will bring in $230,805.60 if collected 100 per cent, leaving a balance of $27,799.40 to be met with miscellaneous income.

In a judge it's Character

in a cigarette it's Taste

WHAT INTEGRITY is to a public official, taste is to a cigarette—the one quality that wins and holds public confidence and esteem.

ON TASTE AND TASTE ALONE, Chesterfield continues to gain smokers, both men and women. Chesterfields are mild—not strong or harsh—yet they have richness of flavor and aroma. They are not insipid or tasteless.

WITNESS THE STEADY GROWTH in the popularity of Chesterfield—a popularity which proves that with smokers, as with us, it's "TASTE above everything".

DANIELSON

KILLINGLY HIGH SCHOOL THREATENED BY FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, May 4.—Killingly high school, representing an investment in excess of a quarter of a million dollars, was endangered by fire when the adjoining home of Kent A. Darbie was badly damaged this morning in one of the worst residential fires the borough has experienced in several years.

It was just before 9 a. m., when Stephen Major, resident in a cottage on High street in the rear of the Darbie home, which is on Broad street, saw flames burst from the roof of his neighbor's house. He rushed out and pulled in an alarm from Box 53.

The response of the firemen was prompt, but the fire, fed by a high northwest wind, was billowing and swirling and threatening all sorts of dire results before water from adjacent hydrants could be turned on. And then—the water pressure just wasn't there. Feeble streams coming out of the nozzles just arched up a matter of 15 feet or so—and flopped.

Meanwhile the near gale was driving the blaze against the north side of the high school building, scarcely 30 feet removed from the burning structure, a two and one-half story frame building. While that newly-constructed section of the high school building is fireproof, there was the danger that the extreme heat would break out the windows of the school and gain access to the interior of the building. There were anxious moments until the big pumper was connected up to supply the necessary water pressure for them to do efficient work. Without the pumper one may only imagine what might have happened.

Several hundred people watched the firemen battle under the handicap of high wind and an unavoidably belated start of getting water on the blaze, which raged for nearly an hour before it was extinguished. In the course of that time the roof of the building was practically eaten up by the flames and the interior had been deluged with tons of water.

In the absence of Chief A. P. Woodward, who is ill, Deputy Chief C. A. Hamilton directed the efforts of the firemen, and spared himself nothing either in risk or energy. At one period of the fire he emerged from a window on the second floor to issue directions to his men on the ground and for a time was blotted out of sight as those who watched saw flame and smoke swirl about him. He was in one place where the average man would not care to be.

Estimates of the loss varied between $[illegible],500 and $5,000 this afternoon, and it is only partly covered by insurance. The roof and upper floor section of the home is just about a total loss. On the lower and second floors, the damage is largely by water, but heavy. Practically nothing, excepting some clothing, was removed from the home.

Mr. Darbie, owner of the home, was painfully burned about the head and neck while engaged in some salvage work, and had to be led away during the height of the fire. He was about later, however, checking over the damage.

Mr. and Mrs. Darbie occupied the lower part of the house. Mr. and Mrs. William P. Perkins have an apartment on the second floor, while on the third floor Mrs. Frederick Princeton and her son, Robert, were resident. Mrs. Princeton is the daughter of Mr. Darbie. Her home was completely gutted.

The high school building escaped without damage, though never before has it been so seriously threatened.

A number of citizens who watched the fire at the K. A. Darbie home on Broad street this morning considered the question: "Just what would Danielson do if two fires like the one mentioned should happen at the same time in widely separated sections of the borough?" The answer generally agreed upon was, "Not much of anything." And out of that thought came the proposition that the borough should purchase another pumper. At the present time Danielson has all of its eggs in one basket, insofar as taking the chance that two fires cannot occur here simultaneously. It might happen; it has happened. Without the lone pumper the borough possesses it might have lost a costly high school building this morning, and, it was pointed out, the pumper paid for itself this morning in protecting the high school, not to mention all the other fine service it has rendered. There are citizens who believe that the borough can afford, and should buy, one more piece of modern fire apparatus. They contend it would be like putting money in the bank—insofar as protection of property losses by fire is concerned. Today Danielson is betting altogether too much, citizens who talked about the matter this morning say, on the chance that one gasoline-driven engine—the pumper's—will always work. If that motor had failed this morning there would have been a real calamity, for the hydrant pressure was utterly inadequate to take care of the situation.

The report of Miriam Boomhower, visiting nurse of the Civic federation for the month of April, shows that 17 cases were carried over from the preceding month, that six new cases came to her attention, that five were discharged and that one died during the period. At the close of the month, 17 persons remained under care. During April the number of paying patients was 10, the number of free patients 13. Miss Boomhower made 93 nursing visits during April and eight advisory visits. Money received from patients amounted to $31.20.

There were 91 medical patients during the month and one obstetrical patient. In addition to her other work, Miss Boomhower made 17 social service visits. One of her visits was to the town farm, where there were 20 inmates. Dr. Hugh Campbell of Norwich held his monthly chest clinic here April 26.

Relief given during the month included the distribution of 72 garments, 13 pairs of shoes, five hats, toys, quantities of old linen. Contributions of clothing were received from Mrs. Irving W. Davis, Mrs. Oliver F. Downs, Barbara Tillinghast, Mrs. Charles Brooks, and old linen was received from Mrs. C. H. Barber, Miss Carrie Fellows, Miss Emma F. Pilling, Mrs. Sidney Stone, and others who did not append their names to the packages sent in.

The edict against starting fires in the open remains in force. All permits remain canceled. A heavy thunder shower at 11 o'clock Friday night, the first rain in a fortnight in this area, did no more than lay the dust. The most dangerous condition of the spring season, as to the possibility of grass and forest fires getting underway, exists. Today was especially dangerous, because of the high wind and the many careless people riding along the highways and throwing, in too many instances, lighted matches and cigarettes out of their cars. Fire wardens were on the alert today for any fire that might break out.

PUTNAM

ALEXANDER GILMAN IS NAMED ROTARY PRESIDENT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, May 4.—Alexander Gilman, business man, trustee of the Day Kimball hospital and for the past year vice president of the Putnam Rotary club, at a meeting of the recently appointed board of directors held Friday evening, in the commercial offices of the Southern New England Telephone company, was elected president of the club, to succeed Subbo Nickoloff, retiring executive of the organization.

Ray C. Bosworth succeeds Mr. Gilman as vice president. Other officers of the club elected at this meeting were: Arthur F. Hughes, treasurer of the Putnam Savings bank, secretary, and Warren W. Averill, president of the Putnam Music Shop, Inc., treasurer. Mr. Averill was re-elected.

Manager E. Leslie Beebe of the telephone exchange here will retire as secretary of Rotary in July, when the newly elected slate of officials are installed in office. During the past two years Mr. Beebe has proven himself a capable and efficient secretary and his refusal to accept another term was regretted by the directors at the gathering Friday.

In naming Mr. Gilman president, the directors made an excellent selection. Besides his business affiliations and his association with the board of trustees of the hospital, Mr. Gilman is a representative of the Citizens National bank. He is active in community boys' work and is an ardent supporter of the chamber of commerce, taking a leading part in every worthwhile enterprise promoted for the benefit of his city.

Mr. Bosworth, the new vice president of Rotary, like Mr. Gilman, is engaged in business here and is a member of the board of trustees of the Day Kimball hospital. His interests are centered in boys' welfare work, and in this endeavor of Rotary he has played a leading role.

Secretary Hughes is one of the newer members of the local Rotary club. Since coming to Putnam he has taken an interest in the community and his election to the post of secretaryship of the club is the result of his efforts to stimulate new life in the circles of younger boys of the city. Mr. Hughes is a popular executive in Putnam's financial circles and is well qualified to relieve Mr. Beebe of his present duties upon his retirement in July.

The new executive staff of the club will be installed in office at an early meeting to be held [illegible] July. Arrangements for the installation ceremonies will be made at a later date, upon the appointment of a committee for this work.

The apparatus at the Central station in Union square responded to a call at 2.15 p. m. today for a chimney fire in a tenement block at 14 Mohegan street. The fire was quickly extinguished. Deputy Alphonse Dumas was in charge of the work of the firemen.

There is a movement under way to realize funds which will be expended in providing uniforms for musicians holding membership in the Putnam High School band. The drive, which has not as yet been officially launched, has received the endorsement of the town school committee and it is hoped that it will be met with public favor.

Nelson Frink, director and organizer of the band, who is instructor of instrumental music work at the Israel Putnam and high schools said today that the band will make its initial appearance by taking part in the public exercises for the observance of Memorial day on May 30th, if there is an existing possibility of the members being equipped with uniforms and other necessary paraphenalia in due time.

The high school band, as it is known, is composed of 25 musicians, representative of the student bodies at P. H. S. and at Israel Putnam school. The student players are well trained and their ability is a credit to the schools and to the town.

Major E. L. Darbie of Danielson, commanding special troops of the 43rd Div., and staff, Captain John J. McGarry, commanding officer of the headquarters company, 43rd Div., of this city, Lieut. The change of officers' beats became effective this morning.

An error occurred in this column Friday morning when it was stated that the Elks' annual ladies' night would be held Wednesday evening, May 14. As a matter of fact the social event of the fraternal organization wil take place in the Elks' lodge rooms Thursday evening, May 15. Following a supper, the couples will retire to the state armory on Harris street, where dancing is to be held. Ladies' night is not a public event. Only members of Elkdom and their ladies will be eligible to attend.

An item contained in Special Orders No. 50, issued this week by the adjutant general's office of the national guard is the granting of a leave of absence from May 9 to May 16 inclusive, to Captain E. Greene, of Danielson, of the headquarters of special troops of the 43rd division. Permission to leave the state is also granted Captain Greene in the order.

He is a graduate of Putnam high school, class of 1928 and in September of this year, will enter Holy Cross college, Worcester.

Charles Burzch and his son, Edward, aged 16, both of this city, were found guilty of a charge of assault by Judge Archibald Macdonald, Jr., in city court Saturday afternoon. The father paid a fine of $5 and costs of court, while charges against the son were dismissed upon payment of costs.

Both were arrested Friday evening by Sergt. A. J. Spoonce of the local police after a complaint had been entered against them by John Tuburski of Park street, who alleged that Burzsh and his son had assaulted him following an argument which arose while both were visitors at his home. In court Burcsh entered a plea of guilty and waived examination.

It was reported Saturday that a man posing as a physician had entered a South Main street store, purchased merchandise and paid for the goods with a check which later proved to be worthless. Captain A. J. Dubreuil said this afternoon, that no complaint concerning the presence of the "doctor" in the city had been received at police headquarters, but the report would be investigated Monday.

A death in Worcester Saturday evening was that of Adelard Paulus, of Marshall street, this city, who died in St. Vincent's hospital, following an operation.

JEWETT CITY

SEYMOUR FAMILY DINNER ON 60TH ANNIVERSARY

Mr. and Mrs. Maxcey Seymour celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary with a dinner party on Sunday, the event bringing together a large family gathering. The anniversary date is May 1, but, as happened at the 50th anniversary, it was celebrated Sunday. A bountiful turkey and chicken dinner was served by Mrs. Charles Maynard and Mrs. Horace Dawley, 40 of the family being present. Mr. and Mrs. Seymour were remembered with many gifts.

MR. MAXCEY SEYMOUR

Mr. and Mrs. Seymour are in excellent health, and all Griswold friends, of whom they have a great number, have been tendering them hearty congratulations. Mr. Seymour is one of the most highly respected town fathers, for he has administered its public affairs for many years with a marked degree of economic foresight. He has been warden and treasurer of the borough, assessor, a member of the board of relief, first selectman. He is also one of the trustees at St. Mary's church.

Mr. Seymour was born in Noyon, St. Thomas, Canada, Oct. 26, 1850; Mrs. Seymour was born Aug. 2, 1854, at St. Cesire, Canada. They were married May 1, 1870, in Moosup by Rev. Fr. Belanger, their home being in Wauregan, no Catholic church being established there at that date. With the exception of your years in Lisbon, on the Read farm, they have lived in Jewett City since 1871.

MRS. MAXCEY SEYMOUR

Six children were born to them, Alfred Seymour, Mrs. Cordelia Maynard and Walter Seymour, of Jewett City; Mrs. Clarinda Pigeon, New London; Wilfred, who died 13 years ago, and Ellen, who died in infancy. There are two grandchildren, Mrs. Yvonne Portelance, in New London, and Theodore Pigeon, of Jewett City. They have six great-grandchildren.

FAKE FIRE CALL SUNDAY CHEAP JOKE FROM NORWICH

A call was received here Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the engine house, saying there was a bad fire in Greeneville and asking for assistance. The telephone exchange in Norwich told Jewett City that the call was from 1378, which is listed as Marshall's, 120 Main street. The local company got the big pumper ready, called in the driver, notified Chief Field and gained permission from Warden Jodoin to make the run with Engine No. 1. Meantime Fire Marshal George H. Prior called Chief of Police Linton and Acting Fire Chief D. J. Brennan. He was told by these officers that there was no fire in Norwich. Chief Brennan then called and was anxious to know where the call came from in Norwich and soon after, learning the story, from the local firemen, he telephoned the Jewett City department that everything was all right.

BOROUGH TO EXPEND ABOUT $16,000 TO WIDEN ROAD

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, May 4.—At a special borough meeting in the town hall Saturday evening, it was unanimously voted to extend the present cement road improvement to Brown avenue. The borough government was empowered to make a temporary loan to meet the cost of the new construction, which will approximately reach $16,000. At several points where the gutters are to be of cement, there are at present no stone curbs. It is possible that property owners on the state road, within the borough limits, may be required to put in granite curbs as is provided in the borough charter. This last item was up for considerable debate during the session. With the securing of this favorable action by the borough freemen, Jewett City has sponsored the building of a model cement highway extending from curb to curb. Of this construction, the state pays for 20 feet in width. Illustrative of the cooperation by the state, at a reasonable figure, the work in front of the Finn block where the road is 41 feet wide is a fine example.

The Memorial day dinner committee meets this (Monday) evening in the Red Cross chapter room.

At Red Cross Convention

Mrs. Alice Anthony is in Washington, D. C., representing Jewett City chapter, A. R. C., at the national convention. The convention opens today (Monday). The addresses at the convention luncheon on Wednesday will also be broadcast over a considerable number of stations.

The smoke from four others was seen from Ross Hill, Lisbon, where with the powerful glass available the localities could be fairly well determined. One was seen to be burning fiercely in the Ledyard area, with another, evidently in pine land, judging from the great clouds of black smoke, a few miles further to the eastward. Irving O. Burdick, fire warden for the town of Griswold, was onto the fire-fighting job all day Sunday with gangs of men working with plows, shovels and such water as was available. NORWICH'S CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN

If you have been busy during the last few weeks getting your yard and cellar cleaned up as part of your property cleaning schedule at this time of the year, the clean-up campaign this week need mean little to you.

If you have done nothing about it, it is time to get busy, enter into a friendly competition with your neighbor, get the assistance of the public works department in having the rubbish carted away and see how attractive your grounds can be made.

Cleanliness is next to godliness. There is usually much to be done, and there is no reason to suppose that this will not be a normal year—normal so far as unsightly accumulations are concerned and normal in regard to the amount of cleaning up that needs to be done.

What is needed in dealing with such conditions is leadership and cooperation. To a certain degree there is an excellent leadership being displayed by the public works department in signifying its willingness to cart away the debris and the fire department in sponsoring the campaign as a fire preventive measure with particular interest in the cellar conditions where accumulations of rubbish, papers, wood and inflammable material in general create a serious fire hazard.

The cooperation should be furnished by the individuals. Property owners, proprietors of business houses, individuals, cannot fail to appreciate the importance of fire prevention by removing conditions which make the kindling of a fire easy at points where much inflammable material has been thrown aside. These conditions are not known to the general public, so that it will never be known what the response is, but its protective value is enough to arouse those who are directly concerned and who know what and where the hazardous conditions are.

From the esthetic standpoint all those who have yards and extensive grounds should be only too anxious to vie with their neighbors in scrubbing their houselots and removing the rubbish that so mars appearances. Following this will come the flower gardens and the well-kept grass plots, but first there must be eliminated the unsightly accumulations. The clean-up campaign represents one of the first steps in the way of improving and beautifying a city's appearance.

UP TO THE SENATE

The house of representatives has shown a disposition to give speedy attention to tariff matters. This was manifested when the tariff bill was originally introduced. It is disclosed again in the treatment accorded to the conference report.

In dealing with the changes that have been made in the measure since the house originally acted upon it, the house lost no time in supporting the conference committee. It required no extended deliberations to accept certain of the schedules as lowered by the senate. In the same way, it did not resort to delays and other subjects in order to prolong the period before it acted upon the debenture plan and the flexible tariff provision of the bill.

Indications have pointed repeatedly to the fact that the house would not accept these last two provisions. It had provided in its bill for the retention of the flexible feature, whereby the president would continue to have the authority to change schedules within a certain limit upon advice of the tariff commission, so that in its vote it still insists upon its previous action.

The debenture clause, which would have given the farmer a bounty upon his exportable surplus equal to 50 per cent of the tariff on the commodity affected, was a creation of the senate. It was urged for the relief of agriculture but it was pointed out by the president that it would be dangerous and uneconomic. While the senate disregarded this view of the president the house has, by its latest action, respected it, the vote showing that it is convinced that it would be inadvisable.

The manner in which the house has disposed of the conference report does not by any means indicate that the senate will do likewise or be as speedy. It must realize, nevertheless, that if there is to be a tariff revision at this time it must make concessions. The house has placed the matter before the senate and it will do well if it recognizes that the time has come for it to meet the situation.

SHOULD ACT IN NOVEMBER

When the senate recently referred the message of President Hoover, urging early action on the law enforcement programme, to the judiciary committee, it was the quick and easy way of disposing of it for the time being. Whatever is done with it, it will not be possible for the senate to charge that it ought to have been reminded of its negligence. It cannot make a legitimate claim that it wasn't told.

Taking the view that the message was strictly in keeping with the duty which the Constitution lays upon the president, the Chattanooga Tenn. Times considers it easy to interpret the senate's treatment of it "as a deliberate rebuff to the chief executive—as notice to him that, while the senate may presume to meddle with his affairs to its heart's content, the senate wants the occupant of the white house to keep his advice and suggestions to himself," but it thinks the charitable will be inclined to take the view that "the senate's discourtesy to the president should be excused on the ground that the senate is not quite at itself. And, as everybody knows, the senate has not been entirely at itself for a long time."

The Times is inclined to think that at times the actions of the senate indicate defense mechanisms, thrown up by an inferiority complex sufferer, at other times they suggest a plain case of paranoia but whatever the illness it is sorely afflicted. "Moreover," says the Times, "it seems unlikely that anything can be done at present to give the senate relief or protect other governmental departments and the country from its preoccupations and delusions."

As a suggestion, the Times advises the public to be patient until the opportunity comes to operate upon that body at the polls next November.

The exhibition which has been given by the senate during the past year has been enough to convince the people of this country that there is a share of the responsibility for it resting upon their shoulders. They were the ones who made up that senate and it rests with them to say whether they want it to be continued or replaced by one of greater efficiency and inclined to give more attention to business and less to politics.

Next November will be the time for making that decision. It will be the time for retaining those who have shown themselves worthy of senate membership and replacing those who have not.

SCHOOL TEACHERS

Meriden has been facing one of those situations which develop from the contention that only home teachers should be hired in the schools. There is always a strong feeling that those in a community who are teachers should be hired for the schools in preference to reaching out to other cities and other states, it being recognized of course that the local teachers can fill the requirements. Inspired by steps taken in some other places, the Meriden school board indicated to the out-of-town teachers that their contracts would not be renewed, the purpose being to replace them with local teachers.

No sooner had this policy been set set forth and its meaning recognized than it was interpreted as a political move, one that was the signal for a strong protest on the part of the people of that city, and the result is that the idea has gone into the discard and most of those who were to be dropped have been rehired.

It wasn't a case in Meriden where the teachers were being released for lack of efficiency, but solely for the purpose of making places for local teachers who had apparently developed in numbers faster than the need for them.

It is an old and justified demand that consideration should be given to the local teachers. In the filling of vacancies or the hiring of new teachers, it is only proper that the school authorities should give the preference to those who are capable and have had the necessary training. If Meriden had estbalished the plan, that has been protested, on a gradual replacement as vacancies occurred there might have been less resentment and yet there is always the matter of efficiency to be considered. When, however, the public gets the idea that politics is being brought into the schools it can be expected that there will be just such a protest as that which developed in Meriden.

RUNNING FOR THE SENATE

While the method of electing United States senators underwent a change for the purpose of correcting conditions, there are cases which bob up now and then which go to show that less was accomplished than was expected.

Large expenditures of money were always the cause for howling protests, and yet the expenditures of the days when senators were chosen by the convention method were small in consideration to the outlays today under the reformed method.

There was much indignation in the senate when it was shown that Senator Newberry spent $190,000. It wasn't shown that there was any corruption but it made his stay in the senate a short one. Senator Smith of Illinois was denied his seat because of the money that was spent in his behalf and for the same reason Senator Vare of Pennsylvania was not acceptable to the senate. Those who contributed and charges of corruption were respectively raised in the latter two cases.

Now the matter is again to the front in the spending of $250,000, mostly of her own funds, by Mrs. Ruth H. McCormick in primary contest in Illinois, and the senate committee investigating primary outlays is wrestling with the case.

In any and all of these cases the contests involved large states, where contested campaigns are bound to require the spending of much money. Because there are large outlays doesn't necessarily mean there has been corruption. Reaching the voters of the state by legitimate methods means heavy expense, especially if there is a lively fight. It is one of the developments of the primary and also one of the disclosures which show what little chance a poor candidate has against one blessed with wealth. Possibly the senate will give it a thought with the idea of correcting it some day.

EDITORIAL NOTES

There are some hopes that May will not tolerate winter's inclination to snoop around.

If you haven't received your May basket, don't be discouraged. The month is young yet.

The man on the corner says: Not many contests are staged these days for dish washing queens.

There are those who are never satisfied until they get into prison and then they are equally insistent on getting out.

Perhaps Governor Roosevelt of New York doesn't object to being mentioned as the democratic presidential candidate in 1932, but the things he might have said on being advocated by Senator Wheeler, the turncoat, would be interesting.

ROMANCE IN THE HILLS

Ileana, jogging along the forsaken stretch of dusky country road in an old flivver that already had broken down three times, was thinking savage thoughts. If she missed that train back to civilization she would be marooned in these oppressing hills at least a week longer, until the next dinghy was run up with the mail. Ileana shuddered and vainly urged the driver to greater speed.

Yet she smiled. Rather funny, wasn't it, that a person who had wanted so eagerly to come up here should find such exquisite joy in leaving? She glanced up to the ridge where overhanging cliffs jammed into the sun. The sight had been a poem for her when she arrived, a month ago. Now it seemed gloomy, with the sunlight blotched out in such fashion. In the ravine at her right the stream that drained the valley meandered lazily toward Superior. On her trip up that sight had thrilled her as she followed the lazy yellow ribbon back to its source. Behind her the hills, rugged with their tamarack forests, rose and fell like the teeth of a great saw cutting into a block of blue sky. Those hills, she had thought, held romance. And Ileana, who wanted to be an author, wanted to write their romance.

For a month she had searched for picturesque settlers, for legends, for native raconteurs. Alas! she had found only squalid huts and poor people, scrimped for money, and as for local color, it seemed all to have been obliterated by heavy fall rains. Ileana looked at her watch. Quarter to 6. She thought of Alison.

"Marry me and forget about your old career," he had begged. Infuriated, she had laughed at this man who could understand her so little. But now she reflected that perhaps he hadn't misunderstood her after all. He had laughed at her proposal to find romance in these Minnesota hills. Now she laughed at the idea herself. How silly she had been!

Ten minutes to 6. With a sudden little spurt the engine faltered and died. Springing from the car, Ileana grabbed her bag and started to run down the long hill. In the distance she saw smoke as the dinghy pulled into the station at Farragut. Two minutes after it pulled out again she ran breathless up on the platform and gazed after it, sick at heart. She sank down on a bench.

"A week more of these bleak hills will drive me mad," she thought.

"Ileana!" Startled, she turned. Alison, at this backwoods wilderness railroad station! Tears of joy welled into her eyes.

"Poor child, you're worn out." He sat down and took her hand. "I came up for you." She looked over at his big automobile parked down the road.

"Darling, let's start back at once," she said wearily.

"Start back! But you haven't finished your story. The hills—"

"There isn't any story, Alison. You were right. There are only half-starved trappers and poor uneducated children and overworked women and poverty-stricken woodsmen and—"

"There's your story, dear. These people are going to be rich. My company is buying up all this valuable timber land—"

"Alison!"

"And I've agreed to come up to oversee the developments, dear—if you'll stay with me."

"Darling, of course, I'll stay."

"Then take down a telegram for our families." He began to dictate:

"There is romance in these hills, and we have captured some of it. We will be married here this evening."

"Oh, Alison, I'll love it here with you," breathed Ileana, thinking of the lazy yellow river and the sun-dipped cliffs and the sawtooth foothills that suddenly had retrieved their lost poesy for her. "I know now there is romance in the hills—because you have brought it to me."—Chicago News.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 4— George William Norris, "a senator from Nebraska" as the books have it, has tilted at so many legislative windmills in his time that probably he does not regard his 10-year battle against "lame duck" sessions of congress as a major matter.

He likes to talk about it on occasion, of course, and do it in his best sarcastic vein. Also, he long ago whipped the senate into agreeing with his notion for a constitutional change abolishing legislation by men who have already been voted out of house or senate seats. What is needed now is house concurrence to get the project of a change in inauguration date before the several states.

Dislodged

But while the Nebraskan may not be agitating very vigorously on the subject just now, he doesn't forget it. Ten months after the senate again put through the joint resolution, Norris suddenly recalled that it had been gathering dust all that time on Speaker Longworth's desk, never having been referred to a house committee after it came over from the senate.

He began asking pointed questions about that in the senate. And that very quickly dislodged the resolution from its resting place and sent it to the house committee on election of president and vice president.

The Hon. Nick, explained that he thought the judiciary committee ought to handle all matters of proposed changes in the constitution. He had been hoping, he told the house, that the rules committee, presided over by that No. 3 man of the "four horsemen" of the house, Bert Snell of New York, would bring out a change in rules to that effect.

Being satisfied that would not be done at the present session, however, he passed the senate's anti-lame-duck resolution along to the committee on election of president and vice president. That committee has already reported out a similar house proposal.

Prospects

All of which would look on its face as though anti-lame-duck legislation was making progress. But is it? Jack Garner, democratic leader and also chief goader of the republican management of the house, was moved to question Brother Snell as to prospects of house action.

"What are the prospects for an opportunity to consider the committee resolution?" said he.

"We have several other important matters ahead of it," Snell said.

"Is the gentleman disposed to give a rule for it, if he can reach it?"

"Well, I cannot tell at present whether I am or not. It will receive consideration, the same as about 100 other things before the rules committee."

So nobody apparently needs feel any alarm that the old, old process of lame-duck legislating is going to be wiped away very hastily.

Stories That Recall Others

Economical

A housewife who makes a point of being economical uses the tops of wornout hose for dust cloths. Recently, while doing her Saturday cleaning, she went to a dresser drawer, took out a gray stocking, hastily cut off the foot, split the top, doused it with polish and proceeded to polish the furniture. The next day when dressing she found she had dusted with one of her best pair of hose.

Nothing New

The young son of a physician is intensely interested in moths. He reads everything that comes to hand concerning them. One day when his father saw him poring over a big volume, he said:

"What are you reading, son?"

The son replied: "Oh, about moths, but they don't tell me anything I don't already know about them."

The interested parent asked: "Well, what is the name of your book?" which brought the reply: "What All-Moth-ers Should Know."

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

The Home of Mr. and Mrs. Killy

In wasted time is something lost,
Of which we ne'er can count the cost.
—Killy the Sparrow Hawk.

It was true that Killy the Sparrow Hawk and Mrs. Killy were living in a hollow in a tree. The tree was beside the Long Lane. A large branch high up had died and this was hollow. Yellow Wing the Flicker had hollowed it out. Peter could remember when Yellow Wing had been at work there. He used to hear the rat-a-tat-tat of Yellow Wing when he used another limb nearby for a drum.

So when Danny Meadow Mouse told Peter that the Killys had a nest in a hollow in a tree, Peter remembered that old home of Yellow Wing's. He hopped out in the Long Lane, where he could look up at that dead limb. Sure enough, right on the top of it sat Killy the Sparrow Hawk. He was sitting very straight, as is his way. A little way below him Peter could see a round hole. That was the entrance that had been cut by Yellow Wing the Flicker long ago. While Peter was staring up at it, a face appeared in that doorway. Mrs. Killy was looking out.

"I thought as much," said Peter to himself. "They have taken possession of Yellow Wing's old home and I suppose that by now they have eggs here. I know Yellow Wing didn't. I have talked with Mrs. Flicker and she says that building a nest in a hollow like that is a waste of time. She says that when she makes the hollow she leaves some tiny chips at the bottom, and these make the best kind of a bed. She says all the Woodpecker family do this way. But Winsome Bluebird and Skimmer the Swallow and Jenny Wren and Tommy Tit the Chickadee and Cresty the Flycatcher and Speckles the Starling and Bully the English Sparrow all build nests inside the hollows in trees or the houses they use. I wonder if Mrs. Killy does. I wish she would come down here where I could talk to her."

As if in answer, Mrs. Killy came out and circled overhead, while Killy left his perch and disappeared through the round doorway of the home. A moment later she came down and caught a big beetle just a little way from where Peter was. She flew over to a post to eat this beetle and Peter hopped over to the foot of the post. You see, although Mrs. Killy was a hawk, Peter wasn't afraid of her. She was too small for Peter to fear.

"How do you do, Mrs. Killy?" said Peter in his most polite manner.

"Hello, Peter," said Mrs. Killy. "What are you doing here?"

"I was on my way home," replied Peter, "but thought I had better stay over in the bushes along the Long Lane until I can be sure that none of the big members of your family is around. I didn't know that you were living over here until just now."

"There are many things you don't know, Peter Rabbit," replied Mrs. Killy.

"I know it," replied Peter humbly. "I know it and that is why I am always trying to learn more. For instance, I know where your home is. I know when that house of yours was made, and by whom. But there is one thing about it I don't know and that I want to know."

"What is that?" inquired Mrs. Killy.

"Have you built a nest inside there?" Peter inquired.

"Have I built a nest!" exclaimed Mrs. Killy scornfully. "Of course I haven't. Why should I? Why should I go to all that trouble? That house was good enough for the Flickers and it is good enough for Killy and me. No, sir, I wasted no time building a nest. There is a nice bed of old chips in there for my eggs and that is all I want."

"How many eggs are there?" asked Peter.

"What business is that of yours, Peter Rabbit?" demanded Mrs. Killy rather sharply.

"I thought as much," said Peter to himself

"None whatever," replied Peter rather meekly. "I am just curious."

YOUR HEALTH

Emotion Affects Digestion

By Florence D. Alden, University of Oregon.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Imagine that you have just eaten a completely satisfying meal, and are contentedly sitting before the fire. Around you are friends. A warm feeling of well-being pervades you. Under this relaxed exterior, what is taking place in your internal system, efficiently, but all undirected by you?

Your entire organic mechanism is concentrated upon digesting and assimilating the dinner. The salivary and gastric juices are flowing freely; the tone of the muscles of the stomach is high and the movement is strong and regular; the walls of the blood vessels are dilated to facilitate absorption of food material into the blood; peristalsis of the intestines—the worm like movement that forces the food on—is smooth and free; bile and the pancreatic juices are pouring into the alimentary canal; heart action is regulated to just the right rate to carry the food material to the cells of the body. The organs, undistracted by anything else, are free to attend to the full functioning of this nutritive cycle.

Suppose now that something occurs to make you thoroughly angry. What happens in this nutritive cycle? Biologically all the forces of your body need to be set for flight or fight. The call is for external activity and the entire body answers to the call. The muscular action of the stomach and intestines is checked. The flow of saliva and the digestive fluids are cut off; the blood vessels of the stomach are constricted; the heart, speeding up its action, rushes the blood supply to the arms and legs in readiness for the bodily struggle; the liver is stimulated to release sugar to be converted into energy; the adrenal glands—small bodies near the kidneys—pour adrenalin into the blood stream for reinforcement. Instantly the whole body is put upon a fighting basis. This preparation of the external organs is accomplished at the expense of the normal action of the digestive system. Disguest, fear, grief, pain, and excessive boredom bring about much the same results.

Apply to your every day life this description of the effect of the "unpleasant emotions" on the normal action of the internal organs. It is evident that the atmosphere before, during, and after meals should be pleasant. Children should not be scolded at the table. If you must quarrel, schedule it for mid-morning or mid-afternoon. The growing custom of making luncheon engagements for settling the burdensome affairs of the business world should be curtailed. If the thought of an after dinner speech gives you stage fright all through the meal, eat afterwards. Your parched mouth is indicative of the checking of all the digestive fluids.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Otis E. Fellows' Appointment

Mr. Editor: Will you kindly allow me to make a slight correction in the account given in Saturday's Bulletin regarding Otis E. Fellows?

The ten young men who have been appointed by the Franco-American Relations committee to teach in France during the coming year are not chosen from any one college or university, but such colleges as Yale, Harvard, Dartmouth, Virginia, Wisconsin, etc., are represented among the appointees, some of the young men being already instructors in colleges and preparatory schools. Such an appointement is not only a great honor, but also affords increased opportunity for future success.

A HISTORY OF CONNECTICUT INDUSTRY

Released by Manufacturers Association of Connecticut

Pratt & Whitney Company, Hartford.

Amos Whitney and Francis A. Pratt hired a room in Potter street, Hartford, and went to work. That was in 1860. They made tools—good honest and accurate tools. In 1869 they organized themselves and their associates into the Pratt & Whitney company.

From then on the company has been identified with almost every advance step in mechanical developments in the metal working industry. Their early reputation was largely based on tools made for guns. Following this, they developed the tools that made sewing machines, typewriters, bicycles and other machinery. Through all their efforts ran the dominating idea of accuracy.

To promote accuracy, Pratt & Whitney assisted in standardizing gages and producing them to what was then an unheard-of degree of accuracy. With this accomplished, the foundation was laid for mass production methods and an infinite variety of special purpose multiple production machinery.

Later on the Hoke Gage, accurate to millionths of an inch, was produced by Pratt & Whitney and established for all time a fundamental system of commercial measurements in the metal working industry beyond which we may never need to go.

Never has Pratt & Whitney's history been brighter than it is today. Gages for practically every need are produced and small tools, production and precision machinery. There are 775,000 square feet in the plant and 2,300 employes—every square foot and every man pledged to "accuracy."

Pratt & Whitney have 13 branches in this country and their products are sold through nineteen foreign agencies.

The present officers are: Clayton R. Burt, president; W. P. Kirk, vice president in charge of sales; C. K. Seymour, treasurer; E. L. Morgan, secretary and assistant treasurer; B. E. Johann, assistant secretary.

BANISH MUSIC?

"PLEASE don't," plead millions of theatregoers.

"Better not," warn wise showmen.

"Sure we will," declare industrialists who control canned music in the theatres. "The public can learn to like records as well as orchestras. Anyway, that's what they're going to get."

And so the issue is defined: Shall talking pictures be used as an excuse for reducing the theatre to a dehumanized museum (without reduction in admission charge). Or, shall the atmosphere of the theatre be retained and the cause of culture served through a victory for music?

Managers of high-class theatres recognize that real music is essential, and so they continue to provide it. Others must be shown.

The Music Defense League, organized to voice the public's desire for real music, is approaching 2,000,000 membership. Each vote counts more today than ever before.

GIVEN $2,000 JUDGMENT IN ALIENATION SUIT

Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court, in a decision handed down Saturday, finds that Wilfred Vincent, formerly of Griswold, now of parts unknown, alienated the affections of his brother's wife, Malvina Bordeau Vincent of Griswold. A judgment of $2,000 and costs is rendered in favor of the wronged brother, Albert Vincent of Griswold.

Albert sued his brother for $3,000 damages alleging in his complaint that the brother went to Griswold in 1928 and 1929, and alienated the affections of his wife. A 60 acre farm on the highway between Marlborough and East Hampton and owned by Wilfred Vincent has been attached.

VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN AGAINST MOSQUITOES OF OLD LYME

Work that will curb the annual summer mosquito invasion is proceeding in Connecticut shore towns.

Old Lyme is now engaged under the supervision of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment station in digging 200,000 feet of ditches to drain off her salt marsh areas, where the biggest and fiercest mosquito of them all raises his family. The Old Lyme marshlands of 1,393 acres constitute one of the largest grounds of the pest in the state. Last year the town spent $5,000 in elimination measures and a like sum was appropriated for the work this year. A foot of ditching costs two and one-half cents.

The experiment station, which is charged by law with mosquito control, this spring and summer will clean every mosquito ditch from Greenwich to Stonington in towns that do not provide their own maintenance. Fewer than half a dozen maintain their ditches.

ONE FLOCK, ONE SHEPHERD, REV. FR. REILLY'S THEME

Preaching at the 9 o'clock mass in St. Patrick's church Sunday, before leaving for Bridgeport where he was to broadcast in the afternoon, Rev. John J. Reilly found his text in, John 10, 11-16, the parable of the Good Shepherd, "Other sheep I have—them also I must bring", were Christ's words.

Christ was no miser with His love; He spent it lavishly upon us all. His words on the cross, "I thirst," indicated His desire for all souls. It is not enough for Roman Catholics, who are of His church, to settle back complacently and be satisfied with that fact. They should not be content to view their church as developing into the leading factor in the world today, keeping its head clear in the fog, a mighty giant, crowds surging to its altar railing in the best proof of the stability of faith, an organization that thrills and throbs with the rich red blood of spiritual vigor and virility. There are other sheep—the 300,000,000 of Catholics must contrast themselves with the masses in India, Russia's hordes, China's swarming population, the godless millions in America. There are other sheep. The work of Christ is incomplete till all hear His voice.

Christ's voice speaks to us through His sacraments, the tabernacle, in prayer, in our silent morning hours. It is heard throughout the world in model Catholic lives. Every one of us can be a missionary of Christ by good example, by impressing others, not by argument, or by criticism, but by Christ-like living, by tolerance and charity. There is a sermon in good example, while the bad effect of an evil life cannot be calculated. Father Reilly emphasized the influence in adding to the sheepfold of Christ through the lay apostolate—able to give information when needed, yet not controversial, simple, practical Catholics who do not stand in opposition to Christ's church, but who by word and example are meriting the crowd sure to be theirs when the final roll of the saints is called—each doing his best to secure for his divine Exemplar those stray and shepherdless sheep, of whom the Saviour has spoken, "And they shall hear my voice. "Joyce Kilmer declared he would rather be a private in the Sixty-ninth than a captain in any other regiment; and the preacher left this thought with his hearers in the immense congregation, that no life is too humble or too obscure to have its share in influencing lives toward the one fold, one Shepherd, which the Redeemer predicted.

FOREST FIRES SWEEP OVER THOUSAND ACRES IN THIS PART OF COUNTY

Fire wardens, state policemen and hundreds of volunteer fire fighters struggled desperately through much of Sunday to hold forest fires in check at a number of points in the towns of Preston, Ledyard, North Stonington, Groton and Montville. A brisk westerly wind fanned the leaping flames to vigorous life through the afternoon, but by night the wind had died down and the task of the fire fighters was easier, but many faced the prospect of continuing the struggle through the night with no knowing how much longer they would have to keep at work to protect threatened property.

Report Eight Barns Burned

According to some reports eight barns had been burned, but it was hard to check up accurately owing to the difficulty of reaching fire wardens by telephone lines, which in some cases had apparently been broken by the fires.

With one fire in North Stonington and Preston estimated to have burned over 1,000 acres, the prospect seemed to be that double or triple that area would be covered by a complete count of the territory where the woods were ablaze.

Smoke In Dense Clouds

Sunday motorists whom the pleasant weather brought out on the road in drives saw great pillars of smoke in almost any direction they choose to look from the highways in the Thames valley between here and New London and at times the swirling clouds of smoke dipped down to the highway levels till traffic hazards were created by the murky atmosphere and traffic tie-ups resulted. South of Quaker Hill and to the west of the Montville-New London road where one of the worst fires raged the valley, was so densely filled with smoke that the atmosphere was stifling and the acrid smoke brought tears to the eyes.

Jumped Pond And Roads

This fire was one of the fiercest and most extensive, starting, according to reports in the Montville poor farm neighborhood and burning southward from there for about five miles. It jumped Miller's big pond and two or three roads, covering about eight square miles, according to one estimate, and burned down into the town of Waterford and towards the New London line so that firemen came out from New London to help state policemen and the scores of others who were in the fight. Dwight Kelsey, fire warden for Montville, directed some of the squads, but no report could be received from him as his telephone was out of order.

In Waterford, this blaze reached what is called the Fire street section and some of the property burned over belonged to Fred Minson, Paul Shedlock, and Gurt Miller.

Around Lantern Hill

Another one of the big fires was in the Lantern Hill section of the town of North Stonington from which it spread over into Preston towards the Preston City reservoir during Sunday morning. A barn on the Miner place was said to have been burned in this fire. Leslie Gray, Ledyard fire warden, was out directing the fight in conjunction with the men from Preston, and a force of 200 men was estimated to have been at work. It was estimated that this fire covered about 1,000 acres and it was still going during the night.

Sunday afternoon Fire Warden Gray was called to help fight a fire along the Gungywump road in the town of Groton.

Another Groton fire was raging along a road about a mile easterly from the submarine base and could be plainly seen from the Military highway.

Along Norwich-Westerly Road

A fire, which raged on both sides of the Norwich-Westerly road in the vicinity of the "Wigwam", gave the fire fighters a lot of hard work to save buildings which were threatened. This burned over land belonging to the Thomas Hewitt estate, Lafayette Main, Patrick F. Sweeney, and Oscar H. Main. It started in what is known as the Lake of Isles section. Lafayette Main telephoned in to the Norwich fire department for help, but the Norwich department declined to go out there as there was little they could do without a water supply.

Warden's Farm On Fire

Frank Krug, of Preston City, fire warden for that town, had a blaze to fight on his own land Sunday afternoon and had about a dozen or 15 men to help him out. This fire was checked when it burned towards a piece of swampy land, but it looked dangerous as it was headed towards a group of residences which it would have swept if it had crossed the swamp. Warden Krug was one of those who was cut off from communication with the outside world when his telephone line went out of order.

Sunday night about 10 o'clock there was a small forest fire burning in territory between Poquetanuck and the Norwich-Westerly highway.

HELD PIN AUCTION AT GIRLS' CLUB MAY PARTY

A very large group of girls attended the May party of the Girls' City club under the auspices of the Woman's City club last Friday evening in their clubroom at No. 9 Washington street. As announced at the previous meeting, each girl brought a lunch for one person in a May basket. Many of the baskets had been made by the girls and were very beautiful, and with many of the girls dressed in flowery chiffon produced a very pretty sight. The baskets were offered for sale at a "pin" auction with the director of the club, Mrs. W. B. McKean, as the auctioneer. With the auction completed, Mrs. McKean found she had taken in hundreds of pins.

One feature of the evening's entertainment was a tap dance by one of the members, Mary Gilligan, which was very skillfully performed. Mrs. A. M. Brand was a visitor at the club and presented the girls with candy.

Preceding the party, a business session took place, presided over by Irene Combies, the president. A swimming class has been formed for the club members for the summer months and, at the meeting, the girls were measured for suits. Any girl desiring to unite with the club in order to take advantage of the swimming class, should do so during the month of May, as the regular Friday night meetings will end with this month. Mrs. McKean told the girls some of her experiences during the trip taken during the last week for the purpose of visiting other girls' clubs in the state. She had not covered all the clubs she intended to but will complete her trip at a later date.

COURT SUSTAINS CRANDALL IN EJECTMENT PROCEEDINGS

In a suit in Rhode Island in which Mrs. Mary F. Havens, wife of Col. George F. Havens of Beacon avenue, Providence, secured a preliminary injunction to enjoin her husband and his nephew, Billings F. S. Crandall of Ledyard, from ejecting her from the Beacon avenue home, the Rhode Island supreme court has dismissed the appeal by Mrs. Havens and has sustained Mr. Crandall in the ejectment proceedings.

The property in question was sold under court order and Mr. Crandall has now been sustained by the supreme court in his right to eject the tenant, who is Mrs. Havens, who is estranged from her husband. The case reached the supreme court after the ejectment right had been decided in favor of Mr. Crandall by the superior court, but Mrs. Havens secured an injunction. The supreme court opinion removes the injunction and remands the case to the superior court for further proceedings.

SHOULD NOT HAVE HAD POOR DEBTOR'S OATH

According to a finding made by Judge Allyn L. Brown of the superior court upon an application for review of the administration of poor debtor's oath to Halford T. Perry, the oath ought not to have been administered to this man.

On April 18, 1930, the poor debtor's oath was administered to Halford T. Perry by Benjamin L. Mull, justice of the peace for New London county. Marcus Helms, presumably a creditor, claimed that Perry was not entitled to the oath for the reason that he had an estate of the value of $17 in the whole and that Perry had disposed of part of his estate so as to defraud him, Helm.

WILL CAMPAIGN FOR CITIZENS' TRAINING CAMP

During the coming week Robert O. Fletcher post, No. 4, American Legion, will make an intensive effort to do its part in securing the quota assigned to it in the procuring of candidates for the citizen's military training camps.

The citizens' military training camps are the direct outgrowth of the Plattsburgh, New York, camps of 1913, 1914 and 1915. Their aim is to make a direct contribution to the physical, mental and moral development of those participating by providing 30 days of active outdoor military training under the most desirable conditions. To be eligible to attend, candidates must be physically fit American citizens, or at least have taken out first papers for naturalization, and be of good moral character. The age requirements for the basic course is 17 to 21. That is a basic or first year candidate must have had a 17th birthday and must not have had his 21st birthday by the time the camp opens. A physical examination, inoculation and vaccination against typhoid; paratyphoid and small pox, and a certificate of good moral character are required before enrollment.

Necessary expenses, including transportation to and from the camp to which the successful candidate is assigned will be met by the government. Uniforms, shoes, leggins, and other articles of soldiers' clothing, together with arms and ammunition, will be furnished without cost by the army. Food is served in good variety and of the best quality, well cooked by army chefs. There is no charge whatever for meals, quarters or necessary laundry.

The benefits accruing in health and knowledge to the successful candidates cannot be overestimated. There are no strings attached to this program. Candidates accepted from this district will, it is expected, be sent to For Adams, near Newport, one of the most up to date fortifications in the country.

Not every one applying can be accommodated, which makes it all the more necessary that those young men cation at once. During this week a who are interested should make applimeeting will be held when the matter will be fully gone into for the information of those interested and those attending the meeting will be given the practical experience of those who have attended these camps in previous years.

DISALLOWS CLAIM MADE FOR WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION

Commissioner Albert J. Bailey has disallowed the compensation claim made by Joseph Burke, of No. 40 Reed street, New London. The claim was against the Gulf Refining Co., of New London. Claimant was injured while employed as a carpenter by the oil company. Later he was laid off. He took the stand that the reason he was laid off was because he was not able to do as much work after the accident as before the accident. The commissioner found that the claimant was discharged simply because the construction work he was employed on was nearing completion and fewer carpenters were needed to complete the work. The commissioner ordered the medical bill of Dr. John C. Satti of New London be paid.

Mrs. C. P. Lane

The death of Mrs. C. P. Lane, 94, of Norwich Town, which occurred Saturday at Backus hospital, brings to a close a beautiful life. For 24 years Mrs. Lane, who was totally blind, had made her home in the Bacheler family at 22 East Town street, where she was devotedly cared for by Miss Mary Bacheler, until the fire at the Bacheler home, one of the coldest days of the past winter, February 6th, when Mrs. Lane was taken from the burning building down a ladder and across the street to a neighbor's house in safety. For six weeks after, she was cared for at the Sheltering Arms, later being removed to the hospital.

Mrs. Lane was born January 16, 1836, in New Brunswick, N. J. During the many years she was a shut-in each year friends showered her with a number of post cards bearing affectionate messages, also sent her many flowers, as well as a variety of fruit. She had endeared herself to a large number of friends in the community, especially those in the First Congregational parish, of which she was a member. Until the league of service of this church was organized, Mrs. Lane had been a faithful and interested member of the Home Missionary society. When she became an invalid and obliged to keep to her bed, if unable to attend the meetings of the society, she often contributed a beautiful letter which was read to the members.

Mrs. Lane, whose maiden name was Clementine Prince, was the only child of James and Caroline Saxton Prince. December 29, 1870, she was united in marriage with Nathaniel B. Lane in Brooklyn, N. Y. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Francis E. M. Bacheler, then pastor of Park Congregational church of Brooklyn. Rev. Mr. Bacheler was the father of Misses Clementine and Mary Bacheler and Thomas H. Bacheler, where Mrs. Lane made her home, as well as others of the Bacheler family, the two families having since been closely united. Mr. Lane died August 2, 1872. For 35 years prior to locating in Norwich Town, Mrs. Lane was a successful school teacher in Brooklyn.

Surviving Mrs. Lane are two nieces, Mrs. Duffield Prince of Upper Montclair, N. J., and Mrs. E. Lange of Belmar, N. J.

Friends in Norwich Town and vicinity were saddened upon learning of the death Saturday morning shortly after 9 o'clock of Lula Mabel Cruthers Browning, 51, beloved wife of Irving Earl Browning of New London turnpike, following a long illness. Mrs. Browning was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Cruthers (Lucy Marcy) and was born in Norwich Town, April 1, 1879. In the town of Montville in 1901, she was united in marriage with Irving Earl Browning, of Montville, where they resided for a few years before coming to Norwich Town. For a number of years they lived on Town street and for the past twelve years on New London turnpike, where Mr. Browning had built for his family a fine home.

Besides her husband, she is survived by a son, Elmer I. Browning, and two daughters, Misses Doris L. and Lucille M. Browning, also three brothers, James Cruthers of Maryland and Albert E. and Irving H. Cruthers of Norwich. Mrs. Browning was a member of the First Congregational church, Sachem chapter, Eastern Star and Norwich grange, No. 172, where she was beloved by all who knew her. During her long period of illness, she bore her intense suffering uncomplainingly and with true Christian spirit. A faithful and loyal helpmate to her husband, loving and devoted mother, a kind and agreeable friend and neighbor, she will be sorely missed by a large circle. Profound sympathy of this and other communities has been expressed for the bereaved family in its sorrow.

ACADEMY SLAUGHTERS WEAVER HIGH OF HARTFORD BY SCORE OF 31 TO 9

The Academy baseball forces brought out their steamroller Saturday at the campus and then proceeded to crush a Weaver high nine from Hartford with a score that is said to be a record one for Connecticut scholastic ball. It was 31 (yes 31) to 9.

Scoring in every inning but the third, the Wildcats asserted their supremacy from the fourth inning on and capped their efforts with a ten-run splurge in the sixth. They had previously made 2, 2, 4 and 6, in the first, second, fourth and fifth, and finished with two in the seventh and five in the eighth.

The locals connected for a total of 21 hits, including a home run by Hack (Wilson) Pepin, and added them in with eight errors, ten passes and a raft of stolen bases and wild pitches. Four Weaver pitchers felt the sting of their attack and none was able to effectively halt the parade.

Butsy Weisgraber did the pitching for N. F. A., for the first eight frames, during which he allowed eight hits and five runs and Pop Richards made his debut for the Red and White in the ninth. He was touched up for the remaining four runs and the same number of hits but was also the victim of poor suppore.

Chubby Gibbs, Art Breen and Butsy Weisgraber each collected three hits for the Red and White while Phelps, Haragty and McCombe had two safeties apiece for Weaver. Phelps hit for the circuit in the fifth.

The Academy was great at times and then played some poor baseball at other times during the fray but they hit the quartet of Weaver hurlers with such reckless abandon that they were not pushed only in the first few innings. The score was 4 to 2 at the end of the first half of the fourth and it looked like the big crowd would be treated to a good game. Weisgraber got off to a poor start and in both the third and fourth was lucky to escape wi thonly one run each time. He had to fan Turley and Kearns with the bases full to escape in the third and also fanned the last batter in the next frame when there was a man on first and one run in on Phelps' circuit swat. After the Academy collected four in its half of the fourth, the game began to develop into a runaway and when six more came in the fourth there was little doubt how it would finish.

WILDCAT SCRATCHES

And they called it a ball game!

The runs were scored as follows: Arico 6, Reardon 2, Fitzgerald 1, Gibbs 4, Hamil 1, Fontaine 4, Breen 2, Weisgraber 3, Flather 1, Berghinzo 3, Pepin

Pepin's homer was the fifth for the Academy in nine games. It was a nice drive, too, right over the center field fence. Incidentally, it was the two centerfielders in this game that hit for the round trip.

A total of 33 players, 18 for Weaver and 15 for N. F. A., were seen in action.

Pop Richards, in his first appearance of the season at bat, in the eighth, cracked out a nice single to center. He had figured largely in Coach Brigham's plans this year but has been handicapped all year with illness and consequently saw his firht action on this occasion.

During the early frames, Weaver didn't look half bad and with any kind of pitching, might have made a real game out of it.

Novel score cards, with the team picture, individual pictures of the regulars and the band picture, together with a write-up on the latter unit were distributed at the game.

Several dust-storms held up the game at times and made it disagreeable for the spectators.

The next is Westerly.

CONNELL SPRAINS ANKLE WHILE SLIDING INTO BASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 4—The Norwich All-Stars defeated the Willimantic All Stars 10 to 5 here today in their benefit game under the auspices of Gold Star post, No. 1724, Veterans of Foreign Wars, for the benefit of the G. A. R. state encampment fund.

A capacity crowd taxed Windham field for the contest. Tony West pitched and Enos Eccleston caught for the visitors and Varrick, of South Manchester, was on the mound for Willimantic with Scribner catching.

While sliding into third base during the game Charlie Connell, Norwich outfielder, sprained his ankle and was taken to St. Joseph hospital. It was treated there and he will later have the injured member x-rayed at the Norwich State hospital, where he is employed.

CIMIKOSKI LOST BASEBALL UNIFORM AND GLOVE SUN.

Steffy Cimikoski had a real alibi if he played a bad game of baseball on Sunday.

The popular Riverview third baseman, while on his way to a game in Willimantic Sunday, lost his uniform including shoes, stockings and glove, when it dropped off the automobile in which he was riding. The incident occurred at Poquetanuck and, although Stef went back over the route a short time later it was gone.

YANKS TRIM WHITE SOX, THE BABE MAKES A HOMER

NEW YORK, May 4.— (AP)— Babe Ruth's third home run of the season today played a large part in the New York Yankees' victory over the Chicago White Sox. The score was 7 to 4, with Ruth's homer bringing in the last two runs and holding off a Chicag rally. About 60,000 fans turned out.

Ed Wells pitched shut-out ball for the Yankees for six innings but the Sox got to him for pairs of runs in the seventh and eighth. Pipgras finished the game. Thomas and Walsh hurled for Chicago.

The White Sox used three pinch hitters and each came through.

MULE HAAS BREAKS UP PITCHERS' DUEL; A'S WIN

DETROIT, May 4.—(AP) — George (Mule) Haas, slugging center fielder, broke up a pitchers' duel between George Uhle and Bill Shores today with a seventh inning triple that scored three runs and started a rally which gave the world champion Athletics their fourth victory in a row over the Detroit Tigers.

The three runs broke a 1 to 1 tie which had existed since the fourth inning. The Tigers failed to score again, but the champions made runs in both the remaining innings, winning the game by a score of 7 to 1.

Uhle was retired, and Bob Fothergill was sent in as a pinch hitter. He succeeded only in hitting into a double play which retired the side. Whitlow Wyatt went to the mound for Detroit but the Athletics found him easily for five hits.

BROWNS BEAT SENATORS THOUGH OUTHIT, 10 TO 7

WASHINGTON, May 4. — (AP) — Washington fell off the top of the league today by losing to the St. Louis Browns by a score of 8-6. The defeat was the second of its series with the Browns. A four-run Washington rally in the final inning fell short of victory by three runs.

ACADEMY PLAYS TWO LEAGUE GAMES THIS WEEK

Two league games occupy the attention of the Academy this week, during which the Wildcats play their first game away from home. Westerly comes here Wednesday and Saturday the Red and White engages Windham at Willimantic.

The Academy has made a good start in the circuit, winning its first two games and is nominally heading the circuit, although Windham has won one and lost none.

Westerly has had a bad start but should come along very shortly. They always have given the Wildcats a close rub and Coach Brigham is expecting nothing easy on this occasion. Last year's game with Westerly at the campus was one of the wildest of the season, ending in an 11-10 victory for the locals.

TRACK MEET AT ACADEMY TODAY

The Academy and Bulkeley will come to grips this afternoon at the campus in their annual track meet, neither a favorite to win.

The Wildcats have not beaten their ancient rivals on the cinders for many years, if at all, even the league championship array of 1929 being forced to bow to the Orange and Black in the meet at New London.

This afternoon Coach Murphy will have his full complement of regulars ready for the word and expects to place this event on the victory side. Coach Hamlin, of the Whalers, is equally as confident of upholding the tradition and going back home with another Red and White scalp for his runners, jumpers and throwers.

The Academy will rely on such performers as Capt. Sam Berkman, Lenkiewicz, Agnew, Rootes, Wood, Burke, Caulfield, Welden, Frank Barber, Armstrong and others.

BROOKLYN WINS DOUBLE HEADER FROM CARDINALS

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 4.—(AP)— The slugging Brooklyn Robins extended their winning streak to seven today by taking a double header from the St. Louis Cardinals 2 to 1 and 11 to 10, the night cap going 13 innings. The Robins swept the four-game series here.

The first game was a pitchers' duel between Bill Hallihan of the Cardinals and Ray Phelps, young Jacksonville recruit hurling for Brooklyn. The Dodgers appeared to have sewed up the second game until the ninth when the Cardinals rallied with hitting that netted four runs to tie the count. Neither team was able to force across a counter until the 13th when Brooklyn hammered a long procession of hurlers for three runs. The Cardinals again rallied in their half of the inning but it fell short with two runs. The night cap lasted over three hours.

The Robins' seven-game winning streak is the longest the club has staged since 1924 according to statistics.

WILD PITCH BY KOUPAL GIVES CUBS THE GAME

CHICAGO, May 4.—(AP)— A wild pitch by Koupal in the ninth inning, which permitted Danny Taylor to score, gave the Cubs their third straight victory over Philadelphia, 8 to 7, today. Forty thousand spectators watched the game.

Pat Malone went into the ninth inning with a 7 to 5 lead but blew up for two runs on a walk by Thompson and hits by O'Doul, Klein and Whitney.

Grover Cleveland Alexander pitched only one third of the ninth inning but was charged with the defeat. Two hits and an error placed Hartnett and Malone on third and second, respectively, and Koupal relieved him. Danny Taylor ran for Hartnett and a minute later came home with the winning tally on Koupal's wild pitch.

Today was the first time this season the Cubs played with their first string lineup. Stephenson returning after a week's layoff because of an injured shoulder.

LOTT WINS IN SINGLES AND DOUBLE MATCHES SUNDAY

PHILADELPHIA, May 4.— (AP) — George M. Lott, of Chicago, was the outstanding figure at the formal opening today of the new Davis cup tennis court at the Philadelphia Country club where the standard bearers of the United States and Canada will meet on May 15, 16 and 17.

Lott performed at his best in vanquishing Wilmer Allison, of Austin, Texas, 6-0, 6-1 and followed this by sharing in a doubles triumph with Fritz Mercur, of Bethlehem, Pa., over John Van Ryn, of East Orange, N. J., and Allison, 6-4, 6-2.

In the other singles contest, Van Ryn defeated J. Gilbert Hall, of South Orange, N. J., newly crowned Pennsylvania state indoor champion, 6-4, 6-3.

The Canadian Davis cup players will hold their first practice at the Philadelphia Country club Wednesday.

PENN, IN FIRST PLACE IN COLLEGE BASEBALL

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—Chalking up two victories during the week, Pennsylvania's strong team has assumed undisputed possession of the lead in the Eastern Intercollegiate baseball league.

After battering Columbia under a 7 to 1 count on Wednesday, the Quakers slugged Rudd and Jennison for 15 hits to bury Yale under a 10 to 2 score at Philadelphia yesterday. Peterson gave Columbia only five hits on Wednesday and Walter Masters limited Yale to a similar number yesterday. Rudd, incidentally, had pitched Yale to a triumph over Penn at New Haven, the Quaker's sole defeat so far. The Eli pitcher had nothing to stop the Red and Blue yesterday and he was pounded freely until he gave way to Jennison. Gus Caniglia and Bob Callaghan each got four hits for the Quakers. Bill Graupner hit a homer into the center field stands in the third inning.

Dartmouth kept pace with Penn to some degree, beating Princeton, 13 to 4, in its only start of the week on Monday. Princeton lost its second game yesterday, bowing to Cornell, 9 to 6, in a free hitting fray.

Cornell divided two games, matching its victory over Princeton with an 8-7 defeat at Columbia's hands at New York on Friday.

The league standing and schedule follows:

Club	W.	L.	Pct.
Pennsylvania	3	1	.750
Dartmouth	2	1	.667
Yale	2	2	.500
Cornell	2	2	.500
Columbia	2	3	.400
Princeton	0	2	.000

The locals collected two extra base hits, a double and a homer.

Middy Dugas, playing first base for PAC, led the attack in hitting, getting four hits, a homer, three bagger and a double and a single in as many trips to the plate. Each man for the visitors made at least one hit, with the exception of Fregeau.

P. Reymond and P. Finn were on the mound for the Citizens and between them allowed the sailor boys 12 hits. The score:

BOYS' CLUB TAKES CLOSE GAME FROM GREENEVILLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 4.—Eleven errors marred an otherwise nice game at Mercer field this afternoon, when Greeneville A. C. nine was beaten by the Boys' club team by a 10 to 9 score. Lefty Lucier pitched for the visitors, allowing eight hits and striking out 11 men, but he walked five to equal the free passes given out by the opposing hurler, Cranker. There were five two-base hits and two home runs, the latter by Gorton and N. Lemieux, and the fielding feature was furnished by Callaghan for the visitors, who made a double play unassisted. TABER ACADEMY DEFEATED BY POMFRET, 14 TO 7

(Special to The Bulletin)

POMFRET, May 4.— Holding the Taber academy batsmen to ten scattered hits, Buck Dodge, Pomfret twirler, brought the Pomfret school nine into a 14 to 7 victory over the visitors Saturday. The Pomfretians got away to a flying start in the first inning when they opened fire on the wild pitching of Chase, scoring five runs, which were followed by three in the second inning and others at intervals throughout the game.

Pomfret shattered the hopes of Taber in the fifth inning when Ridgeway, burly Pomfret first sacker, smashed out a long drive, to make a complete tour of the bases for the first and only home run of the game. The hit was direct, the ball sailing over the campus ridge across the diamond and rolling neigh onto the lawns of the dormitories. Ridgeway's long smash was followed by two others by Pool and Regan, whose runs went to make up the trio scored in the fifth. The score:

YALE VARSITY OARSMEN WINNERS AT DERBY

DERBY, Conn., May 4—(AP)—In a race that rivalled the memorable Poughkeepsie regatta of last year in late starting, the varsity oarsmen of Yale have returned to their winnings ways on the Housatonic.

In this case the water grew smoother instead of rougher and nobody swamped. But crews and oarsmen were handicapped considerably by the semi-darkness.

It was through the last faint radiance of a sun that had already set and the feeble light of the moon and stars that Yale went smashing down the river, rowing faster and faster, to beat Columbia's Poughkeepsie champions by a length and a quarter and Pennsylvania by four lengths more.

Coxswains steered their courses by instinct or memory alone.

Coxswain Michels of Columbia declared after the race that he lost half a length through getting off his course near the midway marker. At the mile and three-quarter post he missed the flags entirely and swept past on the far outside. Yale, more familiar with the course, had little trouble.

A high wind was given as the reason for holding up the entire program an hour and 20 minutes but conditions in general were better for the minor races than for the main event although the breeze had slackened.

It was a sad day for Columbia, whose great crews swept the river in all four races of this Blackwell cup regatta a year ago. This year they were last in the 150-pound and freshman events and second in the junior varsity and varsity.

Yale chalked up its seventh varsity title in the eight-year history of the regatta and narrowly missed a clean sweep of the river. Only the freshman crown eluded Ed Leader's men and in this event a dashing Pennsylvania eight stroked by J. B. Anderson of Richmond, Va., gave Rusty Callow's proteges a share in the victory spoils.

The Eli varsity won because it could get the stroke up when Columbia could not. With power as well as speed in its stroke this Eli eight gave promise of becoming one of the best Leader has turned out at New Haven.

Its time, however, was six and a half seconds short of the regatta record for the two-mile course, set last year by Columbia's star eight.

Event	1930	1929
150 pound (1 5-16 miles)
Yale 6:42		Columbia 7:07
Junior varsity, (2 miles)

BIG SIX NOT SO STRONG IN GAMES ON SUNDAY

By the Associated Press

The Big Six batsmen did little to justify their high positions in the major league batting averages and lost more ground. Paul Waner, the leader, and Al Simmons were idle. George Fisher and Bill Cissell lost ground, both going hitless in five times at bat. Babe Ruth and Rogers Hornsby gained some ground, Ruth with two hits, including his third home run of the year, in four times at bat. Hornsby made two hits in five times.

POETRY

Judge Not

Judge not; the workings of his brain
 And of his heart thou canst not see;
What looks to thy dim eyes a stain,
 In God's pure light may only be
A scar, brought from some well-won field,
Where thou wouldst only faint and yield.

The look, the air, that frets thy sight
 May be a token that below
The soul has closed in deadly fight
 With some infernal fiery foe,
Whose glance would scorch thy smiling grace,
And cast thee shuddering on thy face!

The fall thou darest to despise—
 Maybe the angel's slackened hand
Has suffered it, that he may rise
 And take a firmer, surer stand;
Or, trusting less to earthly things,
May henceforth learn to use his wings.

And judge none lost; but wait and see,
 With hopeful pity, not disdain;
The depth of the abyss may be
 The measure of the hight of pain
And love and glory that may raise
This soul to God in after days!

—Adelaide Anne Procter (1825-1864).

The Golden Heart

I had a heart as good as gold
For spending or for buying;
It bought me many a hand to hold
And many a breath for sighing.

It bought me many a mouth to kiss,
And many a secret token—
But what's the good of all of this
Now that my heart is broken!

My heart that once, as good as gold
Bought anything that mattered
Is like a tale completely told,
Like golden money scattered . . .

But somewhere there's a heart so young
It still can spare for spending
Will sing the song that I have sung,
Beginning with my ending.

—Witter Bynner.

"Me darlint," said Patrick, "oi-ve had me nose br-roken in th-ree places."

"Well," said Mrs. Hogan, "that'll larn ye to keep out of thim places."—Birmingham Post.

Mr. Peck (at resort)—I have long regarded the one-piece bathing suit for girls—

Mrs. Peck—You certainly have. You regarded that one on the beach this morning altogether too long.

Mr. P.—I was about to say, my dear, that the one-piece bathing suit for girls is, in my view—

Mrs. P.—I'll warrant it is—it's in your view if there's one to be seen anywhere for miles around.

He shut up.—Exchange.

KALEIDOSCOPE

Members of the Pittsfield Revolver club, says the Boston Globe, were on their range in the basement of the municipal building. The shooting had been going on for several minutes when one of the members discovered a bored cat resting behind the backboard of the targets. The animal did not appear to be at all disturbed by the rat-tat-tat of the guns and was not easily coaxed to give up its position where the bullets were the thickest.

In New York thirty people banqueted and all of them made speeches, for they were all either members of the New York Kingsley club or guests from the Philadelphia Kingsley club, both of which are organizations composed of stammerers, who like to help themselves by public speaking. The Philadelphia club was the first formed, twelve years ago, by J. Stanley Smith, stuttering lawyer, who had been unable to get help from schools. It was named for the late great stammerer, Charles Kingsley.

A two-headed snake has been captured in Louisiana, and will be described and pictured in the forthcoming issue of the Journal Heredity by Professor William H. Gates, of Louisiana State university. The freak was found by two small boys, who followed their usual instincts and killed it. They took the limp remains home with them, and the specimen is now the property of J. D. Morrison, of Denham Springs, La. Both heads are apparently normally developed, though one of them is twisted a little sideways on its neck. The two necks join in a common body, which had a permanent and apparently congenial kink in it a little aft of the point where the two necks join. Professor Gates has not dissected the specimen, but says that he expects to make X-ray photographs in an endeavor to learn something about the skeletal arrangements.

Ishbel MacDonald (left) can't introduce anyone to England's king and queen because she is unmarried. Her father, the prime minister, may ask Mrs. Philip Snowden (right) to act for him. Scot's Guards are shown (below) arriving at Buckingham palace for a levee.

LONDON, May 4—(AP)—Ishbel MacDonald, the prime minister's daughter and official hostess, can't make any presentations for her father at the royal courts this year despite his high position.

Court etiquette rigidly prescibes that no married woman may introduce anyone to the king and queen. Ramsay MacDonald must ask some married woman to perform this function for him.

Mrs. Snowden, as wife of the chancellor of the exchequer, is the nearest "patroness" upon whom he can call. She lives next door, at 11 Downing street.

Applications from British and American women anxious to attend the royal courts at Buckingham palace on May 14, 15, June 27, 28 this year have exceeded all previous records.

The lord chamberlain has, since January 1, been sorting out thousands of applications from women who wish to be commanded to attend court in order to present their daughters or friends to their majesties. Not half can possibly be granted although between 6,000 and 8,000 persons will appear at the four courts.

Those who get commends (invitations) will be more fortunate than those last year. This year the king, fully recovered from his dangerous illness which prevented him from appearing last year, will once more take full part in the pageantry.

They come in all colors to match many dresses of lace and chiffon. Unlike the mitts, they have a full set of fingers.

Fine Lace In Tiers

PARIS, May 4—(AP)—Spider web weight black lace used in ruffled tiers is particularly favored for dance dresses by very young girls.

The tiered lace dresses have bolero bodices and many have short puff sleeves.

Sailor Collars

PARIS, May 4—(AP)—Tuck-in hand-knit sweaters with sailor collars are [illegible] and new style for sports wear. [illegible] blue and white or two tones of blue although red and white is also a favorite combination.

FRENCH LASS, LEARNS CHIC, WITH A B. Cs

PARIS, May 4—(AP)—Catching them young is one of the secrets of the Rue de la Paix's influence over French women.

The style education of the chic Parisian begins in the cradle and continues through her nurary and school days, her debut and eventual married life.

As a result there are almost as many high priced style houses for children in Paris as there are exclusive dressmaking salons for grown women.

Children's styles have their seasons and trends and models are just as jealously guarded from copyists at the juvenile houses as they are at the senior establishments.

This spring's basic ensemble for the little girl is a matching coat and hat of lightweight velour or tweed.

For sub-debs, from 12 to 16, the skirt and jacket costume is newest, with separate blouse.

For summer much emphasis is laid on dress and short jacket ensembles of colored linen for the sub-deb.

Smaller girls will wear dresses of wash material with matching hats with brims.

Children's silk dresses for afternoon and evening parties combine much taffeta with chiffon and georgette.

"Beatrice" Salad Features Pears

WASHINGTON, May 4—(AP)—A "Beatrice salad" was served at the annual dinner of the National Woman's Press club, attended by many celebrities.

The salad is composed of a ring of canned pear within a ring of avocado pear with a small mound of white cheese surmounted by currant jam in the center.

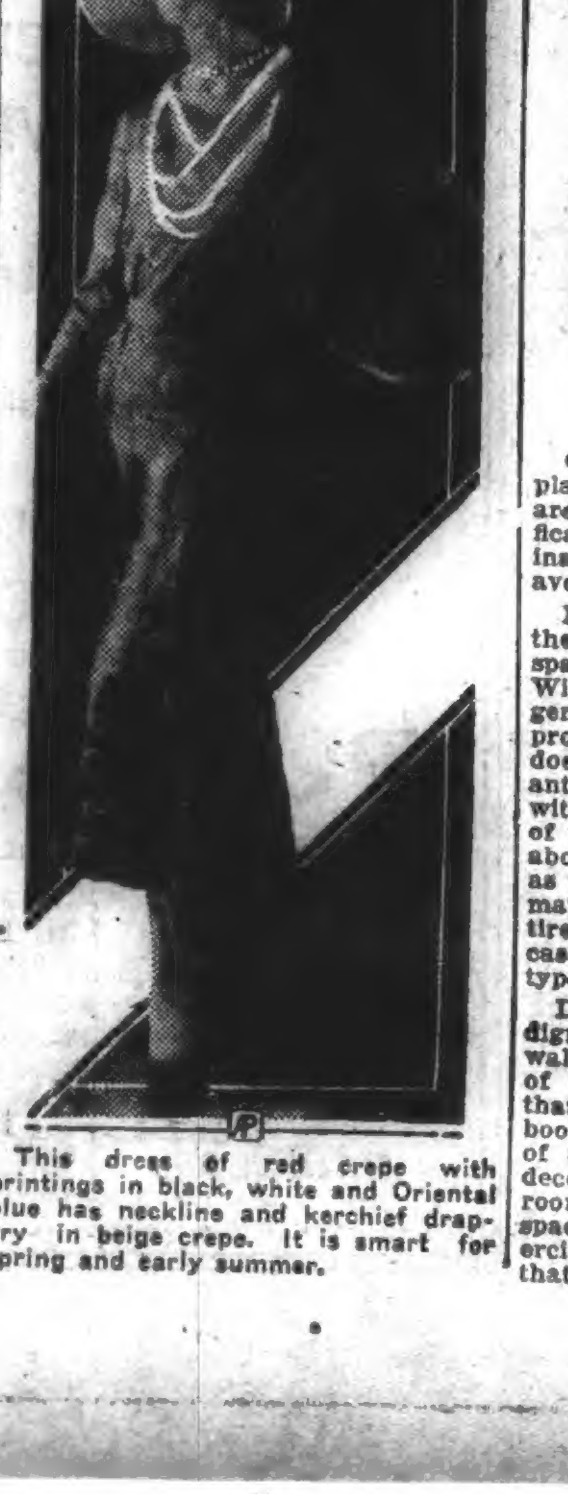
It is served on lettuce and with French dressing.

Simplicity In Shoes

WASHINGTON, May 4—(AP)—Paris creations in women's shoes for 1930 show a distinct trend toward simple lines, relying upon perfect cut rather than upon decorations for their elegance.

Pumps are favored for town wear, as well as the oxford semi-sport types with single strap.

In June Day Mode



This dress of red crepe with printings in black, white and Oriental blue has neckline and kerchief drapery in beige crepe. It is smart for spring and early summer.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Add a tablespoon of sugar to the biscuit dough for a change.

To remove the odor of paraffin from a plate or dish, rub it well with vinegar.

Wash used paint brushes in hot soda water and soft soap and they will be like new.

Parsley improves the flavor of the omelet if added to the egg mixture before cooking.

Try adding one teaspoon of lemon to every pound of fruit when stewing it. It will require less sugar.

Sweeten stewed fruits after they have cooked. They will require only half the quantity of sugar necessary if sweetened during cooking.

A teaspoonful of cold water added to whites of eggs will cause them to whip easily and quickly.

To clean the vinegar bottle, put a teaspoonful of lye in it and fill with water. Let it stand for a few days, then rinse thoroughly.

Mix the salt, pepper and flour in a paper sack, and drop the pieces of fish that are to be fried into the bag and shake well.

To freshen wilted vegetables, add a slice of lemon to a pan of water and soak the vegetables in it for about a half hour. This is particularly effective for spinach, lettuce and parsley.

When melting chocolate, much of it is wasted because it sticks to the sides and bottom of the container. This can be prevented by greasing the pan thoroughly before putting in the chocolate.

THE RIGHT GRAVY

To serve beef gravy, add Worcestershire sauce, tabasco sauce, mushrooms, tomato juice, horseradish, parsley or chopped green pepper.

With lamb gravy use mint or mint jelly, garlic, celery, chopped pimento, carrot or pea puree.

With veal gravy use parsley, celery, tomato juice, peppercorns, bay leaf, lemon juice or chopped bacon.

With ham gravy use cloves, allspice, fruit juices, raisins or tomato puree.

OUT OF THE PANTRY

Vinegar and salt make a magic cleanser for enamelware and for brass, as well as removing lime deposits from the glassware.

LEFT-OVER POTATO

Mix one cup of leftover potatoes with two tablespoons of tapioca, one cup cooled, scalded milk, two teaspoons grated cheese, one cup crumbs and one slightly beaten egg, mold into croquettes and fry in deep fat.

COLORFUL VEGETABLES

Fresh vegetables often lose their color because they are cooked too long. Asparagus, Brussel sprouts, cauliflower, spinach and cabbage rarely need more than 10 minutes cooking; peas, carrots, parsnips and turnips between 20 and 30 minutes and squash only about 20.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Glycerine, cold cream, and lettuce cream are all good for roughened and cracked lips.

If proud flesh appears on a sore, sprinkle it twice a day with dry granulated sugar. This is a simple remedy which often cures quickly.

Giving the face an ice rub after the cleansing process has been completed is an excellent habit to acquire. It tones up the skin. If the pores are large, it helps to reduce them.

DULL SKIN

Often where there is pallor, the skin is dull and listless, needing stimulation. Slapping or patting the face for ten minutes with a cloth wrung out of cold water every night and morning will stimulate the skin. Combine this treatment with deep breathing exercises in the open air and you will soon see a great improvement.

CALLOUSES

The large callouses which form on the bottoms of the feet are caused by poorly fitting shoes. The soles should be broad enough across the toes to permit of perfect freedom, and long enough to keep the toes from touching them up close. The arch of the foot should be fitted to correctly support the instep to avoid all foot trouble.

MOIST HANDS

A simple remedy for moist, clammy hands is to bathe them in a pint of hot water to which has been added one-quarter ounce of powdered alum and a teaspoonful of spirits of ammonia.

RUBBER GLOVES

Any woman who house-cleans without rubber gloves just isn't modern. They come very inexpensively and if you are color conscious you can get them any shade you desire.

PERFUME IN BULK

It is now possible to buy any number of one's favorite perfumes in quantities as small as half an ounce. This is a real advantage to the girl who likes to vary her perfume with her moods.

SUMMER TOILET SETS

The summer guest room will be a pleasant place for the transient or permanent guest, if the dressing table is fitted out with comb and brush, mirror and powder box set, all covered with a glazed chintz with a star pattern.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Maggy Rouff makes a violet woolen coat for spring with a one-sided capelet edged with blue fox.

Smart silk stockings to wear with spring frocks are of sheer silk with colored clocks.

If the neckline on your blouse is not any too becoming, use a two-tone flower at the front. It dresses up the suit.

Evening dress leans decidedly on the side of formal, dignified types, with fluffy delineations very much in the minority.

A new pastel colored tweed coat is cut directoire, with a double revere effect that flares out, accenting the slim silhouette.

The new hat brims are decidedly irregular and so varied that it is possible to find a style that is both becoming and chic this season.

DINNER HATS

Transparent horsehair braid and lacy hats are to be had for dinner wear this spring. If your hair is golden, get one. Nothing could be prettier than gleaming hair showing through a transparent crown.

VELVET WRAP

A charming wrap for summer evenings is a little cape made of transparent velvet. It reaches just to the waist line and ties most gracefully in front.

FABRIC PURSE

Fabric purses are the last word in handbags this spring. Match your suit, match your scarf, match your hat or even your linen frock, but have a fabric purse or two, at any event.

JEWELRY FOR BLACK

Spring brings forth costume jewelry designed for wear with black or navy blue. Prystal, crystal, quartz in pale pink, blue and green come in huge gobs in delicate shapes. The big necklaces are the popular ones.

NEW OXFORDS

Dressy two and three eyelet oxfords are very good with the new dressmaker suits. For the very elaborate suits, classic pumps are good if you can wear them comfortably.

HATS OF STRAW TO REPLACE FELT

If you have wondered whether straw would really be able to replace felt as the principal hat fabric of the season, the new hats will quickly put your doubts to rest. Straw hats are so cleverly new in their appearance that the old felt will crumble with humility beside them. Bakou and panamalac are the two most frequently used straws and they appear in both small close-fitting and large brimmed versions of the new spring bonnet.

SEWING SUGGESTIONS

If silk thread is used when basting velvet, no mark will be felt.

When the sewing machine needle becomes dull, stitch for several inches through a piece of fine sandpaper to sharpen it.

Cut patterns out of old cloth instead of paper. This kind of pattern will not tear like paper and will cling to the goods without pinning.

Instead of tying the ends of the threads when stitching the hem of a sheet or towel on the machine, turn the material and stitch back an ince or so. A neat finish is made by doing this and there is no danger of ripping.

STOCKINGS

When a stocking must be darned just above the shoe, take a small pleat under the heel, tapered at each end and neatly sewn flat. Then the darn will come below the shoe and will not be seen.

IRONING-BOARD COVER

Servicable ironing-board covers are made of unbleached cotton about three inches longer and wider than the board. Sew brass rings five inches apart on both sides of the cover. Then take cotton tape and starting at one end of the board put it through the rings as you would lace a shoe.

TWO IN ONE

A large feather pillow may be made into two small ones without removing the feathers, if they are pushed to both ends of the pillow, leaving a space without feathers in the center of the pillow. Stitch twice through this space, then cut between the rows of stitching and you will have two pillows.

THREE QUARTERS

A semi-sheer green crepe suit has three-quarter sleeves that have cuffs of the blouse's sleeves coming out from under them.

WALL PAPER

A paste of cornstarch and water will remove a grease spot from wallpaper. Let it remain on the spot until dry and then brush off.

LACE EDGED

A white chiffon blouse for an older woman has narrow black lace edging narrow tucks that run vertically to fashion a little front vestee.

SMALL CLOSETS

An ingenious woman got maximum utility out of a shallow, small closet by putting a 12-inch rod forclothes hangers on the door, a shoe rack all around the baseboard of the closet and two shelves, 12-inches apart, at the top for hats.

TABLE

A piece of oilcloth of the same size as the silence cloth is a wonderful protection to the dining-room table. Put the oilcloth on first, then the silence cloth and finally the table cover. The table will never be marred by hot dishes or spilled liquids.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Women police are to be installed in Liverpool, England.

Women in Konia, Turkey, are now engaged in peddling milk from door to door.

Women are denied jury service in Massachusetts by the State Legislature.

Under the Rhode Island law, a women may accept or refuse jury service.

Adelaide F. Jennings, of New York City, owns and operates a chain of detective agencies.

For the first time in history, a woman has played the great organ of Notre Dame, in Paris, France.

Mme. Flammarion, widow of the great French astronomer, is carrying on the work of her distinguished husband.

Women in England are now placed on the same level with men in regards to facilities for pursuing divorce petitions.

A testing circle has been formed by 50 women students at the Colorado Agriculture college for the purpose of testing household utensils.

TIME SAVER

When spring cleaning, if you lineup all articles of furniture that need the same kind of treatment and then do all of them at once, it saves time.

SPRING FLOWERS

One or two daffodils or other spring flowers should be considered a necessary household decoration in spring. Cut the stems under water and they will keep fresh much longer.

BASKET OF CHINA

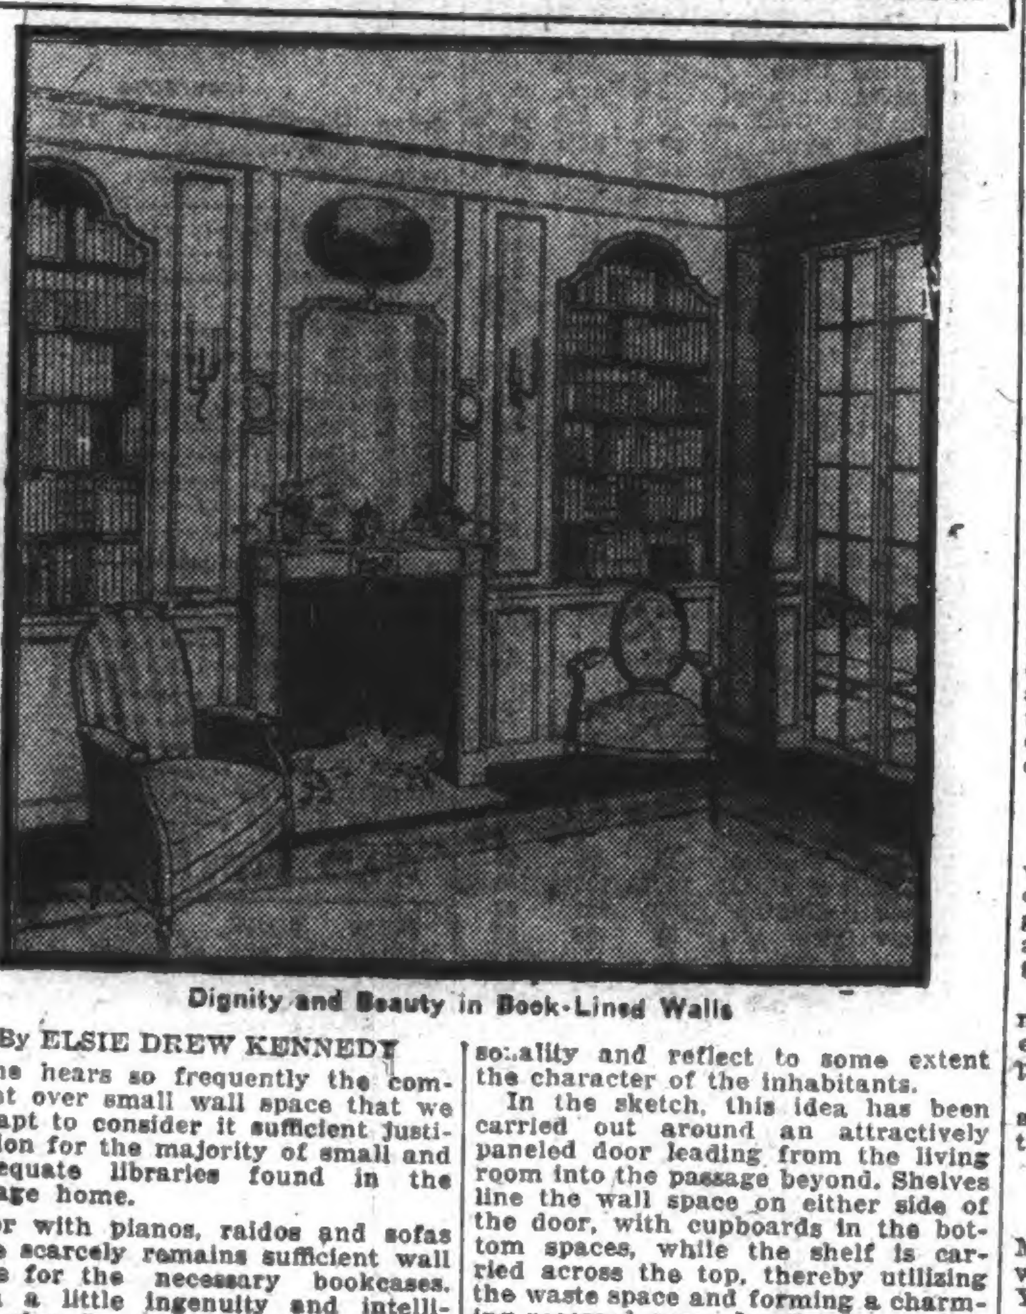
You can always tell whether the barrel or basket of china is well packed by rocking it gently. If you cannot hear any clink of china you can feel assured it will travel safely. But if you hear a little clink, investigate before going any further and find the dishes that are escaping the newspapers and excelsior and touching.

RECIPES

Soft Molasses Cookies:—Cream one and one-half cup of brown sugar with one cup of lard. Add two eggs and one cup of molasses, then beat well. Sift together five cups of white flour, one teaspoon of baking soda, one tablespoon of ground ginger and one teaspoon of salt. Add to the other ingredients. Now add one cup of boiling water very gradually and beat well. Drop by spoonfuls onto greased baking sheets and bake in a hot oven.

Scalloped Sweet Potatoes:—Cook six medium-sized sweet potatoes or yams with jacket on until almost tender. Peel while warm and cut in one-fourth-inch slices crosswise. In a buttered casserole or baking dish place a layer of sliced sweet potatoes and sprinkle generously with brown sugar, salt and pepper and dots of butter. Repeat until the dish is nearly filled or until the potatoes are all used. Pour over all three-fourths cup of water and one cup of maple sirup. Bake slowly for about 40 minutes in a medium oven. Buttered crumbs or corn flakes may be placed on top.

BUILT-IN BOOK SHELVES REDEEM LIVING ROOM



Dignity and Beauty in Book-Lined Walls

By ELSIE DREW KENNEDY

One hears so frequently the complaint over small wall space that we are apt to consider it sufficient justification for the majority of small and inadequate libraries found in the average home.

For with pianos, raidos and sofas there scarcely remains sufficient wall space for the necessary bookcases. With a little ingenuity and intelligent planning, however, space can be provided, for the average bookcase does not harmonize, unless it is a fine antique, or something extraordinary, with the furnishings and decorations of the average living room. So look about you—your home or apartment as the case may be—and see how many vacant wall spaces that are entirely too small for the detached bookcase, but not to small for the built-in type.

Decorators are quick to realize the dignity and beauty that book-lined walls impart to a room. Indeed, some of the most successful rooms owe that livable quality to the fact that book-shelves are an integral feature of the room and not an extraneous decoration. In the case of those rooms that boast scarcely any wall space, it affords an opportunity to exercise that originality and ingenuity that will definitely stamp it with personality and reflect to some extent the character of the inhabitants.

In the sketch, this idea has been carried out around an attractively paneled door leading from the living room into the passage beyond. Shelves line the wall space on either side of the door, with cupboards in the bottom spaces, while the shelf is carried across the top, thereby utilizing the waste space and forming a charming recessed space for the door, since the side of the shelves may be paneled or decorated so as to emphasize this note.

The cupboards are particularly attractive for they furnish a convenient place for odds and ends. If desired, the cupboards may be fashioned as bins that open outward and fitted with sections that will take magazines, or large folios convenient and orderly manner. In planning your bookshelves, especially those that give a decorative unit to a room, it is well to have the woodwork in a matching tone that will harmonize with the rest of the room, and preferably in a neutral tone, so that there will be a pleasant contrast between the book backs and the woodwork. This same idea may be worked out around a window, as the central unit rather than the door, and the space below fitted with a window seat, comfortably cushioned.

Capes Appear

PARIS, May 4—(AP)—Silk capes with bands of lace shirred on them, exact copies of the sort of thing the girls of Queen Alexandra's time wore, are put forth here among the styles that bloom in the spring.

One of the most conspicuous cape models is canary yellow laille ruffled with stiff black lace. It accompanies a yellow chiffon dance dres.

There are dozens of varieties of short capes, ranging from ermine to tulle.

Pearls and Purple

WASHINGTON, May 4—(AP)—Mrs. Gibson Fahnestock, who is as well known in Newport and New York as in Washington, is wearing a blue tailor-made suit with a blue straw hat.

Major Julia Stimson, head of the army nurse crops, is a contrast to her business-like daylight appearance in an evening gown of purple taffeta with long string of pearls.

Ban Marriage For Teachers

DUBUQUE, Iowa, May 4—(AP)—Marriage of teacher in the Dubuque public schools will be considered the equivalent of her resignation, the board of education has decided.

Married teachers now on the staff are exempt.

Club Girls Rank High

CHICAGO, May 4—(AP)—Club women averaged better grades at the University of Chicago this year than fraternity men, although one fraternity group led both clubs and fraternities.

CHIC WESTERN SPORTS GIRL MUST HAVE SMART PAJAMAS

SAN FRANCISCO, May 4—(AP)—The "Girl of the Golden West" is going to be a pajama girl this summer.

If she's chic her wardrobe will include these costumes:

Sports pajamas.
Lounging pajamas.
Bridge party pajamas.
Beach pajamas.

So decided more than a hundred coast designers who gathered here to analyze new modes for which western women have shown preference.

For recreational dress pajamas will be "more important than ever," they predicted, but with "an air of refined simplicity."

Sports wear will be not so extreme but more intricate. Lines will be much subtle, and follow the contour of the body with more graceful effect, the designers believe.

Woolens rather than flannel will be the materials for mountaineering, airplaning, gliding and hiking.

Recreational clothes will be more "theatrical" with a nationalistic influence—Mexican, Japanese, Spanish and Turkish. Wide sailor trousers will be "very smart," for seaside wear.

Return to lacy femininity is acceptable to western women for formal attire, say coast designers but for sport clothes freedom of short lengths will be retained while pajamas find even greater popularity.

WOMEN GOLFERS LIKE ETON COLLAR STYLE

PARIS, May 4—(AP)—Semi-stiff collars of the type once called Buster Brown and now known as Eton are appearing regularly at golf courses near Paris, where well-dressed women play.

Most of the Eton collars are of cotton pique, but same linen is also used.

Tailored silk blouses have a growing tendency toward flat round collars cut on Eton lines. Sports-women favor them especially.

Handbags Affect Black And Crystal

PARIS, May 4—(AP)—Black handbags with crystal handles are standard style with black and white afternoon costumes.

One of the newest bags has a crystal bar from which a pouchshaped suede bag is hung.

Bathing Suit Trade Good

Panama Hats For Sports

PARIS, May 4—(AP)—Panama hats with wide brims are regulation for sports wear on the golf course, beach or yacht.

Guiding Your Child

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

Unlovable

Milly was one of those distressing children who are called "un-childlike," and who have the un-happy faculty of alienating adult sympathy.

Her attitude was constantly defensive and she seemed naturally to place barriers between herself and those who tried to make friends with her. If you called to her, she would drop her toy with a guilty look or pretend she had not heard you.

If you remark even so much as implied a critical attitue the slow, painful red would mount to her face. Without even having caught her in dishonesty, you felt that she was deceitful and that behind her eyes were suspicion, distrust and envy.

One needed to be no psychologist to suspect that here was a child who felt herself unloved and constantly under disapproval.

Milly was a very pleasant little girl at the time that an aunt of hers came to pay the family a summer visit. In a week Aunt Helen sized up the situation and decided what it was that Milly needed.

She saw that baby sister was the apple of her parents' eyes and that Milly got but scant love or attention from either father or mother. Aunt Helen embarked upon a campaign. She found little tasks for Milly to do about the house for which even an unobservant mother could not withhold recognition.

Observing that Milly was naturally graceful, Aunt Helen gave her dancing lessons and so to it that mother visited the class to see how beautifully her little daughter danced and to hear other people praise her.

In the new sympathetic atmosphere, the child blossomed out into the natural attractiveness of childhood. She lost the look of defensiveness, envy, and guilt. Receiving her share of love, she became lovable.

REPORTS OF BUSINESS CONDITIONS LAST WEEK RATHER DISAPPOINTING

NEW YORK, May 4.—(AP)—While current business reports coming to hand during the past week were rather disappointing, there were a few outstading developments which were widely heralded as enhancing the prospects of further recovery.

An advance psychological factor was a severe shake out in the stock market, but Wall street was more inclined to regard this as the collapse of an over-extended speculative structure than as affecting anything fundamentally wrong with business.

The selling movement in the stock market permitted the New York Federal Reserve bank to reduce its rediscount rate from 3 1-2 to 3 per cent, without stirring up a new orgy of speculation, and is expected to check the rapid increase in brokers' loans of the past two months.

The reduction in the rediscount rate was made along with cuts in the Bank of England rate to 3 per cent, and the Bank of France rate to 2 1-2 uer cent., while it is acknowledged that these low rates are in a measure made possible by the slack business conditions throughout the world, if history repeats itself they should aid materially in eventual recovery.

President Hoover, in a survey of business conditions before the United States chamber of commerce, stated that the worst of the depression is over, and that the readjustment since last fall has been more rapid than recovery from any previous collapse.

Building contracts, as reported for the week ended April 25 by F. W. Dodge corporation, showed some improvement, and the renewed decline in money rates is expected to clear the way for further gains. Freight car loadings, as reported ofr the week ended April 19, showed the surprising drop of 112,939 cars, from the like week of last year.

Renewed weakness of a sizeable list of commodity prices was one of the more discouraging developments of the week, but it was in part attributable to weakness in stocqs. The petroleum industry appeared to be making considerable progress in bringing production into line with consumption.

WESTERLY

CALAMITOUS FIRES LEAVE FAMILIES HOMELESS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., May 4—Two days and two nights of forest fire fighting in the eastern border of the town of Westerly and the west side of the town of Charlestown, have left the fire-fighters of Washington county thoroughly exhausted. Some 4,000 acres of timberland and brush have been burned over by flames driven by high and shifting winds. Automobile traffic on the Boston Post road of Route No. 1, was detoured Saturday and Sunday when through motorists were directed to take Route 1A over the Nooseneck Hill road in passing through Rhode Island. In Dixon square, the business center of Westerly, police stopped all autos with plates of states outside of Conn. and R. I., and the ocupants were informed that on the Boston Post road they could proceed only as far as Dunn's Corners or Haversham where they would be turned about by members of the department of Rhode Island state police from the Hope Valley and Wickford barracks.

The fire is thought to have its origin from a carelessly thrown match or cigarette from a passing auto at or near McGowan's Corners, on the Westerly-Bradford state road shortly after noon Saturday. A steam shovel which was parked near the place and from which it was thought the fire came was found to have its stack down hence not able to emit sparks. Following the strenuous battle of Saturday afternoon and night by six or eight fire departments of South County sections, the people of Westerly were awakened Sunday at 7:30 a. m. by the continued blasts of the fire whistle sounded for No. 33, an out-of-the-district call to fight the fires, which had started again with the rising wind. Again at 5:15 p. m. emergency call No. 33 was sounded to take out all the remaining firefighters to protect property along the eastern front of the town.

When the embers along the cross roads from the Bradford road to the Boston Post road have sufficiently cooled to permit a thorough inspection it is expected that some ten or a dozen homes, large and small, will have fallen prey to the devouring flames as they raced through the brush and timberlands. At least four houses, one an old South County plantation house, built in 1754, and many outbuildings were burned, scores of people made homeless and three thousand acres of wood and timber land destroyed in the fire which started at about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon near McGowan's Corners.

The fire on the Post Road which threatened the houses of Capt. Thomas Saunders, E. P. James and Phillip Gavitt was checked at about 1 o'clock Sunday afternoon. The fire had burned right up to the backs of these houses, and water was poured on their roofs.

At least eight fire companies from Westerly and towns as far as Auburn and Apponaug, with an estimated fighting force of 300 volunteers, battled the flames until about 11 o'clock Saturday night when the fire appeared to have been checked at the farm of Arthur Acres, known as Shore Acres, on the Boston Post road.

The greatest damage done was at the farm of Mrs. Joseph Hoxie in Charlestown. The house, barn, cribs and other out-buildings were totally destroyed at about 6:30 o'clock Saturday night when the flames swept up from the rear through a forest of tall pines, sparks igniting the house. When the flames reached the Hoxie place, A. L. Bliven, a man about 70, was alone on the premises. Willard M. Hoxie and his son, Willard, Jr., were a mile back of their home fighting the flames at another house. Mr. Hoxie's mother, Mrs. Joseph Hoxie and her grandchildren, Natale and Eleanor, were in the house and they escaped with every few personal effects. Caretaker Bliven gave his attention to the rescue of a herd of 13 cows and two horses, which were released into the field.

Fire companies from Westerly, Pawcatuck, Watch Hill, Misquamicut, Peace Dale, Wakefield, Shannock, Richmond, Auburn and Apponaug had apparatus battling the flames.

The old house of Mrs. Lillian Crandall, located on the Klondike road, was destroyed about the middle of the afternoon. The house of Clarence Church, located on the Bradford road, was also burned, as was the Michael Morrone house, occupied by the family of Peter Descello, Descello, besides his wife, has eight children, left homeless. The old Crandall farm house, which was unoccupied at the time it burned, was built back in 1754. This house and the barn across the road were reduced to ashes. A nearby house located on the same farm owned by Everett Crandall and occupied by James Magee and family was saved by the Shannock firemen. A large portion of the roof was burned, but the firemen succeeded in extinguishing the blaze.

TWO MEN BURNED WHEN SHANNOCK PUMPER BACKFIRES

While filling at the Mulberry Glen station Sunday morning, the chemical pumper of the Shannock department caught fire from a back-fire of the engine and the crew worked hard and successfully to save the apparatus. Russell Hoxsey, of Shannock was badly burned about the hands, arms and face while fighting the fire. He was taken to the South County hospital in Wakefield for treatment. While rescuing him, Samuel Barber of Carolina was painfully burned on his hands.

Red Cross Aids

Henry L. Burdick, chairman of the Westerly chapter of the American Red Cross, and Executive Secretary Miss Lucy Crowley made strenuous efforts to supply the firemen with food and drink while they were engaged in the fire-fighting. The food was sent in trucks and distributed, both Saturday and Sunday. The Red Cross chapter of Wakefield also sent lunches to the fire-fighters and some of the elder Boy Scouts took them up to the front line of firefighters.

He notified Carroll Hutchinson, who called Deputy Fire Warden Robert E. Foote. Mr. Hutchinson, with four men, went to the fire and found it rapidly gaining headway. Fire Warden Foote and other men of Gilead, Hebron and Marlborough, arrived later in the day, and fought the blaze until 5.30, when the fire was considered under control, yet still was burning. The flames destroyed from 150 to 200 acres of land; land owned by K. B. Nobles, of Hartford, John Lyman, Mrs. Hart Buell, Mrs. Lavina Hutchinson, F. X. Kalix and Wilbur N. Hills, of Gilead, Mr. Clayton Hills of Marlborough, whose land bordered Nobles' land. F. X. Kalix and John Lyman were the greatest losers because of loss of valuable timber lands. Smoke was so dense at one time men could not fight the fire. Fire drove a good many rabbits and deer from burning trees to seek other shelter. Lyman's, Kalix's and Nobles' buildings were threatened by the flames. The ice house and hen house on Nobles' property was ruined. The estimate of the loss has not been given out. The origin of fire unknown, but the belief is that men fishing dropped a match or cigarette.

Recruit—That can never happen here.

Captain—Why not?

Recruit—There are only two of us on duty.—Moustique, Charleroi.

WE Repeat

Spit is a horrid word, but it is worse on the end of your cigar

...the war against Spitting is a crusade of decency...join it.
Smoke CERTIFIED CREMO!

The man who spits in public places is no worse an offender against public decency than the workman who rolls cigars with dirty fingers and tips the ends with spit. And remember, more than half of all cigars made in this country are made by hand, and therefore subject to the risk of spit!

Take no chances ... smoke Certified Cremo. Every tobacco leaf entering the clean, sunny Certified Cremo factories is scientifically treated by methods recommended by the United States Department of Agriculture. And its purity is safeguarded along every step of the way by amazing inventions that foil, wrap and tip the cigars without the possibility of spit!

Try a Certified Cremo—see how wonderfully good it is! Made of the choicest, tenderest leaves that the crop affords, we claim Certified Cremo's quality is tastier than that of any other cigar. Don't let its 5c price stand in your way. Your physician has in mind a cigar like Certified Cremo when he recommends a mild smoke in place of heavy brands.

Crush-proof ... immaculate ... foil-wrapped ... Certified Cremo is the kind of cigar the late Vice-President Marshall undoubtedly was thinking of when he said, "What this country needs is a good 5c cigar!"

All Good Automobile Insurance Is Not the Same—

If you have that idea, it's costing you money.

Here are the things that well informed car owners now demand when they insure their cars:

1. Complete protection.
2. Prompt, capable service when needed, not only at home but anywhere in this country and Canada.
3. A share in the welfare of their company—a return of whatever part of their premium is warranted at the end of the year.

If you are not getting these things, you owe it to yourself to find out more about automobile insurance written in the American Motorist's Insurance Company.

American motorist's policyholders have always received a substantial dividend saving on each year's automobile insurance premium. Phone Norwich, 3636 NOW and secure further details.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theatre

"Mammy" Now playing at the Palace theatres features Al Jolson in his fourth and greatest picture. Famous for his burnt cork artistry "Mammy" gives him a chance to sing most of his songs, as end-man in a minstrel, in blackface. The story and songs for this production were written by Irving Berlin and Jolson sings the old songs of his minstrel days as well as the newer hits composed especially for this picture.

"Mammy" long famous in song and story is at last made real and Louise Dresser plays her part perfectly. Dressler plays her part perfectly. Among the other stars in the picture are Lois Moran, Lowell Sherman, Hobart Bosworth and many men who have spent the greater part of their lives doing blackface parts in minstrels.

The story of "Mammy" has been taken from Jolson's own experiences as an end man in a minstrel and this picture which has been his ambition for many years is sure to immortalize the days when a minstrel in town was an event. There are technicolor scenes of the dress parades always held on the day of the performance, the ballyhooing scenes when crowds gathered in front of the theatre listening to the band and being enticed to witness the greatest show on earth. And best of all "Mammy" is a comedy. There are few tears to be found in any part of the picture for the most emotional theatre-goer.

On Wednesday, Thursday and Friday the Palace theatre will present another double-feature bill combining "Spring is Here" with Alexander Gray and Bernice Claire which was adapted from the stage success of the same name and "This Mad World" starring Louise Dresser and Basil Rathbone in a picture which reveals a new angle on the age-old conflict between patriotism and love.

Broadway Theatre

From the days of the earliest caveman right up to our much-touted modern civilization, physical strength in a man has always attracted the "weaker sex," and George Bancroft, surely the "strong man" of the movies, has always proved it in his pictures, but never to better advantage than in "Ladies Love Brutes," his current attraction at the Broadway. Typifying an Italian contractor who has risen from the ditch to a supreme position in steel construction, thereby engendering the hate of his less successful opponents, Bancroft has a role worthy of his talent, and literally batters his way through all opposition, even that of Gangland itself, reaching all goals except two, which he strives in vain for, social recognition and the heart of a cultured woman. Bancroft at his best, with lovely Mary Astor, the woman he craves, and two lovable youngsters, David Durand and Freddie Burke Frederick, son of Pauline Frederick, give him the moral support against the gang, headed by Stanley Fields, the sinister Chicago racketeer of "The Family Next Door," dainty Lee Morse in a distinct novelty "A Million Me's," and the latest Paramount Sound News complete a corking hot-weather program. The Norwich girls are lining up fast in the Broadway theatre contest for a complete "Summer Girl" outfit which will soon be awarded.

NORWICH EX-MAYOR MAY ADDRESS AGGRIEVED NEW LONDON TAXPAYERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 4.—At the next meeting of the New London Taxpayers' league, which will be held the week of the 12th inst., it is probable that ex-Mayor Herbert M. Lerou of Norwich will address the assemblage, for he has been invited to do so. Mr. Lerou is president of the Norwich league and as the latter has been successful in gaining many of the objectives for which it was formed, it is believed that should he accept the invitation to address the New London members his suggestions and advice will be of much benefit to the local organization.

Mott and his wife have been living apart for some time, but the husband has been contributing to the latter's support. When contributions were suspended, Mrs. Mott caused her husband's arrest.

VILENESS IN THEATRE RESULTS IN ARREST

Albert Frenniere, 28, a laborer, residing at 51 Hempstead street, went to the Crown theatre Saturday night, supposedly to be amused and entertained by what he saw on the screen, but it developed that the man entered the playhouse with the belief that he would be the entertainer. He assumed this role, but his idea of entertainment was possessed by himself and no one else and his a result his acts brought about his arrest on a charge of indecent exposure and he will be presented in the police court Monday. Frenniere went to the theatre early and while seated next to a young woman who was accompanied by a girl friend exposed himself, attracting the attention of the young women. The women made complaint to an usher and the latter summoned Patrolman [illegible] [illegible], who arrested Frenniere. He could not furnish a surety for his bond and was locked up to await the convening of court.

William Good, colored, of 55 Shaw street, was arrested Saturday night by Patrolmen Albert Iverson and Louis [illegible], charged with breach of the peace upon complaint of his wife. Good was released upon furnishing a surety on a bond of $100 and will be in court Monday.

HAD HIS RUM JUG ALONG ON SUNDAY MORNING SPIN

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 4.—Lieut. Joseph W. Stryker, submarine base, was arrested at 2 o'clock this morning, charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. Stryker was driving on Bank street when his auto crashed against a car owned by Joseph G. Delehanty of Curtiss street, Southington. Both machines were damaged and when Sergeant John Courtney and Automobile Patrol Officer Clarence Martin investigated the accident they found Stryker very much under the influence. In Stryker's automobile was found a gallon jug partially filled with Bacardi rum.

John T. Rawls, seaman third class, stationed on submarine S-7, who was injured Friday night when he fell three stories from the Lawrence hall building, Bank street, was transferred today from Lawrence-Memorial hospital to the sick bay at the submarine base. He is suffering from a brain injury but his skull is not fractured as was at first believed. Rawls, with other sailors, attended a dance in the building and went to the fire escape in the rear. When his companions returned to the dance floor, Rawls remained behind. His friends seeking him found Rawls was not on the fire escape. An investigation resulted in Rawls being found on the concrete entrance to a store on the ground floor, he having fallen over the railing and dropped a distance of about 25 feet. Rawls was unconscious when found, but during Saturday he regained consciousness.

An automobile driven by Frank Ware, 61 Benham road, Groton, struck Lenox Latham, U. S. coast guard, state pier, Saturday night, when the sailor ran in front of the automobile on Main street, near Church. BOOZE MAKES LIEUTENANT FORGET HIS DIGNITY

In the city court Saturday, Lieut. Campbell H. Minkler, 123 Squire street, stationed at the submarine base, was charged with reckless driving, although when arrested he was charged with driving while under the influence of liquor. Minkler pleaded guilty to the amended complaint and a fine of $25 and costs was imposed. Minkler was arrested late Friday night by Patrolman Arthur Feeley and was sought earlier in the evening when the officer attracted attention on Main street by reprimanding bluejackets for failing to salute him. Before a patrolman arrived, Minkler had driven away. Several hours later Officer Feeley observed that the officer was under the influence and arrested him. After being released on bail, Minkler insisted on returning to police headquarters where he upbraided the department, particularly those having to do with his arrest. The officer's tirade was ended when he was lodged in a cell for the remainder of the night.

Husband And Father Freed.

The continued case of August Breyer, a painter, and residing on Montauk avenue, was concluded with a nolle being ordered. Breuer was arrested several weeks ago at the request of the New York police who said they held a warrant charging the painter with abandonment of his daughter and nonsupport of his wife. The case was continued several times and when an officer failed to arrive here today to take charge of the accused Breuer was discharged.

Longo Fined $50 And Costs.

Joseph A. Longo, 18, residing at 41 Shaw street and Andrew J. Maynard, Squire street, were charged with reckless driving, each upon the complaint of the other. Longo was found guilty and was fined $50 and costs. The arrest of the drivers was the result of the automobile they were driving colliding at the corner of Hempstead and Truman streets, Friday. Both cars were damaged and Longo and Maynard blamed each other for the crash. The testimony Saturday showed that Longo was the offender and he, accordingly, was fined.

Patrolman Walter O'Neill suffered a strain Saturday when assisting in puhing an automobile that had stalled in traffic to a position beside the curb. He was compelled to abandon duty, but will be back on his beat within a day or two, as the injury is not serious.

HARMLESS MERRIMENT THOUGH GUESTS UNDRESSED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 4. — John Herndon, 32 Shapley street, was in the police court Saturday, charged with conducting a disorderly house and violation of the liquor law. Ernest P. Scott and Mrs. Edna Zeine, 26, were charged with adultery, while nine sailors, Alfred Goodwin, B. R. Varnell, Melvin Solari, H. H. Henderson, J. L. Wellhoit, James Fowler, Paul Batchie, Gerald Parker, and Fred J. Stohl, were charged with frequenting, as was Leola Herndon, wife of the proprietor. All were found not guilty for the prosecutor was without evidence which Judge Daniel M. Cronin considered sufficient to warrant imposing a penalty. The witnesses for the defense denied the allegations of their accusers and the witnesses of the state, police officers, could not convince the court that a disorderly house existed, nor that Scott and Mrs. Zeine had committed a statutory offense. The men and women were arrested Thursday night when the Herndon home was raided and the women and sailors were found there, as was a very small quantity of whiskey. The officers testified to going to the house where it was known the sailors were inside. There they found the bluejackets and Herndon and his wife in one room and Scott and Mrs. Zeine emerging from a bed-chamber, apparently hastily attired. The liquor was found in two pint bottles in the room where the sailors were assembled. The witnesses for the accused, especially Herndon, testified that the sailors were among his acquaintances and that they had been invited to the residence, as the bluejackets were musicians, for a social evening, in view of the fact that they had been absent from the city for several months. There was no testimony available to contradict Herndon and the other witnesses so all were adjudged not guilty.

John Welsh, chief petty officer, stationed at the state pier, was arrested this morning by Patrolman George Bruhns upon complaint of Walter Shaw taxicab driver, who charged the coast guarder with refusing to pay cab hire. After being locked up, Welsh paid the cab driver, so he was discharged.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 4.—Joe Piero, 26 Goshen street, was charged in the city court Saturday with violation of the liquor law on two counts, keeping with intent to sell and possession. He entered a demurrer, which was overruled and a fine of $200 and costs on each count was imposed. Bremo Manizza, Jesse Beaney, Anthony T. Silva, George Allen, Thomas A. Sullivan, Joseph Halcapi, Louis Spanial, Charles Stanley and Thomas Williams were charged with frequenting, for they were found in the house when a squad of police raided it Friday night. The frequenters were all given a nolle. When the police entered Piero's home nine young men were seated about rooms and a search of the building resulted in a large quantity of beer and a small amount of whiskey being found. It was Piero's first arrest for violation of the liquor law.

Bailey and his wife were walking along the highway near Old Saybrook bridge and were struck by an automobile approaching from the rear. Bailey's head was crushed. Holland, 23 Preising street, Jamaica Plains, Mass., was arrested this afternoon on Bank street by State Police Officer John Smith, charged with speeding and not having interstate markers or Connecticut public service license. Mrs. Meicer's Chauffeur Offends

The chauffeur employed by Mrs. Grace Palmer Meicer, Montville, has been ordered to present himself in the police court Monday, charged with passing a standing automobile that was receiving and discharging passengers. A trolley car came to a stop on Bank street and while a woman and two children were alighting the automobile passed at a fast rate of speed. Patrolman Michael Dorsey was a witness of the act and his report resulted in the chauffeur being ordered into court.

Hazard Of Grass Fires

The fire department was kept busy Saturday night and today, principally in responding to still alarms for grass fires. Saturday night a pot of tar became ignited on West Coit street and because of its proximity to buildings an alarm was sent in from Box 343, corner of Connecticut avenue and Prest streets. Four pieces of apparatus responded and the blaze was quickly extinguished with chemicals. Throughout today a half dozen still alarms were responded to for grass fires.

Grass fires broke out in Waterford, Gales Ferry, Stonington and Groton this afternoon, the most threatening being in Groton and Gales Ferry. The Groton blaze was in the rear of the mill of the Max Pollock company, Poquonoc road and fanned by a high wind the fire made rapid progress. Because of the fire reaching nearby structures an alarm was rung in and it required hard work by the firemen, who were compelled to use much water before the fire was subdued.

Sales Agent Impertinent

During the past week, residents have been called to their doors and had plenty of chances to get rid of some of their money. Pencils, books, silver, brushes, extracts, electric washers and other electric appliances. In some instances, the salesman gets rather sarcastic if any person refuses to buy. In one case when the woman of the house told the salesman that she was not interested, he informed her that she was one of very few women who was not interested in something sanitary.

Deacon and Mrs. Louis P. Allyn were expected to arrive in the village the latter part of last week, after spending the winter in Daytona, Fla.

A tempest and a deluge of rain visited the village Friday night. It had been on the way for two days, if the crashings of the radios were any indications of it.

Is Mother of Eight

"The first year after I got married I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was so weak that the minute I would start to do something I would feel badly. It did me a lot of good. Since then I have taken the Vegetable Compound off and on whenever I needed it. I am now the mother of eight children and I still recommend this medicine for it makes me feel younger and stronger."—Mrs. Oreance Godfrey, 103 Cumberland Street, Woonsocket, Rhode Island.

In taking the 1930 census, 20,000 different questions will be asked, but no one person will be required to answer more than twenty or thirty about himself.

Be of Good Cheer --- Things Are Looking a Lot Better, So Let's Stop "Grousing"

During the war there were certain soldiers who were always complaining about something—"grousing" over the "eats" or something else.

In civic life, especially at a time like this, there are chronic kickers and "knockers"—but they seldom get anywhere or do the rest of the world much good. WE DON'T WANT ANY OF THEM IN NORWICH.

After all, things could be a lot worse. We have much to be thankful for. Let's throw away the hammer and get a horn—shout till the rafters ring—and soon GOOD TIMES WILL BE BACK AGAIN.

We should feel very proud with the progress of the new Norwich Inn that is soon to be opened with eclat. Incidentally, the Reid & Hughes Co. is installing the window shades for the hotel.

How delighted we are with the Norwich Chamber of Commerce broadcasting series each Friday evening over WTIC. Thousands here and elsewhere are enjoying the Doctor and the Schoolmaster. Many of us are learning SOMETHING NEW about the colorful history of Norwich.

We surely ought to advertise Norwich as the SHORT ROUTE for tourists to take en route between New York and Boston. And suppose we do our utmost in treating tourists and strangers with kindness and consideration—MAKE THEM FEEL WELCOME—happy to meet and happy to come again.

The classic boat race between Harvard and Yale will be held soon on the Thames and draw a multitude of visitors. Perhaps we can make some of them wish they had a home along the banks of this picturesque river.

Why not take soul-stirring pride in the efforts of the NORWICH SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA to provide the finest music by world-famous composers?

Let's lend our most enthusiastic support to the Duwell Club in putting on the national amateur events for Memorial day.

Whatever is good for Norwich as a whole is good for all of us who reside in Norwich and make our living here.

ONE SMILE is worth a dozen frowns in any market. One booster is a ray of sunshine that chases away the clouds of gloom that emanate from the "grousers" like a smoke screen that mars the beauty of our city.

Finally, we believe it is good business to co-operate with all worthy civic enterprises—the Boston Store has grown up with Norwich for the past half century and has participated in its various activities. Our April volume of sales showed a substantial increase over April of last year—not that we feel unduly "chesty" but OPTIMISTIC AND CONFIDENT that Norwich will maintain her pre-eminence among the cities of Eastern Connecticut.

CLASS OF 100 RECEIVES COMMUNION AT ST. MARY'S

A class of 100 children, 61 boys and 39 girls composed a first holy communion class which received the sacrament of the holy eucharist Sunday at the 9 o'clock mass, which was celebrated by the curate, Rev. Arthur B. Sullivan. After passing an examination in their catechism on matters pertaining to their holy religion they were then taken in charge by the sisters to further preparations for the happy day. The dress and deportment of the class reflected the training received from the sisters. The class met in the assembly hall of the parish school and marched in procession to the church and was assigned special pews in the main aisle. The class received the sacrament from their pastor, Rev. George J. Donahue following which a large number of adults went to the altar for holy communion, distributed by Father Donahue, assisted by Father Sullivan.

Following the mass the class members were enrolled in the brown scapulars by Rev. Fr. Sullivan. After the mass they marched back in procession to the school hall to receive the congratulations of their parents, relatives and friends. A congregation which taxed the seating capacity of the handsome edifice with an over flow into the auditory attended the 9 o'clock mass. Fr. Donahue, the pastor, preaching on the day's gospel, pictured Christ as the Good Shepherd.

STATE WARNS FARMERS TO AVOID WEED SEEDS

Farmers are urged to read the labels on all agricultural seeds before making purchases and to use every precaution to insure getting a high quality product. This warning was issued by the state department of agriculture when, as a result of its inspection work in the enforcement of the Connecticut seed law it became apparent that there were seeds being offered for sale within the state that had a high percentage of noxious weed seeds.

"Read the Label," is a slogan which could be profitably adopted by every farmer in Connecticut, says the department.

While a large percentage of the dealers are carrying high quality seeds an outstanding example of the opposite condition was brought to light when one sample of clover seed, according to the declaration on the tag contained 11 different kinds of weed seeds. A sample of timothy showed nine different kinds of weed seeds. The percentage of weed seeds in the clover sample was great enough so that there would be about 13,500 noxious and undesirable weed seeds sown to the acre.

(Special to The Bulletin)

MONTVILLE, May 4.—Sebastian Silva of 30 Denison avenue, New London, driving a motor truck of the Frisbie Pie Co., 754 Maple avenue, Hartford, on the Palmertown road about 4 o'clock this afternoon struck and instantly killed William La Bounty, Jr., 3, son of William La Bounty of Palmertown, and seriously injured Jeanne, 6, sister of the little boy.

The accident happened on the Palmertown highway on the road to Oakdale when the little La Bounty girl and boy were riding on a little wagon and came out of the yard of Harry Watts at Palmertown. The driver of the Frisbie truck was making his last round and was going towards Oakdale and had four more stops before going home to New London, and didn't see the two children till they came out of a driveway onto the road.

Church, pending an investigation which is to be held by Coroner Edward G. McKay of Norwich, with a hearing Wednesday afternoon. The accident was witnessed by Mrs. Amy Lynch and Alban Fubur of Palmertown. Laura Fubur called Dr. John J. GOES TO JAIL TO WORK OUT HIS FINES

Unable to pay his fine imposed in the city court Saturday morning, Stephen Shea, 24, went to jail to work it out. He was fined $35 and costs for driving without a license. A charge of driving a machine without the permission of the owner was not pressed. This fine, with a previous court bill of $8, still unpaid, made a total of about $50.

Shea was arrested early Saturday morning after he took a machine, owned by William Redhead, local taxi driver, from Rose place. After a search the police found the machine on Oakridge street and Shea's arrest followed.

Shea informed the court that he was under the impression that his brother-in-law owned the machine. He stated that the brother-in-law, named Mills, had owned the machine and that he did not know that it had been disposed of to Redhead. The latter told the court that he had acquired the machine several months ago. Shea claimed that while Mills owned the machine he (Shea) was financially interested in it.

RETIRED MILL MAN DIED AT PUTNAM SUNDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, May 4. — George A. Vaughn, widely known Putnam resident and retired textile executive, for a number of years managing head of the mills of the Putnam Manufacturing Co., died at 1 o'clock today at his home on Sunnyside avenue, of a paralytic stroke. Mr. Vaughn was 61 years of age.

He had been in ill health for some months and his death was not wholly unexpected to members of his immediate family, although it came as a complete shock to his many friends and associates in Putnam and throughout the state.

Mr. Vaughn was born in Providence, R. I., on April 3, 1869, the son of William P. and Sarah Dodge Vaughn. His father was a prominent Rhode Island textile manufacturer and, upon completing his education, his interests fell along the lines of his father. Meeting early successes, Mr. Vaughn came to Putnam where he took over the managing duties of the Putnam Manufacturing Co., at that time one of the largest textile organizations in the state.

He took an active interest in community, civics and politics, although never seeking public office. Realizing the vital necessity of a modern building for Putnam high school, Mr. Vaughn applied himself to the task of impressing the need upon the townspeople and, after strenuous efforts, the beautiful educational structure on School street was realized and Mr. Vaughn's interest in the matter was largely responsible for bringing it about.

With the Putnam Manufacturing Co ceasing to exist, Mr. Vaughn retired from all business pursuits and devoted his ingenuity to the creation of a boat-lowering device, which expedites rescue for ships at sea when disaster threatens.

Mr. Vaughn married Miss Blanche Morse, daughter of the late George M. Morse, prominent Putnam manufacturer. The widow survives him, together with a son, George A. Vaughn, Jr., who resides on Sunnyside avenue.

For the past two years Mr. Vaughn suffered from a form of paralysis, which rendered him partially infirm and was the direct cause of his death today.

He held no fraternal associations in lodges in Putnam.

1500 HOMELESS IN NASHUA; FIRE DAMAGE $4,000,000

Many of the Homeless Lost All Their Earthly Belongings In the Fire—About 600 Persons Were Thrown Out of Employment Because of the Destruction of Shops and Factories—Of the $4,000,000 Loss, $2,000,000 Fell Upon Working Men and Women, With Only About Half the Amount Covered By Insurance—Red Cross Has Provided Food, Bedding and 500 Cots.

NASHUA, N. H., May 5—(AP)—Approximately 1500 persons, at sundown tonight began what always will remain in their memories as the first night after the fire—the most serious conflagration in the history of the state. Latest estimates of the havoc wrought by the disastrous fire which swept over the southeastern portion of this city yesterday, numbered the homes destroyed at 260 and placed the financial damage at $4,000,000. Of the 1500 rendered homeless, many of them bereft of all their earthly belongings, it was estimated that approximately 600 were deprived of employment because of the destruction of shops and factories.

After a feverish day in which every municipal department and every social agency pressed their resources to provide means of relief, the homeless ones sought out the free shelters and free beds which tonight would take the place of home. Some of them straggled to the state armory where the Red Cross had provided food, bedding and 500 cots. Others gratefully accepted the hospitality offered by the Salvation Army. Some of the men went to the Y. M. C. A. and the women to the Y. W. C. A., while others found havens in the homes of relatives and friends.

Streets in the Crown Hill section, where the fire, urged by a 40 mile gale, cut a three mile swath, today offered a colorless aspect of charred brick and twisted metal. Scarcely anything was standing save a charred chimney now and again, marking what had once been a home.

Those charged with the work of providing shelter were of the opinion that there would be greater demand upon their resources tonight than last night. Then, hundreds of the homeless, stunned by the suddenness of the disaster preferred to remain in the streets, near the ashes of their homes or to seek out friends and relatives to learn how they had fared.

The section that was laid waste was thickly settled residential district, in this city of more than 31,000 population. The fire started in the late afternoon on a wooden bridge of the Boston and Main railroad. A high wind hurled the embers into the residential area and the flames consumed everything in their path. Two churches, a school, a convent and four large industrial plants were included in the structures that fell prey to the flames.

Immediately after the fire was conquered and before today dawned, the city's administration and social agencies had begun the work of providing relief. Tonight there appeared little danger of a food shortage but the authorities had had many requests from those who were in need of clothing.

During the day Mayor William F. Sullivan named a committee of more than 200 citizens to handle the relief work. Later the mayor and Gov. Charles W. Tobey issued statements appealing for funds to rehabilitate the stricken families.

The mayor said that $2,000,000 of the damage was suffered by working men and women and that only about one-half of that amount was covered by insurance.

The governor placed the total property loss at $4,000,000.

Gov. Tobey conferred here today with the mayor. Their session was followed by a meeting of the board of aldermen who planned to make an emergency appropriation of at least $50,000.

The stricken area was placed under quarantine tonight as a precautionary measure and national guardsmen stood guard on every street in the district. The first step taken by the United States government here was to establish an unemployment bureau in city hall.

Insurance companies established their adjusters in quarters at city hall where they said they would exert every means to expedite the payments of awards.

The Boston and Maine railroad began the work of reconstructing the bridge destroyed by the fire and the Proctor Brothers company, a cooperage and a lumber firm, has announced its intention of re-building immediately.

GENERAL SUMMARY OF FOREST FIRE SITUATION

By the Associated Press

In half a hundred localities from the wooded hills of New Hampshire to the mountains of West Virginia, the sky was lighted last night with the red glare of forest fires.

Following a dry spring, with the rainfall 50 to 75 per cent below normal, scattered fires along the North Atlantic seaboard were whipped into fury over the weekend by high winds and many were still burning last night with the damage already in the millions of dollars.

Nashua, N. H., was the hardest hit locality, with 700 persons homeless and damage estimated at $4,000,000. Fire starting in a wooden trestle swept through part of the town, aided by dry underbrush.

Damage in New Jersey, where the fire played no favorites, attacking alike flimsy summer cottages along the seashore and Arthur Brisbane's palatial home at Allaire, was placed by state authorities at $1,000,000. All fires were reported under control.

As far west as Polard, W. Va., a forest fire, started Sunday night, was endangering oil wells and small towns in that vicinity.

Several hundred cottages on Staten Island, a part of greater New York city, were destroyed by a fire started in the brush there Saturday night. There were 25 other fires still burning in New York state, five of them at Copake, Orangeburg, Salisbury Mills, Fishkill and Suffern—reported out of control.

A forest fire was menacing Rockville, R. I. Others were burning in Cumberland and Perry counties in central Pennsylvania; several were reported in lower Delaware, a large one was burning at Marlborough, Conn., and another on Mount Riga just across the New York state line.

A fire at Palisades Park just across the Hudson from Peekskill, N. Y., menaced the government explosive works and arsenal there; a fire at the junction of the Connecticut, New York and Massachusetts state line was menacing the town of Mt. Washington, Mass.

There was little encouragement to the fire fighters in the weather forecasts. Although thunderstorms were predicted in some sections there was no promise of rain in quantities large enough to be of much aid in putting out the fires anywhere along the seaboard.

WARM DEBATE ON PARKER NOMINATION IN SENATE

WASHINGTON, May 5— (AP) — Charges of vote buying, and denials by the administration of partisanship opened the second week of debate in the senate today over confirmation of Judge John J. Parker, of North Carolina.

Senator Ashurst, democrat, Arizona, ex-cowboy and picturesque debater, charged that federal judgeships were being offered for votes for Parker, and with the consent of Parker.

Challenged by administration leaders the Arizonian said he had not leveled the charge at President Hoover nor at any member of the senate but he demanded that the lobby committee investigate his assertion that a senator told him he had been offered a judgeship in return for a vote for Parker.

The day of tempestuous debate left the result over the Parker nomination still in doubt and the time for a roll call problematical. With the Parker forces refusing to give any pairs, the opposition indicated tonight it would keep the debate running to permit some of its forces to return to the city.

Senator Fess, republican, Ohio, and Senator Watson, of Indiana, the republican leader, challenged Senator Ashurst on his charge of vote buying.

TRUE BILLS AGAINST CHICAGO GANGSTERS

CHICAGO, May 5.—(AP)—True bills were reported today against three alleged perpetrators of an intended gangland death "ride." The three reported indicted are John Hennessy, former policeman Frank Favarullo and Samuel Baldeno.

The reported bills charge kidnaping, assault with intent to murder and robbery in connection with the beating of Earl Holmes, 37, early Sunday. Two women, one of them Holmes' sweetheart, also were reported named in true bills in connection with the affair.

Holmes was rescued Sunday morning by policemen who followed the auto in which he was borne to the country. The police say one of the three attackers had a gun pressed to the victim's head as they arrived.

Holmes said he was attacked because he intended to marry Miss Anna Larson to take her away from a gang. Today he charged she plotted the attack. The girl told police:

"He was a chump."

To Probe Activities Of Communists In U. S.

Republican Leaders Planning Investigation By Special House Committee.

WASHINGTON, May 5—(AP)—An investigation by a special house committee into Soviet Russian influences in this country was planned by republican leaders today as the house immigration committee prepared to hear Police Commissioner Grover Whalen of New York discuss information he has regarding communistic activities.

Chairman Snell of the house rules committee said a resolution would be reported to the house soon to authorize a broad inquiry to determine whether soviet propaganda was being circulated in this country in an effort to bring about the destruction of the existing government.

Two resolutions by Representatives Underhill of Massachusetts, and Fish of New York, both republicans, calling for such an inquiry, are before Snell's committee. Snell said his group felt the investigation necessary in view of the recent increasing number of communistic demonstrations and information in the hands of government authorities.

The house immigration committee decided to call Whalen for a closed hearing Friday. At a secret session today with John Farr Simmons, chief of the visa division of the state department, the committee inquired into the number of passports being granted Russian soviet nationals. Whalen accepted immediately. Other New York officials and possibly United States District Attorney Tuttle may appear.

Bears Repulsed As Stock Market Closed

They Had Sent [illegible] Crashing In Earl[illegible]on—Sales Totaled [illegible]260 Shares.

NEW [illegible]ay 5.— (AP)— Bears launche[illegible] bombardment which sent [illegible]shing to new low levels f[illegible]ecent decline in today's stock [illegible]et, only to be suddenly and thoroughly repulsed in the final half hour of trading, a long list of important stocks closed $1 to nearly $9 a share above Saturday's final prices, but these gains were counterbalanced by losses running to a maximum of $20 a share in some of the less active issues.

It was a day of enormous activity, total transactions on the New York stock exchange aggregating 8,279,260 shares, the largest for a single day since the dark days of late October. Trading during Saturday's two-hour session, and during several of the shortened trading days of last November, however, was relatively more active.

Saturday's abrupt decline brought a large volume of selling into the market at the opening, but the greater part of the distress selling by pools and large professional traders caught in last week's drop appeared to have been completed on Saturday and prices made irregular and hesitant progress toward higher levels until early afternoon, absorbing heavy selling on the way up.

The upturn began to lose its vigor soon after midday, and bears seized the opportunity to launch their attack. The decline was accelerated by the dumping of weakened margin accounts, which brokers had been holding until late in the day to give their customers time to put up additional funds.

Wall street had been expecting a fresh bear onslaught, for there had been little indications during the earlier hours of trading that shorts were buying stock to cover their commitments, and might make another drive against prices in the hope of widening their profits. When the drive came, it failed to attract any large volume of selling. As shorts began buying, speculators for the rise also started a feverish bidding for stocks, and the bear retreat became a rout. Prices surged up spectacularly as shorts fell over each other to cover their contracts.

The swift advance was attributed in part to unconfirmable Wall street rumors that several leading bankers who acted to stabilize the market during the autumn crash were planning to place huge buying orders under the market to check the decline, orders which would be reminders of 1,000,000-share order for Standard of New Jersey at $50 a share, and 200,000 shares of U. S. Steel at $150, which halted the decline last fall.

While no public comment regarding these rumors was available, one banker prominent in the autumn banking consortium stated privately that the situation was not serious enough to warrant such action, and that he was convinced that there was no likelihood of such a situation again arising.

DEATH OF WESTERN HERO, "DEADWOOD DICK" CLARKE

DEADWOOD, S. D., May 5—(AP)—"Deadwood Dick" Clarke, 84, hero of western and India lore, died today from a combination of old age and pneumonia. His passing followed by less than three months the death of "Poker Alice" Tubbs, a contemporary character of the old west.

With his death, the Blackhills lost the last of the famous characters who fought, gambled and dug for gold in the frontier days when the "wildwest" lived up to its name.

Deadwood Dick died with his boots off. Survivor of the rigors of pioneer life, he lived to become a tradition in the decades that followed the passing of the stage coach, the gold rush and the threat of Indian uprising. Weakened by old age, he for several years had been pointed out to tourists as the last landmark of the old west. Early last year he made an airplane trip to Washington, where he was received by President Coolidge. It was the last long trip he made from the Blackhills.

Death, after an illness of several months, was due to a lung infection and old age.

He was born in Hansborough, England, Dec. 15, 1845, and came to the United States when 16 years of age.

Joining a party of prospectors in Illinois, when a young man, Dick made the long overland journey to the Blackhills at the time when the excitement of gold discovery was at its height.

During the years that followed he was a pony express driver, Indian fighter, guide and assistant to United States marshals.

As Richard Clarke, he was connected with the stage coach line that terminated at Deadwood, where his headquarters were for many years. Because of this he became known as "Deadwood Dick."

MAY SEIZE PARAPHERNALIA USED IN MAKING HOME BREW

The Prohibition Bureau Considers Supreme Court Decision Basis For a Nation-Wide Drive, Which Would Include the Seizure of Trucks Containing Bottles, Corks, Casks, Etc.—Also Every Article and Product Necessary For the Manufacture of Home Brew.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP)— Assistant Secretary Lowman of the treasury said today that the decision of the supreme court upholding the action of the prohibition bureau in seizing trucks containing bottles, corks, casks, etc., to be used in the manufacture of liquor may be made the basis for a nation-wide drive to seize all such paraphernalia used in making home brew.

Lowman said, however, that the decision must be carefully studied before the treasury could map out its future course. The Donavitz case, he said, was a test case.

"The treasury has sought to bring into the courts persons who sell beer-making devices and malt products to which yeast may be added to make intoxicants," Lowman said.

"So far, however, the courts have thrown out these cases. There are establishments which sell every article and product necessary for the manufacture of home brew. All the maker needs to do is to follow directions. So far we have been unable to stop that sort of thing but the decision today may be the vehicle that will enable us to do so.

"We also have been unable to stop the sale of a long list of extracts to which alcohol may be added to make intoxicating liquor. It may be that under today's decision we will be able to seize such extracts and stop that sort of violation."

SUPREME COURT DECISION ON THE PROHIBITION LAW

WASHINGTON, May 5.—(AP)—Justice Holmes, the 89-year-old member of the supreme court, today again maintained his high average in the number of opinions delivered, handing down two of the three announced.

One was the court's declaration that barrels, bottles and other containers may be seized under the prohibition law, when offered for sale in such manner as to purposely attract as purchasers, manufacturers of bootleg liquor.

Another prohibition case was taken up by the court, with the decision to pass upon whether sellers of illicit liquor may be prosecuted under both the prohibition and internal revenue laws for the same act. The court consented to review three other cases and declined to pass upon 21. It declined to again go into the divorce procedings by which Milton J. Budlong obtained separation from his wife, Jessie Margaret Budlong, both prominent socially in New York and Newport, Rhode Island.

Senator Reed of Pennsylvania under a court ruling, will be unable to recover the income tax he paid on a fee of $2,500 received from Pennsylvania for conducting proceedings for the state inheritance tax cases growing out of the estate of Henry Frick and of Edith Ann Oliver.

DEAN OF LOCAL MERCHANTS FETED AT BANQUET MONDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 5—Signal honors on the completion of 60 years of active business as a shoe retailer in the city of Willimantic were accorded at a banquet tendered William N. Potter, 84, dean of Willimantic merchants, in the Nathan Hale hotel tonight.

The banquet and reception to the veteran merchandiser were attended by about 75 business men. The affair was sponsored by the Merchants' bureau of the chamber of commerce with general arrangements in charge of Chamber Secretary John J. O'Rourke.

This recognition to the oldest business man in the city was considered one of the most successful and significant events of its kind ever held. Following the entrance of Mr. Potter and a group of escorts, the gathering sang America. Blessing was invoked by Rev. David Winslow Lovett, pastor of the First Baptist church. Then came the first of three songs especially composed for the occasion to popular music, by Judge of Probate Valentine L. Murphy. This song was, How Do You Do Mr. Potter. An excellent chicken pie dinner was served under supervision of Manager Charles E Mayo. Other songs followed and P. D. Donohue, president of the Merchants' bureau introduced the speakers, all of whom paid the highest tribute to the integrity of Mr. Potter as a business man and a citizen. The speakers were: Mayor Walter R. King; Louis H. Arnold, president of the chamber of commerce; Charles F. Risedorf, also a veteran shoe dealer and close friend of Mr. Potter; Jerry E. Sullivan, another local shoe dealer of the "old line" who learned the business under the present dean; H. Clinton Lathrop, president of the Windham National bank and Rev. David W. Lovett.

WILLIAM N. POTTER

Toastmaster Donohue then made the presentation to Mr. Potter of an exquisitely engraved set of resolutions suitably framed in expression of "our gratitude to Mr. Potter for his inspiring example of good living and his splendid contribution to the social, commercial and civic life of this community." The resolutions, which were engrossed by one of the Sisters of St. Joseph's convent, are endorsed by the Retail Merchants' bureau of the chamber of commerce. The guest of honor was also presented with a huge basket of flowers. Among telegrams expressing congratulations and best wishes read was one from Edward Schulze of Hartford, past grand chancellor of the Knights of Pythias, a position once held by Mr. Potter. It came as a distinct surprise and pleasure to Mr. Potter that the gathering included his son Arthur N. Potter, member of the high school faculty of South Manchester who had been thoughtfully invited by the committee.

During the speaking program several selections were rendered by the recently organized Willimantic Glee club, Dr. Edward J. Morgan, director. This club, which was making its first appearance tonight with 25 vocalists, was hailed as a valuable contribution to the musical progress of the city. As a concluding number the entire gathering sang Auld Lang Syne. The group singing was under direction of Harry W. Standish with John T. Quinlan at the piano.

William Niles Potter, who was appropriately feted tonight by 75 fellow business men of the city in honor of the 60th anniversary of his entrance into business here, embarked upon his career as a retail shoe merchant in Willimantic on May 1, 1870. He was in partnership with Armin Martin and the firm was under the name of Martin & Potter. Business was conducted in the store at 671 Main street, now occupied by Philip R. Cohen. The population of the town of Windham at that time was 5,412. Mr. Martin died about a year later and the business was continued by Mr. Potter under his own name. In 1879 he moved across the street in what was then known as the Hamlin or Tilden block, where the present Jordan building now stands. He remained there for eight years. In 1887 the First Baptist church society built the one story brick building adjoining the church property, just off Union street, on Main. Mr. Potter moved his business in the new block and has been engaged there for the past 43 years.

Mr. Potter is prominent fraternally throughout the state. He is a charter member of Natchaug lodge, No. 22, Knights of Pythias and has filled all the chairs of the local subordinate lodge, as well as those of the grand lodge of the state. He served as grand chancellor of the state in 1895 and 1896, and the following year was made grand master of exchequer, a position which he still retains.

He is also a charter member of Obwebetuck lodge, No. 16, I. O. O. F. He joined the Putnam Phalanx of Hartford in 1880, serving as a "regular" for 25 years, and is now on the retired list. He was one of the charter members of the Willimantic Building and Loan association and has been its treasurer since the inception of the organization, a period of 29 years. As such he is the only original officer of the association surviving, the others, since deceased, being, George Stiles, Dwight A. Lyman and Frank Wilson. The present officers are: Herbert R. Chappell, president, William N. Potter, treasurer and James P. Mustard, son-in-law of Mr. Potter, secretary.

Mr. Potter has been a trustee of the First Baptist church here for about 30 years and has been clerk of the church since 1870, or a period of 50 years. He has been treasurer of the board of trustees for many years. In politics he is a republican and served six years as a member of the board of selectmen, being first elected in 1892 and serving some of the terms as first selectman. He was a member of the board that laid the plans for the construction of the town building.

William Niles Potter was born April 10, 1846, the son of John Niles and Amy Dorrance Potter, in a house that stood on the site of the Loomer Opera house at the corner of North and Main streets. eH attended the Sessions and First District schools in the city and later the Connecticut Literary Institute at Suffield, graduating from the latter institution in 1867. On May 4, 1874, he married Miss Estelle J. Hump, a native of Stockton, N. Y. Five children were born to them, four of whom survive. They are the Misses Eudora E. and Amy Lewis Potter of this city, Arthur N. Potter of South Manchester and Mrs. James P. Mustard of this city. Mr. Potter has four grandchildren: Steven and Eleanor Potter of South Manchester; William Niles and Robert H. Mustard of this city.

Mr. Potter's unfailing exemplary conduct in business ethics, his faith and valuable services to his church and his staunch character as a parent and a citizen were justly worthy of the high tribute paid to his contribution to the community by the merchants of the city tonight. He received praises which his fellow business men were happy to heap upon him while he remains one of their active number and an associate in the endeavor for the social, civic and commercial progress of the community. As fittingly expressed in the resolutions presented Mr. Potter, it was a tribute "paid as an expression of the high esteem and deep personal affection which we have for him."

SPECIAL MEETING VOTES 8-MILL TAX ON GRAND LIST

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, May 5.—Seized in the grip of the eight-mill tax fever, members of the Taxpayers Protective association and sympathizers voted an eight-mill rate on the city grand list of 1929, at the special city meeting held in the town hall tonight. Although the attendance numbering a little over 200 was considerably lighter than that at some of the more recent town meetings, the gathering was, however, ready to take up arms with equal enthusiasm against any tax rate that would figure up favorably with the budget for the year. A standing vote taken on the amendment showed 103 in favor of, and 95 against it.

To bring the matter before the meeting, Corporation Counsel William A. King offered a resolution for an 11-mill tax. Eugene Dion, treasurer of the Taxpayers association, at once arose to move for an eight-mill tax with a charge that the more money that the officials get the more they spend. This was followed by a series of attacks which hit practically all departments of the city. Nelson A. Gilman and Eugene Randall launched the broadside at the police department, the latter openly charging graft and stating that the aldermen were selfish "in voting themselves a salary of $300 a year." Samuel Porcaro, in an oration, said that the waste of money was not in the laborer but in the overhead. He charged that practically all of the city officials, with the exception of the mayor, are payroll men and therefore do not understand the administration of business.

Robert H. Fenton asked what gain could come from an eight-mill tax and Stanley J. Sumner warned of the possibility of laborers on some of the city departments being thrown out of work owing to the lack of funds.

Mayor King, who met every attack with an explanation, pleaded to have the city maintain in its present healthy financial condition. He stated that the city was now in debt only to less than 40 per cent of its borrowing capacity. Figures were presented by City Clerk Arthur L. Clark showing that on the grand list of the city of $20,982,327, an eight-mill tax would raise $167,910.61. This amount, plus the average outside income of $14,288.14, would mean a total income for the year of $182,198.75. The city budget amounts to $258,605.14, leaving a deficit on the eight-mill basis of $76,406.39. An investigation of the city accounts made subsequent to the meeting, shows that to date $96,400 had been borrowed to conduct the city business while awaiting tax income. The average monthly expenditure is $20,000, indicating that by Aug. 1 when the city tax becomes payable, according to an amendment adopted tonight, the city will have borrowed $156,400. Provided that a curtailment is not effected in expenses the city will then have an unexpended balance the first of August but $25,798.75 with five more months of city business to go until the budget of 1931 is taken up.

A short meeting of members of the council held tonight indicated that drastic curtailment in the expenditures of the city government will be necessary in order to save the city from carrying a heavy indebtedness because of lack of income. Just how far this curtailment would go was not stated tonight but some of the measures are expected to be more or less startling in nature when disclosed at the May meeting of the council next Monday night.

WORTHLESS CHECK PASSER FINED $25 AND COSTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 5 — Four cases were heard at the session of police court Monday morning. The first was that of M. D. Algese of Albany avenue, Hartford, who was fined $25 and costs following his plea of guilty to intent to defraud by passing a worthless check for $30 on the Nathan Hale hotel, September 18, last. Algese was arrested in Hartford Saturday afternoon by State Policeman Charles Dailey of the Stafford Springs barracks. William Pimpare of this city was charged with fishing in the Willimantic river during the closed season. He pleaded not guilty and on motion of Attorney Arthur T. Kelley that the state had not produced sufficient evidence for a conviction, the court granted an acquittal. Deputy Game Warden George Liard of Putnam who arrested Pimpare April 30, and County Game Warden Thomas G. Daniels of Plainfield, testified in the prosecution.

Another continuance, this time until June 9, was granted in the non-support case of Leon Dion of this city, charged with non-support. Dion is to continue to pay $5 weekly for the support of his wife who is suing for divorce and alimony in Rhode Island. The fourth case was that of a local man fined for intoxication.

BOARD OF SELECTMEN LAY RATE TAX OF 4 1-2 MILLS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 5—The board of selectmen at a meeting held today voted to levy a rate tax of 4 1-2 mills on the grand list of the town of Windham and to make the special levy payable the latter part of May. The rate tax, which the selectmen have authority to levy by virtue of a special act of legislature, is in addition to the 8 mill tax levied by the electors at the town meeting held for that purpose. The 8 mill tax is about $180,000 short of the budget for the year and is now in the process of collection. While the total town tax to be paid this year will be of 12 1-2 mills, the tax last year, before the revaluation of property in the town, was 14 mills. It is noted that the time in which the special town levy becomes due conflicts somewhat with the city tax levied tonight and payable June 1. The selectmen had previously made an attempt to have the electors levy the additional tax but the proposal met with no action, so that the action taken today is one that was generally expected.

STERLING CENSUS RETURN SHOWS LOSS IN POPULATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, May 5—The 1930 population of three more towns in the third census district was made known today with the receipt of completed returns at headquarters here from Sterling, Pomfret and Essex. There are now 26 out of the 54 towns of the district in which enumeration work has been completed.

Sterling, in Windham county, has a population of 1,231 as compared with 1,266 in 1920, a loss of 35. There are 85 farms.

Pomfret, also in Windham county, has 1,614 residents as against 1,454 in 1920, a loss of 160, or 10 per cent. There are 107 farms

Essex, in Middlesex county, also shows a loss. The 1930 population is 2,774 as against 2,815 in 1920, a loss of 41. There are 16 farms listed. Out of 173 enumerators working in the district there are 93 who have filed their returns.

The belief that a "firebug" is responsible for forest fires in Lebanon was expressed by Deputy Fire Warden William T. Curry who directed the fight against two woodland blazes Sunday. About 10:30 in the morning the Storrs look-out station reported a fire on the Morris Levitts farm. This fire burned over 50 acres. In the evening another fire broke out on land of Mrs. Natalie Howard, a short distance away. Mrs. Howard's son extinguished this blaze with a wet bag but shortly afterwards still another blaze broke out in the woods on the Pete Okonock farm, across the road. This fire burned over some five acres. The fact that a young man dressed in light clothing was seen leaving the Howard farm and that the fires all started in the center of the woodlands in question, led to the suspicion of incendiarism.

FUNERAL OF VENERAND BERNIER LARGELY ATTENDED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

The funeral cortege included a firing squad consisting of First Sergeant Emil Meunier, Staff Sergeant G. Rene Caron, Sergeant Walter Evans, Sergeant Oscar Cook, Corporal James Regnier, Corporal Walter Pester and Private Francis Andrews and a uniformed delegation of the Danielson fire department, including Deputy Chief C. A. Hamilton.

Rev. Anthelme Mollard, M. S., the pastor, was celebrant of the solemn high mass of requiem, Rev. John Tobin, M. S., and Rev. Francis Baldwin, M. S., deacon and sub-deacon. Numbered among the congregation were fellow workers of Mr. Bernier while he was a member of the line force of the Connecticut Light and Power company, by which corporation he was employed when he first became seriously ill nearly a year ago.

Burial was in St James' cemetery, the committal service conducted by Rev. J. A. Demers, M. S. There were three volleys by the firing squad and the sounding of taps by Bugler Walter Pester.

OBITUARY

Alfred Choquette

During last night the death of Alfred Choquette, 18, occurred at the home of his parents in Wauregan. He had been ill for some time past and only a week ago today returned to his home after having been in a hospital for treatment. He was the son of Adelard and Mary Lasnier Choquette and was born in the town of Plainfield. He leaves his wife and a baby four months of age. His mother also survives him.

For the past 48 hours, Danielson people have watched from highground near here the surging, billowing columns of smoke and flame from forest fires raging to the southeast, the south and the southwest. The immediate territory has been fortunately and happily free from such afflictions Today, great clouds of smoke were visible from a fire raging in what was reported to be the vicinity of Beech pond, about 25 miles from Danielson in an air line. Because of recent forest fires and the reports of the great damage they have done in Connecticut and other nearby states there was general uneasiness today out in the agricultural and woodland sections of this town. Upwards of two weeks have elapsed without any rain of moment, woods and fields are very dry and this taken with the fact that the wind blows almost incessantly makes the fear of these fires real and natural.

At a session of the town court this morning, Deputy Judge Charles E. Francis presiding, Alexander Acheson, Henry DeForest and Michael Connell, all claiming Danielson as home, were in each instance fined $3 for having been intoxicated and $5 each for breach of the peace, with costs, making a total charge of $19.50 against each of them. None of them were able to pay, so they were taken to the county jail at Brooklyn to remain for 20 days.

PUTNAM

CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN IN PUTNAM THIS WEEK

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, May 5—The grating of the rake and the scraping of the hoe and shovel resounded in Putnam today at the beginning of Clean-up Week, being observed this week throughout the entire municipality. The populace of the city appeared to have taken on clean-up inclinations, for in many quarters boys and girls and men, were busy applying the spring touches to yards and lawns. From all indications the inside of homes will get their spring revamping this week, since several housewives were seen toting rugs and chairs out onto verandas this morning and were soon making dust fly. Curtains and other interior window decorations, too, got their periodical rinse today and were to be seen on clotheslines drying out in the fine midsummer sun that beat down on the city all day to send thermometers skyrocketing to summer heat levels before noon.

Clean-up week this year will undoubtedly be a grand success. Aside from being sponsored by the chamber of commerce, Clean-up Week has been endorsed by school officials and during the week the teams of the city street department will be assigned to the east and west sides of the city on two days to collect and cart collected refuse away. If the fine spirit displayed today continues to prevail during the remainder of the week there is hardly an excuse for Putnam's common eyesores existing next Saturday, when the week comes to a close.

The court of common council will convene for its May session Tuesday evening. At this meeting it is expected that a complete report of the proposed street and sidewalk improvement plan, one of the most beneficial movements to originate in the council chambers this year, will be presented for reconsideration. During the past month, Alderman Eugene Migneault, chairman of the highway committee, has been investigating proposed work to be done on various streets. The campaign will call for an expenditure of municipal funds which were not included in the city budget compiled in March and if the council approves the plan, an extra appropriation will have to be secured through an affirmative vote from taxpayers at a special city meeting to be called in June.

The aurora borealis, more commonly called northern lights, beautified the northern skies at midnight Sunday. The colorful effect, which shifted from an azure blue to hazy tones of red and yellow, was visible for fully half an hour. The streams of light radiated outward in the east and west directions, sweeping swiftly across the northern sky until the entire ceiling was streaked in a beautiful panorama of colors. The atmospheric phenomenon, said to be caused by electrical disturbances in the north polar regions, were visible at an unusually early date this season.

Dense columns of snow-white smoke beclouded southwestern skies this afternoon and sent many scurrying over to Pomfret, Elliot and Hampton searching for forest fires responsible for coloring the horizon in that direction. A report from the wire chief's office of the local telephone exchange said that the fire was sweeping over timberlands at some point between Elliott and Abington, but the exact center of the blaze was not located.

Northern Windham county has been exceptionally fortunate this season in having passed through the greater part of the dry period without experiencing devastation from woodland fires. Members of the county game patrol and officers of the state police barracks at Danielson are keeping watch for the first appearance of fires in the countryside which will be reported to fire wardens immediately upon discovery.

Over in Union on the summit of Bald mountain, one of the highest peaks in the state, the fire watch is especially alert this dry season. Watchful eyes are constantly trained on the miles of forest land as far as can be seen through powerful glasses. The moment smoke columns begin to trail skyward, the location of the fire is reported to the nearest warden and before much time has elapsed the woodland fire corps are prepared to combat the ravages of the forest fire, which is nature's worst enemy.

Fire wardens throughout the county are stressing the need of exercising great care in the handling of fire materials by persons traversing the timberlands, these dry days, in order that occurrences reported in news despatches from Massachusetts and New Hampshire today, may not take place in this section.

William "Bill" Forhan, well known citizen of Willimantic and widely known in this city and in railroad circles all along the New Haven line, was in this city today renewing many of his old acquaintances. Mr. Forhan is a retired locomotive engineer.

Judge Arthur F. Ells of Waterbury will preside at the opening session of superior court Tuesday, when the lists of the May criminal and civil terms are presented. Court will open at 10 o'clock, daylight saving time. Several prisoners will be presented to the bar during the criminal term, but none of the cases slated for trial are expected to command any mor ethan the ordinary amount of attention.

Apple and pear trees throughout the city are now in bloom. The blossom time in the country districts where acres of apples are grown present an especially beautiful aspect.

Mrs. Lena B. Lefort, a resident of
Mrs. Lana B. Lefort, a resident of the village of Abington, died last evening at the Day Kimball hospital following a brief illness. She was in her 19th year. The young matron was a native of Cochrane, Georgia, having been born there on July 13, 1911, the daughter of Harry W. and Annabelle Stokes Burgany. She is survived by her husband, Thaddeus Lefort, who resides in Abington.

Fifty-five foreign born residents of this city were notified today by Miss Marjorie C. Bradford, assistant clerk of courts, to appear in Willimantic at a naturalization hearing to be held in superior court there on Tuesday, May 13. Judge Arthur F. Ells of Waterbury, will preside at the hearing. All of the aliens whose names are included in the volume of applicants published today are applying for citizenship privileges. A number of Putnam residents are included in the list.

JEWETT CITY

ONE-TIME GIDDINS' FARM MAY BECOME GOLF LINKS

Henry J. Kendall, owner of the one-time Joseph Giddins place in Lisbon, is doing the preliminary work necessary for changing a part of the 230-acre farm into golf links. Further plans include the rebuilding of the dam so that the old mill stream will fill the pond again. Giddins' brook, once so popular as fine trout-water, will be restocked and again become a fisherman's paradise. Golf experts who looked over the ground last week have pronounced its natural formation to be ideal for the purpose intended. Situated on this farm, right beside the highway, once stood the Giddins' saw mill. When Mr. Kendall razed the buildings it marked the passing of one of the last of the old upright saws. With its long carriage that fed the great logs by means of a gear device underneath, this mill was surely one of the old-timers. Great piles of logs were rolled up before the door and farmers often brought two or three to be sawed into boards. While they were waiting for this work to be done, there were often stories told that rivaled tales of the Wayside Inn.

Forest Fires

Forest fires were again reported Monday as menacing many areas round about the borough. The one in Canterbury, that burned so fiercely all day Sunday, got away again Monday afternoon and roared away in another direction. Clarence Kahn reported a bad blaze in the Beach Pond section. He, with 20 men, was fighting there to save the many summer homes built along the shore. The value of the proposed fire watch tower, which is being built by the state on the top of Mt. Misery, has already been demonstrated, as from this elevation watch is being kept now night and day for any blaze that may flare up in the big game preserve.

The mercury touched the 90 mark for the second time this spring. Monday afternoon there was little variation from this reading until after 3:30.

FUNERAL

Mrs. Maryanna Suczka

The funeral of Mrs. Maryanna Suczka was held from the home of her sister, Mrs. Joseph Minski, 49 Dey street, Monday morning. Requiem high mass was sung at St. Mary's church by Rev. J. J. McCabe. The music of the mass was by the children's choir with James Olson organist. Father McCabe read the burial service in St. Mary's cemetery in Lisbon.

The bearers were John Anton, William Kopezwkiewicz, Martin Misiaszek, Michael Solenski, Walter Miedzwiecki and John Konicki. Hourigan Bros. were in charge of the arrangements.

Mrs. F. H. Gilbert reports seeing the unusually spectacular northern lights late Sunday night. The whole heavens was covered in the beautiful waves of colored lights.

During the height of the big fire off to the north of the town Monday afternoon, whence rose great clouds of the blackest kind of smoke, a big airplane came up from the south, circled over the vicinity, then made off toward the north. Many who watched wondered if the appearance of the air-man had anything to do with air fire patrol.

FORMER SLATER SLEIGH DISCOVERED IN OLD BARN

Charles Morrisey is tearing down the old barn that has stood in the rear of all the Jewett City hotels that have occupied the present site, which total three. When the first hotel was destroyed by fire, July 4, 1878, this barn was saved by men who operated the old brake fire engine then owned by the late Daniel S. Anthony. When the second hotel bruned, Jan. 4, 1904, the barn was again saved from the flames. In course of the razing the workmen have come upon a great two-horse sleigh, stored back among the cobwebs in the dusty loft. Older residents recall when the late Ira F. Lewis bought the ornate vehicle of the late John F. Slater, more than 50 years ago. These roomy conveyances were in demand then for the popular sleighing party, and Ira owned a fine pair of prancing grays that his brother Henry used to drive.

DEPLORABLE FIRE LOSSES

Many people feel that there must be a powerful demonstration before they will respond to any appeal, but all those must admit that there has been a convincing argument presented in behalf of fire protection in the past few days if it didn't exist before.

In Connecticut towns woodland fires have caused heavy losses. In neighboring states there have been disastrous outbreaks which have required determined efforts during many hours to bring them under control.

In New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts and New Hampshire fires have wrought an immense damage and the situation in New Hampshire outstrips them all. There has been an estimate of $3,000,000 placed on the loss suffered in Nashua, with homes and business houses destroyed and 700 people homeless.

Does anyone want a better demonstration of the need of prevention after such situations are revealed? How many of the fires could have been prevented is not indicated. Probably, according to the general average, three-quarters of them were needless. That means that there was no excuse for kindling them, carelessness on the part of someone and the failure to concede the necessity of safeguarding the property of others.

This spring there has been less than the average rainfall. Whenever there have been rains they have been followed immediately by strong winds which quickly dried up the moisture, with the result that everything is dry and ready to make a hot fire as it is licked up by the flames as they are fanned by brisk winds. Whatever lies within the path of such fires stands little chance of coming through unscathed. It makes little difference whether it is standing timber, barns, dwellings or other structures. It means a hard and tiresome fight for those who labor to check such fires and even then it makes all the difference in the world how soon the fight is begun as to how effective it is.

Millions upon millions of such losses are piled up each year which could and should be prevented with a slight display of interest in such an effort at the right time. It doesn't do much good to cry about it after it is all over. The simplest, yet most effective, solution lies in prevention.

NAMING THE HIGHWAYS

At this time of the year when attention is being turned to betterment and beautification, profitable results may be obtained by stopping and considering some of the things that are being done elsewhere.

It is obvious that many things can be done in the way of improvement, that there is plenty of opportunity for the adoption of old ideas and there is always a chance for the consideration of new.

Out in Michigan the suggestion has been advanced that the highway which follows the shores of Lake Michigan be called Blossom highway. It is a most attractive route, well known for the views that are offered of the lake and for the pretty pictures which are furnished in the spring of the year by the orchards in blossom. It is from the latter that the name would be taken and the idea would be to attract more visitors through the name.

The idea which has been advanced in Michigan is a good one. It is one that is restricted to no one state. Every commonwealth has its attractive highways for one reason or another, its roads which have special scenic views throughout the year as well as in the apple blossom period. But the suggestion prompts the thought that in the effort to induce more tourist business into various sections of the country, such as New England has been interested in for the past few years, such a plan could easily be put into operation. With a special name given to the various routes which have unusual attractions there would be good advertising.

Michigan has a highway which it believes should be known by and would be appreciated by a greater number. It is entirely possible to make existing highways more attractive so that they will become the objective of larger numbers, so that they will be used in preference to others because of their natural or acquired beauty. Such drives are just what many are seeking and all that is necessary to interest a goodly number therein is to attach a fitting name and let the publicity do the rest.

WAR VS. AUTO

It has been frequently pointed out that the automobile, or those who drive it, is responsible for more deaths than war. War casualties create a different impression because they come in larger numbers at the time of announcement while the motor vehicle accidents and deaths are stretched over a longer period with some about every day. It is unfortunate, however, that the number of motor deaths doesn't make such an impression upon the driving public and all users of the highway as to bring about a reduction.

In directing attention to the peacetime conditions as compared with war, or the automobile with the battlefield deaths, the war department has presented the following interesting statement:

"Grim-visaged war reaped a toll of 102 Washingtonians during the 19 months we engaged in the World war. These were battle deaths and deaths from wounds. The monthly average was 5.4. Twenty officers were killed in action and six died of wounds. Fifty-nine enlisted men were killed in action and 17 died of wounds. As a destroyer of life the automobile is more efficient by far, as shown by the District of Columbia health department reports. In 1928 the astounding number of 115 Washingtonians were killed by motor vehicles. The average monthly harvest was 9.6, as compared to the 5.4 credited to the god of war."

Whether you have stopped to consider the situation in this light, it is worth thinking about. We hardly think that we would advocate going to war rather than driving automobiles but there must be appreciated the importance of both keeping out of war and at the same time giving greater attention to safer handling of automobiles.

It is high time that there was a check placed upon the number of fatalities in the highways. With more and more cars each year, the hazards of the thoroughfares become greater. That means, if it means anything, that those using them, whether drivers of autos or pedestrians, should exercise a greater degree of care, display a little more regard for the rights of others and decrease the disposition to indulge in chance-taking. The frightful loss of life because of the motor vehicle is in itself sufficient reason for reducing it and insisting upon greater safety. We want peace, but we also want fewer needless deaths.

NO VETO THREAT

When the time came for the house to vote on the debenture proposition which the senate put into the tariff bill, Floor Leader Tilson read from a letter which he had received from President Hoover in response to a query as to whether he had undergone a change of mind relative to that clause. It was clearly set forth by the chief executive that he had not.

Such was information which the house might be expected to want. Certainly it was information that it needed. That there should be those who undertook to interpret it as a threat to veto the bill if the debenture provision was permitted to remain was inevitable. It was the political response of the opponents.

There was no such threat in the letter. In fact, there was no threat at all. The president had been asked a question and he has replied and stated that he considered the debenture plan just as dangerous and uneconomic as ever. He had not been swayed by the fact that the senate had adopted it and he had not changed his mind because of the senate debate. His opinion was based upon conviction in the first place and he had found no reason for changing it.

"When the president takes such a positive position upon such a matter it is entirely possible to think that he would not give his approval to the debenture plan. The country would expect it. But there was nothing approaching a threat. He said nothing about what he would do if the debenture should be included in the tariff bill submitted to him. Anyone has a right to infer what he pleases, but the attempt to brand such as a threat was unwarranted and accomplished nothing.

RESTS WITH THE VOTERS

Chicago has two reasons for complaint. It doesn't like the publicity that it has been getting because of the crime conditions which have been prevailing in that city and it raises a protest every now and then against the political machine which seems to hold the city in the hollow of its hand.

Much was expected of the crime commission but it doesn't appear that any great progress has been made since that commission set forth its views as to what should be done to correct conditions. There is its programme but Chicago hasn't been convinced that it is being carried out. That being the case, the gangsters continue to hold their grip on the city and it is maintained that they boast that they have no fear, that they are in control, and there are instances which go to support just such a contention.

But during all this there remains the machine against which so much has been said and done. It may not be held in high repute and yet its services are employed whenever campaigns are underway. Naturally it boasts of its accomplishments when results are in keeping with its efforts.

Those in Chicago as well as those on the outside probably wonder how it is all going to end. It cannot fail to be appreciated that the conditions which exist in Chicago are satisfactory or unsatisfactory to the voters. It rests with them to say whether they want them continued or changed. Just as long as the voters of that city continue to put in office those who depend upon the gangster support and in turn cater to such an element there is no hope for a change. The upset and improved conditions will come when the voters assert themselves. Some day they may realize that they are responsible for the existing conditions.

EDITORIAL NOTES

There are days when it seems as if aviation involves all the dangers surrounding automobiling.

The man on the corner says: It is going to be a terrible thing if spring fever ever becomes chronic.

The father who spanked his son with a $2,000 violin probably figured that if he spared the fiddle he'd spoil the boy.

Fred Stone says that what happened to him (speaking of flying) was his own fault. It isn't everyone who is so frank about it.

John L. Lewis laments the conflict in the coal fields. It is too late. Had his lamentations come at the time the error was being pointed out it could have been prevented.

The claim that the Gulf stream is shifting and that the climate of New York and New England may be semi-tropical will not be cheering news to the hard coal industry of Pennsylvania.

WASHINGTON AFFAIRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WASHINGTON, May 5.—It is no mere title that Republican House Leader John Q. Tilson of Connecticut holds. He is actual leader of that body. This was never more plainly manifest than during the tariff debate when the conferees sent their report to the house and it was up to Tilson to put it through with the quickest speed, and as far as possible according to what is believed to be presidential approval.

Of course, Colonel Tilson did not actually quote the president, but he wrote Mr. Hoover a letter asking if he had changed his views on the debenture clause, and Mr. Hoover promptly and emphatically replied he "had not changed them." Whereupon, just before the vote was taken, Tilson read that letter to the house. A roll call followed, and the debenture clause was voted down by a large majority. It is possible that would have been done under any circumstances, but however that may be, the reading of the president's letter clinched it beyond doubt, and brought many an undecided voter into the administration ranks. Those who wanted the bill to pass were taking no chances of a veto, that seemed to be plainly indicated by the president's terse reply to Tilson.

It is a week of "blaming the other feller" out here. The senate says if the house hadn't framed an impossible tariff bill, the senate would not have taken the course it has; the house says if "that" senate, with strong accent on the word that, had been reasonable, the tariff would have passed long ago. And a lot of folks blame them both. No one is happy.

Recent return of notable visitors to London reveals the strain that has been placed on American Ambassador Dawes by desires for presentation at court of a good many Americans who are counted as "who is who" in official ranks. It is explained that only 40 persons can be presented within a given period of time, and that more than 300 requests were made to General Dawes for presentation during the allotted time. After taking care of members of his family, and his official staff entitled to such honor, there wasn't much left to be parcelled out among approximately 300 distinguished visitors.

Speaking of General Dawes recalls what the young daughter of Republican Leader Tilson wrote home to her father, after a visit to London, during which she spent a week end at the American embassy as guest of General and Mrs. Dawes. "It was lovely," wrote the young girl, "and I wasn't half as much afraid of General Dawes as I was of the English butler!"

Colonel Tilson's daughter, who has shown a great aptitude for languages, is studying in France, but will return home this month, as Mrs. Tilson has gone over to bring her home, after a few weeks touring.

The Tilsons are born globe-trotters of a high grade. They want to know how the other half of the world lives, and the far north, the extreme south, the far east or an all-American trip are favorite ways of spending vacations. It's all one to them whether they reach their destination by rail, auto, ship, or airplane. Even balloons are to their liking. I don't recall any enthusiasm over submarines, but I do recall they have tried them out.

Aerial photography is doing wonderful things towards preservation of "the lay of the land" in Washington, before the billion dollar buildings plans are consummated. For instance, Representative Temple of Pennsylvania, a member of several high commissions, has secured for use at the capitol, two mosaic maps, as prepared by the geological survey, from photographs taken at an altitude of 10,000 feet above the capitol city. The map is composed of 830 separate photographs accurately placed together to form one great picture. The chief engineer of the department of the interior adds the information "that the use of these photographs to the existing topographic map saved the expense of ground surveys and secured data in four hours that would have taken one engineer 12 months, or approximately 2,400 hours field work to secure."

And while we are speaking of aviation, Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut took part in the aerial circus just given by the navy department off the Virginia coast. Bingham is president of the National Aeronautical association, chairman of several important aviation commissions appointed by the president, the congress or the association, is a flier in his own right, and a World war flier, took an active part in the naval event, riding as a passenger in one of the contesting machines.

Representative Merritt of Connecticut does not hesitate to say he believes the bill recently passed by the house called the "Veterans' bill," is far from meeting the needs of the existing conditions. "The bill would permit the allowance of more than 500,000 extra claims," said Mr. Merritt in discussing the measure. "A man who had not served more than two days might be entitled to $250 a month pension under affliction of gout or obesity. To me that seems 'aid' to a ridiculous extent. It could not but include many unjust claims. I feel that generous and prompt relief of sick veterans is of great importance, but that those most deeply interested in such relief do not believe it could be accomplished by the Rankin bill. For that reason many of us, who understand and have the true interests of the veterans at heart, voted against the bill." The veterans' bill as approved by the New England members of congress was the one which Mr. Merritt supported, but the measure New England and the American Legion desired was crowded to the wall.

Mrs. Hoover has purchased 100 gilt chairs for the East room, to be used during white house receptions, after persons have passed down the receiving line, and want to stay on and chat in the great white and gold reception room. But to those of us who have been thoroughly seasoned to a white house reception crush, where more than a thousand persons gather in that room, 100 small gilt chairs remind one of the parable of the loaves and fishes—"what are they among so many?"

Washington police have been busy this week on a "noise suppression" campaign. Anybody who toots his automobile horn except to sound a note of warning, will be subject to arrest. The police are also trying to find out who stole a highly valued imported horn from a high priced machine. The great value of the horn is said to be its ability to toot "How Dry I Am" lustily and clearly whenever the driver of the machine so indicates, and which is not taboo even in the midst of a "make Washington dry" campaign.

Mail Planes Long In Service

SEATTLE—(AP)—Of 24 mail planes placed in service between San Francisco and Chicago three years ago, 19 are still in operation with one of the planes having 3,000 hours service to its credit, according to air transport officials.

The time made by the losing horse isn't money to the owner.

ROMANCE IN THE HILLS

There were at least three reasons why the presence of Mrs. J. Henry McDougal and Miss Dagmar McDougal at the convention was of more than usual interest. For one thing, they were the wife and daughter of J. Henry McDougal, president of the largest insurance company represented. For another, they were coming to the convention this year straight from a shopping trip to Paris. And third, they were heralded as having ten trunks veritably packed with the latest and loveliest Parisian fashions. Wives of convention members sighed and talked enviously of the McDougal finery. And husbands sighed, anticipating bigger charge accounts, after their women folk had glimpsed the McDougal magnificence.

A banquet of grand proportions marked the opening night of the convention. Women hustled around all day making last minute purchases. Less than an hour before the banquet began, Mrs. McDougal emerged from her suite pale and trembling and met her husband in the corridor, coming along to get dressed.

"Henry!" She clutcher him frantically. "Not one of our trunks has shown up."

"No?" queried Mr. McDougal, calmly. "Well, do you need something?"

"Need something!" Mrs. McDougal dragged him hastily into their suite. "Dagmar and I have absolutely nothing—nothing to wear."

"Why," asked Mr. McDougal, "don't you wear what you had on this afternoon?"

"Henry," begged his wife, "please don't be an idiot. This is the biggest event of the convention and besides," she nearly broke down at this point, "every one is wild to see our Paris gowns. What shall we do?" Mr. McDougal, regarding the matter in its less tragic aspects, spoke philosophically.

"There's no use getting yourself worked up," he said. "Leave this matter to me. I'll get you something to wear." He opened the door and went out.

As strategic as a general in command, Mr. McDougal quickly sought the lobby. There, as he expected, he found Mrs. Larry Jerrems and calling her aside he presented to her the facts of his dilemma. "Leave it to me," reassured Mrs. Jerrems.

Mrs. Jerrems lost no time in canvassing the rooms of her best friends whom she found dressing for the banquet. Ten minutes later she was headed toward the McDougal suite, armed with complete formal attire for two. There was Mrs. Harrington's lavender moire evening gown and orchid velvet wrap, recently purchased in Grand Rapids. There was Miss Ella McCracken's new pink chiffon evening gown, bought in Janesville. There were Mrs. Ellis' extra silver slippers, which she admitted having bought on sale in Chicago for $2.48, and there were Miss Meraud's extra pink satin slippers, which she'd bought in Racine on a recent trip. And as an added touch of splendor for Dagmar, Mrs. Jerrems had begged from Mrs. Pierpont Adams her prized Spanish shawl, which her son had sent as a birthday gift from San Antonio, Tex.

That night all eyes were turned in the direction of the resplendent Mrs. J. Henry McDougal and her beautiful daughter. And all spectators were amply rewarded. For Mrs. McDougal was lovely in the borrowed lavender moire and Dagmar looked divine in Ella McCracken's dainty pink chiffon over which she had artfully draped Mrs. Adams' Spanish shawl. Women sighed with envy, remembering the McDougal travels and men sighed, anticipating a run on the charge accounts, which they now felt more than ever imminent.

Next morning Mrs. McDougal, after reading with genuine satisfaction the glowing terms in which society columns noted her appearance at the banquet, met her husband for lunch.

"My dear," he said, "I really don't see why you and Dagmar ever need go shopping for spiffy clothes in Paris. I've heard more compliments about your appearance last night!" Mrs. McDougal laughed softly.

"I just met Mrs. Colby Merriam, wife of the delegate from Alabama, on my way in here," continued Mr. McDougal, "and she exclaimed over your gowns. 'Lucky girls!' she said. 'Every woman at the convention envies them their shopping trip to Paris.' And I failed to mention," finished Mr. McDougal, "as I thanked her for the compliment, that the ten trunks containing the family finery from Paris had been delivered at 8.30 this morning."—Chicago News.

A YANKEE ABROAD

By DEWITT MacKENZIE

No Poor Men Wanted

LONDON—One of America's most distinguished diplomats remarked to me the other day:

"I have gone as high as I can in the service, because I haven't the private financial resources to enable me to go higher. If someone offered me one of the biggest posts on a silver platter, I should have to decline."

All of which simmers down to this: —brains and ability alone don't qualify a man to be an ambassador or minister for the U. S. A. He absolutely must have a big private income.

Why? Because the salaries cover only a small fraction of the necessary expenses of the representatives.

I encounter a lot of Americans who think that an ambassador has government allowances, beyond his salary.

Nothing of the sort. Recently the government has been providing residences for many of its representatives, but that doesn't help much.

General Dawes

Let's be downright crude and take some specific examples.

I understand that it is costing General Dawes at the rate of $100,000 a year out of his own pocket to be ambassador to the court of St. James. Indeed, the general remarked in his picturesque way the other day that if he went through his four years on a personal expenditure of $100,000 a year he would "be saving money."

It costs the ambassadors in Paris, Berlin and Tokyo a similar amount to hold their posts. Buenos Aires is still more expensive. Constantinople also is among the most costly of the foreign posts.

Ambassadors in some of the smaller countries can get along with private incomes, of from perhaps $25,000 to $50,000 per year. Ministers in countries like Greece, for example, probably don't get stuck for more than $15,000 or $20,000 beyond their salaries.

This may surprise the average person, who has noted that an ambassador in a great capital gets a salary of $17,500 a year, and has a house thrown in. That sounds pretty good.

Well, take General Dawes' case. (Incidentally, the general didn't give me this information, but he probably will give me something in the nature of "Hell and Maria" when he reads it.)

It takes 19 servants to run the general's "free" house. One of these—a door keeper—is a fixture provided by the government. The rest are paid for by the general. Count 'em—18, and figure what they eat and waste.

Out Of Own Pockets

The American representative has to live in style. He must have his motor cars—out of his own pocket. He must entertain many people lavishly, including the representatives of other governments—out of his own pocket.

Why, even the simple Fourth of July reception which the Ambassador gives for the benefit of his countrymen in London costs about $1,800—out of his own pocket. All ambassadors have to contribute largely to charities.

And an ambassador can't give a mere five or 10 dollars. He must make a bigger flourish, to maintain the dignity of his country—out of his own pocket.

The late Whitelaw Reid is said to have spent $250,000 a year from his private means while he was ambassador here. But that was an exceptional amount, and is still spoken of with wonder. Ambassadors like Dawes and Houghton struggle along on $100,000.

YOUR HEALTH

Do Not Forget Your Eyes

By H. L. Myers, M. D., Norfolk, Va.

(From Gorgas Memorial Institute)

Few people realize the importance of the careful examination of the eyes in a periodical "check up" on their physical fitness. I wonder how many know that by means of the opthalmoscope a perfect view of the veins, arteries and nerves of vision of the eyes may be had, and, in this way, visual information obtained by the examiner of the condition of the rest of the nervous system. The examination with this instrument in the hands of an experienced observed will frequently reveal the pressure of early arterio-sclerosis with its attendant ills—kidney disease, diabetes, anaemias and other diseases and disorders of the vascular system. In fact the oculist in his routine examination for defects of vision is often the first to discover the presence of serious systemic disorders which the patient, and frequently his family physician, had not even suspected.

Again the opthalmoscope enables us, in the large majority of cases, to diagnose pressure in the brain in the presence of brain tumor, abscess etc., and frequently sight and indeed life is saved by the early recognition of the presence of such conditions, when they might have gone unnoticed until too late had the ocular examination been neglected. Many other diseases of the nervous system are also revealed—the behavior of the pupils and muscles of the eye and the state of the optic nerve.

Again the condition of the eyelids, the color of the delicate covering of the eye, the state of the edges of the lids and lashes etc., etc. all give valuable clues to the general condition of the body. Of course errors of refraction, such as near-sight, far-sight and astigmatism, must be carefully checked up, as they are perhaps responsible for more headache and inability to do good work than any other cause. This is particularly true of children. Many a backward child at school only needs to have his faulty refraction corrected to emerge from something resembling an idiot to an intelligent searcher after knowledge. Such a child is handicapped by either an inability to see or cursed with a constant headache from an easily correctible refractive error.

No organ of the body gives us more testimony as to general fitness than the eye, and periodical examinations for general health should always include a careful examination of the eyes by a capable oculist.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Norwich Surely Progressing

Mr. Editor: I was greatly impressed with the advertisement entitled "Be of good cheer—Things are looking a lot better," which appeared in The Norwich Bulletin of May 5, bearing the name of Reid & Hughes Co.

While the Reid & Hughes Co. is an old institution in Norwich, it is imbued with young and progressive ideas, and with a hope for the future which is greatly encouraging, I heartily agree with the Reid & Hughes Co., that the people of Norwich have much to be thankful for. And while we have our share of kickers who belittle everything of value in our city, we are fortunate in having a preponderating number of citizens who love Norwich and who are working for its betterment.

Surely Norwich is getting better from day to day. One must indeed be blind not to notice that our city is progressing, and that its citizens are making forward strides in every line of endeavor.

If all business institutions in our city would look to the future with the confidence of the Reid & Hughes Co., the progress of Norwich would be greatly accelerated.

May it grow by leaps and bounds.

MAX HANOVER.

Norwich, May 5, 1930.

Joiners

Mr. Editor: It has become an obsession or fixed habit of the men of today to become connected with every sort of organization that comes to their attention and with them it becomes a hobby, for all manner of fraternal or social societies are incorporated and with alluring propaganda they get the unwary to join. The promoters are never short of a name, for we get the Ancient Order of Rainmakers, the Mystic Order of Pin Boys, or the Knights of the Iron Hall or, in fact, any old name, and when a full-fledged member is going down the street he is saluted by other members who give him the high sign and he is kept busy returning the sign, and those who do not know watch him going through the motions. They think he is either off or has the St. Vitus dance. But there are many advantages that come to the members, especially the married ones, for you have an excuse to hand Friend Wife that you have to attend a very special meeting. And by this you can doll up and get out nights with the boys. When you get home late, or early the next morning, you remove your squeaky shoes and when you get about half way up the stairs you drop one and it goes coasting down the stairs and in the stillness of the night it sounds like the boom of a 16-inch gun. Then you hear a voice crying, "Who's there?" and you try to be funny and reply, "It's me, were you expecting someone else?" Then the war begins. You try to explain and she won't listen, and then the war opens in earnest. She says, "You are never home and you don't love me any more, and I am going back to mother." You tell her she better wait until morning and then you will give her a hand to pack up. And the next morning she asks you who the woman was at the meeting, for "I heard you speak about Kitty in your sleep." Then the battle starts all over again, and you gulp the coffee down and it is so hot you burn your tongue. You grab your hat and the cat gets in your way and you say things and slam the door, don't go home to dinner and during the afternoon recall that Socrates had said after a storm comes a calm. So you calm down and make up your mind you won't go out tonight. No, siree, but that promise is like pie crust, easily broken. You go out again, the same old excuse—special meeting, new members going to be initiated—a good line, you think—but she don't believe you but; you are wise and you think you got away with it. About the time the milk man is due you struggle home and go quietly up the stairs and she looks down over the railing and says, "You don't need to take off your shoes, for I am waiting for you." And then you get one of Mrs. Caudle's famous lectures and you don't care for them, anyway. This time you are told she is going home to mother again, and you look at the time table and tell her the last train has been gone over an hour. You are told you are a brute and, after a lot of hot shot, the armistice is signed, peace is declared, and you think you did wrong in trumping your partner's ace, then good night and sweet dreams. It's a great life if you can keep it up. Then another night comes and you are home, trying to frame up some excuse to get out. There is a very important meeting and there will be much money in the "kitty," and then an idea walks right up and says "Here I am," and he tells his better half he is going out to get a cigar, and "I will be right back." Now, ladies, this is confidential. He calls a friend on the phone and gives him the situation and says, "Call me at the house in half an hour, tell me I must come and don't fail." Returning to the house, he says, "I wasn't long, was I, dear?" Ain't men the deceitful creatures? He settles down in the old arm chair, when ting-a-ling goes the phone. Wife answers and Mr. Jones is on the wire and wants you. He says something very important. You are indignant, for you did so want to stay home. You tell Jones you can't come down. Wifey says, "George, it must be something very important for Mr. Jones said so, and you better go," and you go with much regret. When you get outside you hum that beautiful ditty, "My wife has gone to the country, Hooray," and so this goes on like the brook, and will continue as long as men are joiners. But are they not deceitful?

C. H. "DAD" SHAW.

A Washington Bystander

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

Associated Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 5—If President Hoover has an aesthetic side to his nature—and the Bystander has never heard whether he has or not—return to the reconstructed White House office wing must have been a relief.

The combination of modernism and classic simplicity with ornate grandeures of another day which marked his temporary quarters in the state-war building was rather unhappy to the Bystander's eye.

The temporary office was a grand old room, in it sway, in keeping with the taste of the time it was built. Its woodwork is all fine old mahogany, dark with age and much polishing.

Portals between the long windows and the high ceilings were decorated in soft, dark colorings. Even the ornate plaster scroll-work about the top of the walls was softened by those dull tones. Despite its big windows, the room was rather dim. It absorbed light. Gen. Pershing kept it so during his occupancy, as he kept the huge old carved desk used by many navy secretaries.

Changes

But when the office knew its highest honors and housed the president, all this was changed. The desk and other old fixtures, marble topped tables, huge old couches and chairs and the like, disappeared. Wall panels became a rather bright light green. Even the scroll-work was touched up with bright gilding.

A flood of electric lights was provided. Heavy old hangngs at the windows vanished. It was out of keeping with the style and coloring of the original room so much of which had to be retained. The effect was not very pleasing.

Strictly Modern

Back in the oval room that is his White House office the president is in strictly modern surroundings. Even the bookcases—filled, no doubt, with never-used volumes—have gone from the curving walls. The one time soft gray green tinting is replaced by pinkish tan, shading into old ivory at the ceiling.

A highly modernistic, almost futuristic, light cluster in gleaming silver trim swings in the center. Windows behind the presidential desk are graced by no draperies to soften their uncompromising business of letting in thel ight.

Nothing mars the chaste and classic simplicity of walls, broken only by the many doorways. Even the hardwood flooring is bright and a bit harsh in coloring. Again you get an impression of floods of light, natural or man-made. Mr. Hoover seems to like that.

But the air of friendliness and soft coloring once very noticeable about the room is wholly lacking.

CHILD TRAINING

Improving George's School Work

Stella E. Fulton

"I'm so discouraged about George," said young Mrs. Painter with a sigh. "He doesn't seem to take any interest in his school work at all. I try so hard to arouse him. I say, 'Why can't you be like Edward Slater? Edward is at the head of his class and I am sure he is no smarter than you are.' I even offered George a dollar if he would beat Edward's record in arithmetic. But it's no use. He doesn't even try."

"Don't you think that may be one root of your trouble?" responded her friend, Sarah. "When you set out to get one child to outdo some other child, you make it doubly hard for him to do so. For instance, instead of George putting his entire energy into his school work, a good part of it is spent in watching Edward, trying to find out what it is that gives Edward the lead, and perhaps in copying the least important things that he does. In other words, you are urging him to be an imitator, and you know that an imitator seldom produces anything as good as the thing he imitates."

"Well, then, if you don't approve of what I've done, tell me what you would do to interest George in his school," demanded Polly, slightly aggrieved.

"Perhaps you can find out what is the matter with his arithmetic. It may be only carelessness in setting down the problem. Or he may be slow in setting down his problems and that gives him a low mark in all the speed tests. But at any rate, I would be careful not to suggest to him a comparison with any other child. To improve on his own record would be a better incentive. Just let him know that you only expect him to do his own very best work."

"I am surprised that you think it is so terribly important that I shouldn't suggest any rivalry with another child. But I am willing to try out your plan, at least for a while. George simply hates school at the present time," said Polly regretfully.

"There isn't any fun in imitating other people—at least not to any one with as active and original a mind as George has. Can't you imagine how it would be if you and I were asked to write an essay in imitation of Macauley or a play like Shakespeare's and do them better than the originals? The very idea of imitating and at the same time excelling the work of a person of ability would appall us, discourage us, and he should hate the task with all our might."

"And we should hate Macauley and Shakespeare with all our might, too," said Polly. "I believe George hates Edward Slater," she added, thinking out her problem. "He is hating his school, hating Edward and envying him, too, I suppose. I didn't see before what it was coming to. I'll try your plan, Sarah."

OLD JACKSON ARMY RAOD MARVEL OF SKILL TODAY

SEALE, Ala.—(AP)—The famous federal road of pre-Civil war days, built by the men who followed Andrew Jackson against the Indians today is still considered a marvel of skill by road builders.

The road has no deep cuts, steep hills or boggy places. In that section there are many streams, but it crosses few. A later road to Montgomery crosses many streams and has many cuts but there is only a few miles difference in the length of the two routes.

The federal road, when constructed, passed through great plantations of wealthy southerners. These plantations extended to and even beyond Sanfort on the same road.

The road, continued to Fort Mitchell and on to Fort Gaines. It crosses hte Chattahoochee river near Fort Mitchell, then an important and thriving community.

AUTO PRODUCTION SETS ALL-TIME WORLD RECORD

WASHINGTON—(AP)—An all-time record was established in 1929 by producers of automobiles throughout the world.

A. W. Childs, chief of the automotive division, department of commerce, estimated from preliminary figures that more than 6,300,000 motor cars were produced during the year.

The estimate represents a gain of more than 1,000,000 cars over 1928 production. Increased outputs were registered in all but a few countries.

GERMAN MOTOR IMPORTS HIT HOME AUTO INDUSTRY

BERLIN —(AP)— Three German families are deprived of a living by every imported foreign motorcar sold at 10,000 marks, or roughly $2,500. Elsner von Gronow, the automobile industrialist has pointed out.

In a speech before the National German Automobile club he urged that something be done to stem importations of foreign cars, which reached a valuation of $30,000,000 last year. This was double the valuation of cars imported in 1927.

SWEETEN ACID STOMACH THIS PLEASANT WAY

When people experience distress two hours after eating—suffer from heartburn, gas, indigestion—nine times out of ten it's excess acid that's causing their trouble.

The best way—the quickest way to correct this is with an alkali. And Phillips Milk of Magnesia is an alkali, in the harmless, most pleasant and palatable form. It's the form physicians prescribe; which hospitals use; which millions have come to depend upon in over 50 years of steadily increasing use.

A spoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water neutralizes many times its volume in excess acid; and does it at once. In five minutes, the symptoms of excess acid disappear. To know this perfect way is to be through with crude methods forever.

Be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. A less perfect product may not act the same. All drug stores have the generous 25c and 50c bottles. Full directions for its many uses are always in the package.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.

MAYOR NAMES JOHN H. POWERS ON GAS AND ELECTRIC COMMISSION

John H. Powers, accountant, of No. 28 Lincoln avenue, was named a member of the board of gas and electric commissioners, Monday evening, by Mayor LeeRoy Robbins, at the May meeting of the court of common council. The mayor's appointment was confirmed by the council. Mr. Powers succeeds Joseph P. Connor, who was unable to accept a re-appointment, because of poor health.

With Mayor Robbins presiding, the meeting was called to order with the usual full attendance. Following the acceptance of the minutes of the previous meeting, City Clerk Weston C. Pullen read his return of publication of the new ordinance making Shetucket street a one-way street.

Petitions were received and referred as follows: From Alex M. Pasnik, owner of the Chelsea Boat club property, asking a refund of $18.62 taxes paid through error in including in the tax list that part of his property used by the N. Y., N. H. & H. railroad as a right of way. The refund was subsequently voted.

Appropriations Voted

Upon the application of the Duwell Athletic association for $500 towards the expenses of the national championship road race on Memorial day, the council voted an appropriation of $450 towards expenses and $50 for a prize cup for the winner of the race.

An appropriation of $300 was voted upon the request of Sedgwick post, No. 1, G. A. R., for this amount towards the expenses of Memorial day celebration.

Claim Paid on Clock

A claim was received from the Plaut-Cadden Co., signed by Adelard Morin, vice-president, asking $750, set forth as the value of the street clock owned by the Plaut-Cadden Co., which was demolished when hit by Engine No. 6, while responding to an alarm for a fire on Franklin street some time ago. The claim was referred to the finance committee and the corporation counsel, who later in the meeting recommended that the claim be settled for $400. A resolution to that effect was adopted by the meeting.

On recommendation of the finance committee and the corporation counsel, a resolution was adopted settling, for $1,000, the claim of Vera C. Neale, who was injured in a fall on Perkins avenue, Dec. 10, 1929, because of the icy condition of the street.

Broadway Building Line

A new zoning ordinance was presented at the meeting, received and a hearing on the same set for the evening of May 23rd. The new ordinance specifies that no building or structure shall hereafter be extended, erected or reconstructed on the easterly side of Broadway between Main street and Bath street, west of a line extending between the west face of the Wauregan hotel and the west face of the Chapman building.

Mayor Robbins, in explanation, said that the ordinance is designed to prevent encroachment of property owners on Broadway. The mayor said that the owner of the Central building planned to extend the front of that building to a level with the front of the Shetucket Harness store and Chapman buildings, and the ordinance was designed to prevent such an encroachment. The time is at hand when lower Broadway should be widened, the mayor said.

The council also appropriated $60,000 to defray the expenses of the city between the close of the fiscal year, May 15th, and the adoption of the city budget at the annual city meeting in June. Authority to appropriate and borrow the money was granted at a recent special city meeting.

The council received and accepted an invitation from Sedgwick post, No. 1, to participate in the Memorial day observance. The council voted to attend in a body.

Appoints Commissioner

Mayor Robbins called attention to the fact that on May 15th the term of Joseph P. Connor as a member of the board of gas and electrical commissioners will expire. Mr. Connor, the mayor said, has been in poor health for two years but during that time has carried on to the best of his ability. Mayor Robbins spoke of Mr. Connor as a neighbor and said there were a good many reasons why he should like to re-appoint him to the board. Because of Mr. Connor's health, the mayor said the latter felt that he should not be re-appointed. Mayor Robbins then announced his appointment of John H. Powers to the board for a term of five years dating from May 15th and the appointment was approved by the council. The new appointee is an accountant engaged in business in this city and resides at 28 Lincoln avenue.

On recommendation of the board of police commissioners, through Alderman Frederick J. Ortmann, chairman, the council appointed Harold H. Kramer as a supernumerary police officer. In answer to a question from the mayor, Alderman Ortmann stated that there were now 18 supernumeraries on the list. The appointment was by ballot cast by the clerk, authorized to do so.

The police committee reported that the petitions of Joseph and Mary Hulboj for a bug light on Lois street and of Patrick Connor for an arc light at Oakridge street and Boswell avenue had been granted.

Annual Reports

The annual reports of the milk inspector, the recreation committee, the water commissioners and the park commissioners, and the monthly reports of the street department and city treasurer were received and accepted, after which department bills were approved, as follows:

Finance committee, $54,743.24; public works dept., $11,034.02; gas and electric dept., $35,698.29; water dept., $5,-892.07; fire dept., $8,446.38; police dept., $7,293.27; cemetery dept., $1,459.84; park dept., $570.06; street lights, $2,-406.21; decreation dept., $26.09. The council adjourned about 8:45 o'clock.

SALVATION ARMY CAMPAIGN TO APPEAL FOR $5,000

R. D. Butler of the campaign department of the Salvation Army, of Boston headquarters, came to Norwich on Monday, to make arrangements for an appeal for $5,00 with which to continue the Salvation Army service in Norwich for the current year. Mr. Butler is calling upon the prominent citizens who were the friends and the supporters of the Salvation Army in Norwich in the years gone by to lend their kind support and assistance in the coming appeal.

Percy Day, Salvation Army captain in Norwich, has gone through a very strenuous year as the unemployment and the long and protracted winter just terminated was rather hard on the poor; making a much larger demand upon the service of the Salvation Army than in former years. Captain Day said that in all his career of over 15 years of service in the Salvation Army he never had worked as hard as during the last winter. Mrs. Day, who had spent more years in the service of the Salvation Army, found the demand upon her time during last winter more urgent than in any previous year. Both Captain and Mrs. Day feel that it was very fortunate that in the campaign of last year the people of Norwich and vicinity responded with generosity to the Salvation Army appeal raising the entire quota which was asked for. This made it possible to assist a number of worthy poor which otherwise would have been left in great distress.

Mr. Butler will stay in Norwich and assist in the appeal, the tentative date of which has been set for the week of May 12 to May 17. He is in the hope that the people of Norwich and vicinity will rally to the support of the Salvation Army as in former years.

COAST GUARD SUPERINTENDENT ADDRESSES CONTACT CLUB

Capt. H. G. Hamlet, superintendent of the Coast Guard Academy at New London, was the speaker at the weekly meeting of the Norwich Contact club Monday noon at the Wauregan hotel. Capt. Hamlet, in his talk, said that the U. S. Coast Guard academy at New London, is on a par with West Point and Annapolis. He said, however, that the Coast Guard academy was not on a par with the other two schools, in respect to buildings and equipment.

This, he said, will be remedied by the new Coast Guard academy to be erected on the Thames river, opposite Connecticut college. Congress has appropriated $2,500,000 for this purpose.

President Ernest O. Rodier presided at the meeting, Frederick T. Maples was song leader, and Russell Crowell was chairman of the program committee. A letter from Mrs. David A. Pitt, and Mrs. Harold Johnson, was read at the meeting, inviting the Contact club to attend a Mother's day service at the United Congregational church when Clarence True Wilson, L. L. D., of Washington, D. C., is to speak on Liquor, Labor and Law. The meeting is to be held under the auspices of the Woman's Crusade.

NORWICH STATE HOSPITAL FORCE CHECKED FIRE

The fire-fighting force at the Norwich State hospital got into prompt and effective action Monday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock with its motor hose wagon and a gang armed with shovels when a grass fire on the lot across the road from the new county home buildings began to get dangerously near the William Austin bungalow and two small buildings in the rear.

A line of about 300 feet of hose was attached to the city hydrant at this point and the buildings and field were wet down, while the shovel gang got to work on the far side of the field, where the blaze was creeping down towards the railroad property.

Dr. E. S. Burdsall, superintendent, was on hand to direct operations and the flames were drowned and beaten out.

SCOUTS TO MOBILIZE FOR RALLY PRACTICE

Practically every scout in the city of Norwich will be on the floor at the state armory tonight (Tuesday) at 8 o'clock to engage in the first all-city preliminary practice on the Jamboree Rally to be held May 24. Troops 1, 2, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 12, 13 and 21, will meet and march to the armory in a body. Many of the troops plan to hold a short meeting at their troop headquarters before leaving for the armory.

One troop is interested in getting up some clowns, another expects to furnish tumblers, and there is the suggestion that the scouts portray the different merit badges in costume. Every troop will be expected to put on something original in addition to entering into the competitive events.

The purpose of the rally is to put on an interesting demonstration of what scouting does for boys.

TRIED OUT OBSERVATION TRAIN FOR BOAT RACE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, May 5—The New Haven railroad's new observation train, which was used for the first time at Derby Saturday, was brought here Sunday and this noon was taken to the union station yard where it was placed in the same position that it will be when Yale and Harvard rows on the Thames June 20. This tryout of the train was due to the cars being larger than those heretofore used and because of the train having more cars. In the past but two tracks have been necessary for use of the train, which, then comprised 32 cars, but with 36 cars comprising the new trai nand all of them four feet longer, three tracks will be necessary to take care of the cars while the train is awaiting its passengers. The old cars held 98 passengers each and the new ones will accommodate 106 adults. After the experiment had been concluded, the train was taken to Midway when it will be stored until the day of the race.

MAKING INNOVATIONS IN STORRS COMMENCEMENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, May 5—An innovation in this year's commencement exercises will be conducted on Monday, June 9, instead of on Saturday as in previous years, has been announced as approved by the commencement committee of which Professor Sherman P. Hollister is chairman. A change in the date of the baccalaurate service, which is to be delivered by Rev. Raymond Calkins, of Cambridge, Mass., has been decided upon, and this ceremony will be conducted on the Sunday immediately preceding the graduation exercises instead of a week before as has been the case in other years. A third innovation which will be inaugurated this year is the senior class breakfast which will be served in the Community house, Friday, June 6.

Saturday, June 8, formerly date of commencement exercises, will this year be devoted almost exclusively to alumni affairs, and alumni reunions, business meetings, banquet and dance will be conducted on that day. Although the class of 1930 will not be graduated until the following Monday, it is planned to have the members participate in the activities of the alumni day.

The complete program, as approved, is as follows: Friday, June 6, 10:00 a. m., class breakfast; 1:30 p. m., ivy planting; 2:30 p. m., class day exercises; 6:30 p. m., fraternity reunions; 9:00 p. m., reception to seniors and guests in the Hawley armory.

Saturday, June 7: 9:00 a. m., meeting of alumni executive committee; 12 m., class reunions; 1:30 p. m., alumni business meeting; 3:30 p. m., Connecticut Aggie-Springfield college baseball game on Gardner Dow field; 6:00 p. m., alumni banquet in the college dining hall; 7:00 p. m., President George A. Works address to the alumni; 9:00 p. m., alumni dance in Hawley armory.

Sunday, June 8: Breakfast for letter men in the college dining hall; 3:00 p. m., baccalaurate service by Rev. Raymond Calkins of Cambridge, Mass.; 5:00, fraternity reunions.

Monday, June 9: 10:15 a. m., academic parade of senior class, faculty trustees and distinguished guests; 10:30 a. m., commencement exercises in the Hawley armory; 2:00 p. m., baseball game now being scheduled by Coach Sumner A. Dole.

It was the opinion of the commencement committee meeting that academic dress is an established custom and required no further faculty action. It was also suggested by the committee that the senior class submit a list of ushers for baccalaurate and commencement.

The following committees were appointed: Baccalaurate music, Professor George S. Torrey; marshal; Professor George S. Torrey, to arrange for gowns and to appoint assistants as desired; invitations and printing, Professor Sherman P. Hollister, Mr. Walter Stemmons, Mrs. Pearl Clark, Miss Eleanor Jessen, '30, of Hartford, and Mr. J. Earl Williams, '30, of Hartford; music for commencement, Professor Sherman P. Hollister.

NAMES THURSDAY FOR NORWICH CHURCH NIGHT

A meeting of the Norwich Ministers' association was held Monday morning • Rev. Alexander H. Abbott's study at the Otis library building. The president, Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey presided. Prayer was offered by Rev. Charles E. Reeves.

A book review was given by Rev. Mr. Abbott, who took Whitehead's "Religion in the Making," for his topic and gave a most interesting review.

After a discussion it was voted unanimously that the Norwich Ministers' association consider Thursday night as church night and that all Protestant churches reserve it as such. It is hoped that all organizations will recognize this choice of the churches and will govern community gatherings accordingly.

Those present were: Revs. Frederick C. Baker, Harold H. Critchlow, Alexander H. Abbott, Theodore M. Shipherd, Gurdon F. Bailey, Charles E. Reeves, Frank Palmer, Percy A. Kilmister, William J. Sly, A. N. Foster, David A. Pitt, D. C. Stone, Joseph Cooper and George W. Potter.

CITY MILK INSPECTOR REPORTS BETTER CONDITIONS

Dr. Clarence G. Thompson, city milk inspector, submitted his annual report to the court of common council Monday night. In his report Dr. Thompson says:

About 350 milk samples were secured, sent to Hartford for examination, and the reports distributed to the various milk distributors. The reports on the whole have been very good; in fact, much better than last year, in view of the fact that only a few have required any supervision.

At the March meeting of the court of common council a very important measure was adopted; namely, passage of an amendment reading, "That all milk distributed in the city must come from tuberculin-tested cows, or be pasteurized." This was a great advance, and the council is to be commended for its part in the adoption of this new measure.

Since that time, four new pasteurization plants have been started and will be in operation in the near future; showing that the milk dealers realize that the demand for safer milk will be greater in the future.

Thanks is due and is hereby rendered to Charles Henry Briggs, state inspector of dairies, for his part in rendering valuable aid to the local milk inspector.

BOSTON, May 5.—(AP)—The Boston Red Sox found four Cleveland pitchers, for 23 hits to win the final game of their series with the Cleveland Indians, 18 to 3 here today and break the Indians' winning streak, which had extended to six games.

Half of Boston's runs were scored in the fifth inning, when Hudlin, Shaute, and Miller all were hit hard. Milt Gaston scattered the Indians' seven hits effectively. One of them was the only home run of the day, a long one over the left field fence from the bat of Jonah Goldman, Cleveland shortstop. The score:

Any other Plainfield boys wishing to play will be given a tryout with the team.

N. F. A. PLAYS WESTERLY IN LEAGUE GAME WEDNESDAY

Once again it will be Boots Greene's turn to go to the pitching mound for the Academy when they face Westerly high at the campus tomorrow afternoon in a league game. Greene, who has run up an impressive list of strikeouts in his four pitching victories this year, expects to add to this string against Coach Sherman's boys. The rest of the Wildcat team is approximately the same as has been seen in all the starts so far.

The Academy has made the sixth inning its big scoring frame in the games so far getting 29, and has been scored on the most in the ninth inning to a total of seven. The team has put over at least five runs in every one of the regulation stanzas and has also added one in the tenth. The next big run-producing inning for the Wildcats has been the fourth with 22. The team has outscored opponents 114 to 26 in its nine victories.

WALKER'S FINE HURLING PUTS GIANTS IN FIRST

PITTSBURGH, May 5.—(AP)— Bill Walker's southpaw slants abetted by his home run with the bases full sent the New York Giants into first place in the National league pennant race today as the Pirates were defeated 9 to 1.

Walker blanked the Pirates for eight rounds, handing out only three hits. George Grantham's home run in the ninth, however, spoiled the otherwise brilliant performance. In addition to giving a masterful exhibition of holding the usually hard hitting Pirates, Walker won his own game in the fourth with a home run with the bases loaded.

Larry French pitched eight innings for Pittsburgh and was combed for six of the nine runs. He retired in the eighth for a pinch hitter and Heine Meine finished, being scored on three times in the last inning.

FORD STARS WITH BAT IN REDS WIN OVER BRAVES

CINCINNATI, O., May 5—(AP)—Four extra base hits by Horace Ford, Cincinnati shortstop, who punished the ball for three doubles and a triple and drove in four runs besides scoring twice himself, today aided the Reds to drive Burleigh Grimes from the box and win a ten to six slugfest from the Braves. Red Lucas was hit freely but had only one bad inning, the sixth, when Boston scored 5 runs. Berger, pinch-hitting in that inning, knocked a home run with two on base.

BATTALINO AWARDED DECISION

PHILADELPHIA, May 5—(AP)—Battling Battalino, world's featherweight champion, belted his way to a slashing 10-round decision over Lew Massey, Philadelphia flash, in the main event at the Arena tonight. Battalino weighed 128 1-2 and Massey 129.

By winning tonight Battalino evened the score with the Philadelphian, Massey having won the verdict over the champion when they met here last January.

As in their former bout, tonight's affair did not involve Battalino's title, both fighters coming in above the featherweight limit.

An infected finger on his left hand handicaped the battler in the former bout and probably had much to do with his defeat. Massey also fought with a sore finger, but in the opinion of doctors, the champion's finger was the worst of the two.

The finger put Bat in a hospital for several days, an ordeal that Massey escaped.

With his left hand in perfect health tonight and having no occasion to favor it, the champion use dit in his customary fashion to create openings for his swift-shooting and punishing right. Massey, despite his boxing skill, ran afoul of the battler's heavy punches time after time during the 10 rounds. Sharp jabs and stinging hooks caught him frequently as the champion danced about, to be followed by rugged rights to the head and below the heart that shook the Philadelphia boy to his heels.

Massey, always game and trying, backed up only when Battalino's rushes swept him into the ropes. Some of his punches found their mark, but none reached a vital spot with sufficient force to confuse the champion.

ROOKIE HURLER HOLDS SOX TO 5 HITS AS YANKS WIN

NEW YORK, May 5.—(AP)—Making his first major league start, Vernon Gomez, 19-year-old Yankee rookie southpaw, held the White Sox to five hits today as New York defeated Chicago 4 to 1. The victory gave the Yanks three out of four in the current series at the Stadium.

The youthful discovery, who last year led the Pacific Coast league pitchers as a member of the San Francisco Seals, gave a masterful exhibition of hurling. In addition to giving the Sox but five hits, he struck out six batters, including the first three men to face him in the opening inning. Faber also fanned six batsmen but an error by the veteran spitballer in the seventh paved the way to his downfall.

Lazzeri hit for four bases, his circuit drive coming in the eighth, when the Yanks apparently had the game on ice.

MONTVILLE DUSTY LEAGUE OPENS SEASON TONIGHT AT GAIR DIAMOND

The Montville Industrial Twilight league will open its season this (Tuesday) evening at the Robert Gair diamond at Uncasville with the Eastern Connecticut Power company opposing the Textile Manufacturing Co. team. Officials of the league are scheduled to take part in the opening ceremonies, one of whom will toss over the first ball marking the opening of the league season.

The grounds are wonderfully fine shape, having been put in such condition by members of the league in cooperation with First Selectman Ambrose Sullivan and Third Selectman Jerome House. It is the intentions of the league officials to have all games start promptly at 6:30 o'clock so that at least a regulation game can be played.

The league teams this year appear to be more evenly matched than in the past and officials anticipate one of the closest pennant races since the league was organised. The Eastern Conn. Power team, champions of 1929, again has a fast team this year, the lineup including practically all of the veterans of last year, such as Morasky, Nortorkay, Dugas and McCarthy.

The Textile Manufacturing Co., coached by Manager Michael Murphy, has a nine that is expected to furnish stiff opposition against the other teams of the league. The team only lacks a pitcher. Rioux, who twirled last year, Wylie and a number of stars on the team in 1929 will have places in the lineup.

McGinnis, star of the New London City league, will have charge of the destiny of the Robert Gair Co. team and has gathered together a strong lineup, including Murphy, Awezec, Shean and himself. A team of seasoned players will be put on the field by the Robertson's Paper Box Co. Sisson, Allen, McKinney, Rice and Tisky are numbered in the lineup.

A large crowd is expected to be on hand tonight to witness the opening contest, which is looked forward to be one of many fast games that will be played by the league teams this season.

"What," cried the fiery fraulein, "you'd call me 'wife' in rasping tones like those. Never! Before you dare presume, sir, learn what wonders, upon frayed vocal cords, are worked by honey-smooth, queen-leaf tobacco. Relieve my tortured ears and your tortured throat with OLD GOLDS. WESTERLY

FIRE-FIGHTERS PUT IN ANOTHER DAY OF ANXIETY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., May 5.—Shortly before 12:30 Monday noon, Fire Chief George E. Egger sounded the now familiar No. 33 call on the Westerly fire whistle for out of the district fires. The Ahrens-Fox motor pumper with men left for Bradford, to check a blaze which had started in the Woody Hill section again to threaten the Elmer Browning farm, also an electric light and power sub-station of the South County Public Service Co. This fire was thought to have started from near the site of the beginning of Saturday and Sunday's destructive fires which swept to the Boston Post road and even across that federal and state highway.

With the departure of the Bradford fire-fighters Fire Chief George E. Egger and Assistant Engineer Columbus Pasetti and men took the Seagraves motor pumper and little time was lost in getting to Rockville, where advancing flames threatened the village and mills. Following the departure of the Westerly firemen, Foreman Ernest J. Wills communicated with Chief Joseph Purtill of the Pawcatuck fire department and was given assurance that at the first blast of the whistle the Pawcatuck motor pumper would come over the Pawcatuck bridge into Westerly and remain at the foot of Union street to receive orders.

About 1:15 p. m., Pawcatuck fire whistle was sounded for a fire in the brooder shed of Daniel Shea, 18 Smith street. The line was laid from a booster tank and the flames which started from a draft on the oil heater were extinguished. The recall was sounded in 25 minutes.

Sunday evening when the menace of the flames had passed from the Gavitt, Saunders and James places on the Boston Post road, the Ahrens-Fox motor pumper of the Westerly department with Chief Egger and large force of firemen responded to the emergency call and proceeded toward Usquepaugh, village of 50 buildings known as the center of the manufacture of Indian corn meal from which Rhode Island Johnny-cakes are made. The place was threatened with destruction from the forest fire which had advanced toward the town of Richmond from Exeter. The Westerly motor pumper was followed by the motor pumper of the Misquamicut fire department. The threatened destruction was averted by the hard work of Rhode Island college students and the firemen of Hopkinton, Richmond, South Kingstown and Charlestown. The Westerly pumper was stopped at the Usquepaugh river bridge when it was found that its services were not required and the Misquamicut pumper was turned about shortly before arriving there. Both motor pumpers returned to the Quonochontaug section of the Boston Post road and remained there until it was ascertained that the flames which had crossed the Post road toward the ocean front on the north sides of Charlestown and Quonochontaug ponds would not destroy summer homes along Ninigret and Shelter Harbor coves on the salt ponds.

Practical Work of Red Cross

The activities of the Westerly chapter of the American Red Cross under the superintendence of Chairman Henry L. Burdick were extended to follow the Westerly fire-fighters when they had gone into South Kingstown and Richmond, truck loads of sandwiches and cans of coffee being transported from Westerly to follow the firemen. With the Red Cross service also went details of American Legion men from Harold W. Merrill post, No. 16, of Westerly, the former service men displaying Red Cross arm bands. From the top of Kingston Hill in the town of South Kingstown with an elevation of 252 feet but some 30 feet lower than the top of Shannock Hill in the town of Richmond where the forest fire lookout station is located, the sight shortly before 10 p. m. was awe-inspiring. To the east and northeast, advancing flames in Mooresfield and Slocumville covered hilltops and lowlands in a wide circle of flame. To the north and northwest the burning timber in Usquepaugh and other sections of the town of Richmond sent up clouds of dense smoke, at the lower edge of which showed shooting flames, and far to the west and southward the rising smoke from the fires in Westerly and Charlestown could be seen plainly, although nearly 15 miles distant. As in Westerly earlier in the day, when motor traffic on Route 1 or the Boston Post road was stopped, late in the afternoon traffic was stopped on Route 1-A or the Noose Neck Hill road to Providence, which had earlier been detoured on the old road by way of Arcadia and Barberville. In Peacedale a state trooper warned autoists of the fire along the Kingston-Wyoming road and at West Kingston, at the cross road to the Boston Post road, motor traffic was re-routed.

In Hopkinton Monday the regular session of the town council was postponed because of the fires in the nearby towns and the session was adjourned a week. In the early afternoon after firemen had gone to Rockville at least a hundred Boy Scouts from both Westerly and Pawcatuck had been taken by trucks, after being excused from school, to fight the fires which threatened the Rhode Island State Boy Scout camp on Yawgoo pond with buildings and equipment.

In North Stonington, flames which started near the turnpike, were eating their way through timberland to the south of Clark's Falls.

In Glenrock near Usquepaugh the house of Reuben Peckham caught fire twice but it was finally saved by the fire-fighters. The loss to Mr. Peckham is estimated at $1,000. The George Esse:: place which was burned was located in Usquepaugh. It had been abandoned for some time. The wood land of James Lamond, William Palmer and C. D. Kenyon suffered severe losses. Mr. Lamond's loss is estimated at $600, Mr. Palmer's at $1,000 and Mr. Kenyon's loss at $3,000.

The greatest monetary loss was caused when the fire swept south of Usquepaugh over the property of T. DeCoppet. It is estimated that his woodland loss amounts to $50,000. Thousands of acres were burned over in this section. Mr. DeCoppet, however, lost only four or five small out-buildings. The other buildings on his magnificent estate were saved.

Asa Marshall of Usquepaugh lost 500 cords of cut wood. Mr. Marshall had spent all summer in getting together this supply. The barn owned by Stephen J. Casey of Providence, formerly of Richmond, was burned to the ground. The house, which was unoccupied at the time, was saved.

TOWN COUNCIL CONTINUES HEARINGS ON PETITIONS

The May session of Westerly town council was held Monday morning with all members present. The session was characterized by several hearings on various petitions, chiefly for amendments to present zoning ordinances in the extension of business areas along the Boston Post road on petitions from Paul Pierce at the Woody Hill road and Bertram F. Earle, also a request for a special business permit by Henry B. Morris at Pine Lodge. These matters were all continued to Monday evening, May 12, for action.

Re-elected to Westerly zoning board were Charles L. Fontana, whose term expired June 1, 1928, and Frank A. Sullivan, expiring June 1, 1929, but that of Arthur L. Perry, expiring June 1, 1930, will be taken up at a later meeting of the town council. At the close of the council meeting much time was given to consideration of new ordinances which are to regulate the motor traffic problems of the coming summer, relative to parking and operations on the streets of Westerly.

When the matter of creating a new business area along the Boston Post road came before the council, Town Solicitor John Ferguson said that no action could be taken on the Pierce application as there had been remonstrance, and it would have to go over for three days. There was no remonstrance to the Earle application, but both were put over until May 12.

Objected to Change

Town Clerk Whipple read the amendment to the zoning ordinance establishing new building lines on Pleasant, Pierce and Beach streets. Clara C. Crandall of Beach street objected to any change which would allow houses to be built any closer to Beach street than at present. She was informed that the change would enlarge the space between the highway and the structures by ten feet. No action was taken.

The council voted bills paid for fighting forest fires on April 11, amounting to $237.45.

Milk licenses were granted Edwin Barber, Jr., Michaele Morrone, Henry L. Mitchell, Frank Babonas, John Matarese, Tisana R. Waters and Willis Barber.

Health Officer Dr. Samuel C. Webster reported two cases of measles and two cases of German measles.

MYSTIC

PERIOD OF FIRES WITH SERIOUS LOSSES

Residents of Mystic and nearby towns could go in most any direction Sunday, and be present at a fire. One on Pequot avenue in the morning, started at the northern end, burning the entire length, southerly, until it reached Library street. This was the fifth fire on Pequot this spring. Hard work by neighbors and all available help, was necessary to keep the barn and house on the Horace Clift property, now owned by Odell D. Tompkins of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., from burning. The woods on this property were more than half burned over. It also required watchful care to keep the garage of Henry Cinquanta from burning, the fire coming to within about 10 feet of the building. All trucks were called into service to carry water and with a great deal of hard work and the help of the fire companies in the village, the fire was finally checked. A very hard fire, from 2 to 3 miles in width on the front, was burning briskly Sunday afternoon, having been going all night, on the Norwich road and over on Lantern hill. Another one over on the Groton road, near the Max Pollock's mill, required heroic fighting; traffic was stopped and made to go around another road part of the time. Another bad fire was in the Gungewamp section, beyond Center Groton, where a sawmill and many thousand feet of lumber burned, besides the woods. Any man going anywhere near, was very likely pressed into service, as all available help was needed. It was at times almost impossible to stop the fire; all that could be done, was to keep watch of nearby houses, etc. There was a very strong wind blowing and when the flames got into tall grass or underbrush, a person might as well try to stop the sun from shining, as to stop the flames. Many of these fires were no doubt due to careless persons throwing lighted cigarettes on the highway or into the brush.

Stella Ashcroft, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Ashcroft of High street, celebrated her ninth birthday Saturday, May 3. Sandwiches, cake, candy and lemonade were served. Games were played and the little girl received pretty gifts from her guests, who were, Joyce and Ellen Finney, Helen and Mamie Kamminsky, Martha Startz, Alma Wilbur and Mary Jane Willis.

Yet, to be polite,
She said:
"Your room is lovely... I guess I can't stay. I don't mind the trip home."

No intimate friends
—until she ended "B. O." (Body Odor)

SHE LONGED for friends—real friends. Girls who would drop in to see her often, go shopping with her or to the movies, stay overnight. But in spite of her cordiality, people didn't respond. They were polite, pleasant—but kept her at arm's length.

At last she found out why. "B.O."—body odor. . . . Now her lonely days are over—she has friends galore. She knows the easy way to avoid offending.

No one is safe!

Body odor is a fault people seldom mention—and never overlook. Yet unless we adopt some simple safeguard, any one of us may be guilty—and not know it!

Our pores constantly give off odor-causing waste—as much as a quart daily, doctors say. We soon become accustomed to this ever-present odor and don't notice it in ourselves. But others do.

That's why millions of particular men and women have adopted Lifebuoy as their toilet soap. For with Lifebuoy you can feel safe. Its bland, creamy, deep-cleansing, antiseptic lather purifies pores—banishes every trace of "B.O."—leaves you gloriously fresh and clean.

A real complexion soap

And what wonders Lifebuoy can do for the complexion! It goes straight to the source of most complexion troubles—clogged pores. Quickly its gentle searching lather frees them of impurities—coaxes back healthy radiant bloom to dull, sallow skins. Its pleasant, extra-clean scent—that vanishes as you rinse—tells you Lifebuoy purifies. Adopt Lifebuoy today.

POETRY

Human Progress

All is action, all is motion,
In this mighty world of ours;
Like the current of the ocean,
Man is urged by unseen powers.
Steadily but strongly moving,
Life is onward evermore;
Still the present is improving
On the age that went before.
Duty points with outstretched fingers
Every soul to action high;
Woe betide the soul that lingers—
Onward! onward! is the cry.

Though man's form may seem victorious.
Warm may waste and famine blight,
Still from out the conflict glorious,
Mind comes forth with added light.

O'er the darkest night of sorrow,
From the deadliest field of strife,
Dawns a clearer, brighter morrow,
Springs a truer, nobler life.

Onward! onward! onward ever!
Human progress none may stay;
All who make the vain endeavor,
Shall, like chaff, be swept away.

—By J. Hagen, in Sauders' Fourth Reader.

The Old Pear Tree

The old pear tree's in bloom again,
And, oh, but she is lovely still,
As o'er her aged limbs she spreads
Pale green and whitest blossomfrill.

Although she's old, she's proud to see
Alone against the April sky,
New-crowned she stands to meet the wind.
This fairest queen of days gone by.

Like wrinkled hands, old kindly eyes,
Old smiles, old folks, so gentle, sweet,
She who held lavish orchard court
Now lone sheds beauty down a street.

More precious now than yesteryear
To those who add the Aprils past
So worship well old beauteous queen—
This spring may be her last.

Travelers to the south of England for winter holidays may now count on the benefits of the vacatio beginning almost the moment they board the train. For its Cornish Riviera express service, an enterprising railway has fitted all its cars with window glass permeable to ultravolet light. In this way passengers are assured the full value of the sunlight as they travel. The Cornish Riviera is socalled because Cornwall, in the extreme south of England, has pleasant, mild winters with more than the average amount of sunshine. It is a favorite winter resort where inhabitants of fog-ridden, smoky cities go for intensive doses of sunlight and health-giving ultraviolet rays.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORY

A Gentleman of the Air

A gentleman will do his share;
Not let his wife have all the care.
—Killy the Sparrow Hawk.

Peter Rabbit was so honest in admitting that it was merely curiosity that led him to ask Mrs. Killy the Sparrow Hawk how many eggs she had, that Mrs. Killy suddenly changed her mind. She had had no intention of telling Peter, but when she could see no possible harm in Peter's knowing, she did tell him. "I've got five eggs," said she. "Five beautiful eggs, if I do say it."

"I suppose," said Peter, "that every mother bird thinks her eggs are beautiful. I've seen some eggs I didn't think were beautiful at all."

"Mine are!" declared Mrs. Killy.

"Are they white?" inquired Peter.

"No," retorted Mrs. Killy rather scornfully. "I never could see anything beautiful in plain white eggs. My eggs are the loveliest brown. Underneath they are sort of creamy white, but they have the loveliest brown markings all over them, so that they look almost wholly brown. Personally, I like variety. I had very good-looking eggs last year, but I think these are even better looking."

"I wish I could see them," sighed Peter.

Mrs. Killy chuckled down in her throat. Peter could hardly hear it. "Climb right up, Peter," said she, "and peep inside. I am sure that Killy would be glad to show you those eggs. He is very proud of them."

Peter grinned. He knew that this was Mrs. Killy's little joke. He knew that she knew that he could no more climb that tree than he could fly. So Peter changed the subject. "Does Killy often sit on those eggs?" he asked.

"Certainly," replied Mrs. Killy. "Killy is a gentleman. He is always ready and willing to do his share. He is sitting on those eggs now and he will sit on them until I return. I never could understand those feathered folk who seemed to think that mothers should do all the work. Take Mrs. Quack for instance, Mr. Quack doesn't do one solitary thing to help her."

"I know," said Peter. "She takes all the care of the eggs and the young."

"Mr. Quack may be handsomely dressed," continued Mrs. Killy, "but if you ask me, he is no gentleman. Killy says a gentleman will always do his share, and Killy is a gentleman. He always gives me a chance to exercise every day and to go hunting. That reminds me, have you seen anything of Danny Meadow Mouse lately? I believe you and Danny Meadow Mouse are very good friends."

Peter pretended not to hear this. "I think Killy is very handsome," said he.

"Of course, he is handsome!" replied Mrs. Killy promptly. "I don't know of any one handsomer. And you know there is the old saying that 'Handsome is as handsome does.' Why, Killy would no more think of staying away from home any longer than necessary to get enough to eat than he would of deserting me altogether. I can always depend on Killy. Yes, sir, I can always depend on him. I haven't much use for these mates that will not do their fair share of the work of bringing up a family."

Peter looked a bit sheepish, for you know, Peter leaves all the family cares to little Mrs. Peter. So once more he changed the subject. "Which branch of the Hawk family do you belong to, Mrs. Killy?" he inquired.

"I wish I could see them," sighed Peter

"The Falcon branch," replied Mrs. Killy promptly, and it was plain to see that she was very, very proud of it. "We are the smallest of the Falcons."

"Then that means that you are own cousins to Killer the Duck Hawk, does it not?" said Peter.

Mrs. Killy nodded. "Yes," said she, and there was still pride in her voice. "Did you ever see such a wonderful flyer as Killer the Duck Hawk? The Falcon branch of the family are the masters of the air."

HENS AT STORRS KEEP UP THE PACE

The half point in the nineteenth Storrs laying contest has been passed and the 1,000 ten best pullets continue to lay at a remarkable pace. The four leading pens which were distributed between two breeds, namely the Reds and Rocks, finished the week with a lay of over 93 per cent.

In the twenty-sixth week just ended the total production for all pens was 5,259 or a yield of 75.1 per cent. This is twenty-three eggs less than for the previous week's production.

No less than 19 pens laid 60 eggs or more for the week. The first honors go to a pen of Reds owned by Burdean Acres of Newton Center, Mass., which laid within three eggs of a perfect score or a total of 67 eggs. Close to their heels was a pen of Barred Rocks from Modesto, Calif. owned by James Dryden. This pen of birds shelled out 66 eggs. A pen of the same breed owned by R. C. Cobb of Littleton, Mass. followed closely with a lay of 65 eggs. Fourth honors went to a pen of Rhode Island Reds owned by West Neck Farm of Huntington, Long Island.

Thus the honors for the week were distributed between two pens of Rocks and two pens of Rhode Island Reds with the Reds in the lead.

White Wyandottes— The Locusts, West Cornwall, Conn., 1319; Fisher P. farms, Ayton, Ont., Canada, 1149.

White Rocks—E. H. Rucker, Ottumwa, Iowa, 1170; Kalerok farm, Westford, Mass., 1088; Harold F. Barber, Valecroft, Dover, ass., 1083.

Rhode Island Reds—Harold G. Colt, West Hartford, Conn., 1457; F. S. Chapin, Longmeadow, Mass., 1454; Edw. N. Larrabee, Peterboro, N. H., 1421; Donald I. Goodenough Torrington, Conn., 1417.

Toivonen Leghorn farm, Girard, Pa., 1579; Steelman poultry farms, Lansdale, Pa., 1405; George Lowry Poultry Farm, Inc., W. Willington, Conn., 1385; Leighton Orchards, Kingston, R. I., 1367; Hanson's Leghorn farm, Corvallis, Ore., 1360.

LISTLESS AND DULL?
MAYBE IT'S WORMS

THEY are much more common than most mothers think. Is it any wonder that your child is listless if intestinal worms are robbing him of nourishment and poisoning him with their secretions?

Look also for the following symptoms: grinding the teeth, picking the nose, crossness, crying in sleep, offensive breath, loss of appetite or weight, nausea or general restlessness. Any one of these signs may be your warning that worms are present.

Wise mothers take no chances with these dangerous and disgusting childhood pests. Even if worms are only suspected they give the child

NEW LONDON

Wake up the repair market.

This is the slogan adopted by enterprising building supply dealers and contractors in various parts of the country in a concentrated effort to have home owners give more atention to the condition of their abodes. Preliminary steps to this end were taken locally this week and indications are that the local building situation of home improvement plan that is being sponsored by the F. H. & A. H. Chappell company.

As outlined by the representatives of the Chappell company the wake up the repair market slogan will be conducted in connection with a financing company which proposes to take monthly payments on repair, addition and alteration work so that the home owner can have this work done on the same convenient plan that most people purchase automobiles, refrigerators and radios.
